Tweed—The different organizations of the Women's Missionary Society of St. John's United Church held their combined annual Easter Thanks offering service in the church on Easter Sunday night when a large attendance was recorded. The ushering and the receiving of the offering was very capably handled by four boys of the Sunday School; Bernie Taylor, "Bob" Maynes, Ernie Rogers and Ronald Way.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Lincoln Elliot, president of the W.M.S. and the service took the form of a sacred pageant of the Cross entitled "He is risen—go and tell." Donald Montgomery introduced the pageant, Gladys Atton was the reader, Carol Ann Connor was Prakassam, the girl of India.

They dramatized the following story: Prakassam had become tired of worshipping the many gods of India and went in search of a Great God of Love. On her way she found a few pages of the Bible from which she read of the Great God of Love who gave His Son. The page was torn and the scripture ended with the Lord being crucified and the great stone rolled against the sepulchre. Surely that cannot be the end of everything? She travelled to a great city of India and found there a church built by Americans, very quietly she entered and stood back in the shadows.

It was Easter Day and the people gathered for the children's Easter service. A processional of thirty children, gay and colorful in costumes representing children of the world, entered the church followed by the Junior and Senior choirs singing "Christ the Lord is Risen Today." This was followed by an anthem by the Junior choir, "He Arose."

A series of recitations by Dorothy Kilensteber and replied to by Mary Johnston, Vivien Reid and Betty Montgomery entitled "How the Lord was Crucified." Preceded their trio "Christ is Risen" sung by the children. The scripture was led by Mrs. A Montgomery assisted by Morris Sharpe, Ronald Moon, Calvin Craig and Laird Morton. Mary Emerson recited "We cannot keep Easter alone."

Mrs. Wallace Johnston was Builder of the Cross. The Heralds Barbara Ann Ketcheson and Shirlew Way announced the children as the groups came from the different countries bringing their flowers for the Easter Cross.

Easter hymns were sung and the pageant was resplendent throughout with music and color. Pamella Sharpe and Betty Snare rendered very beautifully "Give Them light." The Easter Cross was then illuminated and the pageant ended triumphantly, as Parkassam stepped forward declaring the Son of the Great God of Love is not dead, but has risen and lives forever. Standing beside the Cross bedecked with lights, and flowers brought by the children, she sang the beautiful Indian prayer "Prayer to a Heart" then she knelt at the Cross while the congregation sang "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," followed by the benediction and recessional.

The pageant was directed by Mrs. Carmen Atton assisted by Mrs. A Montgomery, Mrs. C. Sharpe and Mr. S. H. Connor. The children all gave a splendid performance and much co-operation.

Names of the chilrren in costume representing the children of the world were: Japan, Judy Johnston, Beverly Way, Lorraine Woodcock, Merilyn Bronson. China: Mary Lou Porritt, Bob Bronson, Phyllis Kilensteber and Lynda Wilkinson. India: Nora Emerson, Joyce Jeffrey, Ray Tinney and Charlie Curtis. Korea: Martha Elliott, Shirley Bronson and Gary Fox. Africa Nancy Porritt, Alfreda Elliott, Hugh Sims and Michael Moffatt. From other lands Shirley Thompson, Margaret Atton, Dianne Thompson, Bob Montgomery, Sylvia Belch, Murray Seymour, Stella Lucas, Beverly Reid and Norrine Jones.

BABY'S CONSTIPATION SERIOUS IF NEGLECTED

BABY'S daily movements are something of which absolutely accurate track must be kept. When he misses, something must be done at once. Constipation is serious for baby.

Mrs. John T. Reid of Hespeler, Ont., has this to say: "Having had seven children and having used Baby's Own Tablets for all seven can say they are the best and gentlest regulator for children. During teething Baby's Own Tablets were a boon to me as they cleared up at once any digestive disturbance or fretfulness."

Equally effective for simple fever, teething troubles, upset stomach and other minor ailments of babyhood.

The rooms were tastefully decorated in the traditional colors of pink and white, featuring a large wedding bell suspended from the chandelier. The gifts, wrapped in snow white paper, were presented in a large, beautifully decorated basket. Miss Kathleen DeGenova assisted her sister in unwrapping them, and they were arranged on a nearby table by Miss K. Morrell, after which the guest of honor graciously expressed her appreciation for the useful gifts and thanked her friends for their kindness in remembering her in this way.

Games of bingo constituted the entertainment for the remainder of the evening, prizes being distributed to the winners.

KEPT RIGHT ON GOING

Redwood City, Calif., April 10 —(AP)— Youths from a juvenile home were playing baseball. A 15-year-old boy hit a foul over the fence.

He and the 14-year-old third baseman ran to recover the ball when Matron Edna Bloomquist opened the gate.

Like runners stretching a single into a double, they kept right on going.

Easter Program Presented By Fellowship Group

A splendid program was presented by the Christian Fellowship group of Holloway Street Young People's Union at their meeting on Easter Monday evening, convened by Margaret Hillis and Douglas Ptolemy.

The opening sing-song was led by Rosslyn Robertson and followed by the reading of a poem, 'Another Week', by the President Maude Burke.

Financial Report Given

During the business period a financial report of the play recently presented was given by Doris Scott and the eight invitations to present it from other churches were announced.

Raymond Gunsolus spoke briefly soliciting support for the Conference Y.P.U. paper 'The Quinte Broadcast'. Maude Burke introduced the official United Church paper 'The Observer' to the members and took subscriptions.

The Worship Service led by Margaret Hillis was arranged around the theme 'The Resurrection' with a beautiful worship centre featuring the Cross, Easter lillies and the Word of God.

Assisting in this service were Betra Fairman, Shirley Hitchon and Douglas Ptolemy with Dorothy Mitts as pianist.

Former Member Speaker

The members were glad to welcome Miss Marion Daniels, a former member, now attending Alma College, St. Thomas, Ont., in preparation for entering the United Church Training School to study for deaconess work.

Miss Daniel was guest speaker of the evening, bringing an interesting and challenging address on the message Easter has for every Christian using the three messages given those who came to the tomb that first Easter, 'Fear not', 'Come', and 'Go Quickly and Tell'". Miss Daniels urged the group to do great things for Christ, forgetting that fear of failure, having first 'Come' to Him then to 'Go Quickly and tell' not delaying until later to use their talents but accepting every opportunity to work for a Saviour who lives.

Adding much to the enjoyment of the evening were two humorous readings given by Jean Campbell.

Bible Baseball Played

Bible baseball was played during Recreation with team Captains, Mary Potter and Harry Denton. The score declared Mary Potter's team as winner by a one-run margin.

Max Maguire led in a novel relay following which the meeting was concluded with the "Friendship Circle".

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Should Widow Wear Her Wedding Ring?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been a widow for almost two years. I have two daughters, sixteen and eight, and I have been employed for some time. It is only within recent months that I have gone out with a man friend, and then usually in a group. I quite frequently entertain this group of friends in my home. Recently a couple of my friends questioned the propriety of my continuing to wear my wedding ring. On a few occasions, such as dances, I have removed my wedding ring and worn my engagement ring, but I do realize that my doing this might lead to an erroneous impression that I am engaged to the man I have been going about with recently. Only a few days ago someone suggested to me that it would be proper for me to wear the wedding ring in front of the engagement ring, since this would denote the death of my husband. My diamond is too small to wear on my right ring finger, or I might be tempted to wear it there. Will you please tell me which procedure is correct?

Suzanne

In everything you write it is obvious that you truly have no interest in continuing to wear your wedding ring, in spite of the fact that you have two daughters, and in spite of the fact that their father has been dead such a short time. And it is obvious too that you are desperately trying to get justification, from various friends of yours, for not wearing your wedding ring. If you loved your husband and really cherished his memory, if you sincerely wished to set an example of a fineness and an integrity that those two young daughters of yours could respect at their so-impressionable age, you would continue to wear your wedding ring on all occasions, not removing it when it suits you and then having an attack of conscience afterward.

What you do about wearing or not wearing your engagement ring isn't so important. If this man in whom you are apparently deeply interested is romantically interested in you and if he is of the right sort, he won't respect your shilly-shallying about wearing your wedding ring. . . . he will expect you to wear it as the symbol of your marriage to him. If you don't want to take a chance on his having this manly point of view, you'll have to make your own decision as to what the wearing of your wedding ring means ,or doesn't mean, to you.

To Serve Only Coffee In The Late-Afternoon?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are just getting settled in our new house, and before we give the big housewarming we are planning to give later on in the Spring, I would like to invite a group of several women friends at a time to come in about four o'clock in the afternoon. In our home mother always served tea in the afternoon, but the friends I have made here since my marriage all are coffee-drinkers. So on these afternoons, is it permissible for me to offer only coffee? And are the same type of sandwiches and the same type of cakes served with coffee as are served with tea?

Kate

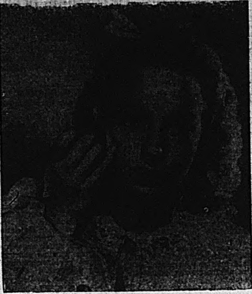
You should be absolutely positive that all your guests prefer coffee to tea in the afternoon before you decide not to serve tea as an alternative to coffee, or at least to do what some hostesses do . . . offer a coffee substitute as an alternative to real coffee. And yes, the same type of sandwiches and cakes are appropriate to serve with either tea or coffee; although often, when serving coffee ,a hostess offers a special accessory, such as doughnuts, or coffee cake ,or a layer cake that is a "specialty of the house."

CONDITION FAIRLY GOOD

Copenhagen, April 10 —(AP)—An official bulletin issued today said the condition of King Christian X, who suffered a severe heart attack Sunday, "is still marked by fatigue but his strength is fairly good."

Later the court physician said penicillin treatments were being continued and that, "contrary to expectations," they appeared to be having some effect. He said the King's temperature was only slightly above normal.

Changing Your Eyebrow Line



Actress Evelyn Keyes uses a pencil for careful shaping of her eye brows

By HELEN FOLLETT

EYEBROWS have so much to do with landscaping the facial premises that it is surprising that more women don't find out precisely what pattern is most becoming.

When grannie was a girl, it never occurred to any woman that she didn't have to tolerate her forehead lamberquins as nature made them. The idea that they could be changed struck the sisterhood just after World War I. Since then they have been tweezed, teased, upped, slanted and curved, sometimes annihilated, with a crayon line substituted. It has been an interesting pastime, if nothing else.

Width Between Brows

Width between the eyebrows gives the eyes a wide-set look, makes them appear larger. But there is such a thing as weeding a bit too far from the inner corner of the eye. That's the trouble in facial decorating of any kind. One is likely to become fascinated with this diversion, not know when to stop.

If the face is broad, highly arched eyebrows will impart a more oval appearance. The far ends should point downward to form more of a curve. If Nature didn't make these pretty scimitars grow that way, they can be extended by means of a dark brown-crayon. Never use black

Slightly Fuller Line

The trend now is toward a slightly fuller line, so eyebrows do not appear so emaciated. You will notice this change when you regard the lovelies of the silver screen, whose good looks and up-to-date-ness contribute to their stock in trade.

And that reminds us; because a pretty starlet has intriguing eyebrows, don't fancy they will suit your face and features. The pattern may be entirely wrong. No matter what design you adopt, don't fail to groom the silky fuzzers. Every day use the eyebrow brush and, before you do so, touch the bristles with brilliantine. Glossiness is the final touch.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Girl Who Didn't Look Before She Leaped

There is an old saying to the effect that you should "Look before you leap," which always seems to me particularly appropriate to the woman who falls in love with a married man, burns her bridges behind her, and then finds he is not going to get his divorce after all. As, for instance, in the following letter:

Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am a girl 28 years of age and have a little boy five years old. About a year ago, I met and fell in love with a man in the plant where I was working. I was married at the time and so was he. He is the father of two sons.

"We talked things over and decided we wanted to be with each other at almost any cost. I left my husband, with whom I was not getting along very well and obtained a divorce. The man was to get a divorce as soon as I was free. This was so as not to cause a scandal, as I live in a small town. I am now living with relatives who know nothing of this matter.

"Now the man I love finds that his wife does not want to let him go. He has tried everything, but she found out about me and says she will never let him go. He has proved that he loves me and there is no question about this in my mind.

"What I want to know is should I keep on seeing this man, knowing that he may never be free to marry me, or should I stop seeing him? Or, rather should I try to stop seeing him? I don't know whether I can do this or not, but I think I will be hurt more in the end if I keep on seeing him and he can never be free. Please give me any advice you can.

"Discouraged"

This is the sort of situation about which I always feel a bit skeptical. Perhaps I am unduly suspicious, but there are so many married men who encourage girls to become involved with them without having any real intention of freeing themselves to marry the girls. Perhaps this man was entirely sincere in his emotions, so let us go on that assumption in trying to advise this girl.

If possible, I think it would be a good idea for her to remove herself as far as possible from the situation, until the man can find a solution to his own problem. Either he has grounds for getting a divorce from his wife or he has none. If he has grounds, he can divorce her whether she likes it or not.

Presuming that this man really intended to marry the girl, it may be that his conscience has begun to trouble him over the matter of divorcing his wife without any real grounds, or of leaving two sons to grow up without their father. But, whatever the reason may be for his inability to take a definite step in this direction, my opinion is that this girl had better do as she herself suggests and stop seeing the man until he comes to some sort of decision. Things now are clearly up to him. If it is feasible for her to go to some other town for awhile, it might well be that once she is out of the way, he would decide that he really preferred to stay with his family and the whole thing would disolve. She, of course, would then be left high and dry without her husband, but she has already said she was not happy with him anyhow. And, certainly, if the man is never going to be free, she would be very foolish, indeed, to keep herself in an emotional tumult by continuing to see him.

Process of Losing Money At British Tracks More Bewildering Than in U.S.

Most of the Money is Bet With Bookies With Punters Going for Mutuel Machines

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 9 —(CP)— A race-goer whose main experience in losing money is limited to Canadian and United States tracks finds the process even more bewildering on a British racecourse.

At Aintree near Liverpool, where the Grand National is run, the usual mob of touts and tipsters' agents at the entrance gate —"five winners yesterday, only a shilling!" — is succeeded by a row of bookies, drumming up business on the feature even before the racing starts.

They stand on boxes, scribble odds illegibly on blackboards, and bellow at the bettors in a manner reminiscent of midway barkers.

"Only a little time left," they chant. "Step up, hurry up, get your bets down, hurry, this way, bet 'em each way, bet 'em with me. Bert always pays, get it down, hurry up, hurry, hurry."

Odds change more frequently and while they're puzzling over what nine to two at 15 shillings would net you on a winner, the figure shifts to seven to four and you have to start the arithmetic again.

When the bettor's choice is made he receives in exchange for his money, a numbered card from the bookie. Only record of the terms of the bet is a pencilled note signified by a number which the bookie keeps. If he's not in the mood to pay off that day, nothing much can be done, but such forgetfulness is rare.

Despite this, the bulk of the betting on British tracks is done through the books, and few but the two-shilling punters patronize the totalizer, equivalent of a Canadian pari-mutuel machine.

CANADIAN MARKET WORRIES BRITISH TEXTILE EXPERTS

Believe Manufacturing Expansion in Dominion Will Affect Exports of United Kingdom Products

London (CP) — Canada made such advances in manufacturing during the war that she no longer offers such a good market for British products, says a report published by a delegation of the Wholesale Textile Association which visited Canada and the United States last year.

"While the present shortages provide big opportunities, the future is not so rosy," says the report in a section discussing export prospects.

"In Canada during the war there was an expansion of production of such magnitude that manufacturers (there) will need to export in order to keep their own productive capacity fully employed.

"Since Britain is the chief buyer of Canadian agricultural products the serious question arises as to how these commodities are to be paid for in future. It seems certain that Canadians will develop more manufacturing industries and not be content to be 'hewers of wood and drawers of water'....

"The delegation was informed that Canada's production of wool cloth has increased from 15,000,000 yards in 1938, to 28,000,000 in 1945. These figures typify the expanse in Canadian production and Canadian manufacturers having increased their output are naturally reluctant to see the importation of similar goods from overseas.

"Not only did Canada increase the production of textile goods, but there was a big expansion in production of such things as airplanes and other war materials. These plants are now being turned over to production of various types of consumer goods.

"Indeed, it can be said that Canada is not only a large agricultural country, but is fast becoming a large manufacturing expand on the production side country, and the tendency is to which must, of necessity, affect the potential sale of British goods in that country."

N.Z. LABOR SEEKS WAGE RISE

Central Trade Union Body to Present Case to Arbitration Court

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)— With the continued high level of world prices New Zealand's Labor government is finding the pressure on its stabilization measures steadily increasing. Hitherto the government has been more successful than many in other countries in keeping price and wage levels under control.

Prices have risen greatly since the start of the war but the largest increases have been in non-essential commodities. A fair rents act, land sales legislation, and price-fixing tribunals have prevented the worst abuses resulting from wartime shortages. Some types of black-marketing are fairly widespread but are mostly on a far smaller scale than in many overseas countries.

Prices of most foodstuffs have been kept constant by government subsidies derived from taxation.

Only two general wage increases have been granted by the Arbitration Court since 1940. In that year a general five per cent increase was awarded and in 1942 a further increase of five per cent was made on lower incomes, but on higher scales the rise was limited to $1 a week.

Living Costs Up

In recent months trade unions have maintained with increasing pressure that living costs have far outrun wage rates. They claim that the 40-hour week has become a misnomer because workers cannot live on wages earned during that working period and are compelled to work overtime to make sufficient to meet their commitments.

The government has agreed to allow the Federation of Labor, central trade union body, to present a case to the Arbitration Court for a new general order increasing wages.

This move has been described by the Conservative press as a virtual admission that the officially-compiled cost of living index is no true indication of actual living costs.

"The latest figure available," says the New Zealand Herald, "purports to show that the cost of living since Dec. 15, 1942, has advanced by only 0.7 per cent, which is, of course, absurd. Nevertheless, the Arbitration Court, in issuing a general order for increased wages, is still supposed to take the index figures into consideration, in spite of the fact that its price index is a statistical fraud."

Atomic Energy Commission Given Go-ahead Signal

Washington, April 10. (AP)—The United States Atomic Energy Commission came out of its storm cellar today and plunged into long-range planning for peaceful and military development of Nuclear power.

The tornado which roared about the Commission during 11 weeks of argument subsided last night when the Senate voted 50 to 31 to confirm David E. Lilienthal in the chairman's job he has held since Jan. 1. Four fellow Commissioners and general manager Carroll Wilson also were confirmed without the formality of roll calls.

The task of the Commission entails the outright ownership for the government of all atomic plants and materials in this country as well as sweeping authority over research and development work in all fields.

But while all six of President Truman's atomic nominations were approved, there are indications that the controversy may flare up again in the next few weeks. Senator Kenneth McKellar, (Dem.-Tenn.), who opened the fight against Lilienthal, has indicated that he will demand searching scrutiny of the Commission's funds.

The President's budget message to Congress earlier this year recommended an outlay of $500,000,000 for the Commission, of which half would be an actual appropriation and the remainder an authorization for the Commission to commit itself to $250,000,000 in additional contracts.

Further Parleys Needed Between Parties in Dispute

Ottawa, April 10 . (CP)—Further government-union conferences were scheduled here today as officials explored avenues of solution to the seven-week strike of 13,000 coal miners in the Maritimes.

On the heels of several hours of discussion yesterday, officers of the Federal Labor Department and the international headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America (C.C.L.-A.F.L.) were to resume their talks at department headquarters.

No settlement of the Dominion's biggest coal tieup in 20 years was in immediate prospect.

The Department ,it was indicated in a statement, gave the Union officials to understand the government did not favor the U.M.W.'s proposal that a wage increase of $1.40 a day be financed through Federal subsidies.

"It was pointed out to the miners' representatives," the statement said, "that the dispute is essentially one between employers and employees, and that settlement depends upon negotiations between the interested parties."

The employers were not represented at the meetings here, though on Tuesday two U.M.W. International representatives had conferred at Montreal with officials of Dominion Coal Company, which employes the bulk of the labor in the struck coalfield. The Montreal talks brought no change in the company's offer to pay raised up to $1 a day ,graduated on the basis of increased coal production per man.

Labor Minister Mitchell, who was in Welland, was kept advised of the talks by telephone.

Telephone Strike Negotiations Show New Signs of Life

Washington, April 10 (AP) — Contract negotiations across the United States, largely dormant or deadlocked since the start of the telephone strike Monday, showed new signs of life in some areas today.

Renewal of give-and-take negotiations coincided with the reaching of a settlement basis in Washing between long-distance lines workers and the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

To become effective, the settlement terms must be approved by the General Union of Telephone Workers, and by the Policy Board of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, which called the strike of nearly 300,000 employees of A.T. and T. and its affiliated Bell System Companies.

Chicago employees of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company accepted a federal concillator's proposal of an $8 weekly pay increase—the N.F.T.W. affiliates originally demanded $12—but the company rejected the proposal as "unrealistic."

The conciliator said, however, the disputants had begun their "first collective bargaining to date," adding, "it's the healthiest thing that's happened yet."

A union delegate was sent to Niagara Falls, N.Y., to urge nearly 400 members of the Empire State Telephone Union to return to the picket lines. They had gone back to work yesterday.

Picketing at hundreds of local phone exchanges in the United States remained generally peaceful.

Southend, Essex, England, April 10 — (Reuters) — Schoolmasters will not willingly serve under a head mistress, a delegate to the conference of the National Association of School Masters declared yesterday.

TWO SUSPECTS DETAINED

Jerusalem, April 10 —(AP)— Officials announced that British troops, always on the hunt for Jewish underground extremists, began searches today in Benei Beraq, near Tel Aviv. They screened 937 persons, the announcement said, and detained two suspects.

Jerusalem residents last night heard a few scattered shots, apparently from both light and heavy weapons, but there were no official reports of any major incidents.

Greeks Trying To Surround 3,000 Guerrillas

Athens, April 10 — (AP) — Greek military sources said today that government forces were trying to surround some 3,000 Leftist guerrillas in a campaign fought more than a mile above sea level in the Pindus mountains between Thessaly and Epirus.

These sources, in Athens and Larisa, reported that the government troops were getting supplies and support from airplanes in an offensive begun at dawn Wednesday with the announced aim of breaking the back of guerrilla resistance. The planes hit the insurgents first with propaganda leaflets, then with bombs and machine-gun fire.

Army officers said that Loyalist troops were attacking the Pindus guerrillas from south, east and west and had made contact with them before Nevroupolis, 15 miles west of Karditsa, Thessaly, and before Agrafa. They reported Nevroupolis a prime objective.

Equipment Failure Probable Cause Of Train Wreck

Raton, N.M., April 10 —(CP)— Three Canadians were among 16 passengers who suffered injuries necessitating hospital treatment when the Santa Fe Railway's eastbound Super Chief was derailed last night at a blind siding, a hospital list showed today.

Extent of the injuries suffered was not made known, but physicians said none of those hurt was in dangerous condition.

The Canadians were identified as Mrs. Jeannette Johnson and Mrs. J. S. Brown, both of Toronto, and Mrs. Margaret J. Robertson of Montreal. Mrs. Brown later was released from hospital.

The train was derailed at Otero, 240 miles northeast of Albuquerque. There were no fatalities.

The accident was the seventh in as many days on United States railroads.

Equipment failure was indicated as a possible cause of the wreck. Santa Fe officials announced finding a loose piece of steel used to fasten rails to the ties. The piece was found where the first car jumped the rails a half-mile from the crash.

James Barber, editor of the Raton Range, reported all but the first unit of the diesel locomotive and the last two cars of the 13-car train were derailed. One unit of the locomotive and two cars overturned.

Leaders in All Walks of Life Mourn Passing of Anglican Primate Owen

Toronto, April 10. (CP)—From all parts of the Dominion came tributes to Archbishop Derwyn Trevor Owen, Anglican Primate of Canada, who died here yesterday following a heart seizure in his office.

At Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Louis St. Laurent said Canada had lost a "great religious leader", and expressed the sympathies of the Canadian Government to the late Archbishop's family.

Rt. Rev. Robert Jefferson, Bishop of Ottawa, said, "a great loss. . .not only to the Canadian church, but to the Anglican communion in general."

Archbishop L. R. Sherman of Rupert's Land, said at Winnipeg "the news of his passing comes as a great shock. Since his election in 1934 he has done more than any other man to unify the Church of England in Canada and make it better known to all. Well done, good and faithful servant."

Rt. Rev. W. R. Adams, Archbishop of the Kootenays, said at Kelowna, B.C., "a great leader . . .one and all we are grateful to him for the inspiration he gave so unstintingly."

Rabbi Feinberg, of Holy Blossom Synagogue, Toronto, said, "I sensed the saintliness of character. . .that glowed in his personality. His passing will be felt by Canadians of all creeds."

Results Will Live On

Hon. Ray Lawson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, said, "He was always looked up to with the highest respect by all denominations. The results of his labor will live on."

George P. Gilmour, Chancellor of McMaster University, Hamilton, said, "If a saint is one who makes it easier for men to believe in God, he merited that title."

Dr. H. J. Cody, Chancellor of the University of Toronto, said, "His loss will be felt . . . among people of all creeds. He was a dear friend and I shall feel his loss keenly."

Rt. Rev. Gordon McLean, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, said, "We was a wise and prudent leader. His death will be a great loss . . . to the whole Christian Church in Canada because he was willing to seek the welfare of all Canadians, regardless of denomination."

James Cardinal McGuigan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, said, " . . . A true Christian gentleman . . . ever anxious to use his labors and influence for the progress and development of Canada and advancement of Christian ideals."

Mayor Robert Saunders, speaking for the city of Toronto, said, "His death will bring a loss to this city, as I know it will to his own church. He was a friend to all, regardless of race, creed and color."

Premier Pays Tribute

Premier Drew of Ontario said in tribute to the late churchman, "his death will be a great personal loss to all Canadians outside his own congregation. . .and he will be remembered as a great Canadian who was willing to take his full share in every public activity of benefit to our people."

Rt. Rev. L. W. B. Broughall, who succeeded Archbishop Owen as Bishop of Niagara, said, "few men have rendered such services to the church of England in Canada. In Hamilton we recall his notable work as Dean and Bishop."

Rev. W. J. Gallagher, General Secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches, said "he was our first president and we regarded him not only with admiration but with affection. The whole Christian community of Canada has suffered a sore bereavement in his passing.

Rt. Rev. G. F. Kingston, Bishop of Nova Scotia, said he was "an outstanding spiritual leader in Canada . a great primate. . .a great citizen.

In Montreal, Rev. T. W. Jones, Moderator of the United Church of Canada, said Canada had lost "one of our most distinguished citizens. . .he was a man of deep religious convictions fully devoted to his Lord and Master, Jesus Christ and to the service of the church. . .men of other religious denominations served gladly under his leadership."

Archbishop Charles A. Seager, Metropolitan of Ontario, said in London that Archbishop Owen had accomplished "magnificent work for the church."

Minimum Wage Rates for Females To be Increased

Toronto, April 10 — (CP) — An increase of 30 per cent in minimum wage rates for all female employees in Ontario will take effect June 1, according to an order issued yesterday by the Industry and Labor Board of the Ontario Department of Labor.

With certain exceptions, particularly domestics, employed in private residences and females in agriculture work, the Minimum Wage Act covers factory and office workers, retail clerks and those engaged as cleaners, elevator operators, employees of theatres, places of amusement, hotels, clubs and restaurants, up to an estimated total of 250,000. It does not affect students or articled apprentices in the professions.

The province is divided into zones for the application of the Act and minimum rates range at present from $10, $11 and $12.50. The latest order makes the corresponding rates $13.80, $15.80 and $16.80.

The maximum weekly work period under the Act is 48 hours or the normal number of hours established by custom by the employer. Many employees covered under the Act work only 44 or 40 hours a week and in these cases all time worked in excess on these "normal" hours is considered as overtime and the employees must be paid extra.

In the case of piece-work, an inexperienced employee shall receive each week not less than the amount she should be entitled to if she were working on a time-work basis.

Where an office worker holds any secondary school graduation diploma in a commercial course or has completed a course of instruction in business and office practice provided by a registered trade school, she is classed as an experienced employee at the outset.

Uniforms, aprons, caps or similar articles of apparel must be supplied by the employer, free of cost to the employee.

Judgment Given Cornwall Twp. Against Company

Toronto, April 10 (CP)—Judgment for $8,564 was awarded the Corporation of the Township of Cornwall against the Prudential Assurance Company of London, Eng., in a decision handed down here yesterday by Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven.

Action was brought to recover on a fidelity guarantee policy issued by the company by the company whereby it agreed to make good or pay any losses incured by Joseph Leroux, a tax collector. His Lordship said Leroux did misappropriate sums of money and that the corporation had claimed return of the money from the company.

The defendant company claimed that the corporation, by reason of the untruth or non-fulfilment of certain requirements of the contract, had rendered the contract null and void.

"Protection against loss of funds which might occur by dishonesty on the part of the tax collector was the purpose and object sought by the plaintiffs in taking out the contract," said Mr. Justice Trealeaven. "The plaintiffs are entitled to judgment for the sum of $8,564, together with the costs of arbitration and costs of the action.

YACHT TAKEN IN TOW

Los Angeles, April 10 —(AP)— Actor James Cagney's disabled yacht, The Swift, was taken in tow by the Coast Guard Cutter Perseus today and headed toward Newport Harbor, its home port.

The Perseus reported that she sighted the 125-foot auxiliary schooner 6½ miles south of Dana Point in the Pacific Ocean.

Actor Spencer Tracy was not aboard the yacht, as first reported.

Last night Cagney radioed: "Engine disabled off Laguna Beach; unable to make harbor by sail ,request help."

Frankie Sinatra Pleads Innocent

Hollywood, April 10 (AP) — Frankie Sinatra will give a jury a blow-by-blow account of his midnight melee Tuesday night with New York newspaper columnist Lee Mortimer.

The crooner pleaded innocent to a battery charge yesterday and asked for a jury trial, set for May 28. He was released on $500 bail.

Accounts of the Sinatra-Mortimer one-round bout at a night club were colorful and varied. However, Sinatra appeared the winner. He was escorted into court by sheriff's deputies, walking briskly and unscratched.

Mortimer, motion picture editor of the New York Daily Mirror had a noticeable bruise on the cheek.

Schacht Denies Boast In U.S. in Year 1931 Of Hitler's Importance

Stuttgart, Germany, April 10—(AP) — Prosecutor Belmut Ballarin today accused Hjalmar Schacht of making speeches in the United States in 1931 forecasting that Adolf Hitler would have as much influence as "Napoleon and Christ."

The former German financial wizard, on trial as a major Nazi offender, denied the charge.

Schacht said he first met Hitler in 1931. The meeting was arranged by Hermann Goering after Schacht returned from his American lecture tour.

Ballarin asked why Schacht met Hitler and the financier snorted:

"You'll have to ask Goering about that. There were always a lot of people who wanted to meet me."

HEALTH SERVICES COVER WIDE FIELD

Work of Montreal Department Reflected in 30-Year Record

Montreal (CP)—Maintaining a night and day vigil, 458 members of the Montreal Health Department watch over the health of Montreal's residents.

They are doctors, chemists, nurses, bacteriologists, pathologists, veterinarians, sanitary engineers, lawyers, statisticians, social workers and investigators whose work costs the city $1,348,051, it is shown in the 1947-48 budget estimates.

Their work is everywhere. In schools they examine children and report to parents. In the home they visit the sick, teach young mothers how to care for babies, and older mothers how to prepare healthy meals for husband and children.

On farms, up to 100 miles away, they check the health of cows to be sure Montreal's milk supply is pure.

In restaurants and hotels they constantly inspect food, checking its method of preparation and ordering the destruction of provisions which are imperfect or not hygienically handled.

Health Department employees can be seen at work in laboratories testing and analyzing everything from swimming pool water, milk, blood samples from clinics patients, blood samples from dairy cattle, food suspected of contamination to samples of secretions submitted by doctors for bacteriological reports.

Special branches of the Health Department are assigned to such tasks as combatting tuberculosis, promoting better child health, fighting venereal disease and preventing epidemics.

Their work is reflected in a 30-year record of cutting the Montreal death-rate from 19.5 per 1,000 to 9.5; maternity mortality from 4.1 to 1.7 per 1,000 living births, and infant mortality from 182.6 per 1,000 to 50.7.

Shame and Ridicule Are Effective Punishments

(By Sydney J. Harris, in The Chicago Daily News)

It was the Mikado in the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta who believed in making "the punishment fit the crime," and it's a pity his ingenious devices haven't been taken up by the law.

Punishment is supposed to deter the wrongdoer and set an example for others. This it rarely does. A man caught speeding or driving recklessly will calmly pay his fine and walk out of court prepared to do the same all over again.

Despite rising fines, the traffic accident rate has steadily increased throughout the years. It should be obvious there is something wrong with this punishment.

In Zagreb, Yugoslavia, the police officers have a simpler, and more effective, treatment for speeders. The motorist is forced to pull over to the side of the road, and then his tires are deflated. All four of them. He rarely is caught speeding a second time.

Shame, ridicule, embarrassment are basic emotions in the human personality. A man will pay $100 rather than walk down Main St. in women's clothes. In one of England's prisons, unruly convicts are not slapped into solitary confinement — instead, they're forced to put on women's clothes and parade before their fellow convicts. This cures them fast.

All the lectures in the world won't make a dent on a drunk. But in Woburn, Mass., drunks are displayed in an aluminum-colored lion's cage, adorned with old-fashioned lanterns, and drawn through the streets by a sad-faced horse. Public displays of drunkenness are extremely rare in Woburn.

Mischievous kids are often spanked or denied privileges, which merely makes them determined to be craftier next time. But when the principal of a Topeka school caught two students in class with ice-cream cones in their pockets, he didn't scold them. He simply made them leave the cones where they were.

During the war, black marketeers (the few who were nabbed) had fines slapped on them that were woefully small in proportion to the profits they made. Even going to the pen for a year or two was not sufficient penalty for their blood-sucking offense.

In ancient Athens, such men were ostracized from their city, and their whole families banished in shame. Other cities often refused to admit the exiles, who were forced to wander to barbarian soil.

Who said we're more civilized than the people of ancient times?

Fell Under a Train And Lived to Tell It

(By Michael Laviet, Condensed from "Answers", London, England)

I was seeing a friend off at one of the big London stations. Let me admit it at once—I asked for trouble. I stood on the running-board of the carriage as I chatted with him through the open window.

With startling suddenness came a shrill whistle and the train leapt to life. I say "leapt"—it was an electric train, and the acceleration was terrific.

A porter shouted: "Get off that train!" But I saw a woman ten yards in front of me. Had I jumped at that moment I should have landed in the middle of her back and knocked her down.

The train swept me past her. I jumped.

My foot never reached the platform. It descended into the void between the platform and the running-board.

Then everything went crazy.

I was pulled down and hurled along, wedged between the platform and the rapidly moving train.

Then came the "drop." I seemed to be falling down an endless shaft—I landed with a crash that jolted the breath from my body. I lay dazed and frightened, an infernal noise ringing in my ears. Wheel after wheel flashed past no more than an inch in front of my face. Dimly I heard shouts—"Lie still—lie still!"— mingled with the roar of the train. Those wheels mesmerized me. I could not shut them out. There was no room even to cover my face with my hands in the confined space into which I had fallen.

Would a spark from the conductor rail suddenly shoot out into my unprotected face and cause me to make a sudden movement? Was there any part of the undercarriage that projected farther than the wheels? If so, it would certainly take most of my face with it.

I lay there, shafts of light flashing down on me as each carriage tore past above and those great wheels thundering menacingly.

At last came a blinding light—and silence. Above me I saw faces; hands stretched down to help me.

With the aid of the porters I struggled on to the platform. My clothes were thick with dirt and oil.

• • •

The train was well out of the station before it was stopped by my friend. He had pulled the emergency cord. He had heard shouts and had looked out of the window. Failing to see me, he had realized that an accident had occurred.

Meanwhile, I was helped to a waiting-room where a great business was made of taking my name and address.

I was feeling better, and able to go home. Three days afterwards I became so stiff that I could scarcely move.

Only then did I see a doctor. He said that I had two or three cracked ribs, bound me up with strapping, and told me to take things easily for the next three weeks.

Later, I received a letter from the railway company, asking if I realized that I had laid myself open to a substantial fine and pointing out that by standing on the running-board I had endangered not only myself but also other users of the railway.

Did I need this extra warning? I don't think so.

Bug Busters

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 27 —(CP)— Canada's Bug Busters—the Agricultural Department's counterpart of radio's Gang Busters — are tilting their clinical lances at the insects whose threatened infestation of too-long stored grain is bringing worry to the Canadian wheat board.

A few days ago the board's assistant chief commissioner, W. C. McNamara, warned that unless sufficient box cars were made available to move the millions of bushels of grain still stocked in farm granaries in northern Saskatchewan and Alberta the spoilage would be great.

Today Dr. B. M. Smallman, officer in charge of the stored product insect laboratory here, agreed that there was "a real danger of widespread losses" but added that because of the extensive forays made by the Bug Busters into the field of insect research the danger was not as great as it would have been some years ago.

The Bug Busters are the technically-skilled personnel employed by the Dominion Government's Agricultural Department Science Service.

The scientists' war against insects-in-granaries and other storage buildings — the battle is also being extended to cover mold growth, the other type of infestation feared by farmers — is augmented by advice to agriculturists concerning a relatively simple infestation removal method.

This method is to remove the grain from a granary where infestation has set in and eliminate the infected portion.

Dr. Smallman warned, however, that if the box car situation does not improve — at present the required daily quota of 1,300 up to May 15 is approximately 500 short—there will undoubtedly be considerable loss. The only certain way to avoid it, he said, is for the grain to be moved before spring ends.

Marmora. (Special.)—The festival of Easter was fittingly observed at St. Paul's with a celebration of Holy Communion at 7.30 a.m. This was followed by a choral celebration at 11 a.m. at which a large number of communicants received the Sacrament. The choir rendered as the anthem "We Give Immortal Praise"—William E. Fletcher.

In the afternoon, there was a Children's Service at which scholars of the Sunday School presented their Lenten mite boxes. Festal Evensong was held at 7.30 p.m., at which the anthem rendered by lady members of the choir was "An Easter Song" by Edward W. Miller. The rector, Rev. J. M. Brownlie officiated at all services and preached appropriately on the joyousness of Easter. The altar and chancel were tastefully adorned with Easter lilies, daffodils and snapdragon. It was announced that owing to the interior redecoration of the church which commences this week, the morning Sunday School and evening service on next Sunday will be held in the Parish Hall.

OPPONENTS UNITE TO OPPOSE SMUTS IN '48 ELECTION

Totalitarian Parties Agree to Support Nationalists in Fighting Union Government

By A. P. STANDFORD
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Johannesburg, South Africa — (CP)—There are signs that General Smuts' United party will face serious opposition at the general election next year for already a pact has been agreed between Dr. D. F. Malan, leader of the Nationalist (opposition) party, and N. C. Havenga, leader of the Afrikaner party.

South Africa's protagonists of totalitarianism— the Ossewabrandwag and the Greyshirts — have also indicated that they will support the Nationalists in the forthcoming elections.

Dr. J. F. J van Rensburg, leader of the Ossewabrandwag, said he was particularly thankful that Malan and Havenga had come to an understanding. As far as it lay within his power, he would do nothing whatsoever to disturb any step towards rapproachement between the two groups.

The Greyshirts at their recent Pretoria congress decided to give the Nationalists their unconditional support. Their leader, L. T. Weichardt, said the Nationalist party alone possessed the qualifications for destroying the present government and, in his opinion, the coming general election would be the last chance South Africa would have to see that the country remained white. If they did not make use of this opportunity it would mean that South Africa would fall into a "Communistic-Bolshevistic jumble."

Although these three parties do not individually present any serious threat to the government — they have no seats in the House of Assembly—it is their combination with the Nationalists that constitutes the danger.

The pace between the Nationalist party and the Afrikaner party has caused the most comment throughout the country.

In terms of their agreement the two parties, although maintaining their identities, will co-operate in the next general election.

No Great Importance

Commenting on the agreement, the Rand Daily Mail's political correspondent in Capetown says that no great importance is attached to it in well-informed political circles there.

The political correspondent of the Johannesburg Star, says that the pact means that the two leaders have, for the time being, agreed not to disagree. "Dr. Malan, whose party desperately needs support, has apparently decided to pay a big price for a rapprochement of minor political value," he adds.

It was recalled that in the 1943 general election the Afrikaner party polled only 14,759 votes throughout the whole Union and failed to win a single seat. It polled only 381 votes on the Witwatersrand, 500 in Pretoria and district, 3,109 in the Transvaal rural areas and 10,769 in the Orange Free State. It is doubtful whether the Afrikaner party would command even this total of votes today.

Die Transvaler (now Nationalist party and Afrikaner party organ in the Transvaal) welcomes the fact that the differences which have estranged the two parties, are beginning to disappear. "The struggle now is against the Smuts government and everything it stands for," said the paper.

Die Transvaler says it is the first time that the United Party has been confronted with a united opposition, and for them it is the worst political news they have had for a long time.

ALL-ASIA TENNIS MEET

New Delhi (CP)—Dr. Amarnath Jha, president of the All-India Lawn Tennis Association, states that the inauguration of an international tennis championship of Asia is in view. It is hoped that the first All-Asia meet will take place in India before long and after that the championship would be held in various countries such as China, Japan and India by rotation.

War Work of Birds Recognized

The exceptional qualities of a brave and resolute disposition, retentive memory, quick intelligence, and accurate powers of observation, possessed by homing pigeons have long been encouraged and trained in Britain, Barbara McKechni writes in The Christian Science Monitor.

During the war nearly 200,000 well-trained homing pigeons were given free of charge to the fighting services of Great Britain and the United States forces in Europe.

Medals Awarded

The war services of these birds often entailed their being carried in aircraft, parachuted to earth and braving guns and hawks on the coast in order to get messages through to England. But so resolute was their spirit in face of these unnatural obstacles that no less than 24 Dickin Medals, the V.C. of the animal world, were awarded to homing pigeons during the 1939 to 1945 war.

The flights of some of these birds make interesting reading. "Winkie," for instance, was carried in an aircraft which had to be ditched on account of engine trouble. The pilot, a wing commander and holder of the D. S. O., released Winkie with a message. He flew between 120 to 140 miles home, delivered the message, with the result that four lives were saved.

Went to Dieppe

When the Canadian forces landed at Dieppe, the first detailed news was flown by "Beachcomber" to army headquarters at a speed of over 50 miles an hour.

On that tempestuous morning of June 6, 1944, it was "Gustav" who delivered the first messages of the landings on the Normandy beaches. He had already earned for himself a reputation for reliability, and on this occasion he took five hours and 16 minutes to get the message through.

King George VI owned "Royal Blue," the first pigeon during the war to bring messages from a force-landed air crew on the continent. And "Ruhr", who, after two years' good work in emergency intercommunications, was dropped by parachute within enemy lines more than 300 miles from his base. In reaching home he accomplished one of the best performances of its kind on record.

Same Wounded

Neither did birds always reach home unscathed. "Mary," who was on active service from 1940 until the end of hostilities, was attacked by a hawk and had seven stitches in her neck. Part of her wing was shot away.

Another brave little lady was "Kenley Lass," the first pigeon to be used for secret communication from enemy-occupied France. Her first task, a particularly difficult one, involved a parachute jump with her agent. After a safe landing, the agent had to make a journey of nine miles on foot at night across country, with the pigeon concealed on his person. The bird never murmured. She also had to be concealed in cramped conditions in a house for 11 days before the information she had to carry home had been obtained. When she actually was released, she covered well over 300 miles, carrying data that proved of the utmost value.

Public recognition for these acts of special gallantry by the award of the Dickin Medal has been greatly welcomed. Each recommendation is brought before a committee of the Allied Forces Mascot Club and is carefully considered. The award, as will have been seen by the foregoing, is not easily won.

Norwegian Airlines Builds Entire Town

Stavanger, Norway (CP)— A new town of 5,000 aircraft workers soon will spring up around Sola Airfield near here, selected as eastern terminal of Scandinavian Airways trans-Atlantic service.

Hangars and workshops will be built to maintain long-range aircraft, runways will be extended and hotel accommodation provided. Sola will become an important junction for feeder services to the Scandinavian capitals and perhaps other European countries.

"I am convinced the decision will have untold significance for Norwegian airways and the country as a whole," said Bernt Blachen, veteran Norwegian airman and a director of Norwegian Airlines.

One-Armed Drivers Face Prosecution

Pearl, South Africa (CP) — Motorists who drive here with their arms or elbows out of the window are liable to be prosecuted, as this dangerous habit has caused a number of drivers to lose their arms in recent accidents, city police announced.

Back-seat passengers who stick their hands or arms out of windows may also find themselves in court.

The police are taking this move to try and reduce the rising accident rate here.

CURFEW WILL NOT RING

Listowel, April 9 (CP)— The nightly curfew, established five years ago to keep children off the streets, was discontinued here last night by the town council because of "lack of co-operation of parents." Police committee chairman Howard McKenzie said juvenile hockey games, young people's meetings and bowling kept some children out after hours.

Civil Servant, 82, At Desk 70 Years

Toronto (CP)—Governments may come and go but Charles Alfred Fitch, consultant in the Ontario government criminal justice department, seems to go on forever. On April 1, he began his 70th year as a civil servant — an occupation folks back in 1878 said he wouldn't like nor keep.

Now 82, he has served under 14 premiers and 17 attorneys-general, a record believed unequalled in Canada. And, having no desire to leave, he's going to carry on. "My work is an extremely important part of my life," he confesses.

Slight of structure and mild of manner he launched his career with the government as a boy of 13. "Ah, how well I remember that first day. The 'precious' telephone ,the only one in the office, was locked in the vault and one person was designated as attendant. The rest of us were afraid to touch it."

As for the typewriter, it was still on probation. It had to prove its worth and instructions were issued that it was not to be used for ducuments of records for fear the writing would fade.

When Charlie Fitch was a green office boy there were only two women on the staff and he said some officials looked on them with disfavor. "Now, there are hundreds of women."

While the stress of years has compelled him to forgo his former pursuits of fishing, hunting and bowling, Charlie Fitch is still a keen movie fan and a motorist, and a civil servant.

"Make Us Legal" Ask Bookmakers

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Wellington, N.Z. (CP)— New Zealand bookmakers have amazed a royal commission investigating aspects of betting and racing here with statements that their organization—the Dominion Sportmen's Association—has 400 members while its branches for years supplied results to government-owned radio stations.

Although bookmaking is forbidden by law, and bookmakers are liable to a fine or imprisonment, the association has been represented by counsel throughout the proceedings.

At least two of its branches, counsel said, were supplied with a direct telephone line to a government broadcasting studio. The fact that a government department thought it sufficiently important to use the association to satisfy the public demand for the broadcasting of race results justified its existence, he declared.

He also disclosed that the organization has throughout the war supplied particulars of race dividends to another government department for dissemination among troops. As the association believed that these dividends could not be required by the troops for other than betting purposes, it drew attention to the unsatisfactory position that arose where one government department condemned betting by forwarding such particulars to troops while another department condemned it by prosecuting those charged with breaches of the law.

Association's Plan

The association has urged the commission to permit bookmaking off the race-courses. No application has been made for bookmakers to operate on the courses.

It estimates that under this system each bookmaker would hold an average of $2,600 in wagers each race day. There would be 500 bookmakers operating in the Dominion and as there are 60 race days a year, the annual betting turnover through bookmakers would be $76,000,000 and the estimated revenue to the state from taxation and bookmakers' licence fees would be $4,272,000.

The New Zealand Racing Conference, the Jockeys' Association and counsel for the Associated Nonconformist Churches have all expressed strong opposition to the licensing of bookmakers.

"Bookmaking is an anti-social and parasitic occupation," declared A. T. Donnelly, senior counsel for the Racing Conference. Bookmakers had always been and always would be "a corrupt or at least an undesirable influence" on racing, he said.

William J. Broughton, president of the Jockeys' Association, claimed that licensing of bookmakers would mean that jockeys would be asked to do things they should not do.

Counsel for the churches, O. C. Mazengarb, said they opposed any request for further facilities for gambling. They urged the government to enforce existing laws and remove from broadcasting the reproach that its services were largely responsible for the inordinate increase in betting in the past few years.

AD-LIB LESTER EASILY JUGGLES PUNS, PLATTERS

Irrepressible Mickey Thinks Too Much Publicity Has Gone to Many 'Teen-Age Heads

By EDWARD CHANTLER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Mickey Lester, the master of ad-lib who juggles puns while turning music biscuits Monday to Friday over Toronto's CKEY, sighed as he ran a chamois over his head.

"You ask me why I'm bald — what a way to start an interview! However, m'friendly, it's all very simple: I have no hair. Been sleeping in too many short beds."

While he nonchalantly combed the plumes of Oscar—his program's genial menial who has often been mistaken for an auk when in reality he is an anchovy-eating hooded merganser—we prodded the master on.

"I'm an American who prefers Canada. Came from down Boston way a goodly while ago—say, I wonder if they've read any good books there lately?"

With a wistful catch in his throat he recalled his early days as a police court reporter in Toronto, a log-man on the Detroit Free Press and a period spent on the Belleville, Ont., Intelligencer.

A threat to feed marbles to Oscar brought the admission that he once played saxaphone and violin with Toronto and Montreal Orchestras.

"Ah, yes, the violin," and he briskly applied the chamois again. "Some gum-bumper from Waukegan, Ill., name o' Benny seemed to have beat my time."

Not Bashful Type

Shortly before the Second World War he broke into radio after much hammering. "The hammers I broke trying to get into advertising executives' offices to tell them about Lesterism."

We helped him splint his arm which had become snarled after repeated slaps on his own back.

"How did I develop that wonderful ad-lib style—the one with which I sprinkle my nightly 55-minute chore to the delight of the customers? Simple, m'friendly. It comes as a result of years of practising to write—and read my own writing."

Mickey insisted fun was fun, but his audience was primarily adult and mature. His fan mail proves that. He might gag at will —but he will devote dozens of spots during broadcasts to appeals for comforts to the now hospitalized men who so recently marched away to hang aggression on the sour apple tree.

He has his gripes, too. Recently he told 'teen-agers to cut out their adolescent nonsense and become kids again. He pungently referred to what he claimed was the all-too prevalent fad of publicizing 'teen-group "problems."

"They think they are a class in themselves. It's gone to their heads—which may be contributing to today's juvenile delinquency."

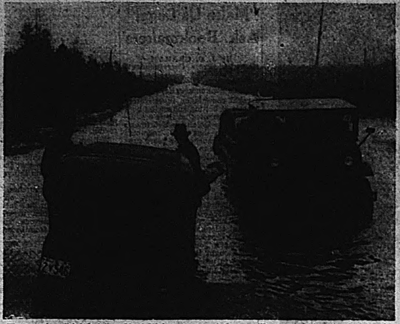
"Say,' he mused, "how about a parting Lesterism?"

"You've seen the new Studebaker? Well, I know for sure it's the only car that's glass-backwards!"



The notorious "sink hole" on No. 9 Highway west of Orangeville trapped these motorists when flood waters from melting snowbanks on this oft-blocked highway got too deep for the car's motor to keep going. Department of Highway truck comes to rescue in its day-long job. The highway was closed to traffic last night.

Eire With New Low in Population Worried by Rate of Emigration

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dublin, April 8 —(CP)— Eire's population has reached an all-time low of 2,953,452 and this preliminary report of the 1946 census has brought a spate of demands for government action to stop the emigration flow.

There has been no suggestion for a ban on Irishmen going abroad. What is sought by government critics is such an improvement in wages, job prospects and living conditions that they will be better off at home.

Since 1936 the population drop has been 14,968. But during the 10 years births exceeded deaths by 174,974. Together these figures show that emigration totalled 189,942, most of it presumably during the war when high-paid jobs in the United Kingdom were an attraction to low-paid Irish workers.

In some lines the trend is being reversed, with carpenters, cabinet makers, painters, bricklayers, and others in the building and furniture trades coming home. But the resumption of overseas emigration, stopped during hostilities, is certain to bring an increased drain.

De Valera Criticized.

Spokesmen for the opposition Fine Gael Party say that Eire is bracketed with France, Czechoslovakia and Japan as a country where wages generally have fallen below the 1937 level; and Eire is the only one of the four which was a neutral.

"Of our 3,000,000 population in 1938, only 161,000 earned over £3 a week," Patrick McGilligan, Fine Gael member for Dublin Northwest, said in the Dail. "Now only 16,000 are getting over the present equivalent (in purchasing value) of that £3 a week."

McGilligan said Prime Minister De Valera, when seeking funds in the United States for his Fianna Fail Party 17 years ago, had told the people there that a remedy for the problems of emigration and unemployment was staring Eire in the face. Yet at least 230,000 men and women had left Eire since Fianna Fail assumed office.

One serious angle of the problem is that most of today's emigrants are agricultural workers, although Eire at present is threatened with a 1947 food crisis caused by severe winter weather and the world grain shortage.

Besides those going abroad, there is a big internal drift from rural to urban areas.

This is one reason why unemployment in Eire is more than 75,000 despite the heavy emigration.

The gap between conditions in Eire and those in the United Kingdom and overseas country is so great that a further loss of populations is expected — and a big one, at that.

Wags Prepare Gags Galore for Tomorrow

By EDWARD CHANTLER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Don't tap that egg! Don't snatch that purse! Oh, no! put that stogie down! Instead, make for the hills, men!

It's April Fool Day tomorrow— the day when poker-faced wags, gagsters and cards, urchins and sardonic characters the world over give mankind the hot-foot.

And while screams of anguish, howls of disappointment and silly giggles echo through the house, just remember folks, this day of ribald ribbing has been going on for a long time—too long, you say?

Although April Fool Day is not a holiday in any legal sense, from the time Zeus, that Olympian jester, pulled a dilly on the Greeks it has been a field-day for pranksters.

Legend has it that the jovial god bumped into his puckish son Hermes one dull day. Hermes agreed with his immediate superior to let earthbound citizens hear it was going to rain buckets —but only fools would get wet. Everybody got soaked, except one sly ancient who had sense enough to sneak into a doorway.

Leaving the Olympians behind, we find that several centuries ago in the land of the tartan, the day was given over to hunting the gowk—or "cuckoo." The idea was that the gullible lad chosen as the gowk was sent on a merry roundabout chase for an unobtainable item. Weakened, famished and minus shoe leather, the poor "cuckoo" would return empty-handed to be the butt of Scottish guffaws.

In France the victims of Latin waggery are charmingly referred to as "poisson d'avril"—April fish!

An inventive chap named Bell gave April Fool sports a new spurt with the telephone: Dog pounds, butchers, undertakers and aquariums on this day will agree that Alexander Graham Bell should have left well enough alone. "Is A. Stiff there?" "No? then what are you in the undertaking business for?" See what we mean?

Therefore, a timely tip: Beware dribble glasses, hand buzzers, explosive fags, elastic chewing gum, "lost" wallets — and don't kick any brick-mined hats left on sidewalks.

Stallion Sells At Record Price

Melbourne, Australia (Reuters) —Highest price ever paid for a stallion here—9,500 guineas ($39,900)—changed hands when A. E. Abrahams bought the six-year-old Lawrence from A. H. Griffiths.

Griffiths bought Lawrence as a yearling for 350 guineas and won £13,814 ($55,256) in stakes with him. Previous record sale price for a stallion in the Melbourne ring was 6,500 guineas.

CHOOSE WAR BRIDE AS BEST ACTRESS IN WEST FESTIVAL

Five Brandon Women Eye Dominion Drama Laurels After Winnipeg Success

Brandon, Man. (CP)—An English war bride, two housewives and a high school student will represent Manitoba at the Dominion Drama Festival to be held at London, Ont., next month.

The four women and their director, also a woman, are members of the Brandon Little Theatre. Their presentation of "A Room in the Tower" by Hugh Stewart was chosen as the winner of the Manitoba Drama Festival held in Winnipeg, March 22.

Doreen McGill, 25-year-old war bride who played the role of Lady Jane Grey, ill-fated queen of nine days, was chosen by adjudicator Arthur Sircom of Minneapolis as best actress in the festival. Mrs. McGill was born in Manchester and came to Canada as the bride of Flt.-Lt. Lyal McGill. She had served in the W.A.A.F. for six years. In her 'teens she was a member of an amateur drama club which formed an auxiliary to the Manchester Repertory Company. Her only comment after being judged the best actress was "Now I'll be able to see more of Canada."

Gwen Sector, chosen as runner-up for her regal characterization of the icy-hearted Mary Tudor, is the wife of a Brandon merchant. She has three sons whose ages range from two to six. Her only experience with stage work was in school productions.

Wife of a lecturer in the English department of Brandon College, Kathleen Thordarson is the mother of a young son and daughter. She has taken part in community plays for more than 16 years.

'Teen-aged Dorothy Armstrong realized a long-standing dream when she was chosen to play the role of attendant to the Queen. Dorothy, daughter of a United Church minister, has been interested in dramatics for some time and believes that amateur theatre activities provide excellent opportunities for self-improvement and community co-operation.

Director of the group, Edith M. Laycock, is a stenographer in a railway express office. Drama has been her major interest since undergraduate days.

Priceless Art Store For British Nation

London (CP)—One of Britain's greatest private art collections may pass into the nation's possession as a result of negotiations proceeding between Lord Leconfield and the National Trust.

If suitable arrangements for upkeep can be made, Lord Leconfield proposes transferring Petworth House in Sussex and all its contents—together with 10 miles of park—to the Trust.

Priceless paintings hung in Petworth House include Hieronymus Bosch's "Adoration of the Kings" a group of Van Dyck pictures, portraits by Joshua Reynolds, two Gainsborough landscapes, a Lenain, three Hobbemas and many Lelys.

One valuable part of the house is the Grinling Gibbons Carved Room, measuring 60 feet by 24 feet.

Expects Good Year For Alberta Hunter

Edmonton (CP) — Alberta's nimrods should experience a good hunting season this year, in the opinion of Dr. William Rowan of Alberta University's department of zoology.

Dr. Rowan has been doing research on game birds for some years. The upland game bird population seems to be on the increase this year, and he expects that they will come out of the "slump" which has kept their numbers down during the last few seasons.

His research has led him to believe, he said, that there are cycles in prairie chicken, grouse and partridge population which occur about every 10 years.

Game birds were scarce in 1934, but their numbers increased in succeeding years until 1944, when they were hit by another slump, as predicted by Dr. Rowan.

It seems to take several years for the situation to right itself. But this year it should be normal again. The birds seemed to have weathered the winter without adverse effects, although an unfavorable nesting season may retard an increase in their numbers. Three or four wet days in early June could wash away nests at a crucial time.

Dr. Rowan has noted, however, that partridge and pheasant seem little affected by such occurrences and soon build their nests again. Cycles in game bird population seem to be effective over a wide area. Their results can be seen from the prairies to the eastern seabord both in Canada and the United States.

Precise causes of the cycles are not known, but they seem to be the result of a recurring combination of circumstances. Hunting may be somewhat restricted this year by the announced increase of about 22 per cent in ammunition prices.

Dr. Rowan intends to continue his research into the complex problem of the game bird, and expects to be able to analyze it more fully during this season's expected peak.

GIFT FROM HOLLAND

Chilliwack, B.C. (CP) —Count A. F. Van Rechteren, a former farmer of Chilliwack, who recently returned to his home in Holland, has sent the Agricultural Association $40 to purchase a perpetual challenge cup for the Suffolk sheep department of the Chilliwack Fair.

Old-Time Shotgun Yorkton Exhibit

Yorkton, Sask. (CP)—A muzzle-loading percussion-type shotgun made to order for the great-grandfather of 84-year-old Harry F. Lee of Yorkton, is the latest addition to stored exhibits for this east-central Saskatchewan town's proposed museum.

Mr. Lee said he did not know exactly how old the gun was. It had been manufactured in Birmingham after his great-grandfather chopped down the walnut tree from which the gunstock was made.

The firearm is complete with two leather shot flasks, a brass powder flask, a cleaner, ramrod, percussion caps, a wad cutter and tin full of wads.

Mr. Lee, who came to Canada in 1891, has used the gun along the hedgerows of England and on the prairies where he says he has knocked over four prairie chicken with one shot.

The gun will be held in storage until the museum, for which $25,000 has been earmarked out of the city's reconstruction program, is built.

OBSERVERS TAKE VIEW SUSPENSION IS EXCESSIVE

Jimmy Powers, Columnist for News Thinks Durocher Did Not Get Enough

New York, April 10 (AP) — While most baseball observers throughout the country took the view today that the one-year suspension Commissioner A. B. Chandler imposed on Brooklyn Manager Leo Durocher was excessive, many felt that the bullient pilot had some kind of penalty coming to him for his actions on and off the field.

One of the few managers who commented was Ben Chapman of Philadelphia Phillies. He termed the suspension "a tough break" for the Dodgers but added that Durocher had "stuck his neck out."

Dan Parker, New York Daily Mirror columnist who has been one of the most severe critics of the Chandler regime, said:

"It's my belief that Happy is simply using Durocher as a punching bag to prove that he is a strong man."

Commented J. Roy Stockton, sports editor of the St. Louis post-Dispatch: "Ever since Chandler took office his conduct of the high baseball office has been criticized. It is not difficult to conclude that Chandler was enraged...and made Durocher his handy whipping boy."

Jimmy Powers, columnist of the New York Daily News: "We don't think Durocher is a credit to baseball. We believe Landis, in view of what he did to other players for less heinous offenses, would have barred him for life—long ago."

Art Daley, columnist of the New York Times, finds the penalty "unnecessarily severe," and believes "a month or two" would have been enough.

Spring Hockey Camp Opened At Winnipeg

Winnipeg, April 10 — (CP) — While most eyes are focused on the National Hockey League final, manager Frank Boucher of the New York Rangers already is planning his N.H.L. campaign for the 1947-48 season. Boucher is here to make preparations for a spring training camp which opens today at the Amphitheatre rink.

Accompanying Boucher were his right hand man, Pat Doyle and three aides — Coach Lynn Patrick of New Haven, Coach Muzz Patrick of St. Paul and Ranger captain Neil Colville.

About 60 amateur prospects will be given the once-over by Boucher at the spring camp, believed to be the first attempted by an N.H.L. team. Since Rangers were ousted in their attempt to reach the playoffs, Boucher has been travelling around the various minor league circuits to watch Ranger farm teams in action.

Asked if there was anything to the rumor that centreman Edgar Laprade planned to retire next season, Boucher said it was not definite and the final decision would have to be made by Laprade himself.

B.C.I., ALBERT WIN BASKETBALL TOURNEY GAMES

Collegiate Team Takes Regiopolis 28-18 and the College Defeats Almonte 23-16

Kingston, April 10. (CP—The annual invitation basketball tournament here yesterday provided a full day of thrills as 16 teams tangled in a knock-out series. Outstanding game of the day was the Glebe-Ottawa clash.

It was a see-saw battle from the first whistle with little to choose between the two powerful squads. Ottawa, paced by the brilliant play of Marc Rochon, came from behind in the game's dying moments to tie the score at 32-32. Seconds later, however, Brown of Glebe sank the winning basket to give Glebe a 34-32 win and put them in the playdowns.

Both Kingston entries were defeated. Oshawa edged out K.C.V.I. 19-13 and Belleville downed a fighting Regiopolis College squad 28-18.

Other results were:

Brockville 45, Renfrew 20; Kemptville 9, Picton 4; Trenton 29, Gananoque 19; Albert College 23, Almonte 16; Napanee 26, Prescott 13.

Glebe meets the defending champions, Peterborough, today while Ottawa plays Friday in the B series.

TORONTO LEAFS MAYMAKEAMENDS IN SECOND GAME

Nick Metz Lost to Team for Season Due to Rib Separation

By SYD THOMAS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, April 10 — (CP) — The eager youngsters from Toronto made even younger by the loss of veteran Nick Metz, their leading playoff scorer to date — get their second chance against the "tired old men" from Montreal tonight when Maple Leafs and Canadiens tangle in the second game of the Stanley Cup final.

When the Stanley Cup - defending Canadiens blanked Leafs 6-0 here Tuesday in the opener of the best-of-seven series, it put Hap Day's club on something of a spot. The Leafs need a win tonight to give them a toehold for the next two contests back in Toronto Saturday and next Tuesday.

Leafs haven't been able to take Canadiens' measure here all season — although they collected three ties — while on home ice they were good for three wins and a tie.

The 33-year-old Metz was sidelined, probably for the remainder of the series, in the first game when a second period spill left him with a painful rib separation.

In his place Day will use 23-year-old Bud Poile, who wasn't used in the last two games of the semi-final against Detroit or in the first game here.

The Habitants out to win for the injured Elmer Lach at all costs, will be at full strength except for Lach and Ken Mosdell—both out for the season — and that happy-go-luck Irish defenceman, Kenny Reardon.

Reardon, who came out of the Boston series with a badly mangled toe, wasn't expected to see action again this year. But he's hobbling around on crutches now, growling because he can't play. As Dick Irvin says, "That Reardon would have to be in a wooden box before you could count him out."

The Endeavors Will be Sold By Public Auction

(By The Canadian Press)

The Endeavors, most famed of Britain's racing yachts, go on the auction block at Gosport, Eng., today and no one expects them ever to race again. Because of taxes and the high cost of being rich in post-war Britain, Endeavor I and Endeavor II, are likely to be sold in pieces—a mast or a sail at a time—rather than "all standing."

A picked Canadian hockey team built around ace players of Montreal Royals and Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League are going to Britain this Spring to play a five week exhibition series with British teams at London's Wembley Stadium.

Pauline Betz, barred from amateur tennis by the game's ruling body in United States, arrived at Paris yesterday and, while still undecided about future plans, declared the suspension "sort of nudges me toward professionalism."

RICKEY MUST FIND NEW MANAGER FOR THE DODGERS

Ray Blades or Pepper Martin Seem to Have the Inside Track on Job

By JOE REICHLER

New York, April 10. (AP)—Now that some of the shock of Leo Durocher's banishment from baseball for the 1947 season by Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler has worn off, President Branch Rickey of Brooklyn Dodgers today faced the task of solving swiftly three problems.

1. Rickey must name a manager to succeed the exiled Durocher for the season which starts in five days.

2. He must make up his mind whether to retain or discharge Leo when the suspension is lifted at the end of the playing season, Sept. 28.

3. Rickey has only five more days to make good on his winter statement that "a decision on Jackie Robinson will be made on or before the opening day of the National League season."

The first is probably least difficult. It was generally believed the managerial assignment would go to either coach Ray Blades or Scout John (Pepper) Martin, the one-time wild horse of the Osage who starred for St. Louis Cardinals a dozen years ago. Both previously worked under Rickey as managers, Blades at St. Louis and Martin at Sacramento, a Cardinal farm.

The crestfallen Durocher was still stunned over the startling outcome of the charges filed by President Larry MacPhail of New York Yankees against Durocher and Rickey for defamation of character.

To all questions put to him, Leo answered dispiritedly, "I have nothing to say. I don't know what I'll do." His only words when acquainted with the news of his suspension were: "For what? For what?"

The official reason given by Chandler for Durocher's suspension was "because he has not measured up to the standards expected or required of manager of our baseball teams." The suspension, Chandler said, was the result of "an accumulation of unpleasant incidents in which he has been involved which the commissioner considers detrimental to baseball."

Decided Absence Of Contenders For Joe Louis

Paterson, N.J., April 10 —(AP)—The National Boxing Association today released its regular quarterly ratings in which Abe J. Greene, E, N.B.A. president discoursed in his usual philosophical vein on the decided absence of logical contenders for Joe Louis' heavy-weight title.

Greene made it clear that the category of "logical contenders" for Louis' crown was still vacant and then listed Jersey Joe Walcott as still on top of the heap of outstanding boxers.

Two Canadian fighters, both from Montreal, were accorded honorable mention in their respective divisions. Johnny Greco was listed in that category among the welters and Danny Webb among the lightweights.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Vitriolic, umpire-baiting Leo (The Lip) Durocher, fiery manager (erstwhile) of the Brooklyn Dodgers, signed a contract the other day to play himself in a motion picture titled "750 Smith" which stars the film comedian Eddie Bracken. Now, managers of baseball teams such as Dem Bums need practically all their time, especially in the vernal season, looking after the boys in uniform. Little time is available for such Hollywood high jinks as playing in the movies.

• • •

The Baseball Commissioner "Hap" Chandler saw to it, in no uncertain manner, that the "Lip" would have a year, at least, to cavort around California in front of the cameras. In fact the Commissioner doesn't care very much, nor is he concerned about what the "Lip" does within the next twelve months — unless he changes his mind.

• • •

For he stunned the Flatbush Fusiliers in particular and the baseball world in general yesterday when he slapped a year's suspension on the loquacious Durocher, stormy petrel of baseball, law courts, wedlock, inter-team altercation and what-not for the past few months.

• • •

And out of the swirling hodge-podge of charge counter-charge, investigation and evidence, the Man with the smile drew a 30-day suspension for Chuck Dressen, former Brooklyn coach, now with the Yankees; $2,000 fines each for the Yankee and the Dodger clubs and a $500 extraction from Harold Parrott, travelling secretary of the Brooklyn team.

• • •

Durocher and Branch Rickey, Mahatma of the Dodger Club, it appears, had laid down a barrage of verbal blasts around the ears of the Yankee boss Larry MacPhail, in which they charged almost everything but the wife's Spring shopping account. American baseball writers wrote reams about the trio, especially the flaming Durocher, who crashed California headlines with his now famous marriage to the screen star Laraine Day, which with subsequent events made America more baseball-conscious, than did Babe Ruth's classic gesture to the right field stands years ago.

• • •

Now, Commissioner Chandler says, the incident is closed. But we do not imagine that the loyal Flatbush fans will take such punishment sitting down. The worst, they expected, if their loquacious hero was found guilty of being a talkative bad boy, was a fine. The spires of Brooklyn will ring with the shrieks of the faithful. The mills of the scribes will grind out copy pro and con. And if a hated Yankee fans shoves a MacPhailian schnozzle across the Brooklyn Bridge, he'll do an involuntary Steve Brodie. "Somewhere the sun is shining; somewhere the people shout; but there ain't no joy in Flatbush, since Durocher was pushed out."

All of which reminds us of a sign we saw somewhere in the dim and distant past, but which still holds good, no matter who you are. It was in the form of a prayer and read, "O Lord, if I don't know what I'm talking about, please help me to keep my mouth shut."

Carver cannot rub it into us like that — even with some soft soap at the last — without your sterling jotter-downer licking the lead in his pencil and leaving this little truism for the perusal of all Bellevillians (villains, that is) if ex-Capt. Carver cares to bandy it about:

Quinte puck fame'll rise again,
Scribe Carver says — or as much as—
And we agree, but it won't be
Till the Petes are all on crutches!

• • •

Twill be many a hockey year, no doubt,
Ere the Petes on crutches strut about,
But if next year, these aids they wear,
Nuff sed—The Quintes put 'em there.
P.S.—Mission accomplished.

Belleville Collegiate Institute and Albert College basketball teams are in Kingston today taking part in the second annual Queen's University basketball tournament for collegiate institutes and high schools of the district. Nineteen teams are entered in the tourney and the boys play steadily from eight o'clock in the morning until ten at night. Finals are scheduled for Saturday. Squads are classified as to male student enrolment in the schools and competition is reported to be keen. The first tourney was a decided success last year, and indications this week point to an even greater display of the court sport.

Squad No Match for Powerful Irish Team Who Will Meet West for Cup

By BILL FREEDMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto April 10 (CP)— With the eastern Canada championship safely tucked under their belt, Toronto St. Michael's College Majors are saddling for the Western trail to the Canadian junior championship and the Memorial Cup.

Majors, who lost the cup last year to Winnipeg Monarchs, will meet either Brandon Elks or Moose Jaw Canucks in a best-of-seven series. And they aren't fooling, either as witness the 21-0 score they hung on Montreal Canadiens last night to take the eastern final series in three straight games, having taken the first two tilts 11-3 and 5-1.

The injury riddled Canadiens dressed only ten men and were no match for the surging Saints. Their defence crumbled in front of the netminder Roy Scurrah, who performed hitherto unknown acrobatics to stop the tons of rubber thrown his way.

Strangely enough, it was this same Scurrah who in a sense prophesied the high score. When asked before the game how he spelled his name, he answered deliberately, "S-e-i-v-e" and the Irish certainly fulfilled his prophecy as they sifted through the Montrealers with ludicrous ease to chalk up a record scoring total in junior hockey.

Before the second period began Flem Mackell of Majors received the Ed Powers trophy as the leading scorer in the Ontario Hockey Association during the regular season. Mackell decided to show the form that merited this trophy, and turned in a six-goal performance, including two assists.

Bob Paul and Ed Harrison each collected four goals. Les Costello and Migay three, Warren Winslow a single to round out the scoring. Harrison performed the original hat trick in the second frame, scoring three goals in succession in a minute and seven seconds.

By AL COLLETTI
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 10 —(CP)—The suspension from baseball for a year of volatile Leo Durocher, who with his former close associate, Larry MacPhail, probably did the most to bring Brooklyn back on the baseball map, can easily mean the end of a blossoming career for Leo . . . What's to prevent the new manager of the Dodgers from piloting one of the National League's brightest clubs into a pennant? . . . And where will The Lip be if that happens? . . . As it stands Leo may lose a major part of his $70,000-plus-bonus salary not for just the year he has been suspended but perhaps indefinitely unless he can click with some other club in the 1948 season . . . For a manager who can bring his club into the World Series in his first season isn't likely to be discarded like an old shoe for the fellow who has said "I want to die in Brooklyn." . . . Leo was asked if he would see MacPhail in connection with the job as Yankee manager, which was open then . . . "Sure, I'll see MacPhail — he's one of the greatest men I know. He gave me my first chance to manage a ball club" . . . Yes, Larry has given Leo a chance to earn his living playing pool . . . It's hard to believe that Chandler's ruling was based on just the Dodgers-Yankees front-office fracas . . . And it seems strange that Happy, who it is common baseball knowledge was railroaded into his $50,000 job by MacPhail, ended his precedent-breaking statement yesterday with the words: "All parties are silenced from the time this order is issued."

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

Ours Today— the POWER of a hundred million men!

TODAY CANADA is producing far more electrical power than ever. Water power installations are 25% greater than before the war! Now they total over 10 million h.p.—furnishing energy equal to that of more than 100,000,000 workers.

Our development of that power—in which we rank second in the world—made it possible for us to become one of the most important of manufacturing countries, with vastly increased opportunities in every field of activity.

Yet our present installations, (tremendous as they are, represent only 20% of our recorded resources!

With long distance transmission of electricity, water power became a dominant influence on Canadian development. The 18-mile line between St. Narcisse and Three Rivers in 1897 was the first high-transmission line in the British Empire.

After the turn of the century the advance was rapid. Greatest industrial user of electrical power was pulp and paper. Water power was the basis of its tremendous development as it became Canada's greatest peace-time industry.

With the war, aluminum became the biggest user, taking one-quarter of all electric energy generated in Canada. Greatest wartime development was mighty Shipshaw on the Saguenay, where the power generated is greater than that at Boulder Dam.

"UNSURPASSED OPPORTUNITIES"

KNOWLES BAILEY, after becoming thoroughly experienced in the wholesale tobacco business, started his own firm in a Toronto basement with one helper, twelve years ago. By his organizing ability, enthusiasm and plenty of hard work, he has built up a four-million-dollar business with 100 employees, 4 warehouses, sales offices throughout Canada and two factories.

MR. BAILEY says: "Twelve years ago I was sure there was no better place than Canada to start a business. I'm surer than ever today. Today, more than ever before, Canada offers unsurpassed opportunities for young men to turn their energy and enthusiasm into successful careers."

Trenton Air Station Stages Eight-Bout Boxing Show That Has Spectators on Their Feet

Semi-Final Bout Between Eddie Senos and Glen Dafoe Steals Show

(By G.H.C.)

Flinging science to the winds, Eddie Senos, pride of the RCAF at Trenton, and Glen Dafoe, Trenton A. C. staged a spectacular action-packed bout at the Trenton Air Station Wednesday night that not only had the capacity crowd roaring on its feet but stole the show thunder with plenty to spare.

Senos and Dafoe, semi-finalists on an entertaining fight card that had Billy Goulding, Oshawa, and Johnny Pagel, Ottawa, billed as main bouters, tossed caution aside and slugged, thumped, pushed and slapped for five rounds that packed a thrill a minute. It was the crowd-pleasing type of beak-busting, with more leather thrown and stopped than the rest of the card put together with the exception perhaps of the sensational exhibition bout staged by twelve-year-old Doug Hinton, son of S/L Harry Hinton, Trenton Air Station, and eleven-year-old Bobby Viau, of Trenton.

These very reasonable facsimiles of the semi-finalists were cheered to the echo as the half-pints slugged it out toe to toe in three one-minute no-decision rounds that had the faithful forgetting income taxes, morning parades, and the next war.

Senos Gets Nod

Senos, who eventually got the nod in his own home town, is an aggressive type of battler who met his prototype in Dafoe. The two swung windmill blows, uppercuts, ring- around rosy slaps, a lot of which connected, in a rousing bout that was in direct contrast to the somewhat drab preliminaries. There was not a dull moment, and the two chased each other around the ring in an orgy of leather pushing action.

Bill Goulding added another win to his already impressive record when he defeated the highly-rated Johny Page of Ottawa in the main event. Page was satisfied with a back-pedalling style and a neat left jab, but Goulding was the aggressor throughout the five round go. An opportunist always, Goulding floored Page for a nine-count in the third round when Johny bounced off the ropes squarely into a right smash to the jaw.

Won On Tactics

Page had laid a solid right on the Goulding jaw and had backed into the ropes. As he came off, the Goulding right flicked out like a rapier and connected solidly with the Page puss. For the rest of the bout, the Ottawan danced away out of reach, but occasionally stopped a stinging left jab or a right hook. He flicked out his left occasionally and landed a swinging right. Goulding won on his aggressive tactics and of course, the knockdown.

George Polmanter, Belleville, suffering with a bronchial trouble, showed some of his old time form against crafty Johnny Keeler, Oshawa. In fact he had the Oshawan groggy with a terrific smash to the jaw near the end of the first round. The canny Keeler however, quickly rallied and fought a heady fight. He jabbed Polmanter with a neat left and had the Belleville boy missing with his dangerous rights. He swung a savage right hook to Polmanter's jaw in the fourth, and in the fifth both slugged it out but the Belleville lad was plainly hanging on. Keeler won a popular decision.

Only Aroma of Bouts

Pete Kolaski, Oshawa, proved too much for Dynamite Dunn of Oshawa, jabbing him into impotency and following up with solid rights. The Oshawan drew the only blood of the card, opening up a cut over his opponent's eye. He clearly outfought the "Dynamite" and the latter's seconds refused to let him start the fourth round.

The only decision that had an aroma, was the draw given to the bout between Pal Graham, a colored boy from Brockville and Bud Henery of Oshawa. Graham, a neat boxer consistently flicked a neat left jab into Henery's face and danced away without a return. Otherwise the bout was as dull as the decision.

Girt Jones, Brockville, spotted Billy Northcott, Oshawa, seven pounds and earned a well-deserved decision. Jones, a boxer with a neat style landed some solid blows and had Northcott missing.

Don Blair, Brockville and Elmer "Eager Beaver" Haskill, Oshawa, did a lot of ballet-dancing with the former getting the nod in a more or less dull affair. Joey Wilson, Belleville, took the decision from Cooney Goodman in the curtain raiser.

The results:

Main bout — Billy Goulding, 146½, Oshawa, decisioned Johnny Page, 147, Ottawa, (5).

Semi-final — Eddie Senos, 155, Trenton R.C.A.F., decisioned Glen Dafoe, 154, Trenton A.C., (5).

Pete Kolaski, 154, Oshawo, defeated Dynamite Dunn, Brockville, 154, T.K.O. (3rd).

Joey Wilson, 123, Belleville, decisioned Cooney Goodman, 128, Oshawa, (3).

Exhibition — Doug Hinton, 73, Trenton Air Station, fought three one-minute no-decision rounds with Billy Viau, 74, Trenton.

New York, April 10 (AP) — New York Knickerbockers, third-place finishers in the Basketball Association of America's eastern division, moved into the playoff semi-finals today after disposing of Cleveland Rebels, two games to one, in a best-of-three series.

The Knicks 93-71 victory over the Rebels here last night qualified them for the semi-final set of three games with Philadelphia Warriors, who dispose of St. Louis in a three-game series between the league's second-place finishers.

The New York-Philadelphia series will open at Philadelphia Saturday night. The winner then goes against the winner of the current Chicago-Washington series for the circuit championship. Chicago holding a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven battle, meets Capitols at Washington tonight.

To Live With Love

CHAPTER 12

After buffet supper, there was dancing and bridge. Dancing with various men, Carol noticed their unfamiliar formality with her. The divorce had made the difference. No longer Bill's wife, she was free and unmarried and the husbands who had heretofore treated her with complete informality now treated her as though she was a stranger in their midst, a visitor in their clique. Now they couldn't say, "Isn't it time we got together for a little bridge?" or "How about riding up to the Springs for dinner next Sunday and some golf? We could go for a swim. Ask Bill." Now they could only say with obvious discomfort and obvious pity. "You're looking great, Carol," or "Nice party, isn't it?"

It was all so different. Were men more honest than women? Perhaps women were the better pretenders. Rcently she had sensed no strain in her women friends. Usually they talked about themselves and their interests, wanting to avoid her pained silence that would follow should they cease talking. When you lose your husband and your home and you have no child, you find that there is little to talk about.

When Johnny singled her out and asked her to dance, she did so reluctantly, knowing that the excellent supper had not been sufficient to counteract the effects of the innumerable cocktails he had consumed.

"Dee's mad at me," he said, his voice a little thick, his charming smile a little silly. "Why do women always get mad at you when you're having a good time? You wouldn't, would you, Carol listen to the music. It's been — beautiful, isn't it? Makes me sad. You know, I always get philo ...serious when I hear music like that."

Carol glanced about the large living-room where perhaps twenty couples were dancing. She looked vainly for Ian or Scott. John's murmurings bored and wearied her; and Dee was a jealous girl.

"Carol, why did Bill do it? He was crazy. You're...you're wonderful, honey. I always thought you were wonderful. That...that Evelyn, beautiful but dumb. Dumb as hell. Carol, I could."

Without warning he stopped still and swayed. To steady him, Carol placed both her hands on his shoulders firmly. "Johnny, let's sit down."

But Dee, dancing by, did not hear her. With the pain in her eyes deeper and more burning, she was aware only of Johnny and Carol embracing.

She stopped and raised her voice until it was almost a scream. "Just because you haven't a husband, do you think you can have mine—or somebody else's husband?"

For Carol the music stopped. The whole world seemed to stand still. The twenty couples ceased dancing and Johnny was startled into soberness.

He said, "My God, Dee!"

Suddenly Scott was at Carol's side. She never knew whence he came. But he was there, saying in his deep voice, "Let's go, Carol," it seemed as though he were leading her through the embarrassed, pitying faces. She did not glance back at the husband and wife angrily facing each other. In the hall someone gave Carol her coat, and Lillian and Browne and Freda and Ian were saying something, and the next moment she was sitting in Scott's little car, her face white and tearless.

Scott said, "We'll take a drive. I'm not going to take you home. Dee had been drinking too much. Trying to keep up with Johnny. I'm sorry, Carol."

Her mouth curved into a mirthless smile. "I'm a menace, Scott. I'm not to be trusted any more because I am divorced. It isn't my group any more. I don't belong."

"That's nonsense."

"No, it isn't. It's true. Not the merry widow, they think, but the merry divorcee. There was nothing mysterious about me when I was Bill's wife. I was one of them."

The cool air rushing against her face felt good. "There is so much more to it than Reno, Scott. Perhaps they can't help it. It's like a leopard changing his spots. You wouldn't feel the same about a leopard who hadn't any spots. You can't feel the same about a woman who no longer has a husband. Evelyn had done nothing to me since she married Bill. But the divorce has. The divorce is my enemy, not Evelyn."

"The divorce hasn't changed anything for me—with you."

"You've been awfully sweet to me and I'll never forget it. I don't think you pity me, Scott. That helps."

Should he say, "I don't; I'm glad about the divorce; it gave me a chance " No, not now. Not yet. It was a little too soon, too sudden. But tonight had made it easier for him.

He said, "I've always liked to be with you. We're—we're old friends!" Turning his head, he smiled at her. "You look all in. Put your head against my shoulder." He put his arm around her and drew her close. Her nearness stirred him. "It's much too beautiful a night for people to go around hurting each other. I can't dope it out."

"The behavior of human beings, you mean?"

He nodded. "Yes, including me. I think I have a person all doped out and then the next thing I'm not sure. People aren't mathematical rules. It's kind of crazy, isn't it I'm not making much sense."

"You don't have to." His shoulder was hard and broad. A safe shoulder a kind and friendly one. "Suppose you take me home now, Scott," she said. "I'm all right."

At the elevator of the apartment house Scott said, "Don't let it bother you that we didn't stay to the finish."

Standing beside him, the light blue coat over her shoulders, the white dress falling gracefully around the silver sandals, her face still white and tearless, Carol said, "I've made you into a martyr tonight, Scott. I swear I'll never do it again."

For an instant he was frightened. "Why, what do you mean?"

"I'm going to meet Freda in New York. I may make it a long visit."

Again he was afraid of saying too much. Looking hurt, he said, "I'll be—I'll be waiting when you come back. I mean...that I'll be waiting when you come back. I mean...that I'll be waiting for you. I—"

"Please don't say it, Scott. Not now, please!"

In the dining-room of a fashionable New York hotel Carol and Freda were having luncheon together. It was a cool and dignified setting which gave no hint of the bedlam and heat on the streets outside. The music was soft and the waiters moved discreetly among the tables. Carol, wearning an absurd little white hat on her fair head welcomed the anonymity of the faces about her almost as much as she had welcomed the recent pleasant time with Freda whose sleek dark hair was almost hidden beneath a wide-brimmed, red hat.

They had been in New York four days together after Freda had seen young Ian in camp and had joined her. Only by direct questioning did Carol learn that Johnny Downs, after the scene at the Williams' party, had gone to a Clinton hotel for two days and that only after Dee's tearful pleading and her promise to apologize to Carol had he agreed to return home. The ugliness of the domestic upheavel made Carol ill and ashamed and filled her with a dread of returning to Clinton again. To her Dee's apology would be to add insult to injury. Who were her friends now?

Freda, lighting a cigarette, smiled. "There's a man behind you who doesn't know what he's eating for looking at you. You can't very well turn around and see."

Carol's eyes quickened. Clive? "Is he—".

Freda shook her head. "No, dear. It isn't the ship chap you were telling me about. It couldn't be. This man isn't good-looking enough. Speaking of the ship chap, why don't you let him know you're here?"

Well, why not? she thought recklessly. But she shook her head. "I'd have to get the next train home."

Freda shrugged nervously. "Well, if that's the way you feel ...I'm wondering if young Ian is going to be happy in that camp this Summer. When I said goodbye to him, I was the brave little mother. I wanted to weep. He looked so little and alone. If I had been wearing an apron, I'd have tied him to the strings and brought him home. This is his first fling at independence and being on his own. I've got to learn how to give him up. I keep thinking about the boys who will go into the camps for training.

"You think that motherhood is a training of children. It is also a stiff training for women in learning how to give up. It's so easy to talk courage and so hard to live it." She chuckled. "The man behind you! incidentally, is still looking at you as if you were his long lost daughter. You'll see him when we leave and you won't be particularly flattered, darling.

"Oh, I wish you'd let Clive what's-his-name know you're here. I'd like to meet him. I'd like for you to have a beau in New York. It's terribly exciting to be in love here. The places and the music you never forget. When I tell young Ian that I fell in love with his father over music it will sound horribly old-fashioned to him; he'll think it's terribly funny. The youngsters today think that theirs is the only kind of love that has ever been. I'd like to impress young Ian with the fact that human nature doesn't change. Only fashions in love change."

Carol said, "People change, Freda."

"You mean people go off on tangents. Have you ever wondered what made you buy a certain hat and how in heaven's name you ever thought a certain dress was lovely when you bought it? People change when they're young and when their tastes are not yet fully developed. But a man or woman over thirty doesn't change—inside. A woman may change the color of her hair and lose fifty pounds, but her character and personality and desires remain the same.

"I think one of the secrets of making a man happy is not trying to change him." Freda smiled. "I've never told anyone this before, but as long as Ian and I have been married, he has gone somewhere on Saturday afternoon. I don't know where and I've never questioned him. How did I get in on this? Have you finished your coffee?"

As they rose and turned Carol saw a man at a near-by table jump up. It was short, old Cornelius Weger, the Detroit tycoon, whom she had met on the cruise. His thick, gray hair was smoothly brushed, his gray suit fitted perfectly. His brown eyes expressed delight as they glanced back and forth from Freda to Carol.

"Well...well!" he cried. "This is a surprise! This is fine, seeing you again." He laughed the strained, too-youthful laugh.

After he was introduced to Freda he said anxiously, "You mustn't run off. Won't you join me?"

Carol said, "Thank you, but I'm afraid we can't. We have an appointment."

"Where are you staying?" then to Freda: "I'm not going to let her get away from me this time."

Freda said, "I'll help you." She told him where they were staying.

Dress of British Parliamentarians Never Shabbier Than at Present

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 10—(CP)—Parliament never was shabbier. Britain is said to be the home of the best in men's fashions but the 640 Commons members, supposed to be representative, are a tailor's nightmare. Prime Minister Attlee, who has kept his figure, could wear a good suit with grace; instead, his sombre blacks usually looks as if he had slept in them.

Winston Churchill, an immaculate cavalryman in the distant past, gives the impression that if he had hair it would be rumpled. He is one of the few who favors a bow tie, a hand-knotted affair that is neat and becoming. But he doesn't give any more satisfaction to the sartorial eye than Attlee, especially when he huddles in an overcoat when the House is cold.

What—even Eden?

Anthony Eden once was regarded as the soul of political fashion and bright young men hoping to do well in the foreign service went and bought Homburg hats just like his. He still is smart but he proposes to set no new fashions. He studiously follows the uniform of the business man — a dark jacket and striped pants, with a black tie and white collar.

Most of the Labor backbenchers go in for unimpressive, often baggy, suits, and flannels and sweaters with sports coats flourish on all sides of the House.

A thin black line of back-bench Conservatives, young men getting along nicely in business or the professions, dress just like Eden. But this element is outnumberer. by the conservative farmers, engineers, airmen and professors who dress in the manner most comfortable and in full conformity with austerity clothes-rationing.

The 20 women who sit in Parliament almost every day are an example to their brothers. Mrs. Florence Paton, Labor member for Rushcliffe, who recently made history by sitting as a committee chairman, appeared for that duty in a smart black suit with a bright red sweater and a briskly-tilted hat with a jaunty feather.

This Woman Is Delighted With Results Syntona Gave

Gratefully Tells of Relief From Stomach Disorders, Dizzy Spells, Headaches, and Rundown Condition. "All the Aches and Pains Are Gone," She Says.

MRS. LAVINA MARA

"I am so pleased with the good results Syntona has brought to me I will gladly recommend this medicine to any person who suffers as I did," said Mrs. Lavina Mara, Ilderton, Ont., in a recent interview.

"In the past year my entire system felt badly rundown. I had indigestion very bad and never enjoyed my meals because afterward I would bloat up with gas and have awful pain in the pit of my stomach. I would get cramps, heartburn and acid risings, which gave me a full, heavy feeling in my chest. I was subject to dizzy spells and throbbing headaches, my back felt lame and sore and rheumatic pains settled in my limbs, joints and muscles. I became very nervous. My sleep was not at all restful, so I usually felt tired out from the time I awakened in the mornings.

"I had read about Syntona and heard many people talk about the good results others were getting, so I finally decided to try some. After taking it a while I was really surprised how much better I felt. I got some more and continued using it and now I can truthfully say I am feeling like a new woman.

"I relish all my meals with no trouble afterward from gas, indigestion or heartburn. The dizziness and headaches and all the aches and pains have cleared up. Now my nerves are relaxed so I enjoy sound, restful sleep and feel so much better in every way."

Syntona is made from 12 of Nature's finest herbs and roots. It is pleasant to take and many people say that after taking it only a short time the whole system feels built up and improved.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

U.S. Asks Russ Aid To Restore Korean Independence

Marshall in Letter Outlines Steps for Co-operation

Moscow, April 11 (AP)—State Secretary Marshall called on Russia today to co-operate with the United States in restoring the independence of Korea as soon as possible and warned that, in the meantime, the United States intends to go ahead with independence measures in her zone.

Marshall made public a letter to foreign minister Molotov in which he asked Russian co-operation in Korea.

1. That the Soviet Union and the United States agree to reconvene their joint commission in Korea "on the basis of respect for the democratic right of freedom of opinion" with the purpose of evolving and solving measures for Korean independence.

2. That a date be fixed during the summer of 1947 for a review by the Washington and Moscow governments of the commission's work.

Marshall then told Molotov:

"In the meantime the United States, mindful of its obligations sees no alternative to taking, without further delay, such steps in its zone as will advance the purposes of that agreement."

The Moscow agreement to which Marshall referred was reached at the conference here, in December, 1945, and provided for the establishment of a joint American-Russian commission to work out plans for instituting a provisional Korean government as the first step toward Korean independence.

The commission broke down completely in May 1946, when Soviet and American members failed to agree on what constituted "democratic parties and social organizations which should be heard in Korean political issues.

Henry Ford Buried On Farm Where He Was Born

Detroit, April 11 —(AP)— Henry Ford lay buried today beneath a scyamore tree that shaded his childhood days on the farm where he was born.

Hard by his simple plot of fresh-dug earth, the vast River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company roared to life at midnight, its thundering assembly lines an impressive tribute to his name.

It had been closed since midnight Wednesday out of respect to his death Monday at the age of 83.

Thousands of persons stood in reverent silence beneath leaden skies outside of St. Paul's Cathedray during the funeral service yesterday.

Police said the crowd numbered 7,000 to 10,000.

Another 2,000 jammed the dim interior of the cathedral.

In Detroit, factories halted production, vehicles were braked to a stop and church bells alone broke the silence of a city mourning her most famous citizen.

Mrs. Clara Bryant Ford, who was with her husband when he died, walked steadily in and out of the cathedral.

She and Ford were to have celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary today, on her 80th birthday.

She spent a few moments with him at the funeral home before the casket was sealed and brought to the cathedral two hours in advance of services because of the crowd.

In the brief 30-minute service, Dean Kirk B. O'Ferrall, a close friend of Ford's, extolled him as a simple man who disliked "ostentation and pomp."

Simple Funeral Rites for Late Primate Owen

By WILLIAM BOSS

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — The simple funeral rites of the Church of England, with no address of eulogy, will bring to an earthly close tomorrow the long association between the late Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen of Toronto and the Church of England in Canada, of which he was the Primate. Archbishop Owen died Wednesday after a heart seizure in his office. He was 70.

By the wishes of the family, there will be no departure, in his Cathedral of St. James or at the graveside, from the prescribed services, which will be conducted at 2 p.m. by Most Rev. W. R. Adams, Archbishop of Kootenay and Senior Metropolitan of the church. They will be broadcast over a C.B.C. national network.

The body is being taken to the Cathedral today, where it will lie in state from noon until 10 p.m. Thousands of Torontonians and prelates and officials of the Anglican Church in the Dominion are expected to file past the bier and to linger in the austere edifice to pray. The lying-in-state is to continue Saturday morning between nine a.m. and noon.

The public, together with official representatives of church and state, will be admitted to the Cathedral for the brief, moving ceremonies at 1.30 p.m., while the clergy will simultaneously file into the chancel after robing in the nearby Parish Hall.

Burial will follow in St. John's Cemetery at nearby York Mills.

700 Dock Workers Decide to Strike Out of Sympathy

London, April 11. (Reuters)— Seven hundred London dock workers decided today to strike Monday in sympathy with Glasgow dock workers who walked out 19 days ago in protest against dismissal of 500 men described as redundant or surplus.

The decision endorsed a resolution by the unofficial London Central Port Workers' Defence Committee—which claims to represent 24,000 London dock workers—despite efforts of officials of the Transport and General Workers Union to stop the strike.

The strike will be called off if Labor Minister Isaacs agrees in the meantime to discuss the redundancy issue, but meetings of dock workers at other London docks were to be held today to consider the strike resolution.

(Michael Byrne, secretary of the Glasgow men, said in Glasgow that reinstatement of the dismissed men would be a necessary preliminary to any resumption of work.

(Glasgow workers, he said, were ready for an impartial inquiry and would abide by any decision.)

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, April 11—(CP)—Synopsis: The storm centre which wrought much havoc over the Southwestern Mississippi Valley on Thursday has weakened as it has moved northeastward and this morning it lies over Wisconsin. Ahead of this disturbance warm air from the Mississippi valley is sweeping over Southern Ontario raising temperatures as much as 15 degrees. Colder air with below freezing temperatures covers most of Northern Ontario and snow is falling in the White River region. As the storm centre moves northeastward into Quebec this cold air will move southward into the Great Lakes region and will cover all of Ontario by Saturday morning.

48-HOUR CURFEW IMPOSED AFTER STABBING AFFRAY

Mixed Hindu, Moslem Locality in Old Delhi Scene of Bitter Feuds Over Privileges

New Delhi, April 11—(Reuters) —A 48-hour curfew was imposed today on about one-quarter of a square mile of a mixed Hindu and Moslem locality in the old city of Delhi after a standing incident last night.

The curfew which ends at 11 a.m. Sunday will be relaxed for two hours tomorrow to enable residents to buy daily necessities.

In the rest of old Delhi a curfew is in force from 9 p. m. to 5 a. m. until Monday.

Defence Secretary G. S. Bhalja told the Central Assembly today that "so long as British troops are on the Indian establishment they must clearly be available for any purpose for which troops have to be used, including maintenance of public order."

He was replying to a Moslem League member, Ahmed Jaffer, who protested the use of British troops to quell communal disturbances.

Jaffer asked whether the government would consider the desirability of issuing orders that only Indian troops should be used for this purpose.

Bhalja replied: "There is no special desire to use British troops but the matter is in the discretion of the local commander, and as this House is aware British troops will remain in this country only for a short time."

Federal Govt. Likely to Raise Contribution

Ottawa, April 11 (CP)—Informed sources in Ottawa said last night they believed that the old age pension legislation the government plans to bring down at the current session of parliament will provide for a federal contribution of $10 to the various provincial pensions in place of the $5 Dominion bonus now being paid.

Government quarters have indicated that no old age pension legislation will be brought down until parliament deals with important control legislation, probably late in May.

It is known, however, that one of the control measures will continue the wartime order-in-council by which the Dominion contributed a $5 supplement to provincial pensions, bringing most of them up from $20 to $25 In some cases the provinces instituted bonuses of their own, bringing the figure to $30.

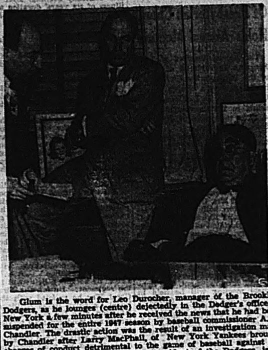
It is believed that the old age Pension Act to be introduced later will boost the federal contribution permanently to $10 and possibly widen the scope of those eligible for such pensioners. The wartime order-in-council providing the $5 Dominion contribution could be rescinded when the act was endorsed by parliament.

STUDY SUBWAYS IN BRITAIN, CONTINENT

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Primarily concerned with subways, two Toronto Transportation Commission officials will leave here Monday for a six weeks' tour of Great Britain and European capitals.

A visit to Moscow is also projected, if Soviet permission is granted, to study the Moscow subway.

AS THE "LIP" GOT THE BAD NEWS



Glum is the word for Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, as he lounges (centre) dejectedly in the Dodger's office in New York a few minutes after he received the news that he had been suspended for the entire 1947 season by baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler. The drastic action was the result of an investigation made by Chandler after Larry MacPhail, of New York Yankees brought charges of conduct detrimental to the game of baseball against the Brooklyn manager. Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, is at right, while a reporter at left tries to get a comment from both.

FIELD KITCHENS BEING SET UP IN TORNADO AREA

132 Counted Dead in Zone and the Injured Estimated at 1,305

Woodward, Okla. April 11 (AP) —The tornado-lashed panhandle area of Texas and Oklahoma counted its known dead at 132 and estimated the injured at 1,305 s rescue crews still searched for additional casualties in the ruins of the hardest-hit towns.

The property loss, inflicted on the rich cattle and [illegible] area by the violent winds of Wednesday night and early Thursday, ran into millions of dollars.

Field kitchens, emergency stations and other facilities were set up to care for thousands of homeless.

This was the casualty toll as listed by the Red Cross: Woodward, 85 dead, 1,000 or more injured; Glazier, Tex. 13 dead, 40 injured; White Horse, Okla., none dead, 30 injured, Gray County, Tex., none dead, three injured.

Woodward, where 100 blocks of buildings were levelled, had more than 2,000 homeless out of a population of 5,500. Many of them were being cared for by residents whose homes still were intact.

Property Loss Heavy

Property loss here was estimated at more than $5,000,000 by Alex Giesmar, Vice-President of a Woodward bank.

Bodies of some of the victims were badly battered, attesting to the ferocity of the storm. Clothing was ripped from many of the dead. Identification proceeded slowly because of the disfigured bodies.

Clyde Grim, 57, of Woodward, who was injured gave this description of the storm:

"It sounded like the roar of a freight train. We didn't even know it was coming. The wind blew us outside to the ground. My wife is a Pentecostal. I remember the last I heard her saying was some Bible verses. She was praying.

"There were cars everywhere. Some were blown straight up on end, against things. People were running around. Everybody was excited and screaming. It was awful."

Grim's wife was listed as dead.

U.K. Likely to Import Steel From Canada After Return to Normal

London, April 11 (CP)—Harold Wilson, Secretary for Overseas Trade, said in the Commons that Britain, when she returns to normal, probably will be importing steel from Canada instead of exporting, apart from special types of finished steel.

He was answering F. J. Errol, Conservative member for Altrincham, who asked whether instructions would be given steel firms to increase their allocations to dollar-paying countries instead of sending their products to soft currency areas.

Wilson said the question of allocation or sending supplies especially to Canada "has been very much considered."

In February, Canada sold more iron and steel to Britain than any other country—19,981 tons worth £547,000 ($2,188,000) against a monthly average of 9,781 tons in 1938, when shipments for two months valued £200,000.

THOMAS GIBBONS JUDGED INSANE AT MURDER TRIAL

Will be Confined to a Mental Hospital for the Rest of His Life

Pembroke, April 11 — (CP) — Removed from the shadow of the gallows where he once was sentenced to be hanged, Thomas Gibbons, towering, 49-year-old Renfrew district farmer, will be committed to a mental hospital for the remainder of his life, thus closing the case of the [illegible] shooting murder of Joseph and John Fitzmaurice, his cousins.

At the close of Gibbons' third trial, yesterday an Ontario Supreme Court jury, after 40 minutes' deliberation, returned a verdict of "not guilty by reason of insanity" on a charge that the farmer had shot and killed Joseph Fitzmaurice Feb. 1, 1946.

Gibbons, in an uncontested statement to police following his arrest, admitted shooting both Joseph and John with a high-powered rifle on a snow-choked winter road as the climax to a long-standing controversy between his cousins and himself over use of the road running through the farmer's Admaston township farm. He was tried only for the murder of Joseph and it was indicated the other count will not be pressed.

Sentenced to Hang

Gibbons was sentenced to hang at the conclusion of his first trial about a year ago but successfully appealed. His second trial, at which he was adjudged sane to face the charge, was finally called off due to the absence of one of the chief witnesses.

Gibbons, who displayed little emotion during the trial, remained calm when jury foreman William Stewart, Arnprior electrician, announced the verdict. But later, after being ordered held in custody at the pleasure of the Lieutenant - Governor, Gibbons shook hands with a number of the jurymen and, with tears in his eyes, thanked them for their "wonderful verdict."

Seek Identity Of Hitch Hiker Burned in Crash

Cornwall, April 11 —(CP)— Provincial Police here continued their investigation today to determine the identity of a young hitch hiker burned to death in an automobile transport crash near here yesterday.

The youth was a passenger on the transport driven by Cameron Leslie of Oshawa, which crashed into a tree near Lancaster and burst into flames. Both the driver and his passenger died in the fire.

The youth is believed to be about 18 years of age, English speaking, weighing about 130 pounds and five feet seven inches tall.

He got on board the truck at St. Zotique, Que., and told villagers that he was going to Kingston to join a ship. Only positive identification that could be obtained from the charred body was the fact that an upper incisor tooth was missing.

Disclosed Russia Tried to Launch Bulgaria Against Turkey in 1941

Istanbul, April 11 — (AP)—An editorial in Ulus, official newspaper of the reigning People's party, asserted today that Russia attempted in 1941 to launch Bulgaria against Turkey with a promise of Turkish Thrace.

The writer, Nihat Erim, said Adolf Hitler wrote President Ismet Inonu that Germany would not attack Turkey and that Turkey informed England of a proposed non-aggression treaty with the Reich.

The asserted disclosures came at a moment when most quarters in Ankara were urging the government to publish a white paper telling of Turkey's full role in the war. The country was becoming more and more sensitive toward criticism from abroad about her war role.

Erim wrote that the British-Turkish-French alliance of 1939 contained a secret clause for Britain to give Turkey $100,000,000 worth of military equipment. He said Turkey did not press for the equipment because of British "difficulties" brought on by the outbreak of the war.

"Turkey was a big problem for Germany as long as the war was in the defensive stage but, once in a counter-attack, she would certainly let her armies go through Turkey to the south and east to the Caucasus," Erim wrote. Considering this probability, Turkey advised Britain of the facts and then signed the agreement with Germany on June 18, 1941.

MUST BE SPIRIT OF GIVE AND TAKE SAYS WILGRESS

Retiring Ambassador To Russia Addresses International Trade Conference

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Geneva, April 11 — (CP) — Dana Wilgress today told the International Trade Conference here that the proposed International Trade Organization is the keystone to the arch of international economic co-operation and there must be a spirit of "give and take and mutual readiness to accept sacrifices" in working toward this goal.

Wilgress, retiring Ambassador to Russia and leader of the 24-member Canadian delegation to the conference, added:

"All forms of co-operation between nations conflict to some degree with sovereignty. This is so when any two countries conclude any sort of an agreement with one another. The world is becoming smaller as new forms of transport are developed and each decade increases the complications in international relations."

Difficult to Exaggerate

Wilgress said it was difficult to exaggerate the importance to the world of an International Trade Organization.

"It will play its part in the field of trade comparable to that played by other specialized agencies of the United Nations in other branches of international economic co-operation. It is intended to keystone to the arch of international economic co-operation without which the two bases—the International monetary fund and the international bank for reconstruction and development — would be left incomplete and unable to fulfill effectively the functions for which they were established."

It was with these thoughts in mind that Wilgress went on to say that the Canadian delegation was anxious to make its full contribution toward the success of the conference.

Great Responsibility

"This is the unequivocal mandate which we have received from our government," he said, adding that a great responsibility was placed upon the countries represented at the conference.

Already, Wilgress said, there was great encouragement to be found in the large measure of success achieved so far in the first session held in London at the end of last year.

"This stage will not be an easy one. There are further obstacles ahead. The Canadian delegation is confident that these obstacles, too, will be surmounted successfully if we continue to apply to our task the same determination and spirit of compromise and goodwill which characterized the proceedings of this committee up to now."

Remove Aged Spinster From Littered Home

Philadelphia, April 11 —(AP) —An 82-year-old spinster has been removed from her rubbish-littered Philadelphia home by court order because city officials say they want to part of a "Collyer incident here."

They had reference to the two New York recluses, Langley and Homer Collyer, whose bodies were found in the Harlem house where they lived alone for decades.

Magistrate Jacob Dogole, after a hearing held in the ramshackle house where Miss Anna Quinn has lived alone for approximately 25 years, ordered her committed to Philadelphia General Hospital until a guardian can be named for her.

Violence Flares When Non-Striker Attacks Pickets

600 Workers of Moffat Company at Weston Idle

Toronto, April 11. (CP) — Violence flare early today at the Moffat Company plant in nearby Weston, where 600 workers are on strike for higher wages, when a non-striker charged the picket line allegedly armed with an improvised blackjack.

Keith Ross, president of the United Steel Workers of America, Local 3129, who reported the fracas, said none was seriously injured but several workers were cut in the fray.

The strike, which the company said was called in defiance of a "no strike" pledge in a contract effective until next Nov. 26, started last night after the company turned down a Union demand for a 13 1-2-cents-an-hour wage increase and statutory holidays with pay.

"Our reasons for calling a strike are, first, that the company reduced incentive rates in violation of the agreements last year thereby largely wiping out the wage increases obtained by collective bargaining, and, second, the company refused to bargain in good faith in accordance with a clause in the agreement which provides for re-opening of wage discussions during the life of the contract," said Pat O'Donovan, an international representative of the C.I.O.-Affiliated Union.

Company spokesman said the Union made no effort to negotiate the wage demands and the company refused to consider a demand based on an ultimatum—a 13 1-2-cent boost or a strike.

Abduction Charge Withdrawn In Police Court

Kitchener, Ont., April 11 (CP) —A charge that Mark T. McKee, Michigan Airlines Executive, abducted his own six-year-old son Terry was withdrawn in Magistrate's Court today with the consent of the boy's mother, McKee's divorced wife, who is waging a legal battle for custody of the child.

The mother yesterday applied for leave to appeal against a ruling by Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smiley that custody is to be determined by a trial in Ontario Supreme Court about April 21. If the application, to be argued in Toronto next Tuesday, is granted, the custody trial is expected to be postponed indefinitely.

Mrs. Evelyn McKee, said to be socially prominent in California, claims a California court awarded her custody of the boy, who with his father has been living in Kitchener since last December with distant relatives.

Besides laying the abduction charge against her ex-husband, who owns a newspaper in Mount Clemens, Mich., Mrs. McKee took out a writ of habeas corpus which required the child to be made available to a court. The child was not brought into court but McKee satisfied a judge the boy was available.

U.S. WINTER WHEAT CROP

Washington, April 11 (CP) — The United States Agriculture Department yesterday forecast a record winter wheat crop of 973,047,000 bushels, based upon crop conditions April 1. This estimate compared with a forecast of about 947,000,000 made last December after the crop had been planted. The previous record crop was 873,893,000 harvested last year.

Doctors Find Clue on How to Stop Excessive Bleeding of A-Bomb Victims

Washington, April 11 —(AP)— Two Chicago doctors may have found a clue to one of medicine's mysteries:

How to stop excessive bleeding of atomic bomb victims.

Dr. J. Garrott Allen and L. O. Jacobson of the University of Chicago reported their findings today in the magazine Science.

This is the problem:

Anyone exposed to too great radiation may have a haemorrhage. His blood vessels may break down, and his blood may refuse to clot.

At death, he may show extensive haemorrhages in all organs of his body.

Drs. Allen and Jacobson, in experiments performed on a dog, found that in dogs which had been exposed to radiation, a substance "indistinguishable from heparin," — which keeps the blood from clotting properly— was found.

To offset the heparin, an anticoagulant, they introduced into the dog's blood a dye called toluidine blue.

At one point the dog's blood did not coagulate for more than 48 hours. When toluidine blue was injected, the clotting time was reduced to normal within 20 minutes.

The doctors said their studies were only preliminary.

Duck Lays Egg On Canada House

London, April 11 (CP). — A wild duck has laid an egg in a roof-top flower box at Canada House and Housekeeper George Cope said he never had heard of a similar case in busy Trafalgar Square. Cope predicted the bird would be back to lay another egg.

The housekeeper said the squatter completed her nest two days ago, laid an egg and likely will return because two eggs are usual for ducks.

Strike Leaders Want Meeting With Company

Washington, April 11 (AP) — Telephone strike leaders today asked an immediate, face-to-face meeting with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the United States Labor Department—with reporters on hand to report it.

If this is refused, the Union proposed to go to President Truman with "our complete story."

This is the gist of a double-barreled "memorandum" addressed to Labor Secretary Schwellenbach by the policy committee of the National Federation of Telephone Workers.

The proposal came as gloom gathered over the strike negotiations. Earlier hopes of federal conciliators for a speedy settlement were dampened last night when a "final offer of A.T. & T's long distance division got a chill reception from the policy panel.

Joseph A. Beirne, N.F.T.W. President, said the company proposal covering "long-lines" workers—only 20,000 of the 320,000 strikers, but a strategic group—did not conform to Union policy.

Union officials said the intent of the memorandum is to get the parent corporation into the National bargaining directly. Thus far, local Bell system companies and A.T & T. divisions have been negotiating independently with N.F.T.W.'s 30 affiliated Unions in the demands for a $12 weekly increase and other concessions.

Beirne was known to have informed his fellow policy-makers, behind committee-room doors, that he for one was ready to fight this issue out even if the strike "goes on for 40, 50 or 60 days."

Richard Haled Before President Of Hockey Loop

Montreal, April 11 (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens was called before President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League today to explain his stick swinging in the Stanley Cup game against Toronto Maple Leafs last night but after a 40-minute conference the League President indicated he would have no announcement to make for at least several hours.

The Rocket, banished in the second period of the game, won 4-0 by Toronto, after twice opening cuts on Toronto players' heads appeared before Campbell accompanied by Senator Donat Raymond, President of the Canadien Club.

Earlier, referee Bill Chadwick, who banished the fiery Canadien right wing for five minutes for flooring rookie Vic Lynn and then put him out of the game for cracking Bill Ezinicki, had conferred with the league president.

There was no immediate indication of what was said at either conference.

C.N.R. Veterans Hear Dr. Walters On Vimy Night

Members of the Canadian National Railways War Veterans Association observed "Vimy Night" on Thursday with the view of not conflicting with observance of the day by other local organizations. The meeting was held at the Hotel Quinte with the president Harper McElrath, in the chair.

Dr. Austin Walters, chairman of the local medical association, was the guest speaker and graciously thanked members of the organization for cigarettes received while in the armed forces.

The speaker gave a very colorful description of Vimy Ridge as it appeared on April 9th, 1945, when the entire Canadian Corps, wearing their full regimental flashes congregated in remembrance of those who gave their lives in 1914 and 1918. Interesting pictures of the Memorial as it stood in 1945 were also shown, these showing the Memorial undamaged with the exception of a small chip of stone.

Harry Thibault introduced the speaker with Albert Jones, expressing the appreciation of the Vets.

Harry Foote, as master of ceremonies, had charge of the musical program and presented A. Cooper with five of his senior bandsmen — Billy Shaw, Don Charlton, Mac Doucette, Barrie Cornish and Gordon Williamson. Several numbers were played with Jack Winstanley at the piano.

Guests at the meeting included William McKenna, president of the Army and Navy Veterans, and Roy Madden, of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

Christ Church A.Y.P.A.

The regular meeting of the Christ Church A.Y.P.A. was held Wednesday evening in the form of a Spring dance with the program being in charge of Fellowship Leader Alice Matthews. Partners for the first dance were chosen in a novel manner as the girls placed their right shoes in the centre of the floor with the boys picking a shoe and dancing with the owner. Violet Noakes and Orval Reynolds won the elimination dance, while Ed. Waterhouse and Barbara Theobald went well at jitterbugging.

Following the dancing, refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, cake and chocolate milk were enjoyed with President Ed. Waterhouse closing the evening with an expression of thanks to Fellowship Leader Miss Alice Matthews, to those bringing refreshments and others who assisted in necessary arrangements.

Council in Committee Asks Memorial Rink Commission For Report From Ice Company

The Canadian Ice Machine Company of Toronto will be asked when the city can be assured of their commencing to install the ice plant in the Memorial Arena, it was decided by council at their committee meeting Thursday evening.

With still no move locally by the company to install the ice plant as agreed to in the contract, council last night voted that the rink committee bring in a definite report from the Canadian Ice Machine Company as to when they intend to install the plant.

The council will request permission from the Parks Board to erect the proposed incinerator on Zwick's Island according to plans and specifications submitted by the planning engineers Meadows and Critoph.

Five building lots on Benjamin Street were recommended sold to veterans of the last war at $1 each with a lot on St. Charles Street also being sold to a veteran. All lots were recommended sold with the usual building covenant.

Purchase New Beds

Ten new beds and springs will be purchased for the fire department. Alderman Hyde and Harvey, with the city engineer and comptroller were appointed a committee to interview the Public Utilities Commission regarding the balance of the McFarland Construction Company Account. Street cleaning from roadways and pavements will be dumped on city owned lots which need filling.

The application of E. Fitzgibbon, 18 Ridley St., for permission to install a private gasoline pump was recommended granted, but councillors served notice that they intend in the future to exercise greater control over the installation of such pumps when they recommended that the city solicitor prepare a by-law amending the present by-law regarding such installation so the city may have jurisdiction in the matter.

A committee of Alderman Harvey and Armstrong with the city engineer was appointed a committee to investigate the request of the Belleville Shrine Club regarding the connection of their property on Highland Ave., to a sewer on Willard Street.

The chairman of finance was instructed by council recommendation to request from the Department of Municipal Affairs permission to secure from the sinking fund surplus a sum sufficient to pay the deficit owing on the gas plant operation for 1946.

Legion Proposes Holding Polish Veterans Night

Increasing interest in the Belleville branch of the Canadian Legion by ex-servicemen and women is evidenced in the fact that during the past three meetings a total of 134 members, including nine ex-service women have been initiated. Thirty-eight veterans and two women joined on Tuesday night of this week President Angus Duffy was in the chair.

D. A. Ferguson, Legion Service Bureau Officer of Kingston advised the membership regarding the new pension legislation, pension adjustment, and War Veterans' allowance. Following the address, several veterans queried the speaker on various matters.

Following the report of Comrade Roy Madden on the activities of the building committee and plans to finance the proposed building project, a report was given regarding the Polish Veterans' Night when all Polish veterans in the district will be welcomed and entertained by the branch. It is expected that twenty-five guests will be in attendance.

Comrade Frank Gardner, Zone Commander for this area, announced a zone rally to be held in the near future at which a large number of delegates from branches in this district will be present. The Peterborough Zone Commander will be the guest speaker.

On Wednesday night, the branch sponsored a Vimy Night smoker. A large number of members attended and enjoyed games, cards music and refreshments.

High River Water Floods Some Foxboro Homes

With its current swollen greatly by melted snow from the northern part of the county, the Moira River is now the highest which has been experienced in the Foxboro district in many years, it was reported by a resident of that village this morning.

Several residences south of the village between the highway and the river have been inundated with one resident having a boat tied up to his back porch. Others are forced to wear high rubber boots to get from their homes to the highway.

Although the water has risen to the shoulder of the road in several low sections, the highway has not yet been flooded and residents report the water has not risen any in the past 48 hours. However, the river road between Fairfield's Bridge and Corbyville, is reported to be under water in several places.

NO DAMAGE WHEN HORSE RUNS AWAY

Moira Street residents were given a brief thrill this morning at the sight of a delivery horse hitched to a Harris bread wagon dashing madly down the street. The horse had apparently become frightened at some object while the driver was making a delivery at a nearby house. Very little damage was reported as result of the runaway as the horse was stopped before any collision resulted.

Red Dictatorship Held by Roosevelt In 1941 Less Dangerous Than Hitler's

Washington, April 11 (AP). — President Roosevelt wrote Pope Pius XII on Sept. 3, 1941, that Russia's dictatorship was less dangerous to humanity that Hitler's a newly published book disclosed today.

The volume also says that the United States learned six months in advance of Hitler's plan to attack Russia, and promptly notified Moscow.

The book, published by the Macmillan Company, is entitled "Wartime correspondence between President Roosevelt and Pope Pius XII."

Myron C. Taylor, Presidential representative to the Vatican, has written the introduction and explanatory notes.

Because of Communist denial of religion, Taylor says in his notes, the question of aiding Russia was a problem "not only for governments and nations, but for all churches. This was true in a special way for Americans of Catholic faith, who were aware of the encyclical issued by Pope Pius XI in 1922, which contained a broad condemnation of atheistic communism." Consequently it was thought important to get a Washington-Vatican exchange of opinion.

Germany More Dangerous

President Roosevelt wrote: "In my opinion the fact is that Russia is governed by a dictatorship, as rigid in its manner of being as is the dictatorship of Germany. I believe, however, that the Russian dictatorship is less dangerous to the safety of other nations than is the German form of dictatorship.

"The only weapon," the late President continued, "which the Russian dictatorship uses outside of its own borders is Communist propaganda, which I, of course, recognize has in the past been utilized for the purpose of breaking down the form of government in other countries, religious belief, etc.

"Germany, however, not only has utilized, but is utilizing, this kind of propaganda as well, and has also undertaken the employment of every form of military aggression outside of its borders for the purpose of world conquest.

"I believe the survival of Russia is less dangerous to religion, to the Church as such and to humanity in general than would be the survival of German dictatorship.

"Furthermore, it is my belief that the leaders of all churches in the United States should recognize these facts clearly."

He expressed the hope that Russia would recognize religious freedom as a result of the war

Learned of Attack Plan

Taylor, in the notes, says the United States Government learned of Hitler's plan to attack Russia through intelligence reports both in January and March before the actual attack in June, 1941. The information was "promptly communicated to the Soviet Government."

The correspondence between the President and the Vatican started in December, 1939, when the President sought all possible aid to stem the spread of war. As early as February, 1940, President Roosevelt was considering four bases for peace, Taylor writes, and asked an expression of them from the people. He was thinking of: Freedom of religion, of communications, of trade among nations, and of reduction of arms.

Later, President Roosevelt wrote the Vatican of the "Four Freedoms" as he and Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime Prime Minister, had talked them over in the Atlantic meeting. He said of them: "I am convinced that such a rebirth of the moral sense of humanity can muster a force infinitely greater than that of a transient parade of arms with nothing behind it save the confusion and corruption of a group which has lost its spiritual values."

President Truman, in a short foreword, says that publication of the letters is "in the American tradition of open diplomacy. The record belongs to all who sought peace through victory and continue to seek the blessings of universal peace and security and well-being."

Leprosy Scourge Remains Acute Medical Issue

London, April 11 — (Reuters) —The dreaded scourge of leprosy is an insignificant social problem in Britain, but remains an acute medical one, the Lancet Journal of the medical profession, stated in a leading article yesterday.

Sensational press treatment of periodical cases of leprosy is based on the "unreasoning fear" that such cases are a social problem of the first magnitude and their immediate incarceration is imperative to public welfare, the Journal said.

"While leprosy is insignificant as a social problem in the British Isles, it remains an acute medical one. . . . Under the existing medieval attitude to the disease it is virtually impossible to admit a known or suspected case of leprosy to any British hospital or other institution except the one small voluntarily maintained leprosy colony in the south of England," the Lancet continued.

"This, together with the needless stigma traditionally attaching to the disease, renders the patient's plight indeed pitiful. Refused employment, ostracized by society and debarred from hospital facilities he loses the faith and hope which are essential for his recovery."

Estate Claimant Leaves for States To Press Claim

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Abervon Glamorgan, Wales, April 11 (CP)—Davids Needs, 45-year-old former coal miner and sailor will leave shortly for New York, determined to "overcome all obstacles" standing between himself—and 400 relatives—and a Manhattan "estate" estimated at $800,000,000 which the family claims as a rightful legacy.

The family has instituted legal Corporation in New York and the church's tenants for "recovery" of some of the most valuable real estate on Manhattan Island—in the downtown Broadway-Wall Street area.

("Fantastic!" commented Dr. F. S. Fleming, rector of Trinity Church, when told of the claims against the New York Parish. Dr. Fleming added: "Every banking house we do business with has approved our deeds and titles to the land. It has all been duly certified and has been approved by state courts on two previous occasions.")

Similar suits on behalf of persons claiming to be heirs of Robret Edwards, 18th century Welsh settled near the Hudson River's mouth, failed in 1925 and 1934 but Needs told reporters:

"It is our land. We are going after it and nothing shall stand in our way. A previous claim made in 1925 was abandoned because family funds ran out. That won't happen now. We are not short of money and will overcome all obstacles. I will leave for New York as soon as I am so instructed by our lawyers."

A geneologist advised Needs that workmen excavating a Brooklyn section several years ago found a document, claimed to be Edwards' will, which left the disputed lands to his brothers and sister, searching through records the genologist traced Needs as a "direct descendent of one of Edwards brothers" and told him of the possibility of "regaining" the legacy.

Splendid Stage Program Climaxes Spring Festival

"Hollywood Night" a colorful melodic melange of variety entertainment climaxed a highly successful three-night run of the Spring Festival at St. Michael's Academy Thursday night. Augmenting the stage show were several games, and dancing to the pleasing music of Bill Parry and his Serenaders, one of the city's newest and youngest dance bands.

Featuring clever artists from Trenton, the city and other parts of the district, the stage presentation, under the fine direction of master-of-ceremonies Clayton Maxwell, of the Trenton Rotary Club, drew the prolonged applause of the large crowd present. Providing the musical background for the various artists was the piano artistry of Lenna Alexander, Trenton, and a stage orchestra under the direction of Billy Grant. Members were Mr. Grant, drums; Mrs. Bill Grant, piano; Don LaFrance, violin; Walter Aselstine, trombone and saxophone; Bobby Young, saxophone; Jackie Fenn and Johnny Brian, trumpets.

The program opened with the orchestra offering the March "Imperator" and the "Waltz of the Bells." Followed a reading by Vivian Cannon, "Minding the Baby" and vocal offerings "Mammy's Lullaby" and the "Glow Worm" by Sharon and Bob Lucy.

Many Fine Acts

Other acts were: Cornet solos "The Rosary" and "My Hero" by Jackie Fenn; vocal, "You Keep Coming Back Like a Song" and "Danny Boy" by Bruce Ireland, Trenton; Sailors Hornpipe by Catherine and Mary Grant and Catherine Barrett; xylophone solos, "Humpty Dumpty" and "W. G. Special" written for Billy Grant by Reg. Hinchey, played by Catherine Grant; vocal "I'm Closing My Eyes," and "Gal in Calico" by Brennan Maxwell; orchestra and blackface "Swanee" and "Mammy" by Bob Lucy; song and dance "Putting on the Ritz" by Barbara Diment; tap dance, Barbara and Ronnie Donovan. The program closed with the orchestra playing "The Kilties." Miss Lenna Alexander played the piano accompaniment for the Trenton artists.

Monsignor Nicholson in a brief address expressed appreciation of the efforts of the artists and others who assisted in making the Festival the success it was.

Winner of the door prize, a set of dishes donated by the Walker Hardware, was Mr. Leonard Graham.

Two More Britons Fined, Overspent Allowance Abroad

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 11 (CP)—Existence of a continental black market in currency, financed unwittingly by British travellers who ran out of funds, was indicated today as two more persons were fined for exceeding their legal spending allowance abroad.

Sir Hamilton Westrow Hulse was fined £65 ($260) after he pleaded guilty to obtaining francs at Monte Carlo last August in return for cheque for £50.

Mrs. Mathilde Collins was fined £200 for obtaining francs in Paris last June in return for a cheque for £100. Yesterday Mrs. Edna Clayton was fined £100 for cashing a £50 cheque at Monte Carlo last year.

All three had been issued with £75 which is the maximum stirling travellers may take from Britain in one year. In each case cheques were made out to a Max Intrator now held in Paris on charges of illegal currency deals.

Intrator was not known personally to them. The defence in all three cases followed the same line: that Britons found the costs of a French holiday far more than they expected and, when their funds ran out, they were put in touch with Intrator.

Scores of similar prosecutions are said to be pending.

WHAT'S IN HEAD THAT COUNTS

Binghamton, N. Y., April 11 — (AP) — Women lawyers who plead before Judge Daniel J. McAvoy will do well to come hatless.

It's not an order, but a request, that women attorneys appear bareheaded, because, Judge McAvoy observed, "Some of the hats you see on women today are monstrosities."

The Portias took it well, but one pointed out "It's what's in the head that counts."

Big Decline Reported In Hog Slaughtering

Winnipeg, April 11 — (CP) — Canada slaughtered 8,766,400 hogs and exported 692,310,000 pounds of bacon and ham in 1944 for an all-time record against 4,244,500 head slaughtered and 273,607,400 pounds exported in 1946, R. J. Dinning, president of Burns and Company, said in his annual report released today.

(Inspected slaughterings in Canada for the first quarter of 1947 indicate slaughterings this year will be about 65.5 per cent of last year's.)

Princess Given Nugget of Gold

Aboard Royal Train, Rhodesia, April 11 — (Reuters) — A surprise was received by Princess Elizabeth at a Southern Rhodesian wayside halt yesterday — a nugget of gold as an advance 21st birthday gift.

On the station platform at the small town of Hartley, the chairman of the town management board handed her a small casket of silver and ivory lined with a rare local wood and surmounted by a gold nugget.

The Princess shook hands with and thanked the owner of the nugget, E. Elsmoor, who told her he found it while working the Blue Rock mine near Hartley in 1912.

Crowds cheered the Royal Family as they left Salisbury, Southern Rhodesian capital, yesterday on a 25-hour train trip to Victoria Falls, where they will rest for three days.

SCOTCH SCARCE IN BRITAIN

London, April 11 — (Reuters) —Imbibers of Scotch whisky face a drastic cut in their supplies this year as a result of a government decision to export 75 per cent of the total whisky output, according to a statement by the Scotch Whisky Association yesterday.

Most of the whisky would go to dollar countries is the Western Hemisphere, chiefly the United States, a spokesman said. Last year about 13,000,000 gallons were produced — compared with about 29,000,000 gallons in 1939. Britons would get approximately 25 per cent of the 1947 output.

YACHT SAFELY IN PORT

Newport Harbor, April 11 — (AP) — Actor Jimmy Cagney and a crew of two were safely in port today after his yacht was towed in by the Coast Guard from 14 miles out in the Pacific.

Fear for their safety had been expressed after the 125-foot auxillary schooner sent a distress call Wednesday afternoon.

Large Number Of Guerrillas Being Surrounded

Athens, April 11 (AP)—Unofficial sources estimated today that between 10,000 and 12,000 guerrillas were in the Pindus Mountain area between Thessaly and Epirus now being surrounded by government troops in an offensive begun Wednesday.

Earlier reports had put the number of guerrillas in the region at about 3,000.

Authorities reported today they had intercepted a guerrilla wireless message demanding urgent help and forecasting surrender if it were not forthcoming.

The conservative Athens newspaper Embros, in a dispatch from Trikkala in North Central Greece reported that the army's operations had exceeded the most optimistic expectations and that rocket firing aircraft were wreaking great havoc in guerrilla ranks.

The head of a British air mission was reported to have arrived yesterday at Volos on a gulf of the Aegean Sea east of the combat zone. Troops headquarters there denied a press report that 600 parachutists had dropped into the area.

The army meanwhile was reported to have captured its first objectives in the Pindus-mountain push.

Officers said yesterday that mobile units of the 2nd and 3rd army corps, supplied largely from the air, had taken Nevroupolis, 15 miles west of Karditsa in Thessaly, and Agrafa, to the south. On the west other government forces crossed the Achelos River in an effort to surround and wipe out the guerrillas.

Passing of a Religious Leader

An outstanding leader of the Church in Canada has passed in the unexpected death of the Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Archbishop of Toronto and Primate of the Church of England in Canada. His sudden death leaves a sense of irreparable loss which is felt not only by his own communion but by all religious denominations. Though he was known naturally most intimately by the members of his own Church, members of other communions felt that they too knew him very intimately and understood the high motives that governed his life.

The Primate was the spiritual head of 1,800,000 members of the Church of England in Canada. His life in the church covered forty-seven years of devotion to the work, years which left their impress indelibly upon the great communion to which he belonged. His gift of administration has been highly praised and his personable and gracious quiet manner impressed everyone with his sincerity and simplicity.

His knowledge of the history and life of the church were complete. He was a man of wide resources and possessed tact that served him and his work at all times. He was a man of deep devotion and never spared himself in the work of his high calling.

He stood in the front rank of churchmen and honored the cause of the religious life by his devoted service.

Canadians realize that in his death one of the great leaders in Canada and one of the most beloved Canadians who have labored to exalt the moral life and to serve the cause of the church and religion and the welfare of mankind, has gone.

Heads of all communions in their eulogies have praised his high idealism, his kindness and the influences which have come from his faithful life.

Tornado, Quake and Flood

Tragedy, disaster and accident in stories of tornado, earthquake, flood, fire, collision of vehicles on highways and other accidents in which humans figure stalked the front pages of Thursday's newspapers. News stories for weeks have been coming in of untoward weather conditions in North America, Britain and the rest of Northern Europe which have brought death, suffering, hardship, anxiety and inestimable losses during and following an unusual winter of heavy snowfall and the coming of spring with heavy rains. Rarely has there been anything like the recent-time glut of stories of this kind, of blockades of highways and districts from snowstorm and from rain, consequent shortage of fuel and food and suffering and hardship in North America and in Britain.

On top of these have come stories of disturbances of nature, a tornado which took many lives in Texas and Oklahoma, and caused heavy property loss and an earthquake which rocked Southern California but which fortunately according to early advices caused no loss of life and no serious damage to property. Floods have been prevalent in many parts of Southwestern Ontario. To add to these are the tragedies and other accidents too frequently resulting in death by fire in homes and by collisions and other forms of accident on the roads.

At a glance this might seem a very dangerous world to live in because in some parts nature does not behave in the orderly manner to which people in this part of the world are accustomed and may send destruction down upon unfortunate man. In our part of the world nature rarely ever gives way to violent outbreaks. For that the people are very happy. There are of course tragedies which happen right in the midst of scenes of quiet — such as the taking fire of a home often causing death and so often the death of children. Then there are those unfortunate events, highway accidents which so often have fatal results. Man's best security from accident of this sort and from fire is in acting with precaution at all times. Against accident on the street, carefulness is a safeguard everyone should always use.

Newspapers record the doings and happenings of life. That is why some times accident and tragedy seem so prominent in the news. And readers want all the news.

Treasured Memorials

One of the most treasured gifts in the world will be presented to the Governors of each of the forty-eight states of the American Union — a slab of stone from the British House of Commons wrecked on May 10th., 1941, by German bombs. On each memorial slab will be a lead plaque carrying the imprint of the Tudor Rose and the words: "This stone came from the Houses of Parliament." With it will come a letter from the Lord Mayor of London of the time, Sir Vincent Baddeley. The presentations will be made very soon by Eric Gordon Underwood, British publicist, who conceived the idea, and Charles Sumner Bird, president of the American and British Commonwealth Association, sponsoring the project.

The message of dedication these slabs of stone will bear runs as follows:

"May they bring to mind a thousand masterpieces of the language of Shakespeare, Milton, Burns and Lincoln, which, in immortal prose and verse, breathe the spirit of liberty. May they commemorate the valiant comradeship in arms of the men of the United States of America and the British Commonwealth of Nations victorious in two great wars against the powers of tyranny and darkness. May they help us to remember with gratitude those who, inspired by this age-old heritage, gave their lives that freedom might live."

Who can forget those immortal days when sore-tried Britain was fighting the battle of the world of freedom against Hitler! It was in the period of the struggle to which Mr. Churchill referred as "Britain's finest hour." At that time as ever Britain was standing staunch and true to principle, bearing a world's burden with heavy losses and with suffering but without murmur. German bombs struck at the Houses of Parliament, the crade of British Liberty and caused extensive damage.

During this time of greatest peril, it will be remembered, President Roosevelt of the United States gave the magnificent aid of ships and weapons to Britain, which will occupy a place in the records of the two free nations and of liberty forever.

These stones are hallowed by the sacrifice of noble men and the heroism of noble women who held the light of civilization aloft when all the world seemed darkening in Nazi night.

While Britain was fighting this battle of humanity, Germany's Hitler had gigantic, massive dreams of a victory monument to his own glory in Berlin. His plans called for the largest building to tell of his expected victory, he gave orders for the granite in Sweden to have all in readiness. Today that granite has no mark of Hitler upon it, for the mad dream of the Fuehrer faded and his empire of blood and iron disappeared as Allied troops took possession of Germany. The very stones that were to tell the world a thousand years hence how great a man Hitler was are now turned to another purpose, something worthwhile, instead of memoralizing an aggressor.

But the stones of the British Houses of Parliament are precious, they are associated with the great fact in history, that freedom was saved through devoted men and women whom these stones represent. These stones will have a significance lasting into the future, it is believed forever, because they are symbols of the solidarity of British-American relations.

Symphonies During Work

Australian factory workers may soon be toiling to symphonies written especially for them. Experiments in Sydney, New South Wales, have shown that the "music while you work" idea frequently proved more irritating to the workers than the noise of their machines. To combat this, tests were made to discover types of music which blended with factory noises. It was found that some types roughly harmonized with certain noises.

The experimenters believe that the next step is to develop special music for particular industries. —Australian News.

WEIGHTED DOWN

Heavy man's burdens are,
  Made up of things:
Keys for the office and car
  On separate rings.

Lighter for each cigarette—
  Case, silver or gold;
Pencil and pen in a set,
  Cards tucked in a fold.

Wallet for letters and bills,
  And licence to drive.
A box made for carrying pills—
  If past forty-five.

Pennies he gathers in change;
  Thus well weighted down
With articles heavy and strange
  He starts off to town.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 11TH., 1927.

Mr. Justice C. D. Macaulay and Mrs. Macaulay of Dawson City, have arrived here to visit relatives.

Following are the newly elected officers of the Belleville Rotary Club: President, J. O. Herity; Vice President, Mack. Robertson; Treasurer, H. Legate; Secretary, Oswald Scott; Assistant Treasurer, A. G. Davie; Sergeant-at-Arms, Harold Sanders. The retiring president is Charles Dolan.

The Rev. A. L. Geen conducted services in the Anglican Church in Gananoque on Sunday last.

The Rt. Rev. C. A. Seager, Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, Kingston, administered the Rite of Confirmation to a class of seventy-two candidates at Christ Church last Sunday evening. The candidates were presented by the Rector, the Rev. C. E. Clarke.

APRIL 11TH., 1917.

The City of Belleville was visited today by the most disastrous fire which has occurred in its history, entailing a loss estimated at $300,000.00. The large evaporation plant of R. J. Graham situated in the rear of his fine block on the east side of Front Street and extending from the latter street to Pinnacle Street, is a mass of ruins, nothing remaining but the bare walls and smoking embers. Not only did the evaporator fall prey to the fire, but a tin shop, cold storage building and the building on Front Street termed the chemical warehouse were also burned. The loss is said to be covered by insurance. The fire was discovered about 3.45 o'clock in the morning by a young man named Barrage, who was walking to the railway station. Adjoining the Graham Building on Front Street is the store owned and occupied by Rathman and Son, flour and feed merchants and this building was saved.

40 YEARS AGO

APRIL 11TH., 1907.

A month ago it looked like an early spring; now it looks like a late summer.

Mr. B. Hepburn of Picton was in town today.

Mr. P. J. M. Anderson, County Crown Attorney, went to Actinolite today on legal business.

Mr. Charles Rollins of Coe Hill, a member of the County Council, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. Harry Henderson, of Montreal, an old Belleville boy, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, went to Kingston today to attend a Masonic banquet this evening.

Mr. R. S. Bell is spending a few days in Toronto.

Col. J. Lyons Biggar, of Ottawa, formerly of Belleville, is in town for a few days.

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 11TH., 1897.

The old Richardson Mine at Eldorado has been purchased by a Toronto company at a reported price of $20,000.00. Col. Brown of this city was one of the owners.

There is a bad hole in the roadway on Bridge Street, between John and George Streets, cyclists and drivers of horses will do well to watch for it.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell returned to Ottawa today.

Mr. D. Adna Brown, formerly of Belleville, is spending a few days in town. He is now engaged as manager of a Band Concert Company.

Prevent Child Doing Family Circus Act

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — A five-year-old American tight-rope walker has been prevented by child welfare officers here from doing her act in a family circus act and her part, which has stolen the show in performances of Garden Brothers' Circus this week, has been cancelled.

The circus had hired Mr. and Mrs. Vitto Gretona, their 19-year-old son Ricci and five-year-old Shirley, to do the tight-rope act.

Little Shirley does a 45 - foot walk high up in the air to steal the hearts of her spectators. The child welfare officers yesterday told Garden Brothers that Ontario legislation prevents children under 10 from performing before the public.

Washington Spotlight

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 11 (CP)—The American people today are like a mixed crowd in a big, high powered motor car speeding along a twisted highway—some of the passengers trusting the drivers, others worried but resigned, and the rest downright unhappy wishing they could put their own man at the wheel.

President Truman is the man at the wheel and if he is not pleasing all the passengers he is giving them an exciting ride. There is seldom a dull moment.

Just now all signs point to a conclusion that the majority of Americans are pleased with the Harry Truman is running things although many, perhaps, don't know what all the shooting is about.

One thing they do know is twice in the last 33 years terrific world conflicts have proved that all the isolation and peace-loving of which they were possible could not keep them out of a major role in the battlefields.

Now, perhaps, they are introgued by the proposal that by being a little belligerent and interested in advance they can avoid such upheavals and, at least, be ready for them if they can't be avoided.

New Role

At any rate the president apparently has been able to sell the majority a policy of foreign intervention—his policy of sending immediate help to all free nations threatened by totalitarian influences—which casts this country in a role few would ever have thought possible.

Less than six months ago when the republicans were swept into power in congress after 14 years in oblivion, even president Truman's best friends believed he was politically doomed.

Now he is on top of the heap and there seems little doubt in the mind of any observer that if a democrat is the next president it will be Harry Truman. And democrat prestige has soared in that period.

Vanishing Prime Minister

If Prime Minister Mackenzie King's secretiveness and aloofness were not so well known to American newspaper people he might have caused a sensation in Virginia where he is holidaying. Newspapers published reports that he was arriving in Virginia Beach at a certain time.

For several days thereafter telephone calls to that small community brought polite denials that he was there or was even expected and left his whereabouts a mystery. For the leader of a great neighbor country so completely to disappear ordinarily would be front-page news. But in this case the reporters knew it was a case of the Prime Minister's loyal hosts lying to maintain his desire for privacy.

How Cheap Is A Cheap Car

Ottawa Journal Editorial

We have before us a table of the prices charged currently in Ottawa for the three passenger automobiles in the lowest-price field. The cheapest car available today in Ottawa is the model called the business coupe, which ranges in the three makes from $1,342 to $1,357. The opera couple model varies from $1,419 to $1,555; two-door sedans from $1,426 to $1,582; four-door sedans from $1,485 to $1,637. These figures represent an increase of 40 to 50 per cent over pre-war prices.

The man who was able to buy a new car for around $900 to $1,000 in 1938 is getting a larger wage or salary now, in all probability, but it does not follow that he can buy a new car at today's prices. With taxes and the higher cost of living it may well be that his income gives him a smaller margin than in 1938 for such things as an automobile, a radio, a washing machine or refrigerator.

In other words, thousands of persons driving cars 10 to 15 years old, who have looked forward to a new model in the fabulous after-the-war days, now find their hopes blocked by prices beyond such income as taxes and high prices leave at their disposal. It was easier in 1938 to pay $1,000 for a car than to pay $1,500 in 1947.

The fault is not with the manufacturers nor with the dealers; they have to deal with a condition which arises from higher wages, higher cost of materials, in general a higher cost of materials, in general a higher cost of doing business. Hard economic facts, however, apply to the purchase of automobiles as to the purchase of candy bars, and a great many of the old cars on the roads are likely to be in service for longer than we had thought.

Consumer Squeezed And Doesn't Like It

From Financial Post

sharply rising prices, consumers are not going to be any more complacent when they learn that company profits have been mounting. A survey of the combined results of 60 Canadian companies shows 1946 earnings almost 30 per cent higher than for 1945.

The same trend is abundantly apparent in the United States where President Earl Bunting of the National Association of Manufacturers bluntly warns: "If the constant upward winding of the spiral continues, you'll see one of the most terrible busts this country ever had."

If that does happen, few indeed can plead lack of warning. Exactly the same thing happened two years after the First World War. Prices went up, quality went down and finally buyers rebelled. Already there are signs that there is a limit as to what the consumer will pay. The first scramble for high priced luxury and durable goods has slackened.

Instead of waiting until organized buyers' resistance compels drastic price cutting, business would be far smarter, and in the end more prosperous, if it voluntarily lowered prices now.

Air and Highway Competition Likely To Slash Revenues

Ottawa, April 11 — (CP)—Both air and highway competition is expected to slash into the revenues of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, the Board of Transport Commissioners was informed yesterday as it ended an Easter recess and resumed its 37-day-old hearing of the railways' application for a flat 30-per-cent increase in freight rates.

C. N. Ham, traffic manager of the C.P.E., made that prediction to C. W. Brazier, assistant counsel for British Columbia, as he returned to the witness stand to resume a cross-examination in which he prophesied that 1947 transportation revenues for his company would drop to about $16,800,000 or about the level of 1945.

Application of a 30-per-cent increase to the less-than-200-miles truck - competitive - rates would add roughly $1,000 to revenue and bring it up about on a par with 1946's $17,962,000, he said.

Mr. Brazier contended that the increase would bring in a sum nearer $1,800,000.

Mr. Ham told him he expected 1947 revenues from transportation to show increased over 1946 for the first six months and manifest decreases from then on.

Mr. Ham disagreed with Mr. Brazier's suggestion that it might benefit the shippers if his firm were absorbed completely by the Canadian Pacific Railway instead of operating as a wholly-owned but self-contained firm. The present method, he said, was the "more efficient."

EVERYBODY NEEDS VITAMINS

What vitamin do I lack? is a frequent question asked by readers. Too many people seem to think one needs vitamins only when some functional trouble or impairment of health occurs.

Now that the sillier manifestations of the vitamin craze have passed it may be well to consider who needs vitamins and why.

Of course everybody needs a daily ration of vitamin, and anybody who fails to get his daily ration is certain to develop sooner or later nutritional deficiency disease. The average daily rations of the various vitamins required to keep an adult in good functional health is now regarded by recognized nutrition authorities as approximately:

Vitamin A .... 4000 units
Vitamin B1 (thiamine) .... 1 milligram
Niacinamide (nicotinic acid) ...... perhaps 8 milligrams
Vitam C (ascorbic acid) .... 33 milligrams
Vitamin D .... 400 units

These amounts should be present in a good diet, with the possible exception of vitamin D.

Even if the everyday diet is selected with intelligence it is likely to be woefully lacking in some of these vitamins. Vitamin B complex especially—all of the vitamins that grow as a group in such foods as wheat, oats, corn, and in the milk, meat or eggs of animals or fowls fed on these grains. The complex includes thiamine riboflavin, niacin- and some other vitamins about which our knowledge is not yet complete.

Taking thiamine as a kind of standard or gauge of the B complex content of the diet, is appears that there is most likely to be a deficiency under these circumstances:

1. Too much of the cheaper more plentiful refined starches and sugars, insufficient of the more expensive milk, liver, eggs, meat, whole grain cereals and nuts.
2. Ignorance of the essentials (vitamins minerals amino acids), selecting food; following food fads.
3. Restricting a diet under medical direction and then following the restricted diet long after dispensing with medical advice.
4. Using alcohol for calories in the place of food.
5. Loss of teeth and crippled mastication and impaired digestion. Vacancies in the mouth may spell poverty of course, but in most instances they spell no brains, I think.
6. Overindulgence in any kind of refined sugar, starch or flour or refined cereal—the thiamine requirement is in direct proportion with the quantity of carbohydrate to be metabolized.
7. Chronic diarrhea interferes with absorption of vitamins from food.
8. The laxative habit prevents normal absorption or assimilation of both vitamins and minerals from food.
9. Pregnancy increases the requirements — the woman's own needs and the needs of the growing fetus must be met.

So, with these conditions in mind my answer to the question "What vitamin do I lack?" is generally vitamin B complex probably.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Young Folks and Old Folks

Please send me your pamphlet "Young Folks and Old Folks." Just why should two glasses of wine or beer a day change a cranky old person (45 and up) into a genial, easy to live with person? (B. M. W.)

Answer—Forty-five is pretty young to be that old. For the pamphlet send a stamped envelope bearing your address—ask for it in writing, not with a clipping.

Pressure Cooker

Please give your opinion of the use of pressure cookers (waterless cooking)

(....M.D.)

Answer—It is an ideal way to cook — a great advance over the crude, wasteful old fashioned cooking in water and especially the sinful throwing away of the cooking water. Pressure or waterless cooking saves all of the minerals and probably more of the vitamins than the older methods of cooking.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is meant by "the trial of the coins?"

Samples of all coins struck off at the United States mints are tested for fineness and weight by the Annual Assay Commission, composed of eleven persons appointed by the President and three ex-officio members designated by law.

The mint and coinage law of 1792 requires that one out of every 2,000 coins minted be preserved under rigid safeguards to insure fairness in testing.

Coins minted at Denver and San Francisco are sent to Philadelphia under seal and the official weights are tested and approved by the Bureau of Standards.

The annual examination of metallic money is called "the trial of the coins." It is now little more than a traditional ceremony, but originally it performed a real function.

The trial of the coins was patterned after the "trial of the pyx" in England, the old practice of putting sample coins in a chest in the Pyx Chapel in Westminster Abbey to be examined by a committee of the Company of Goldsmiths.

In 1801 the Capital was moved from Philadelphia to Washington shortly before the Annual Assay Commission was to meet at the mint, and the meeting could not be held on the specified date because the three ex-officio members had gone to the new Capital.

Director of the Mint Elias Boudinot complained to President John Adams that the confidence of the public was being undermined and that the depositors were clamoring for the coins retained for testing.

The mint was then operated on a custom basis; that is, it took bullion from individuals and converted it into coin for them without charge, and the specimens retained for the annual "trial of coins" actually belonged to the customers of the mint. Congress straightened out the tangle by designating a later date that year for the meeting of the commission.

TRIAL ADJOURNED

Val D'or, Que., April 10 —(CP)—Toussaint Cere, 29, and Conrad Morissette, 30, both of Val-D'or, who appeared in court yesterday on a charge of stealing gold worth $41,000 from an express wagon on the platform of the Canadian National Railways station here last week, had their trial adjourned until the September assizes at nearby Amos.

Bail for each was set at $1,000 cash or $3,000 property.

The pair are alleged to have stolen two gold bricks which were destined for the Royal Canadian Mint at Ottawa and had just been delivered to the express office from Sigma Mines.

Winnipeg School Teachers Praised For Work Done for 'New Canadians'

Toronto, April 11 — (CP)—The part played by Winnipeg school teachers in forming the character of "new Canadians" was praised by Prof. Watson Kirkconnell of McMaster University, Hamilton, who told delegates to the Ontario Educational Association at their annual convention here that most of the large European settler groups in Canada formerly lived west of the Great Lakes, but were now moving eastwards.

"It might not be a bad idea when the time comes," he said, "to send to Winnipeg for a loan of those teachers whose efforts have had such remarkable success."

The Association's annual convention, which opened Monday, concluded today.

Praises Ontario System

Dr. M. E. Hahn, director of the guidance clinic of Syracuse University, N.Y., said Ontario's educational system surpasses any in the United States; so much so that American education authorities often visited the province to learn teaching methods. He said the word "teacher" was a misnomer and no one taught anything. All teachers could do, he said, was to provide an opportunity for students to learn and exercise their minds.

Another American speaker at the convention, Dr. Muriel Brown, consultant in family life education of Washington, D.C., told a meeting of the urban principals' section that the best indications in the United States of the extent to which organized groups are taking responsibility for work in the education field were contained in the report of a committee investigating the possibility of a national conference on the family.

Organizations Interested

"Of the 173 national organizations approached," she said, "104 felt that their programs sufficiently emphasized some phase of family life education to justify participation in such a project and 27 government bureaus and 17 foundations were interested."

J. Alex Edmison secretary of the prisoners' rehabilitation society, said that a child's adjustment to surroundings was learned in school. He stresead the fact that the existence of gangs of potential criminals roaming the streets was a challenge to educators and added that these gangs, unless checked, would provide the prison material of tomorrow.

The urban principals' section turned down a recommendation that all single-day school holidays be held on Monday instead of the day on which they actually fall.

New Plan Formulated

S. D. Randall of the Ontario Education Department said a few plan for rural high school districts had been formulated by the department and was ineffect in some areas. Among provisions of the plan were the erection of modern school buildings, supply of adequate teaching equipment a choice for pupils betmeen academic and technical courses and free transportation to and from school.

Also provided was elimination of the usual 90-minute lunch period. School would run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the lunch hour would be 40-minutes. Half of the students would take lunch while the rest stayed in class. This measure, he said, would give rural pupils a chance to engage in extra activities like sport, drama, glee clubs, music and public speaking.

"Too often in the past," said Mr. Rendall "City children have been given these opportunities while rural children have had to go home and do chores."

"G.M." Workers Pause In Tribute to Ford

Oshawa, April 10 — (CP) — Workers at the General Motors plant here are to pause briefly at 2:30 p. m. in tribute to the memory of Henry Ford whose funeral is to be held in Dearborn, Mich., at that time.

Fake $5 Bills In Circulation

Toronto, April 11. (CP) — Banks and postmaster have been warned of a fake $5 United States bill now in circulation.

The bill is a counterfeit of the issue of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, Ill., and its treasury seal is green. The prefix letter "K" in the treasury seal should be "G" and other recognition points are given as plate face number 168, black plate number 1622 and series 1934B.

The warning is issued by the United States Secret Service which also advises that fake $100 Federal Reserve notes are in circulation.

O.E.A. Concludes 87th Convention

Toronto, April 11. (CP)— The Ontario Educational Association concluded its 87th annual convention at a general meeting here last night after sessions which started last Monday.

Delegates from all sections of the province heard resolutions by members and speeches by visitors prominent in the educational fields of Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

The final meeting heard a motion by the Plympton School Board protesting "excessive income tax on married women teachers," but did not endorse it. They approved a resolution of the trustees and ratepayers section of the Association that a standard schedule of salary for teachers be instituted according to zones and based on the cost of living in those areas.

Also approved was a request that the Dominion Government be asked to grant $10,000,000 for the foundation of Agricultural and Teachers' Training Colleges.

Dr. C. C. Goldring, director of Education for Toronto, recommended that schools should be built to give blind, deaf and dumb students secondary school education suited to their needs.

Among items discussed earlier in the convention was the question of compulsory cadet training in Ontario schools.

Delegates voted to ask that cadet training be made optional, but later decided to take no action in the matter.

The trustees section Wednesday refused a motion that teachers with ten years' service in Ontario be allowed a year's leave of absence with pay, but the main body yesterday supported the resolution.

Aussie Shopping Foot-weary Chore

(Written for The Canadian Press By Leone Kennedy)

Sydney, Australia, Apr. 11 (CP) —By Canadian standards, shopping for food and clothing in Australia is complicated. The Australian housewife has to visit at least three shops to fill her dinner menu, while a clothing ration of 56 coupons a year frequently restricts her to window-gazing.

Unlike groceterias in Canada which offer such a variety of wares as vegetables and ink, the Australian food shops keep to one line of goods. Butchers sell meat, greengrocers deal in vegetables and fruit, and grocers handle canned goods as well as packaged and bulk foods. Bacon is sold in a delicatessen, while orange juice is sold in bottles by greengrocers and in the can by grocers.

Canadians here agree that cream, milk and bread are better in Australia than in Canada though there are some disadvantages involved. Cream, non-existent as far as the public was concerned during the war and released to the market last December, can seldom be obtained. Milk is not normally sold in bottles but poured into a can, known as a "billy", set on the doorstep by a householder. Bread is not wrapped.

The best bargains in fruit and vegetables are offered not in shops but by street peddlers. Some are licensed but those not licensed alternate between making sales at low prices and dodging the police.

During the war, coupons were required for practically every article of clothing, but now shoes, hats and stockings are coupon-free. Some Australians say their more important items of clothing have worn out and the present ration is inadequate.

In the matter of clothing, the Australian woman can reason she is far better off than her British counterpart and slightly worse off than the Canadian housewife.

Bass Sanctuaries To be Established On Georgian Bay

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Members of the Georgian Bay Association yesterday approved Ontario government plans to establish a series of black bass sanctuaries along the east coast of Georgian Bay.

Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the fish and wild life division of the Lands and Forests Department, told the Association that F. Weldon has been appointed biologist in the Georgian Bay division and that he will begin studying Georgian Bay waters soon preparatory to establishing the sanctuaries.

Each member organization of the Georgian Bay Association will have one or two sanctuaries in its area and its recommendations for their location will be studied.

The Association decided to cooperate with the Champlain Society in erecting monuments along the route Samuel De Champlain took from the north of the French River to the village of Huronia in the exploration of 1616.

Dana Wilgress Will Not Return To Moscow Post

Ottawa, April 11 (CP) — External Affairs Department officials today confirmed reports that Dana Wilgress will not be returning to his post as Canadian Ambassador to Moscow, but he said his withdrawal had no connection with the fact that Russia has not had an ambassador in Canada since December, 1945.

Mr. Wilgress recently left Moscow for Geneva where he will head a Canadian delegation to the International Trade Organization conference.

Before his departure he had a "cordial" meeting with foreign Minister Molotov, who expressed belief that the Russian foreign office soon would be giving consideration to the appointment of a new ambassador to Ottawa

The officials said consideration would be given to the appointment of a successor to Mr. Wilgress, but in the meantime, Robert Ford, second secretary at the Moscow embassy, would serve as charge d'affaires.

They expected to be able to say within a week what new post Mr. Wilgress would be given.

Noisy Motorcyclists Will be Prosecuted

City police will crack down on operators of motorcycles who persist in riding about the city causing excessive noise, it was announced today by Inspector Hayes of the local police department.

Last season complaints of motorcycles making excessvie noise and thus disturbing residents were received frequently by the department with result that decision has been made to closely check into this nuisance. Regulations require that proper mufflers be affixed to cycles.

Bicycles being ridden at night with no lights will also be checked by officers. Police say the practice of riding bicycles at night without lights is exceptionally dangerous and parents were urged to see that their children's machines are equipped properly.

Philanthropist Gets Big Volume Mail

Houston, Tex., April 11 — (AP) — A flood of mail from virtually all over the world has swamped the office force of H. R. Cullen, wealthy Texan whose gifts in recent months to charity, medicine and education have reached an estimated $165,000,000 or more in oil properties.

The mail, estimated at 200,000 pieces, includes many appeals for aid for all sorts of causes.

"Obviously I have no recourse but to burn this vast lot of mail. It would take my secretary 10 years even to dent this enormous accumulation." Cullen told a reporter yesterday.

The only state from which Cullen has not received a letter is Nevada. Canadians wrote by scores.

Calls on Wives to Aid Britain Through Crisis

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 11. (CP)—When people tell Lady Nathan she has a "big job" on her hands she invariably replies: "So has every other housewife."

She now is chairman of the influential London County Council—the second woman chairman in the council's history—but in addition to her 40-hour week of meetings and committees she is a housewife still, and proud of it.

"There is no more vital job in Britain today than the housewife's," she said in an interview.

"Britain's future depends as much on women as on men, for with men taking most of the production strain women must give them every ounce of support they can. They can do this by taking that little extra care of the worker—especially the night worker—and by giving their children the kind of home that will mean so much to them in later life."

"They have to do this in spite of the strain that every British housewife has to endure these days."

Children Interest Her

As the wife of Lord Nathan, civil aviation minister, and the mother of a family, children and education are her particular interests. She urges more nursery schools, not only to release mothers who are needed in industry, but "to give children between three and four years the advantages of early school training".

Another of her ambitions is to see the "all-purpose" school established throughout London—a school housing all types of children, learning all kinds of subjects in separate departments under the same roof.

Lady Nathan also advocates play centres and recreation grounds and says she would like to see some of the sites of London's bombed buildings converted into parks and open spaces.

"There is no reason why in rebuilding London we should reproduce past errors. Now, through the war, we have a chance to make London a better and happier place in which to live. During my years as chairman I hope to see some progress towards creating a new London. And after that I shall still go on working for it."

Lady Nathan has an M.A. degree for mathematics and economics has been a prominent member of the L.C.C. education committee for years and within a few days of Lord Nathan's election as M.P. for Wandsworth in 1937 she was elected to the L.C.C. for the same borough. She was elected chairman March 11.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa April 11 (CP)—"Beautiful soup of the evening...." the Mock Turtle sang to Alice. Whether beautiful or not, housewives will agree that soup beats most other foods in economical and nutritive value.

A popular item in the daily diet, soup can be an inexpensive nourishing dish when made at home. Delicious soup can be made entirely without meat. A hot cream of vegetable soup is particularly valuable for the children's lunch.

Cream soups: Three tablespoons dripping or shortening; 1 1-2 teaspoon salt: two cups vegetable stock and pulp; four tablespoons flour; pepper; two cups of milk and water.

Vegetables are pulped by mashing through sieve. Melt dripping blend in flour and seasonings. Add either hot vegetable stock or hot milk gradually; stir and cook for 10 minutes; add remaining ingredients. Reheat. Strain if necessary or beat with a Dover beater. Serve at once.

Tomato, potato, carrot, onion, corn, pea, spinach, bean and cheese soups can be prepared in this way.

Stock soups: Cheap cuts of meat, bones, scraps of meat and left-over cooked meats may be used for soup stock. Cereals, greens or potatoes may be added. A small amount of herbs or spices will give a good flavor.

Cut meat into small pieces and cover with cold slightly salted water. Let stand one hour, then simmer gently for three or four hours. Strain, cool, and remove fat. For each cup of stock allow one-quarter cup mixed vegetables and one-half tablespoon rice or barley. Cook until tender.

Peanut butter Soup: One-third cup peanut butter, four cups milk; four tablespoons flour; two tablespoons fat; one-half teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon scraped onion.

Mix peanut butter to smooth with one-half cup milk. Make white sauce with remaining ingredients, stir in peanut butter mixture and cook a few minutes longer.

Looking for something different in the food line? Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, recommend this out-of-season jam recipe in which beets and carrots are used as the base.

Ruby jam: Four cups peeled, finely chopped beets; two cups peeled, finely chopped carrots; two cups boiling water; three cups sugar; two lemons, juice and grated rind; three oranges, juice and grated rind; one-quarter teaspoon allspice; one half teaspoon of cloves; one-half teaspoon cinnamon; one-quarter teaspoon of ginger.

Boil vegetables in water for 20 minutes. Add sugar and bring to a boil for 10 minutes. Add juice and grated rind of lemons and oranges, and spices. Boil until thick—about 15 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars, cool, and seal. Yield: about three pints.

Washington, April 11 — (AP)— The Power Commission yesterday set April 25 for oral argument here on the validity of water rights in the Niagara River at Niagara Falls, New York, which the Niagara Falls Power Company wants to buy from Buffalo Niagara Electric Corporation.

Pupil--Critics Appreciate Lectures at Art Class

By ENID NEMY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, April 11. (CP)—An art appreciation project—the only one of its kind in Canada — has brought the genius of old masters and modern painters to thousands of Winnipeg school children.

Inaugurated 10 years ago by the Junior League of Winnipeg, the idea began on a small scale. At first only grades five and six were visited but gradually interest became more general until now every elementary class in Winnipeg's 52 public schools receives two calls each year.

The two girls, employed by the Junior League, who visit the schools with prints of paintings by different artists of all countries and ages, are graduates of the Winnipeg School of Art. Helen Wodlinger of Leask, Sask. near Saskatoon, and Margaret Milne of Keyes, Man., took their three-year course together and started their present work after graduation in 1942.

"The children are exceptionally observant and responsive and they get a big kick out of the paintings. Actually, they teach us as much as we teach them," they say.

Stimulate Interest

Basic idea of the project is to interest not only those children who have a talent for art but to stimulate and encourage youngsters who are not artistically inclined.

When they enter a classroom, they give a short introductory talk and then ask several children to choose their favorite picture. A discussion period follows, during which pupils are asked why they like a certain print and dislike another. Then the children are told how to look at a picture, something about color contrast and given a little background on the artist.

Comments by pupils are a continual source of amazement. One question that the girls admit had them stumped was from a little boy who asked, "Why is a genius never recognized during his lifetime?" They are also rather partial to the comment by a young girl who looked at a Van Gogh painting and said, "It's so bright it makes me dizzy."

The girls make two rural visits yearly and take in four towns on each trip. And every morning during the school year they conduct classes through the Winnipeg Art Gallery. In their moments of relaxation, they paint—Helen does landscapes and Margaret, portraits.

5,000 INVADE GOV'T OFFICES

Milan, April 11 — (Reuters) — Five thousand persons invaded government offices in Turin, manhandled officials, smashed windows, destroyed files and tossed documents into the street, it was reported today.

The demonstration occurred yesterday and lasted nine hours.

Those taking part were former Partisans, ex-servicemen, and former internees of concentration camps, who protested alleged delays in payment of compensation to those who left factories and offices during the German occupation to join the guerrilla movement.

MAKES HISTORY AS FIRST WOMAN COMMITTEE HEAD

Mrs. Florence Paton is Competent Chairman in British House of Common

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 11. (CP)—Mrs Florence Paton, 58, carries an cient parliamentary tradition i competent hands as the first wo man to act as chairman of a Com mons committee.

This slight, cheerful woman youthful in appearance and manner, and an ardent Labor supporter who has relatives in Canada, said she approached her task with "a feeling of awe".

"You realize that your decision as chairman has power over the activities of the committee. You realize the strain very soon. When a member of parliament makes a speech on a certain clause he can relax, but the chairman must listen to every word and watch the discussion does not drift out of order. That is not easy.

"I had this advantage. I had been a teacher and accustomed t classes. That helped me immensely."

Within a few seconds of makin history, Mrs. Paton checked Labor member for reading magazine while an oppositi member spoke. He put it aw without a word. If Mrs. Paton w awed she did not look it, members said.

Memories of Canada

Mrs. Paton would just as so speak about Canada as about er work in the Commons. She as "happy memories" of lecturi in support of the C.C.F. in Wes rn Canada in 1933 and althoug she has not been asked back she maintains a correspondence with C.C.F. leaders, including J. Coldwell.

She said she hopes to visit the Dominion again because she has two sisters, a brother and ight nephews and nieces there. Her sisters are Mrs. Frances Rys of Regina and Mrs. Gertrude bbington of Winnipeg while her brother is Ernest Widdowso of Regina.

Mrs. Paton, apart from her duties as chairman of the commitee now studying the Statistics of Trade Bill, is an active member of an unusual parliamentary fam. Her husband, John Paton, sits beside her in the Commons. He is labor member of parliament for Norwich while she represents Rushcliffe. They share an interest in educational matters and in Labor organization and development.

Favoring dark costumes and bright sweaters, with a brisk feather in her hat, Mrs. Paton speaks clearly and confidently.

Rawdon

River Valley Women's Institute

Rawdon (Special) — On the evening of April 3rd., the members of River Valley Women's Institute held a social evening at the school house with a good crowd in attendance despite the busy season.

The president, Mrs. Hugh Jones presided and Mrs. Clarence Chard led in the rendition of "O Canada", Mrs. Jack Donohue read the minutes and a few items of business were discussed.

Mater Jimmie McIntosh, Stirling, sang two cowboy numbers with guitar accompaniment and was heartily applauded as this was his first public appearance. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Morrow delighted with several musical selections. Messrs. Bob Hulin, Jack Bush and Mrs. Philip Conley contributed musical numbers and Mrs. Don Donohue gave an interesting reading.

The guest speakers were Mr. and Mrs. John Villetorte of Stirling, who gave graphic pictures of their harrowing experiences as members of the French Maquis.

Mrs. Villetorte needed no introduction to her audience, as she was a former student of Stirling High School and several former school friends were in the audience. Then too, as she is the daughter of Mrs. H. H. Alger and the late Doctor Alger, a great many families in this district had been interested in the Villetorte family during the war years. It certainly took great courage for a Canadian girl to live day by day in France during the occupation, and it also took a great deal of faith and courage and prayerful waiting for the mother in Stirling to carry on day by day, with only a thin ray of hope that she would be privileged to once again see her daughter and the family and enjoy with them a happy home life. Only those who undergo all these experiences can ever realize what the war years meant to some homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Villetorte and two daughters went to France in 1938 where their home was about thirty miles from Bordeaux. When France fell, they were away on holidays at Portiers and the road was so congested with refugees that motor travel was almost impossible. They were twenty-eight hours returning home on the three hundred mile journey.

Mrs. Villetorte stressed the fact that the Germans have very little imagination, and they were continually bursting into a tirade about the master race. They thought no one would dare disobey orders, and so they can be bluffed easily. Once when in a tight corner with no pass, her husband showed the German officer an old bicycle permit and he allowed the family to pass on. For over a year a German sentry stood beneath a sign "Savage Dog" and none of the Germans could understand why the children laughed when they passed by. Finally, the sign silently disappeared.

The Germans had been taught that they were a superior race and must always obey orders. Once a German officer was asked what he would do if he received word from Germany to shoot a special friend of his in France, even though he knew in his heart that the friend was innocent of any crime, he at once replied, "I would shoot her if commanded to do so."

The food situation was terrible and the Germans ate good meals in French restaurants with plenty of red meat. It was hard for Mr. and Mrs. Villetorte to see their children suffering from hunger, with very little grease of any kind to sustain their bodies. All food was outrageously high in price. Toilet soap was a luxury and of a very poor grade, selling at over one dollar per cake, the size for which housewives in Canada pay six cents.

Mr. Villetorte was a member of the Maquis, the famous French underground organization. They praised the B.B.C. news and the cheery messages of Mr. Churchill, who also gave the people of France such encouragement. Once Mrs. Villetorte was almost discovered listening to the B.B.C. and while she was badly frightened she managed to put up a brave front and convinced the officer that it was good orchestra music she was enjoying.

The Germans raided French towns, herded everyone into box cars and sent them to Germany, trying many cruel plans to make their prisoners in concentration camps betray their various groups. Some of their special friends were treated to inhuman tortures, and still they refused to talk.

The messages of Mr. and Mrs. Villetorte gave the audience a clear and concise picture of the harrowing experience of daily living in France during the occupation and they were tendered a vote of thanks for comprehensive and interesting information.

The River Valley ladies served sandwiches and tarts and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Plans were made to have a food and soap shower at the April meeting for people in France. Any donations will be gladly received and the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Donohue. At present Mrs. Villetorte has five boxes packed and ready to sent to relatives and friends in that stricken land. She impressed upon her listeners the abundance of food and clothing in Canada and the great privilege they enjoy living in this land of plenty.

Among the guests in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Mr. and Mrs. Sidmer Demorest, Mount Pleasant.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Economy is practiced in bids that make up an efficient bridge system. Suppose a combination of words is used as a signal. For the same signal, no different combination is used, if possible.

A one-jump in number is a game-going signal. In an opening bid this means starting with two instead of one. This dumps upon us the general meaning that an opening two bid is forcing to game.

Combining the number two with a suit serves a dual purpose. Not only is it game-forcing. It also shows a biddable suit. Thus, opening with two in any suit handles the situation neatly.

Nine tricks are the minimum requirements for opening two in a suit. This is a practical amount. Any less would be dangerous. To wait for more would be too conservative.

Comes now this economy in bids. The two suit opening takes care of the forcing-to-game business. Therefore, an opening of two no-trump can be utilized for a different kind of a signal.

For what different kind of a signal? To show a hand that is almost-but-not-quite forcing to game. A hand containing less than nine tricks but needing only one high card for help to game.

If one high card in partner will help make a game, what does the opening two no-trumper need? The other eight high cards. In some cases he has enough with only seven.

Comes then this rule: An opening bid of two no-trump promises seven or eight high cards. Your opening should be two no-trump with this hand:

♠A K Q
♥A 9 8 2
♦K Q 9
♣K Q 7

With one less card in either minor suit, you would have nine tricks. Also, one of your suits must then be biddable. You will then graduate into the class of an opening two-in-suit bid.

The overbidding hounds keep going out of bounds.

Montreal's Paul Dupuis, now a full-fledged star in the J. Arthur Rank organization, is busy in the Ardennes region in Belgium with the rest of the cast and crew of "Against the Wind," an exciting factual drama of Britain's hush-hush army of saboteurs from all three services during the German occupation of Europe.

Babe Ruth will get a feature place on the screen, in addition to all the newsreels and sports shorts he's appeared in, if a deal negotiated between Republic Pictures and the baseball "great" goes through....Alfred Hitchcock has finally made up his mind which scene he'll walk through in "The Paradine Case." He will appear as a man getting off a train carrying a trombone case.

Favorite Brunette

Ollie Lyck, Toronto winner of Bob Hope's "My Favorite Brunette" contest in connection with his movie of the same name, is in Hollywood for a visit along with the 13 other winners. She writes that after a dinner at Bob's house she can understand what Hollywood's celebrated hospitality means.

"We hadn't been in the house more than 10 minutes before friends of Bob's began dropping in....Bob introduced us all around and didn't miss a single name. Of course each one of us was 'My Favorite Brunette,' and the way he said it you had to believe it. I had my picture taken with him, but I had a hard time keeping a straight face. Bob says such funny things and has a quip on his tongue every second."

Rita As Godmother

Rita Hayworth has been chosen "Marianne," or godmother, of the freshman class at St. Cyr, France's famed military academy The cadets asked for a large, autographed picture of the star "to adorn our common classroom, to encourage us to work harder." Miss Hayworth obliged.

Bob Hope and Eve Arden are King and Queen of comedy by a poll of the 842 members of the Jesters of America, a humorist society. "The Road to Utopia" was voted the outstanding comedy of the last year.

J. Arthur Rank, the British film magnate who will visit Canada in May, has put in his bid for the screen rights to "Brigadoon," the new Broadway musical smash hit with the Scottish theme and he would like to film it in Scotland.

During his Canadian visit, part of a two-month stay on this continent, Mr. Rank will address the Empire Club of Canada in Toronto May 19 and the Canadian Club of Vancouver May 24.

Grierson to Paris.

John Grierson, former head of the National Film Board, now director of mass communication and public information for the United Nations Economic and Social Council, took off for a Paris meeting of that organization in a happy mood.

"I have been in discussion with Jean Benoit-Levy, director of the films division of the United Nations," he said, "and the prospect for the future of the United Nations Film Board appears to me to be very bright.

Astaire Will be Back.

Fred Astaire will be back on the screen before too long with his unequalled dance routines in answer to popular demand. Fred's fans were desolate when he hung up his tap shoes to open a string of dance studios and the film makers haven't given him a moment's peace.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer wants his hoofing to dress up their "Easter Parade," with Irving Berlin's music, and Universal-International has almost talked him into making a picture or two for them.

Treasure Island In San Francisco A Charred Ruins

San Francisco, April 11—(AP)—Treasure Island, which glittered as the site of a pre-war exposition and then became a camouflage-painted naval base, was a scene of charred, water-soaked ruins today.

Fire struck the man-made island in San Francisco Bay late yesterday. It destroyed five United States Navy buildings and equipment at an estimated loss of $500,000. For a while the entire installation was threatened.

The fire was brought under control after a three-hour fight. While it raged, huge clouds of smoke billowing into the sky were visible nearly 50 miles away

Thirty-four persons, 25 navy men and five civilian firemen, were injured, none seriously. The 12th naval district's estimate of damage included electronics equipment valued at more than $100,000.

Sabotage was not suspected, a spokesman said.

The navy said that had the fire not been checked it easily could have destroyed additional electronics equipment valued at millions of dollars.

All navy personnel were confined to the station after some looting had taken place among ships' stores, and supplies removed from buildings. All vehicles leaving Treasure Island were searched.

KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR

Hamilton, April 11 — (CP) — Donald Beanland, 20, was about to do a passing motorist who asked for directions the good turn of supplying them today when the car stopped suddenly, lunged forward, sent him flying to the sidewalk and then sped away.

Beanland was taken to hospital where he was treated for injuries, to the right hip, and back, bruises and lacerations.

15-CENT SHIRT LAUNDERING

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — The day of 15-cent shirt laundering costs appears to have passed in Toronto. With laundry rates removed from price control, the prevailing price here is 18 cents. Charges for laundering other articles have gone up, too.

Fishermen Going After the Suckers

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — As the lowly Lake Ontario sucker races for the spawning grounds this spring, net after net will be cast for him — the nuisance to commercial fishermen has become big business.

Here's one reason for the sudden popularity, given by a Toronto firm of wholesale fish dealers:

Thousands of Jewish people in Toronto and New York eat fish during the Passover. But whitefish, most popular, is currently selling at 80 cents to $1 a pound. Current price for suckers, a tasty dish in early spring, is about 15 cents a pound.

AMATEUR DETECTIVE GETS HIS MAN

London, April 11 — (Reuters) — Fifteen-year-old David Moffatt told a court yesterday that he wants to be "a real detective" some day, and on the basis of his evidence he should make the grade.

Young Moffatt's shiny new bicycle was stolen. Within 24 hours he had traced the thief and taken him single-handed to a police station.

80 Wide-eyed Kids Present Wares in East-West Hockey Game at Gardens for Charity

Douglas Day of This City Will Perform With One Junior "B" Squad

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Just how closely controlling bodies of amateur and professional hockey work together will be demonstrated tonight when 80 wide-eyed kids, many getting their first glimpse of skyscrapers, present their wares in two all-star contests sponsored by the amateurs but with pro scouts as the most-interested spectators.

As president George Panter of the O. H. A. saw his brain child take form with the arrival of youngsters from all parts of the province to participate in "east vs. west" junior "B" and "C" exhibitions, the officials figured the outing would cost the Association $5,000.

"The idea of this is to give these boys a chance to show in front of professional scouts in the best surroundings," said Panter. "Unfortunately, only championship teams have had that right in the past."

But the pro scouts won't be the only ones to benefit out of the Maple Leaf Gardens show, for the youngsters who come from as far west as Windsor and as far east as Kingston, receive $12 a day from the O.H.A. while in the city. Most of them have been here since Wednesday, so that even if they don't impress the scouts, they'll have had some fun.

Feted at Banquet

Besides being guests at the eastern junior final Wednesday night when Toronto St. Michael's College eliminated Montreal Canadiens, the youngsters were feted at a banquet Thursday and then taken to a circus.

The kids are hoping the Gardens will be packed, not only because they are the attraction but because the gross proceeds will be divided between the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and the Canadian Paraplegic Association.

Chosen by their teammates as most valuable to their individual teams, the contestants will each receive full-length hockey sticks with their names suitably engraved as a memento of the occasion.

Panter said he received fine response to his idea except from certain colleges which "adopted a stuffy attitude, which I resent." One college would not permit its students to play on the grounds it would be furthering commercialism in sport, but Panter held commercialism was not involved with proceeds going to charity.

Wilfred (Bucko) McDonald, the puckish parliamentarian, will be one of the team coaches, with Joe Primeau, Charlie Conacher and Normie Hines, all former N.H.L. stars, handling the other clubs.

STORMS COSTLY TO LAKE FISHERMEN

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Storms during the last week have caused damage estimated at $100,000 to fishermen's gear on the Great Lakes, it was said at Queen's Park yesterday. Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, director of the fish and wild life division of the Department of Lands and Forests, said one fisherman alone lost kit to the value of $40,000.

ORIOLES PROMISE BETTER DEFENCE IN COMING YEAR

Several Points Must be Strengthened in the Offensive Department

By WALTER TAYLOR
(Baltimore Evening Sun)

Baltimore, April 11 — (AP) — As he wielded the axe on his Baltimore Oriole squad, which in the early days of training at Hollywood, Fla., numbered 40 men, manager Tommy Thomas today weighed his club's good points against its bad and found the score came out even.

The Birds promise to have an even better defensive team than last year, and they possess a lot of potentially promising young pitching talent but the attack, according to Thomas, has been disappointingly weak and there are several spots that must be strengthened.

Latest to join the Birds from Cleveland are pitcher Ray Poat, catcher Ralph Weigel and outfielders Howie Moss and Gus Zernial. Poat was purchased and Moss, home run king of the International League last year with 38 fourmasters, was returned by Cleveland, which had taken him in accordance with its working agreement.

Weigel lends balance to a catching staff that includes Lou Kahn, a holdover who hit .277 in '46, and Bob Lenn, .334-hitting rookie from Gadsden, Ala.

In the infield the veteran Babe Dahlgren is the only Oriole sure of a starting berth.

Al Cihocki, a classy man afield, and Bobby Wilson, who had two fine years at Wilkes-Barre, hitting .307 and .295, are battling for recognition at either second or third, with holdover Bob Repass and young Kenny Braun, of the 1944 and 1945 teams, vying for shortstop.

The mound corps shapes up with Poat, Johnny Podgajny, Pete Center and Klieman, if he comes, as regular starters, with another first-line hurler coming from a tfar of raft of good men, including Joe Pennington, Joe Payne, Al Houser, George Cave and Mike Gast.

Sports Roundup

By AL COLLETTI
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 11 (CP)—After two days the white hot rage shown by a majority of the Flatbush faithful hasn't abated—for their initial surprise over the decision by baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler in banning Leo Durocher from organized baseball for a year, has turned to bitter resentment...after hearing opinions from many sides on the Durocher incident we are inclined to believe that if Happy ever set foot in Brooklyn during the next week or two before the raging verbal sea calms down, it is probable he would never get to his headquarters in Cincinnati in one piece.

Unhappy Happy

Brooklyn has often been called "the dormitory of New York" because a considerable section of the population who live there have their place of business in Manhattan...This expression is considered by many a slur on the fair name of the 311-year-old land first settled by the Dutch who parked near Gowanus Bay... Today most Brooklynites would be proud to have their borough referred to as "the cemetery of unhappy Happy."

Sign Carrying Fans

A large gathering of fans moved into Ebbetts Field yesterday for the Dodgers, exhibition with Montreal displaying signs such as: "Who's your boss, Larry? Of course you can't hurt him—you will lose your job," "That's right Happy, listen to your boss Larry MacPhail."

JACKIE ROBINSON FIRST NEGRO TO REACH MAJORS

Montreal Player Signed to Play With Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League

By JOE REICHLER

Brooklyn, April 11. (AP)—"I am on the spot and I know it. But I'm prepared for it. I am certain I can win them over in Brooklyn as I did in Montreal."

That was the observation today of 28-year-old Jackie Robinson—first Negro ever to reach the major leagues in modern organized baseball as he became a Dodger yesterday.

"It feels wonderful to be a major leaguer, even if I haven't actually played in the big leagues yet," Robinson beamed. "I hope I can justify everybody's faith in me."

"Believe me, I fully realize what it means—my being given this wonderful opportunity to play in the big leagues—not only to me, but to my race and to baseball," said the sensitive player.

While Robby naturally was elated with the news of his advancement, when informed by President Branch Rickey before yesterday's exhibition between Brooklyn and Montreal, he surprisingly said it did not give him quite the thrill he got when he signed his first contract to play in organized baseball—with Montreal.

Never Forget Day

"I'll never forget the day. I could hardly believe it. I thought I was dreaming. Sometimes, I still think it is one long sweet dream," Jackie sighed.

"No, I never give up hope about coming up to the big leagues, once I got settled in Montreal," Robinson replied to a question. "Of course, I had some anxious moments, but I believed in Mr. Rickey. He is a wonderful man. He has kept every promise he made to me."

Robby is convinced he can break down the barrier of prejudice. "Once the ice is broken and the idea accepted, it will become a natural thing for Negro players to mingle with white players in organized ball.

"I know I am heading for trouble, especially in a couple of cities in the National League circuit," he said frankly, "possibly more than I encountered in the international league but I know I can take it. I realize some players and fans will be trying to upset me and will have plenty of material, but I went through that in the minors and I am prepared to go through it again.

No Bids Made For Two Yachts Endeavour Class

(By The Canadian Press)

Britain's long quest for world yacht racing supremacy seemed near an end today as the famed yachts Endeavour I and II went on the auction block at Portsmouth yesterday without a single bid being accepted. Tacit admission of defeat was the refusal of buyers to make even an opening bid for the crafts.

The days when fortunes could be spent for world supremacy in sailing skill and craftsmanship vanished with the outbreak of the war and at the auction no one even took the opportunity to inspect the beautiful hulls, lying in the builder's yards.

An all-star team of players from seven National Hockey League Clubs, instead of Boston Bruins as a unit, will make the post-season western tour with Montreal Canadiens. The Bruins were unable to make the trip because five of their players have been ordered by the club physician to play no more hockey this season.

Nick Wolmarans, South African light heavyweight champion, will fight Freddie Mills of England in a non-title bout at Johannesburg Monday. Wolmarans was signed for the injured Johnny Ralph. Mills holds the British and Empire light heavy titles.

There will be no Sarnia entry in the proposed Michigan-Ontario International Women's Softball League this season. However, delegates will make franchise reservations for next season.

The Ontario Basketball Association Midget Round Robin tournament to determine a provincial champion will be played at Kitchener, April 12.

The U.S. Trotting Association has barred Dale Ellis of Britton, S.D., for life and suspended drivers Harry Bedell of Glen Rock, N.J., and Norman Phillips of Hackettstown, N.J., for the 1947 season as the outgrowth of an investigation of a questionable race at the Roosevelt raceway in November of last year. Ellis, a track frequenter, was banned for what the association called "conduct detrimental to the harness turf."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

"Father" Panter, as the president of the Ontario Hockey Association has been dubbed since he brought about the first East-West All-Star junior "B" and "C" games, will see his proteges make their inaugural bow in Maple Leaf Gardens tonight. Upwards of eighty youthful star players from all parts of the province will cavort about the Gardens before the keen scrutiny of more scouts than Buffalo Bill had in his heyday.

• • •

The beardless buckaroos of the ice lanes are the choice of their teams by ballot of their mates. They are the guests of the OHA over a 3-day period and M'sieu Panter and his officials have given and are giving the kids a swell holiday. They saw the St. Michaels Majors dunk Montreal Canadiens Juniors under a 21-goal avalanche night, and last night were banqueted and saw a circus. Hockey sticks with their names engraved on them will be given the starry younkers, and they will be the recipients of special sweaters and twelve bucks a day for three days, travelling expenses.

• • •

The venture will set the OHA back somewhere in the neighborhood of $5,000 but in this corner's opinion, it is money well spent. George Panter's brain baby has not only provided an incentive for other youngsters, (and we trust the affair will be an annual one), but gives those selected this year, and in the future, the chance to parade their wares before professional scouts.

• • •

Full many a hockey flower is born, or has been, to rush unseen, and waste its fleetness in the rural air, —(with a special nod to somebody) and Prexy Panter and his OHA officials are to be commended on their foresight and action in bringing perhaps many a potential star into the open, so to speak.

• • •

However, the highlight of the event takes place tonight when the four teams, two "B" and two "C" clash in the Gardens. They will be under the managerial wings of Vice President Jack Roxburgh, Simcoe; Stew McTavish, Oshawa; Tony Gregg, Wingham and Frank Buckland, Peterboro.

• • •

Coaching the "West" B team is Joe Primeau, nuff sed; while his former mate on the famous Leafs Kid Line of years ago, Chuck Conacher, of Oshawa Generals fame will take care of the "East". Masterminding the West "C" club is Bucko McDonald, with Norman Hines, former New York Americans star, will take care of the opposition.

• • •

Doug. Day of the Belleville Bees "B" squad of the past season, has been selected to play in centre ice for the East "B" team. And Dougie finds himself in very select company. In goal for his squad is Paul Hutzniuk, of Varsity Juniors. On the defence is Johnny McDougall, of Chapmans; and Jack Scruton of West York. Also in centre ice is the starry Maxie Quackenbush of De La Salles, and Jimmy Green of Stayner.

• • •

Wingmen include Allan Twigg, Trenton; Ken. Potts, Kingston; George Macoretta, St. Michaels; Don McWhirter, Owen Sound, Jimmy Imonti, St. Michael's Buzzers, and Alfred Naylor, Oshawa.

• • •

And last but not least. The entire proceeds of the game will go to the Canadian Paraplegic Association and the Society for Crippled Children. Which gives the affair a big boost in the eyes and hearts of all fair-minded hockey fans and others.

• • •

Columnar orchids go to the sports officials of the Trenton Air Station, command and otherwise for the neatness and despatch with which they handled their fine boxing show the other night. After going around the countryside and noting and experiencing the dragginess, delay, and other holdups which could be eliminated, it was refreshing for this department, to note the efficiency with which the show was staged. True, it was fifteen minutes past the scheduled time when the first bout got under way, but that was the only thing we could see wrong.

• • •

There were no big gaps between bouts. In fact, scarcely had the contestants in one bout wrapped their robes about them, than the next pair hopped into the ring. Warrant Officer John Silver, handed the microphone in his usual masterful manner and that in itself was a delightful departure from what is usually experienced around here at boxing matches. Timekeeper Hook rang the gong on the second, coming and going. In fact the fine sequence in which the affair was run off is a distinct credit to those in charge.

• • •

And lest we forget, another orchid, and not a small one to the popular Sergt. Kelly, master-propagandist, ballyhoo expert and general utility man in all phases of sport around the station, who did a man's job in helping to put the show across. No charge, m'lad, it's coming to you.

• • •

It may have been that service "Hup-two-three-four" touch to the affair that caused it to run off in snappy fashion. If so there's a lot of sports events around this district that could well do with an injection of this sort of service serum.

• • •

The Ontario Basketball Association midget playoffs will be played on the Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate and Vocational School floor April 19 In the first round of the semi-finals, the Kitchener-Waterloo school team will meat St. Catharines while in the other series Windsor Westminster Bible class will meet the Eastern Ontario winners, either Peterborough or Belleville, who are playing off at present. The semi-finals will be played in the afternoon and the final at night.

• • •

B.C.I.'s fighting cagers took the measure of the Regiopolis basketball crew in their first game of the Queen's University three-day court tournament by a 28-18 score with Albert College taking Almonte 23-16 to annex their first win. If both squads win their next two games they go into the finals on Saturday.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By ALAN RANDALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Lacrosse, it can be said, is in better financial shape than at any time since the white man watched dusky aborigines indulge in this legalized mayhem and decided to adopt it as a sport of their own and played it with such fervor that it became known as Canada's national game.

It is still that today though the chances are that few of the younger sporting fry who like and know their baseball and their hockey and football realize that in the international listings lacrosse is given top billing as a Canadian game.

But back to the financial aspects of the sport. Tomorrow's meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association — the game really flourishes only in Ontario and British Columbia now — moves Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle to discourse on the situation and he says O. L. A. liabilities are nil and assets $7,000. And the Canadian Lacrosse Association has a $16,000 kitty.

For this good showing, Andy points out, a large measure of credit must go to Eugene Dopp of Toronto who is secretary and treasurer of the O. L. A. and has been since 1925 when it had liabilities of $500 and the black ink showed only $35. Dopp also has long been a leading figure in the C.L.A.

At the same time Andy forecasts a joust for O. L. A. leadership with Dan Millar of St. Catharines, where lacrosse still thrives, eager to get his job.

To Bobby (Toronto Telegram) Hewitson coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens confides he thinks members of his team may make $1,400 to $1,500 apiece out of its projected post-season tour.

Note to the west: Frank Selke of Canadiens, who'll make the junket, says: "We want those westerners to know there are other teams in the N. H. L. besides Toronto Maple Leafs."

STAMPEDERS WIN FIRST GAME OF SERIES BY 13-3

Defeat Winnipeg Flyers Before Capacity Crowd at Calgary

By LORNE BRUCE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Calgary, Alta., April 11. (CP) —Calgary Stampeders were probably more concerned today about the dangers of a long lay-off until the Allan Cup finals than the possibility they might not defeat Winnipeg Flyers in the Western Canada Senior Hockey finals.

Stampeders, defending Canadian champions, overwhelmed the injury-riddled Winnipeg outfit 10-3 before a capacity crowd of 5,200 here last night and installed themselves as odds-on favorites to take the second game of the best-of-five series here Saturday. Third game will be played in Winnipeg, Monday.

Winnipeg already minus high-scoring like Yaschuk and Jack Messett through injuries, may have lost the services of Don McCrae, rangy winger who hurt his wrist when he collided with Joe Fisher of Calgary in the third period.

Only in the first half of the second period did Flyers outplay the Canadian champions and then some great work by Russ Dertell in the Calgary net and some inaccurate shooting combined to prevent Winnipeg from going into the lead.

Calgary scorers were Red Hunter and Dunc Grant with two each and Fisher, Syd Craddock, Bunny Dame, Bob Brownridge, Art Shoquist and Doug French with one apiece. Hugh Bell, Bob MacDonald and Mecrea counted for Winnipeg.

BASKETBALL

New York, April 11 — (AP) — Washington Capitols, who breezed to the Eastern Division pennant, were still in the Basketball Association of America playoffs today after stemming the onrushing Chicago Stags who had swept the first three games of their best-of-seven series.

Getting back on their home court, the Capitols displayed a reversal of form last night and defeated the Stags 76-69.

The triumph sends the Caps back to Chicago for the fifth game tomorrow night.

OFFICE BOY "GETS IT" FOR THEFT OF LIQUOR

Liverpool, April 11 (Reuters)—A 14-year-old office boy, who admitted stealing liquor from his employers and selling it to his mother at retail prices, was told by Judge Victor Baker yesterday: "You have reached a stage where you need a kick in the pants to start you on the right way." And as a "boot", the juvenile court judge sentenced the boy to a reform school for 28 days and put him on probation for two years.

Richard Faces Suspension After Canadiens Bow to Leafs In Second Stanley Cup Game

Given Major and Match Misconduct Penalty When He Slashes Lynn and Ezinicki

By SYD THOMAS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, April 11 — (CP) — The Stanley Cup battle is all tied up at a game apiece, but the final repercussions haven't been heard over last night's wild and woolly battle in which Toronto Maple Leafs hammered Montreal Canadiens 4-0 as Maurice (The Rocket) Richard blew a fuse.

As the teams moved on to Toronto for the third game Saturday night of the best-of-seven cup final, the argument was raging furiously over the bloody second period last night in which 12,915 fans practically tore off the roof as Richard was banished from the game after opening a cup in Bill Ezinicki's head with his stick.

Leafs rebounded with a bang from their humiliating 6-0 defeat in the opener Tuesday, taking full advantage of penalties to beat Bill Durnan four times while Canadiens were short a man.

Teeter Kennedy and rookie Vic Lynn put them two up in the first minute and a half of the game as Butch Bouchard was sitting out a penalty. Gaye Stewart did it again in the second with Richard serving a major, and Hal Watson sank number four halfway through the third as Canadiens were fighting furiously, though a man short for a full 20 minutes as a result of Richard's match misconduct penalty.

Richard Slashes Lynn

Richard, goaded into a scarlet rage as Leafs checked and bumped him constantly, slashed open Lynn's scalp halfway through the second, drawing a major, then capped it with his attack on Ezinicki. Both Lynn and Ezinicki had to be stitched up.

He laid himself open to a fine of $100 and possible suspension for one or more games of the series. He won't be allowed to play until he appears before President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League to explain his actions.

But there's a possibility that Canadiens might protest the game, or at least the penalty. According to a section of the rules, the referee may not assess a match misconduct unless assured that the injured player cannot return to the game.

But Ezinicki played out the game, although coach Dick Irvin of Canucks protested vigorously to referee Bill Chadwick to cancel the penalty.

Canadiens were behind the gun after Leafs early start, but fought furiously throughout the stirring battle, and actually had a little the best of it in the third period when they were a man short until the last few minutes.

MAPLE LEAF BALL TEAM IS BETTER THAN LAST YEAR

New Working Agreement With Boston Red Sox of Considerable Help

By ALLAN NICKLESON
(Toronto Globe and Mail)

Lake Worth, Fla., April 11 — (CP) — There'll be plenty of big-league experience in the line-up when Toronto's rejuvenated Maple Leafs open the International Baseball League season at Baltimore April 17. Training camp critics say the big, rangy Leafs look much better than the team that finished sixth in the eight-team circuit last season.

On paper, at least, they look like a first-division club. It's almost a cinch they'll hit harder than last season's team, and a new working agreement with Boston Red Sox should help plenty.

On the basis of grapefruit league games this season, the 1947 edition most probably will line up like this:

Catchers — Gene Desautels and Tony Ravish; first base, Ed Levy; second base, Van Harrington; shortstop, Merrill Combs; third base, Oscar Grimes! right field, Goody Rosen; centre field, George Bennington; left field, Cot Deal, with outfielders Jack Houck and Moe Aderholt in reserve.

The pitching staff of 13, only five of whom were with Leafs last season, probably will be pruned to eight or nine before the season opens.

There's plenty of power and experience in that lineup. The 38-year-old Desautels, and Grimes, as well as pitcher Norman Brown, were purchased from Philadelphia Athletics. The hard-hitting Rosen, 33-year-old Toronto native, comes down after a couple of seasons in the National League with Brooklyn and New York. He was chosen on the major leagues' all-star team in 1945.

Dean of the mound corps is 40-year-old Luke Hamlin, former major leaguer known as the "hot potato." Youngest is 20-year-old Pete Karpuk, like Rosen a Toronto native.

In addition, Toronto shortly will get two more pitchers, plus probably an infielder and a catcher, from Louisville, a club owned outright by the Sox.

HERSHEY BEARS EARN SHUTOUT AGAINST HORNETS

Gordie Henry, Goalie for the Bears, Ties Eight-Year-Old Record

(By The Canadian Press)

Gordon (Red) Henry, 20-year-old rookie Hershey goalie, last night tied an eight-year-old American Hockey League playoff record when he earned his fourth shutout as the fighting Bears whipped Pittsburgh Hornets 3-0 in the important fifth game of the best-of-seven final round for the Calder Cup. Hornets lead the series 3-2.

Red equalled the shutout mark set by the veteran Moe Roberts of Cleveland in the '38-39 playoffs when the Barons won the Calder Cup.

It was against Cleveland that Henry chalked up his first two shutouts as Hershey swept their semi-final round four straight.

Playing before 8,718, the biggest crowd in Hershey history, the Bears scored a goal in each period, Pete Babando, Herb Cain and Frank Mario scoring in succession.

The Bears travel to Pittsburgh for the sixth game of the series Saturday night.

BRANDON ELKS BEATEN 3-1 BY MOOSE JAW TEAM

Western Canada Junior Final Tied Up With Three Games Each and One Tied

Regina, April 11. (CP)—Backed by the steady goaltending of Bev Bentley and brilliant displays by defenceman George Hunchuk and forward Harvey Stein, Moose Jaw Canucks have forced an eighth game in the Western Canada Junior Hockey finals. They edged the Brandon Elks 3-1 here last night in the seventh game of the best-of-seven series for the Abbott Cup, Emblematic of Western Junior supremacy.

The eight game will be played here Saturday night and Canucks, now brimming over with confidence, said after last night's battle, "we'll take 'em again Saturday."

Not a peep was heard from the Brandon players, who led the series from the first game but dropped the last two games and now find the series all-tied up at three games apiece with one game tied.

While Brandon managed to hold Canucks' main threat Metro (Marvellous) Prystai out of the scoring column, two unheralded Moose Jaw players, Stein and Herb Lovett, blasted their way into the limelight with the winning and clinching goals. Vic Kreklewtz tallied the other Canuck counter, while Gordie Watters scored for Elks.

GERRY McNEIL BREAKS THUMB AS ROYALS WIN

Defeat Sherbrooke Squad 8-3 but Lose Good Goalie in Process

Sherbrooke, Que., April 11. (CP)—Montreal Royals held a one-game advantage today over Sherbrooke St. Francis in their best-of-five playoff for the provincial Senior Hockey Crown but they were faced with the worry of whether their netminder would be able to continue play in the series.

Goalie Gerry McNeil, considered one of the best amateur goalies in the province, had to retire from the game in the third period last night—a game Royals won 8-3 before a packed house of 6,000 fans. McNeil was forced out of the contest with a broken thumb, his place being taken by Paul Leclerc.

Tod Campeau, Denis Casavant and Jacques Lacas proved the top sharpshooters for Royals, each getting two goals. Cliff Maole and Doug Harvey scored the others . The Sherbrooke tallies went to Manny McIntyre, Audjutor Cote and Tony Demers.

Sherbrooke tied it at 2-2 with Cote's goal early in the second period but Campeau sent Royals ahead again in the 10th minute and the game was in doubt from that moment.

Second game will be played in Montreal Sunday afternoon. Winner of the round goes on to meet the Hamilton - Moncton winner for the Eastern title.

Kansas City Pla-Mors Hold Two-Game Edge

(By The Associated Press)

"Lucky" Larry Silvestri, the hottest overtime performer in the loop, has Kansas City Pla-Mors well on the way to repeat as United States hockey league playoff champions with a 2-0 lead in the best of seven games series.

Silvestri pushed in a soft pass for teammate Johnny Harms last night at Omaha to give the Pla-Mors a 3-2 victory over Omaha and to mark the second overtime victory he has won for the Kansas City club.

Silvestri counted the opener also, after an assist from Harms.

Omaha went scoreless until after Wingy Johnston had given Kansas City a 2-0 lead in the final period, then forced the game into overtime with two quick goals by Frank Meleng and Winkie Smith.

The teams play their third game here tomorrow night.

Win Two Games in Queen's Annual Invitation Basketball Tournament

Kingston, April 11 (CP) — Ottawa Glebe Collegiate took two victories yesterday and appeared to be headed for victory in the finals of the Queen's annual invitation basketball meet which began here Wednesday.

Of the 12 teams remaining in competition but three have remained undefeated. Glebe in the "A" section, Cornwall in the "B" section and Napanee in the "C" group have been beaten, and the finals today promise plenty of action.

It was a day of upsets that saw Almonte defeat Picton, Cornwall take Belleville and Kingston take Peterborough, last year's champs.

To Live With Love

CHAPTER 13

Cornelius hesitated a moment. "Will you go to the theatre with me tonight? You haven't seen all the shows in town, have you? Dinner and a show. And you, too, Mrs. Kelly?"

"Thank you," Freda said. "But I'm expecting my husband tonight just at theatre time."

Carol thought, "How pleased he'd be if I'd accept it. Doesn't he know any young women in New York?"

She nodded and smiled. "At seven then."

In the taxi Freda looked amused. "He's nice, Carol. A little foolish and pathetic, but very nice and wholesome. Another of the advantages of being a man is that at sixty or so you can take out a pretty girl of twenty-six. Does a woman of sixty have the thrill of being taken out by a good-looking boy? It isn't right."

"I didn't know Ian was coming tonight."

"He isn't darling. I couldn't think of anything else to say and I knew Cornelius didn't want me tagging along. I'm going to cold cream my face tonight and call up Ian and drag him away from the news commentators for three minutes. We'll visit long distance. Cornelius Weger prefers blondes which, I hope, makes him a gentleman. Let's not be so maddeningly cultured this afternoon, darling. Let's go and have ourselves made beautiful. Shoot the works."

"One of the advantages of being a woman is that you can change your mind. And one of the disadvantages of being divorced is that you continue to feel married."

When they reached their hotel late that afternoon, there were flowers for both—cut flowers for Freda, orchids for Carol. And at precisely seven Carol, wearing her becoming green dinner dress, joined Cornelius in the lobby.

They went to a mirrored lounge for cocktails, and even when he was explaining business reasons for being in New York his eyes—clear, good eyes—were admiring her. It was disconcerting to be so candidly admired. From the mirrored cocktail lounge they went to a famous Spanish restaurant for dinner and danced. For a man of his age Weger danced extraordinarily well. Over coffee Carol inquired about his daughter.

"She's fine," he said. "She's in finishing school, you know, in the Winter. A great little girl. We're pals."

"Has your wife been dead long, Cornelius?"

Instantly he ceased being a foolish little man pursuing youth. Soberly he said, "Ten years. Just when I could give her everything. I'd build her the house she wanted and furnished it. We bought a lot of the things abroad, had them specially made." He smiled at her and said modestly, "They've written me up in the papers, you know. And in a magazine, too. Immigrant boy makes good.

"I came over when I was eleven and sold newspapers before I learned a trade. Then I had a little shop and I liked to tinker. After a while I sold an invention. Of course I haven't much education, but I've tried to catch it as I went along. I want Betty to have the best there is. Oh, but you're not interested in this."

"But I am," Carol said sincerely. From a foolish little man vainly pursuing youth he had become a modest man of importance to be respected and admired. She liked him, being told about his hard-working past, she understood so well his drifting and his mistakes since the death of his wife. They had something in common, she and Cornelius.

"I love to travel," he went on, certain of her sympathy now. "But it isn't much fun to travel alone and Betty is still in school. I'm—I'm not an old man. Do you think sixty is old?"

She shook her head, feeling guilty. Her father was in his fifties and she had always thought him old.

Cornelius said simply, "I'm lonely." He did not say it as though he were looking for sympathy. Then, "Oh, but I'm being dull. You're young and."

"And you wonder about me? It's very simple, really. It's the old Hollywood formula, Cornelius. The eternal triangle. The other woman."

"And you're lonely, too?"

"For him, yes."

"That's too bad. That's too bad." He shook his head and reaching across the table and patted her hand affectionately. "We'll have a good time, honey."

They went to a comedy which Weger enjoyed enormously. He had the irritating habit of looking at Carol after a joke to see if she were also laughing. After the theatre he suggested a place in Greenwich Village where they danced again and where she was so conscious of his utter happiness she did not have the courage to spoil it by reminding him of the late hour.

It was very late when they reached her hotel.

"I'm going to see you again?" he asked eagerly. "What about luncheon tomorrow? You and Mrs. Kelly and her husband too?"

"Suppose you call me about eleven. I don't know Freda's plans."

"Eleven? Oh, that's fine. I—I hope I haven't talked too much about myself tonight. I feel that I, well, that I insisted on your coming tonight."

"I enjoyed every minute of it."

That was true, she thought as she rode up in the elevator. She had enjoyed the evening chiefly because she had learned to like and admire a man for whom formerly she had only pity and contempt. And it had been fun seeing him happy and proud as he suggested certain food and wines, and most particularly when she had danced with him. Hadn't anyone danced with him since the cruise?

Freda was asleep, looking less like the formidable Mrs. Kelly and more like a school girl, with her usually sleek dark hair falling across her face.

Carol did not disturb her. Undressing in the dark she got into bed and lay with her arms crossed over her head. Freda's deep quiet breathing comforted her. That was how Bill slept...Bill!

She thought of Scott...For days she had persistently refused to think of him, pushing back in her mind the only true interpretation of his last remarks to her. In the safety of Scott and in her long friendship with him there was danger for both of them. How simple it would be for them to drift into marriage and then to awaken suddenly to the realization that they were pitifully unsuited to each other.

Scott was elusive and sensitive. Bill was as clearly cut as black or white. About Scott there was a quality you could not quite "catch." It fascinated you and it annoyed you. It was strangely charming. And even as she was thinking that she could perhaps make the worst mistake of her life by pretending that she cared for him, she was at the same time comforted by his loyalty. When she went home, Scott would be there. Unlike Cornelius who always ordered the most expensive things, unlike Clive who lingered in a dark corner of her mind, Scott would be there in person constantly. But was the person you had known the longest necessarily the one you could trust most?

It was a long while before she slept.

When Cornelius telephoned in the morning, his voice gay and hopeful, she had not the heart to refuse him and promised to meet him for luncheon.

Freda, breakfasting by the window, smiled. "That gives me a good excuse to go home, leaving you with a rich, old beau to take you places. Ian wants me to come darling. I love being indispensable. He said last night that the cook was giving him only two vegetables at night when he always has three. He has no one to mix his scotch and sodas so that he won't be interrupted with the news broadcasts." She laughed. "Obscurity has its compensations. I keep the wheels greased. But as long as Ian is contented, I am happy. What many women fail to realize is that most men want more than anything to be comfortable. Ian's family can't understand how I've made him happy. They're amazed."

Carol said, "There is really no point in my staying, Freda. I'm going home with you."

"There are several excellent points, darling. But I know. You're afraid the old boy will get ideas about you and you don't want to hurt him. But you'll be doing the kindest thing possible for him to let him take you out and spend a lot of money on you which he is dying to spend, and to be seen with a pretty woman won't make him feel old and finished."

She shook her head. Her voice was low, her expression gentle. "But you'd rather eat a hot dog and drink a five-cent cup of coffee with Bill, wouldn't you? All that money doesn't mean anything."

Carol straightened and looked out the window. "But when I go back to Clinton this time, Freda, I'm not going to attempt to carry on as if Bill were away on a business trip...No. I tried that and you saw it fail miserably. It would be far better for me if I didn't have money. Then I'd have to stir myself into doing something." She looked at Freda. "Last night late in bed I decided to get a job when I go back. A job of some sort. I'll work for nothing. But I'm going to do something. I want to feel useful if all I do is type addresses on envelopes eight hours a day. And I'm going to be a woman who has lost her husband rather than a woman who is trying to pretend that divorce doesn't make a difference. I've lost my job. Now I'm going to get another."

Freda said, "Good! But I want you to stay in New York for a few days and have fun. You see, I'm sorry for the poor little guy with a million dollars!"

When Carol looked back upon the interlude of Cornelius Weger's devotion, she could find nothing either distasteful or boring in it. Each day and night for the next week saw them at a different place, Cornelius squeezing every ounce of enjoyment from it, paying her shy compliments, telling her anecdotes of his life and his travels and describing the home which could not be other than palatial.

He was fun; his sense of appreciation was fine and his mind was keen. But when he remarked once that he had no patience with the youth of today who claim that there are no opportunities for them, Carol felt the years between them stretch.

She said, "I don't agree with you, Cornelius. I admit that most of us don't make the most of ourselves or our opportunities and that we are all too ready to blame someone else or something else. But business and industry today are geared for mass production. You were creative. You had talent." She was echoing Bill's words, she thought...She said gently, "When you were a young man, there were few skilled industrial workers, few skilled managerial people. Now there are many. Machines have eliminated labor and the masses are being educated and sent to college. And about the future...the war is a barrier. We can't see over it. The young people today were born during the last war, they grew up on depression and now there's another war. They have a big problem and they are going to need sympathy and discipline and guidance. And they will have to be strong...When I go home, I'm going to look for a job."

He looked shocked. "You need money, Carol?"

"No, I don't need money. I need a job. A woman who has lost her husband has lost her job. I'm going to find another, must I be useless because my husband was generous?

"Mine isn't a representative case, Cornelius. If it were, I'd have had to reduce by standard of living and looked for a job at once. That's what usually happens. And if there are children, they are put into schools or day nurseries where they are miserable because they can't understand what has happened. They can't understand why their mothers and fathers can't be like other people. Usually they grow up with chips on their shoulders, and they blame, and perhaps rightly so, their own failures on the divorce of their parents."

Tells of Atrocities At Hong Kong

Hong Kong, April 11. (Reuters) —A Major Banfill of the Royal Army Medical Corps yesterday told a military court here that a Japanese officer had told him in December, 1941, that all captives taken by the Japanese at Hong Kong had been ordered executed.

Banfill was testifying at the opening of the war crimes trial of Major-Gen. Tanaka Ryosaburo. The prosecution said it would submit evidence that Ryosaburo either was directly concerned in atrocities against the joint Canadian-British garrison of Hong Kong, or connived in or ordered the atrocities.

Banfill testified that he had been shown a bayoneted British officer by the Japanese. "We came across him crawling," the officer said. "The Japanese bayoneted him and brought him to me so that I could tell them his rank. They lifted him onto their bayonets and threw him into a gully and shot him to make sure he was dead. Twice more before evening they bayoneted people."

Business Booming In United States

New York, April 11 (AP) — Business in the United States is still showing an over-all rising trend, but there is evidence in some sections of the country of a levelling-off.

The average citizen is spending more cautiously. Retail sales are beginning to drop in some cities, a survey by The Associated Press shows.

In general, American industrial production is ahead of last year and employment is high. Preceding articles in this series indicated the post-war boom is expected to continue for at least another three months, after which most economists expect some sort of a recession, or "readjustment."

In general, however, business is booming. The public still needs automobiles, refrigerators, electrical appliances and other durable goods. There was $28,247,000,000 in circulation last week, up $77,000,000 from the preceding week and $335,000,000 above a year ago. It was only slightly below the all-time high of $29,163,000,000 for the last Christmas period ending Dec. 26.

Health Minister Praises Legislation Of Federal Govt.

Winnipeg, April 11 (CP) — Proposals of the Dominion Government to the provinces leading towards establishment of National Health and Security Programs were described here by Health Minister Martin as being "the most comprehensive ever put forward."

He described the health program, in an address to the junior section of the Manitoba Liberal Progressive Association last night, as enabling "the provinces, with Dominion leadership, to plan a co-ordinated campaign on poliomyelitis, arthritis, and the common preventable diseases such as typhoid, diphtheria and scarlet fever which are at present being dealt with on a provincial and municipal basis."

On the Social Service side the "Dominion proposed to prepare the way for a system of National Old Age Pensions, payable at 70 years, with no Means Test and entirely financed by the Federal Government.

"A further program is proposed of old age assistance at 65 to 69 years, to be financed jointly by the provinces and Dominion."

The Dominion Government also proposed, Mr. Martin said, to extend Unemployment Insurance to cover all employed persons and to provide for unemployment assistance to cover able-bodied unemployed who do not have benefit rights at present during the interim while Unemployment Insurance is being expanded."

Marian Congress of Catholic Church to be Held in Ottawa

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 11 (CP)—The first large-scale international gathering of Roman Catholics since the outbreak of the Second World War will be held here next June when an estimated 200,000 persons from all parts of the globe will gather to honor the Virgin Mary and to pray for a lasting world peace.

The gathering to be known as a Marian Congress, is expected to match in splendor and color some of the eucharistic congresses held in various parts of the world in pre-war years. It will co-incide with the 100th anniversary of the founding of the diocese of Ottawa and will last from June 18 to 22.

Cardinals, archbishops and bishops from some 75 countries have been invited to attend and Pope Pius XII has announced his intention of sending a special representative. In addition, the Pope will broadcast a special radio message to the congress before its conclusion.

To Build Large Altar

Site of the main ceremonies will be Lansdowne Park, familiar to sports followers as the scene of many a rugged football game, and, to some servicemen, as an army camp during the war.

At centre field will be built an altar 515 feet long, 80 feet wide and 155 feet high. It will be topped by a 20-foot statute of the Virgin Mary, whose life will be the theme of the congress. In front of this altar will seating arrangements for an estimated 75,000 persons.

From this spot the faithful will pray to the Virgin Mary and ask that she intercede on behalf of a lasting world peace. Arrangements are being made for a midnight mass at which communion will be served by an estimated 500 priests.

When religious ceremonies are not in progress at the park, religious entertainment will be in progress at the auditorium, home of Ottawa's hockey teams. A special group of players will depict life of the Virgin and others will perform the passion play.

Dionne Quints to Sing

A feature attraction will be the singing of hymns by the Dionne quintuplets, the now 13-year-old and internationally famous children from Callander.

A monster fireworks display and a procession through the streets of Ottawa will be among other attractions. In the procession will the allegorical chariots, upwards of 3,500 Boy Scouts, about 6,000 cadets, 800 Papal Zouaves 900 independent guards and about 1,500 girls of honor, dressed in blue and white dresses and wearing long white veils.

The Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, has agreed to attend the opening ceremonies.

One of the main problems facing the organizers is the obtaining of accommodation in an already overcrowded city. House-to house canvass of non-Catholic and Catholic homes has been made, and, officials say, the response was gratifying.

Plenty of Room

Rev. Frank French of Ottawa, in charge of accommodation, said that he believed there would be plenty of room for all who wish to attend the congress. He warned, however, it would be wise to apply to congress officials here for reservations.

Among the Cardinals which have already announced their intention of attending the congress are: James C. McGuigan of Toronto; Francis Spellman of New York; Samuel Stritch of Chicago; Edward Mooney of Detroit; Pierre Gerlier of Lyons, France; Eugene Tisserand of Rome, secretary of the congregation for oriental churches; and Emmanuel Arteaga Y Bentancourt of Havana, Cuba.

$2,500 IN PRIZES WON

Toronto, April 10 —(CP)— Believed to be the largest radio prize ever won in Canada, $2,500 in household equipment went to Mrs. Kay Grattan of Toronto last night when her name was drawn in the "Champ's Scrapbook" radio program. Prizes included a $300 diamond ring, furniture, linen, blankets, a radio, and a washing machine.

Residents Worried Receding Floods May Make Trouble

Chatham, April 11 — (CP)—A threat of rain that would delay the receding of the flood waters and the fear that stagnant waters lying in scores of basement might produce an epidemic worried residents of this southwestern Ontario town today.

Through yesterday the waters receded as irritatingly slowly as though they were going down a plugged drain. In their wake there was silt and dirt and the threat of typhoid as hundreds of sewers had backed up and added dangerous poisons to the water in basements.

Dr. W. H. Johnston, local Medical Officer, was busy yesterday and last night testing drinking water in all parts of the city. He also tested milk that might have been affected by exposure to water and ordered that all drinking water be boiled.

The health officer, also urged that residents protect themselves against the damp cold and avoid common colds. Most houses in areas that had been swamped by the angry Thames were damp and sodden and few had fires to combat the chill.

The river was almost back to normal but water continued to lie in many parts of the city. Further down the stream at Jeannettes Creek the flood level was still high but was receding. Prairie Siding, a village seven miles from here was still isolated.

It appeared the flood would be main topic of conversation for weeks to come as various groups argued as to its record-breaking qualities. City manager T. M. S. Kingston claimed the water set an official record of 20 feet five inches above normal, an inch higher than the previous mark, set in 1937.

Others said the claim was false as, in their dwellings, the water failed to top previous marks. All agreed there had been enough to go around.

All highways except No. 21 to Thamesville were open and while some were under water in places, traffic was not impaired.

London, April 11 — (CP) — Brilliant sunshine softening winter's bitter memories brought midsummer scenes to all parts of Britain yesterday and is expected to continue "several days."

With the temperature at 58 degrees hundreds lay on the grass sun-bathing in Hyde Park and yachts sailed on the Thames in a light breeze.

On thousands of farms every available tractor and team of horses has been pressed into late preparation for the harvest. East riding of Yorkshire farmers used horses for plowing for the first time in three months.

THOUSANDS OF R. R. CARS WILL BE NEEDED

Capetown, April 10 (Reuters) —South Africa could supply coal to Britain only if some thousands of railway cars on order in Britain, Canada and the United States were sent to transport it to the ports, Sydney Waterson, Union Minister of Economic Development and Mines, said yesterday. Meantime she "would be doing pretty well" to supply 500,000 tons a month, including bunkering, an amount which Britain consumed in a day.

BURGLAR INTERRUPTED AND PHOTOGRAPHED

Pete Norstrum, Wyoming filling station owner and amateur photographer, proudly exhibits this remarkable on-the-spot photograph as evidence that crime does not pay. Norstrum claims that he happened along at the right time to picture Gail Halstead, left, as he was being interrupted in the act of burglarizing a cafe by the owner, Joe Clay, who is seen holding Halstead at bay with a shotgun, until the arrival of the sheriff.

Five Bancroft Residents In Hospital After Car Drops Into Cave-in on Highway

Bancroft, April 12 (Special) — Five persons were admitted to Bancroft Red Cross hospital early Saturday morning following a motor accident one half mile south of this village when a car driven by Rev. R. F. Gardam, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, dropped into a cave-in in Highway No. 62.

Mrs. Gardam, riding in the front seat of the auto with her husband, was catapulted through the windshield, suffering a broken arm and severe lacerations on the neck, face and legs. Others injured were Floyd Twa, Reginald Churcher and Merle Skuce who suffered head injuries and were still unconscious several hours later.

Mr. Gardam suffered chest injuries, a broken leg and several lacerations and was released from the vehicle only after the steering column had been pried back.

The four persons were returning from a A.Y.P.A. meeting at Frankford when nearing Bancroft the car dropped into a large hole which had been undermined in the highway by flood waters of the York River. The highway appeared perfectly passable but the weight of the car caused it to drop into a hole approximately 10 feet long, 16 feet wide and about seven feet deep. The impact drove the front of the car back about two feet.

Pinned in the wrecked auto, the accident victims were not discovered until a half hour later when a second car driven by Kenneth Bowser, arrived. Bowser was accompanied by Donald Dellon, Margaret Kellar and Marjorie Lumb. Miss Kellar hurried to the village to get assistance and notified Dr. Lumb and Provincial Constable Stan Palmateer.

Department of Highways employees on Saturday morning commenced to fill in the cave-in, the highway being closed to traffic.

Roaring Waters Of Rideau River Continue to Rise

Ottawa, April 12 — (CP)—Emergency Red Cross volunteers were at work finding temporary accommodation for some 75 flood-threatened families today as the swift roaring waters of the Rideau River continued to rise at the rate of an inch-an-hour.

Most of the homes were in the Nordic Circle area of suburban south Ottawa.

Described as the worst flood conditions in 20 years, the waters surrounded a large number of homes in the district. Five of the families had to be evacuated by rowboat during the night.

Ice floes drifting downstream on the Rideau grinded against posts along the streets and hampered emergency "anti-looting" patrols throughout the night.

At Pembroke, northwest of the capital, several families faved evacuation as the peaceful Indian River went on the rampage and threatened to overflow its banks.

A. R. Whittier, Federal superintendent of the Rideau Canal, announced the canal would be filled to its summer height "as soon as possible" to relieve the situation. He said that at Long Island, 22 miles south of Ottawa, water was flowing in the river at the rate of 12,900 cubic feet a second compared with 3,300 April 1.

Coal Field Shutdowns Puts 1,135 R. R. Workers Out

Pittsburgh, April 12 — (AP) — Shutdowns in United States coal fields have resulted in the layoff of 1,135 railroad workers and thousands of others are threatened with idleness unless mines are soon put back in full production.

Aside from the railroads, industry appeared to be little affected by the subnormal activity in the coal fields. By delving deeper into their stockpiles most plants were able to continue full scale operations.

Former Pilot Buys Old Bomber For Souvenirs

Calgary, April 12 — (CP) — "Lady Orchid" never let the boys down. She saw them through the tough spots every time — and came out just as beautiful — only with a few more tatoo marks. For 13 months of the war seven members of the R.C.A.F. flew the four-engined Lancaster on some rugged bombing assignments of Germany.

Lady Orchid is down and out now, but not for long, for one member of the crew is seeing the boys don't let her down. He is Ronald Jenkins of Calgary, former bomber pilot who recently learned his old plane was at Pinehold, Alta., up for sale by War Assets. He is buying her back.

Each of the seven members of the crew will have a share in Lady Orchid too. For Jenkins has reserved the plane and plans to dismantle it and send each member of his crew their equipment from the plane.

Neil McLean of Uxbridge, Ont., who was wireless operator will get his wireless key and table. Pete Hines of Waterloo, bomb aimer, will get his panel and Rudy St. German of Timmins, mid-upper gunner, part of his turret.

I think they will get quite a kick out of it, Jenkins grinned.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, April 12—(CP)—Synopsis: Yesterday the temperature rose to 68 degrees in Toronto which was close to the all time high for that date of 70 degrees. During the night cooler air invaded Southern Ontario and this morning the temperature in the lower lakes region ranged between 40 and 50 degrees. Over all of Northern Ontario temperatures are well below freezing and snow is falling in the White River and Kirkland Lake regions. This cooler air is edging slowly southward and will cover all of the province by this evening.

TO VISIT MOTHER

Washington, April 12 —(AP)— President Truman celebrates his second anniversary in the White House today with a flying trip to Missouri to spend the weekend with his 94-year-old mother.

The burdens of the presidency seem to rest lightly on the chief executive as he ends his second year in the White House nearing 63. His birthday is May 8.

His personal physician, Brig.-Gen. Wallace Graham, says the President's health is "the best it has ever been" and that he has the energy of the average man 20 years younger.

MUST ALSO NOT MOLEST HIS WIFE'S CATS

Detroit, April 10 —(AP)—Mrs. Ebadsene Mann took legal steps today to protect her two cats from her husband.

She obtained an injunction restraining her estranged husband, Lester, not only from molesting her but also from molesting the cats.

Lester, Mrs. Mann told the judge, has often threatened the felines with bodily harm.

"Mystery Man" Denies He Financed Illegal Immigration to Palestine

Paris, April 12 (Reuters) — Max Intrator, 'mystery man' mentioned in recent British police court cases and described in one as having "a great deal to do with Palestine and the troubles in that country" today denied, through his lawyer, that he had financed illegal Jewish immigration into Palestine with the proceeds from alleged illegal dealings in currency.

Intrator, 36, and born in Berlin, is stateless, holding no national passport.

A French magistrate who examined Intrator stated that charges against him were limited to currency offences in France.

"They have nothing to do with any activities in Palestine," the magistrate said.

Through another caller who saw him this morning, Intrator—known as "Black Max" — described newspaper reports of his profits as "exaggerated."

Commenting on these reports, which estimated his proceeds as high as £1,000,000 ($4,000,000), Intrator told his visitor that between May, 1946, when he is alleged to have started operations, until December, 1946, when he was arrested here, his profits did not exceed £60,000 to £80,000.

Intrator's visitor added that Max described as "pure poppycock" a report that a British immigration officer turned him back to France from Croydon in September, 1946, "simply because he didn't like the look of my face."

Andre Klotz, Intrator's lawyer, claimed that Intrator could not be tried by a British court after once being convicted or acquitted by a French court. The French would not be obliged to surrender Intrator even if the British authorities asked for his extradition on political grounds, Klotz said.

He added that not even an approximate date had been set for Intrator's trial. Investigations were expected to last some time,

Russia Wants Reparations Payments From Current Production on Large Scale

—Vishinsky

Moscow, April 12 (AP)— A. Y. Vishinsky Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, made it clear today that in his opinion Russia never would accept a German settlement without reparations payments to the Soviet Union from current production, on a large scale.

Vishinsky, right hand man of Foreign Minister Molotov, said acceptance by the United States of the principle of current reparations was the thing "we have been fighting for" in the council of foreign ministers.

Vishinsky told a press conference—the first held by a Soviet official since the foreign ministers convened—that this lack of agreement on the approach to reparations was the foremost difficulty between the western powers and the Soviet Union.

Vishinsky's conference drew many British, American, French and Russian correspondents and produced one sharp exchange between Vishinsky and a British reporter.

W. N. Ewer, of The London Herald, objected to Vischinsky's statement that Britain and the United States were taking current reparations from their occupation zones in the form of coal and other resources. Ewer said Britain had received no coal and that coal sold from the British zone had been used to pay for imports into Germany."

"If Mr. Vischinsky is aware of these two rudimentary facts what is his motive in making these charges against us, his allies?" Ewer asked.

"If it is said," Vishinsky replied, "that Great Britain has received coal—"

"Great Britain has received no coal," Ewer interrupted.

Vishinsky continued that the question arose as to the price of the coal and said that was a matter for the economists. The correspondent shouted that Britain had received "not one penny in profit."

Vishinsky then said there was a matter of patents from the western zones, which he claimed the western powers had received as reparations.

"But I am prepared to study this question of coal, and I hope Mr. Ewer will study it," he said.

GERMAN CAPITAL MAY JOIN CIRCLE OF FREE CITIES

At One Time Sovereign Bodies and Remained So After Incorporation Into Reich

By ERIC BOURNE

Berlin, April 12 —(Reuters)— Germany's former capital will eventually join the select and ancient circle of Germany's "free cities" if the Social Democratic majority and the two right-wing parties in the Berlin city parliament have their way.

The so-called free cities were the self-governing city-states which were at one time sovereign bodies and remained more or less so, even after their incorporation into the Reich, until Germany's administration was centralized by Hitler as part of the "shape of things to come."

Only three of the many such city-states were in being in Napoleon's time survived into the 20th century—Hamburg, Bremen and Lunebeck, all of them one-time members of the the Hanseatic League.

In January, under British decisions which returned to the Germans authority in many departments of provincial administration, Hamburg and Bremen regained their old autonomy, with land (state) status.

Now Berlin, which neither is a seaport nor enjoys similar traditions, is, if its municipal rulers prevail, an aspirant to a similar place in the republic of the future.

The Social Democrats have tabled a resolution to this end based on the argument that, with the liquidation of the Reich and the abolition of Prussia, Berlin is left, as it were, suspended in midair denied both the right to city self-sufficiency or to incorporation into the Soviet occupied province of Brandenburg, of which it was formerly a part, because of the city's present division into four sectors each responsible to a different master.

The question has not yet been the subject of public debate. It is not likely to come thus into the limelight until the pattern of Germany which may emerge from the Moscow Conference becomes discernible.

DOUBLE SUMMER TIME BEGINS

London, April 12 (AP)—Britons will turn their clocks ahead another hour tomorrow to place the nation on double Summer time—two hours ahead of Standard Greenwich Mean Time, or seven hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time. The change, to begin at 2 a.m. Sunday, will continue until Aug. 10, when Britain will revert to Summer Time, which became effective last month.

EXPERIENCE AT COLLEGE

Hagerstown, Md., April 12 — (AP)— E. H. Koons had the floor at a class of '27 reunion of Hagerstown High Alumni.

He reminisced that he never would forget his dismay at losing a brand-new fountain pen in City Park Lake when he was a sophomore 23 years ago.

Merle G. Kaetzel got up to say he never would forget his joy at finding a brand-new fountain pen in City Park Lake 23 years ago.

It was the same pen, both agreed, after a close look.

TWO DUTCH BOYS ROW TO SHIPWRECK SCENE, SAVE FOUR

British Vessel Sunk After Hitting Mine Off Holland; Nine Persons Missing

Flushing, Holland, April 12 — (Reuters) — Two youths — a Dutch farmer's boy and a cabin boy — today rescued four injured survivors from the 824 - ton British steamship Viceroy, which was reported to have sunk after striking a mine off the coast of Holland. Eight persons and a Belgian pilot are missing.

The boys manned a small boat and went out to the scene of the disaster.

Later reports said the Viceroy was carrying ammunition and sank "after an explosion."

Amsterdam, April 12 — (AP) — Nine persons were missing—feared dead — after the 824-ton British freighter Viceroy struck a mine in the Western Scheldt between Antwerp and Vlissingen early today and sank immediately.

Four injured crew members arrived at Vlissingen aboard the Swedish steamship Lungo.

Hitler Had Great Fear of B-29s Records Show

Bq RICHARD O'REGAN

Frankfurt, April 12 (AP) — Adolf Hitler had a terrible fear of the American B-29 Superfortress Bomber in the last months of the war and an amazing lack of faith in his own V-weapons, charred records of his secret staff conferences showed today.

The party burned stenographic transcripts of his wartime conferences, captured by the United States Army and released here, disclosed Hitler told Herman Goering and members of the army general staff Jan. 10, 1945:

"Things are such that the American B-29 now is in action. The Japanese see them already. I feel a great danger, and one cannot weight this danger too lightly. The B-29 bomber can be Germany's destruction. These deadly machines will make their appearance here."

The B-29 never appeared in Europe during the war, but Hitler's repeated references to them showed he feared them perhaps even more than the approaching armies of the Allies.

"Even now," he told Luftwaffe Chief Goering, blasting the fat field marshal for fiddling around with construction of out-of-date fighter planes, "the enemy planes come like a parade, and when the big ones come, German planes will literally enter a hailstorm of fire."

As for the V-1 and V-2 weapons, which Goebbels promised the German people would turn the tide of the war for them, Hitler had different ideas when he spoke secretly to his generals.

On the same day he was so worried about the appearance of the B-29, he said:

"I am sorry to say that the V-weapon cannot decide the war."

WALLACE CHARGES U.S. EMBARKED ON IMPERIALISM

Says Program Must Fail Because Americans Will Never Pay Cost And Cannot Pay Cost

Manchester, England, April 12 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace charged today that the United States had embarked on a program of "ruthless Imperialism" and declared that the program must fail because "Americans will never pay the cost and they cannot pay the cost."

In an attack on President Truman's proposals for aid to Turkey and Greece, prepared for delivery at a public meeting in this midlands industrial centre, Wallace said America's present program "if unchecked" would stretch the "American Empire" from China to the Near East and from Pole to Pole.

"This position of ruthless Imperialism is the position which all groups blinded by hatred of Russia must ultimately defend," the former American vice-president and cabinet member declared, adding: "It may cost little to divide the world, but to keep the world divided is beyond the resources of any nation."

Here on the first leg of a speaking tour, Wallace said the United States was controlled "by men who believe that in a world in which capitalism and communism live side by side there is little hope for peace."

"They believe," he said, "that the United Nations is doomed to insignificance. They believe that communism threatens the world and must be stopped by American material and arms."

But, Wallace said, "we cannot buy off world communism any more than we can suppress the idea of communism by force of arms. No free people will be bought—no unfree people will stay bought."

Britain Asked to Assist

London, April 12 —(AP)— Front page headlines and leading editorials were devoted by British newspapers today to Henry A. Wallace's appeal for Great Britain to exert moral leadership in an effort to avert a "death struggle" between the United States and Russia.

The Times said "there can be no quarrel with Mr. Wallace's theme" — expressed in a speech last night at London's central hall —"that it is the duty of the democratic countries to offer the world not merely the hope of personal freedom but that constructive program of social advance which is essential to its attainment and preservation."

Of the former American vice-president's expressed fear of a war between the United States and the Soviet Union, however, the Times said: "This pessimism is excessive. Mr. Wallace clearly does not think so ill of Russia as to suppose that she is spoiling for a fight; and no sober view of American policy today justifies the imputation of aggressive intentions to the U. S."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph, which today published the first instalment of a copyrighted series by Winston Churchill in favor of American policy in Greece, said Wallace spoke "in terms borrowed from the late Mr. Wendell Willkie."

BENGAL HINDU MEMORANDUM

New Delhi, April 12 (Reuters) —Bengal Hindu members of the Central Legislature yesterday submitted a memorandum to Rear Admiral Viscount Mountbatten, the Viceroy, asking for the constitution of a "separate autonomous province in west and north Bengal" which would be part of the Indian Union.

Galt Flooded As Waters Behind Dam Released

Furnace Fires Extinguished And Many Cars Marooned

(By The Canadian Press)

Scores of residents fled their homes in widely-scattered areas of Ontario today as rampaging rivers roared over their banks. The worst flood since 1929 swept through the city of Galt and at Owen Sound gangs of men worked feverishly with sandbags to save the mill dam on the Sydenham River.

Communities along the Grand River Valley, including the cities of Guelph, Galt and Brantford, were threatened by water racing at 18,000 feet per second from Belwood Lake. Waters of the lake piled up behind the Shand dam, were released to relieve the strain on the dam, taxed to the limit by its weight of water from heavy rains and melted snows.

Ottawa Flooded.

Other Ontario flood spots were at Ottawa, where some 75 flood-threatened families were evacuated from their homes, at Pembroke, northwest of the capital, and at Meaford on Georgian Bay where the Big Head River did heavy damage.

Damage at Galt was estimated by officials at thousands of dollars as the Belwood Lake flood burst down the Grand River waterway. Cellars of all riverside buildings there were inundated and furnace fires extinguished as the water coursed down Water Street from the dam to well south of the city, marooning a car on Highway 24 so only its top was visible.

Residents of the Grand River valley were warned last night to prepare for the flood but nobody judged the water would go as high as it did. At 3 a.m. police warned riverside residents in Galt to move their furnishings from the main floors. Several families, their homes surrounded by water were evacuated by trucks. The water ran down Ainslie Street, a block away from the river.

Stream Still Rising

At Brantford the flood was still a foot and a half below the flood peak reached a week ago—seven feet, five inches above normal. But the stream was still rising with the peak expected later today.

At Galt the water lapped at the flooring of the three city bridges and lapped over the top of a railway bridge connecting the two sides of the river and providing a switching service to west side industries.

William Phillip, chairman of the Grand River Conservation Commission, who reviewed the situation at the Shand Dam last night, said today that the volume of water coming down was beyond all anticipation and had broken all records. Several towns to the north of Galt were badly flooded with 10 feet of water in some instances.

Might Damage Dam

The warning to Grand River residents was broadcast by F. Roberts, Secretary-Treasurer of the Commission. He said at that time that the water would be released at 12,000 feet per second but officials found the water from dam today went out at 18,000 feet per second. Mr. Roberts said if the water were not released the lake would overflow and this might cause damage to the dam.

In another sector of Ontario's flood battle, emergency Red Cross volunteers sought temporary accommodation for some 75 flood-threatened families in suburban South Ottawa as the roaring water of the Rideau River continued to rise at an inch-an-hour rate. The flood was described as the worst in 20 years with a large number of homes surrounded.

Northwest of the Capital several families faced evacuation as the ordinarily peaceful Indian River started to go out of its banks.

Urgent Call For Help

A urgent call for help went out today for 50 men to help save the Mill Dam on the Sydenham River at Owen Sound. Flood waters poured over the concrete wall despite all-out efforts by a large gang of men sandbagging the wall. Firemen and Board of Works employees worked through the night but the rising river made the situation desperate this morning. No homes are threatened by the bursting of the dam.

Waterloo County residents along the Grand River left their homes at some points and others retreated to second floor levels as the swollen stream seeped in and coursed over lower floors. At Bridgeport, one of the hardest hit centres, about 30 houses were isolated and boats replaced cars and trucks on two county roads through the low-lying section of the village.

Some citizens left their houses at midnight or early this morning and sought refuge in upper floors of neighbors' homes. The river was a raging torrent at Conestoga, West Montrose and Winterbourne. A large section of West Montrose, to the north of Kitchener, was isolated with cellars flooded and several families evacuated. Household furniture was badly damaged in these centres.

U.S. Observes 2nd Anniversary Roosevelt's Death

Hyde Park, N.Y. April 12. — (AP)—The United States today observes the second anniversary of Franklin D. Roosevelt's death, with ceremonies planned at the old Hudson River Valley mansion which he had hoped to enjoy in retirement.

On the flagstoped portico, a favorite lounging place of the late President, a memorial program will be broadcast over three networks (NBC, ABC, MBS) from 4.30 to 4.45 p.m. E.S.T.

President Truman, who succeeded to the cares of Mr. Roosevelt's office two years ago today, will speak from Kansas City in tribute to his predecessor.

From the portico, only a stone's throw from the rose garden where the President was buried, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and the former Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, will broadcast.

YOUTH CAPTURED

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — A 16-year-old youth walked into the home of Miss Mary Rogers last night and asked if any one could identify the person who had struck a woman and attempted to steal her purse.

Miss Rogers — the woman is question — replied: "Yes, it was you." The youth was seized by her uncle and arrested on a charge of assault and attempted theft.

Only 45 Persons in U.K. Now Have Over $24,000 Income After Taxes Paid

London, April 12. (AP)—The Treasury disclosed today that Britain's wealthiest group—those with net incomes, after deductions of taxes, of more than $24,000 a year—dropped from 7,000 individuals in 1939 to an exclusive 45 in the fiscal year 1945-1946.

A Treasury white paper also said that during the same period only 840 persons had incomes from $16,000 to $24,000, as compared with 12,000 in the fiscal year 1938-1939.

To retain $24,000 after heavy British taxes, a person must have a gross income of more than $200,000 a year.

At the other end of the scale the white paper showed that 7,950,000 had net incomes after taxes last year of $600 to $1,000 compared to only 4,500,000 making so much in 1939.

Of Britain's total of 14,000,000 taxpayers last year 13,175,000 had incomes after taxes of less than $2,000.

Despite the dwindling of the "millionaire" class revealed by these figures, the Laborite Daily Herald said editorially:

"It is still true to say that about half the nation's money incomes goes to 10 or 15 per cent of the population, just as it did before the war. All this, of course, is before payment of taxation; and unquestionably a tremendous redistribution, not merely of incomes, but of the real standards of living has been achieved by taxation, social services and rationing in the last seven years."

Property Owners Want Ruling On By-law Validity

President Jamieson Bone of the Property Owners' Association, and his board of directors at a special meeting last night passed a resolution requesting that the report from the Department of Municipal Affairs on the validity of the by-law establishing a two-year term for aldermen be made public.

Speaking to the motion, members of the executive were of the opinion that Mayor Frank Follwell feels he should have a two-year term if the by-law is valid. If not, the board feels an election should be held immediately.

Directors expressed regret at the apparent lack of co-operation between the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce. They believe that industrial affairs should be conducted by both bodies, each having confidence in the other. They further urged that strict economy be practised and that construction be held to a minimum until labor and materials become more plentiful.

During the discussion, it was decided that a delegation of the directors would wait upon the Chamber of Commerce Board to urge closer co-operation between the two bodies with regard to civic welfare.

The city is in an uproar over the rise in the tax rate and extravagance of the city council, it was stated. Directors discussed the recent appropriation of $9,000 for veterans, which, it was intimated, the veterans do not seem to want, and which the taxpayer knows nothing about.

The directors unanimously endorsed another resolution to the effect that the Belleville Public Utilities be asked to make public the engineering report on the gas plant which the commission received several months ago.

Boys Shooting At Bottle Get Big Surprise

Maybe it was the fairies. Maybe it was an optical illusion. In any event two small boys wandering about a marsh west of Rossmore the other day rubbed amazed eyes at what they thought was a magical transformation.

It happened this way. The boys out for a stroll with their trusty .22's saw a bottle floating in the water of the marsh. One of them raised his gun to his shoulder and fired.

The bottle disappeared. Seconds later the young hunters stood agape at what they saw. Floating in the water was a nice four-pound pike.

Whether the lads had disturbed the fish at his afternoon toddy, or it was just a coincidence, will never be known. In any event, the story can be taken as true, for the youngsters are not addicted to anything stronger than water or milk.

Pike Protected During Period Spawning Season

The Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, announced today a closed season on the taking of pike by any means for the period between Monday, April 14th to Monday, April 28, both days inclusive. The announcement includes commercial fishermen and anglers.

The announcement applied to the waters of the Bay of Quinte and that part of Lake Ontario fronting the counties of Durham, Northumberland, Pr. Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac.

Protection of pike during the spawning season is the reason for the closed period. It is the first time that such action has been taken by the department.

Padre Swan Special Speaker When Rotary 'Ladies Night' Held at Albert College

Squadron Leader From Trenton Air Station Says Enthusiasm for Good Causes Would Make for Better Citizens

Patterning an eloquent address with a thread of personal experiences, Squadron Leader J. Minto Swan, M.A., padre at the Trenton R.C.A.F. Station, and guest speaker at the Rotary Club's annual "Ladies' Night" at Albert College on Friday night, told 150 clubmen, their wives and guests, that enthusiasm for good causes, would make for better citizens, better service clubs, better nations and a better world.

"Four of the main good causes" Squadron Leader Swan said, "were international friendship; management and labor; youth, and life."

"Enthusiasm, he went on, a word with a tremendous meaning derived from the Greek, is a divine quality, and an inspiration that is a valuable asset to human life.

Two thousand years ago, Easter, with its great message, provided a few people with a new outlook. They were sad at heart, but Easter changed their perspective of life and they greeted a good cause with enthusiasm.

Quoted the Miracle

The speaker quoted the miracle of London in the last war. "He saw," he said, "the famous Old Bailey with its figure of Justice with scales and sword, and rising behind it on the horizon, the majestic, rubble - surrounded dome of St. Pauls."

"I saw there the great symbol of British justice and above it the symbol of Christian faith. If we could, as we should, follow the example shown there, then we too would have enthusiasm for a good cause."

Referring to International Friendship, Squadron Leader Swan said, "that those in armed services would not soon forget the friendships they made. Friendships that were lasting. A comradeship that stays. A camaraderie that brought all closer together."

Friendship Important

Friendship of other nations and peoples is important and Canada must not forget them but try to develop and maintain this cause. It is a good one and all can and should do their part. Rotary does it because it is international.

"But," Squadron Leader Swan said, "are you working at the international side? Do you do anything besides paying dues?"

Referring to management and labor, the speaker reviewed conditions in England while he was there. He had visited the Welsh coal mines; he had seen the industries of the Midlands, and he had been to the lovely country of the south.

"I did not meet one Englishman," he said who could tell me he had met the president of his firm." On the other hand he had not met an executive who knew his men. This attitude was predominant.

Opportunities Missed

"We are getting in the same position. We hope to feel out a new ground and bring together all men for the good of mankind and the brotherhood of the world. Management and labor is a good cause, and should be operated along the lines of friendship, co-operation and understanding. With these three qualities we can create a new enthusiasm and be on the road to success."

There is a need for enthusiasm among the older people to say what is a good thing for developing youth, the speaker declared. He felt that great many opportunities had been missed.

"We must interpet life for them and not say one of two things; that they are the best in the world, or toss them aside with the remark that they are young people and as such are not to be bothered with."

"Between these two things is the answer to juvenile delinquency," Squadron Leader Swan said. "A man that never made a mistake, never made anything else."

Life Needs Enthusiasm

"If we expand individual relationship as much as we can, we will find that it pays dividends," he said.

Squadron Leader Swan advocated "happy thrilling adventurous lives." If life loses its adventure and thrill, it loses something that was meant for it 2,000 years ago. It must have in it worthwhile values. But it needs enthusiasm to keep, it moving from one level to a higher one.

Life is a good cause, he continued, one that has an expanding level which will be successful when all the talents God gave us are used to the fullest capacity. And to be a good cause, it must have spiritual as well as material wealth. Success is not merely being able to write cheque.

The speaker quoted the instance of a millionaire he had met during a train journey. He admitted that he was a success in the eyes of his clubmen, but not in his own heart for he had not given his children the things which would make them the men and women he wanted them to be.

Dignified Setting

In conclusion, Squadron Leader Swan urged his listeners to think again of enthusiasm for good causes. "If we carry these things out, we shall have a better world in which we can enjoy ourselves."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Rev. Grant Sparling, while appreciation of the assemblage was ably expressed by Rotarian President Dr. Bert Howard.

Stately Ackerman Hall provided a dignified setting for the function. The banquet served by the kitchen staff of the college with volunteer serviteurs from the city, a galaxy of young ladies was enjoyed under the soft glow of candlelight.

President Welcomes Ladies.

President Howard formally welcomed the ladies, members of his club and the guests. He paid tribute to those members whose efforts had been climaxed by the success of the function, and added appreciation of the co-operation he had received from all Rotarians during his tenure of office in the chair.

Secretary Alex Nathan, president-elect of the club, introduced guest representatives of other service clubs of the city, and their wives. Included were Kiwanis President Jack White; Past President Newt. Wilbur. Kinsmen Club; Past President Jack Wilson, Y's Men's Club: Jack Sharland, director, the Optimist Club. Tribute was also paid to the young lady volunteer waitresses, Chef Hugh Brown and Kiwanian Taylor Franklin, of the college staff.

The toast to "The Ladies" was given by Rotarian Art Francis who resorted to the poets to put his theme across. Rotarian Francis quoting the Rubaiyat's "A Loaf of Bread; a Jug of Wine. and Thou," said that Paradise would be "enow" minus the wine and perhaps the book. He quoted other poets, but discarded their themes re the ladies in favor of the Khayam.

Mrs. Scott Responds.

Mrs. Gilbert Scott, responding to the toast in humorous vein themed her address with funny reference to presidential and other letters received by the ladies regarding the mode of apparel to be worn at the function. Mrs. Scott, in clever phraseology. highlighted her speech with gay references to what the Rotary lady experiences when the man of the home arrives for dinner. The response was cleverly done. and thoroughly enjoyed.

Rotarian Jack Deacon was in exceptionally good voice, and not only led the community singing. but added vocal solos, one of which was composed by Mrs. Mary Deacon, (the good wife, that is), who provided piano accompaniment.

The ladies were the recipients of favors in the form of handsomely boxed pairs of candlesticks.

Following the program proper and an intermission, the clubmen their wives and guests enjoyed dancing to the music of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Warham, and bridge.

Albert College Cage Squad 'C' Class Tourney

Albert College basketball squad last night won the "C" division title in the second Queen's University Annual Tournament held in the college gymnasia during the past three days.

Under the supervision of Coach Johnny Hayman, the college team played brilliant basketball winning four games and losing one. They came through cleverly in the finals defeating the Napanee team, the only squad to tack a loss on them, by the decisive score of 44-14.

The Hayman-coached crew took Almonte 23-16 in the first game but dropped the second to Napanee 37-30 after a close struggle. They overwhelmed Gananoque 38-15 in the third tussle and went on to down Trenton 38-23 in the fourth game. The finals saw them play their best game of the tournament to win the coveted title.

Johnny Merkley, all-round athlete of the college was awarded the trophy for being the best player in "C" division.

Belleville Collegiate Institute was eliminated after defeating Regiopolis and Cobourg in their first two tournament battles. The Church Street kids went down to defeat before Cornwall, ultimate division champions, and then bowed to Cobourg in their second meeting. The double loss eliminated Red Townsend's crew.

Ottawa Glebe defeated Ottawa University High School in the "A" Division.

Ross Ross-Ross of Cornwall won the best-player award in "B" Division while the star of the entire tournament Mark Rochon, Ottawa Glebe won it in the "A" division.

Dr. R. C. Wallace, Queen's University head presented the prizes at a ceremony held at the conclusion of the tournament.

David Hollinger One of First At Spring Work

Annually one of the first farmers in the Belleville district to commence work on the land, Mr. David Hollinger, Oak Hills, has started spring cultivation. The date is approximately two weeks later than last year.

In addition to having done some cultivating, Mr. Hollinger has rolled his meadows and also his fall wheat, stating that the latter came through the winter in excellent condition.

With spring work coming on Mr. Hollinger expected to call it quits for the syrup season and stated he would pull his buckets up this weekend. The syrup season on the whole was stated to have been successful.

Inter-Service Council May Stage Entire Program for Old Home Week.

The Belleville Inter-Service Club Council will consider taking over the entire responsibility for staging of the Old Home Week program this coming July and members of this organization will hold a meeting next week to decide on the matter.

The above possibility was seen at a meeting of the Old Home committee held at the city hall Friday evening the decision for the Inter-Service Club Council to consider the matter of program responsibility coming as result of a counter resolution to an offer of the service club organization to take over the evening program for the entire period of Old Home Week.

At next week's meeting of the Service Club Council members of that organization will decide whether or not they will assume responsibility for the entire Old Home Week proceedings, and if so, will also decide on what program will be arranged. President of the Old Home Week committee, Mayor Frank S. Follwell, and secretary N. Nicholson, will attend the meeting as a committee with power to act in the matter of turning over responsibility to the service club council.

If the Inter-Service Club Council assume responsibility of the Old Home Week this would entail arranging of the entire program and sending out invitations to former residents.

CSOME DOUBTFUL STARTERS

(By The Associated Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets can win their first American Hockey League championship here tonight by defeating the burly Hershey Bears in the sixth game of the Calder Cup series.

Pittsburgh has won three games and Hershey two in the best-of-seven series.

Pete Backor was cut on the instep by a skate Thursday, and is expected to play tonight for the Hornets but Gordie Bruce and Frank Mario are doubtful competitors for the Bears.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

IDENTIFICATION BY SONG

"Sh," I barely whispered, "different."

The moment the little songster had started we both recognized the voice as a Warbler's, but knew this was not one we were accustomed to hear. Silently we counted off the syllables, and both of us held up six fingers. The high-pitched, brief song was not as monotonous as some, because the fourth and fifth syllables were "blurred" and a tone lower than the rest.

Though we craned our necks, no sight could we get of the musician, who seemed to be hidden near the top of a tall spruce. There was a short pause. Then the voice came from a little way off: our new friend had flown. Rapidly turning over the pages of our "Bird Guide" we came to "Black-throated Green Warbler." Yes, this description fitted perfectly.

Who of us in Canada would not recognize the voices of a Robin and a Crow? But Warblers sound so much alike that we often say, "Oh, that's a Warbler," and let it go at that.

A musically inclined person might try to catch the bird's tune and get it on paper as soon as possible. Tonic solfa is the fastest medium. But one need not be musical in order to set down the rhythm. A series of long and short dashes, with commas where pauses occur, will answer the purpose.

The songs of every member of certain species sound exactly alike—as the "chip, chip, chip" of the Chipping Sparrow. On the other hand, every Song Sparrow has its own song. So although the initiated immediately recognizes the species by the quality of the voice the beginner in bird lore finds this confusing.

These cases, however, are extremes. Most members of a species sing pretty much the same, with individual differences apparent to the trained ear. A good kind to experiment with is the White-throated Sparrow, or Canada Bird, as it is popularly called. The rhythm of the song is unmistakeable. But individuals sing in different keys. Also, some keep on a monotone, some pitch the first two notes above the others, some have but one very high note, and so on. In spring all say, "Sweet sweet, Canada, Canada, Canada."

If you are not accustomed to identifying birds by their voices do not expect miracles. "Practice makes perfect."

Woman Executed In Gas Chamber

San Quentin, Calif., April 12—(AP) — Mrs. Louise Peete Judson, 59, was executed in San Quentin prison's gas chamber Friday for the murder of a benefactress to whom she had been paroled after serving 18 years of a life sentence for an earlier slaying.

Her execution — the second time California had exacted a woman's life for crime — came eight years to the day after her release on parole from the sentence for her first murder.

The chunky little woman had been convicted of two murders, had seen three husbands die by their own hands, and had lived to know that the husband of one of the murder victims died in a mental hospital.

E.D. Fulton, M.P., Will Address P-C Assoc. Here

A Kamloops lawyer who fought overseas with the Seaforth Highlanders is the Progressive Conservative Member for Kamloops Riding, B.C. He is Edmund Davie Fulton, 31-year-old son of a notable Kamloops family. He will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Belleville Progressive Conservative Association next Monday. Arrangements for the meeting were made by George H. Stokes, M. P.

Graduating from the University of British Columbia, with a Rhodes Scholarship, in 1936, Davie Fulton spent three years at Oxford and shortly before the outbreak of war entered the legal firm of Fulton and Morley in Kamloops.

E. D. Fulton, P.C. member for Kamloops Riding, B.C.

Early in 1940, he enlisted with the Seaforth Highlanders and a short time later went overseas. He served in Italy for a considerable time and returned to Canada with the rank of Major.

Davie Fulton's father, the late Frederick J. Fulton, was a minister of Lands and Works in the McBride government of British Columbia, and was sent to Ottawa as the Kamloops member during the Union Government of Sir Robert Borden. His uncle, C. F. Davie, was speaker of the provincial legislature during the term of the Tolmie Government in B.C. and both his grandfather and his grand uncle on his mother's side were Premiers of British Columbia.

Mr. Fulton was elected to the presidency of the Young Progressive Conservatives of Canada at their annual meeting in March 1946. He was re-elected by acclamation a year later as a result of the excellent progress made by the organization under his leadership.

Major Fulton was the first candidate nominated by the Progressive Conservative Party in British Columbia.

On September 7, 1946, he married Patricia McCrae, Winnipeg.

VANCOUVER WINS

Vancouver, April 12 — (CP) — The west coast has a good chance in the final battle for the men's basketball championship this year if Vancouver Meralomas' 68-55 defeat of the Winnipeg St. Andrew's in the first game of the best-of-three western final here last night means anything.

Ole Bakken of the Meralomas led the scorers, with 19 points, for Winnipeg Jim Bullock, leading scorer for the Andies in regular season play, split 24 points with Roy Burkett, while Geoff Mortimer added 11 markers.

Intregrated Housing Plan Calls For Erection of 38 Homes Here

Pictured above is the housing development which last year was constructed in Oshawa under the Integrated Housing Plan through the Schofield Insurance Agency of that city. The same company this year will act as the administrators in the erection of approximately 38 houses of like nature in Belleville, at the Wellington Street and College Street areas, with J. R. Rashotte, local contractor as builder.

In all it is expected that approximately 78 houses under the Integrated Housing Plan will be erected in Belleville this coming summer.

This plan provides for the building of moderately priced home for sale to veterans of World War II. The down payment requirements are low and mortgage interest rate is 4½ per cent. The terms of repayment of the mortgage are such that a monthly payment is made which covered principal, interest and taxes. This payment is based on the complete amortization of the home in 20 years.

Homes are constructed of sound materials and must conform to good building standards. Designs are practical and pleasing with all homes having concrete basements and are usually of brick veneer sidings, but they may be frame or stucco. Hot air gravity heating is provided; standard three-piece bathrooms; kitchen cupboards and mastic tile floors in bathroom and kitchen. Hardwood floors are throughout the house.

Schacht Holds To His Views Against Jews

Stuttgart, Germany, April 12—(AP)—Hjalmar Schacht declared at his denazification trial Friday he still believed Jews ought to be eliminated from all influence in German culture and economy.

Spectators in the courtroom murmured in shocked disapproval.

The prosecution charged earlier that Schacht's financial manipulations provided much of the spade work for the rearming of Germans for the Second World War.

When Balarin rebuked Schacht for associating with the Nazis, the 72-year-old former president of the Reichsbank replied in sarcastic tones:

"All the institutions throughout the world had intercourse with Hitler, and foreign diplomats came to Berlin to shake his hand. Never was an objection raised, and they worked together with him and his government — even signed treaties with him.

"Why should I, as a German, mistrust him more than others?"

Community Centres Praised

Ontario Training Schools Advisory Board looks with a great deal of favor on "the growing movement for community centres" which it "welcomes as a step to reduce child delinquency. In the last annual report for the year ending March 31st., 1946, just received, the board comments: "These centres may well create activities and interests which many young people now lack. They may aid in parent education and help to prevent juvenile delinquency."

Further the board says, "Each week in designating boys and girls to these schools we have been impressed with the factual evidence given by the Juvenile Courts. In come 90 per cent of the cases either one or both parents have been grossly at fault in failing to provide desirable home training for the child. Excesses in the various physical appetites have been rampant on the part of the parents. It seems that some action should be taken to correct such poor surroundings and undesirable patterns of adult conduct in molding children's acts.

"We feel that some adults need special training to help them to realize their pliance in helping children to become desirable citizens."

"From our day to day view of actual cases, it seems to us that those parents who appear to have lost control of their children, have not seriously regarded their responsibilities."

The board also declared that "the Training Schools are not to be considered as penal institutions, but have for their object the training, educating and guidance of delinquent boys and girls, so that they may as soon as possible become capable of taking their places in the community again as good citizens."

The board stresses physical training as "a most important part of training" in the form of a health, sports program, gymnasium work and personal hygiene and fitness. It also points out that "some procedure is desirable by which grading in ability, character and manner should rate a value equivalent to a grading in shorthand, mathematics and literature" in these training schools.

Battling Cancer Problem

That early treatment of cancer is achieving victories over that dread disease was indicated at a meeting this week in Cleveland, O., at which it was stated that deaths from the disease have dropped from 90 to 78.9 per 100,000. The editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer says that "this gain is in large part the result of public education. Treatment of cancer has been held back by fear and by ignorance. Together they have caused thousands and thousands of persons to shun medical treatment on becoming aware that cancer has struck them. Others have not sought medical advice because of failure to realize the seriousness of their ailment. The result has been a needless death toll. Early diagnosis and treatment are essential to recovery."

The campaign in both Canada and the United States this month ought to result in greatly increased memberships for the Cancer Societies, more and more public information and of course it will help in the stimulation of research. In the latter field, the organizations are at work to conquer the cancer by gathering scientific facts that may lead to the finding of the cause of this disease.

Britain's Reclamation Plans

Britain is taking energetic action to avert the serious threat to food production caused by the succession of blizzards, frosts and floods. Wide areas are devastated, hundreds of thousands of acres swamped and whole districts drowned under the rush of water. Winter snows and spring thaws and rains have created the menace to crops never equalled.

A national drive to reclaim the Fenlands in time for this season's sowing has been launched. It is in this district that the flooding has been the most catastrophic, with forty-five square miles completely submerged to a depth of several feet. Including the other areas affected, it is officially estimated that not less than 500,000 acres of Britain's agricultural land have been put out of cultivation.

The aim of the government's reclamation drive is to clear fertile farming land in the Fens within the next three weeks. The original estimate was that the task not removed and fields pumped dry within a month at the most it may mean that land may be out of cultivation for years. The first stage of the campaign opened on March 27th with hundreds of National Fire Service trailer pumps converging from all parts of the country on the former R.A.F. bomber station designated by the Minister of Agriculture as headquarters. These will supplement 800 N.F.S. pumps which have already cleared more than 78,000,000 gallons.

Worsted

Spelling the difference between high or low production, the distinction between worsted and woollen cloth never has been so important. "Worsted" is the name given a hard-finish cloth by William the Conqueror in 1066 when he observed the Britons making it. He had just worsted the Britons, so whimsically he called the cloth "worsted," says Wall Street Journal.

Worsted cloth is made from longer length and combed woollen fibres, twisted into yarn, and then woven into smooth, hard cloth such as serge. It is durable, keeps its shape well, and is especially popular for men's suits.

Woollen cloth, on the other hand is made of shorter wool fibres — often the fibres not suitable for worsted yarns. Woven into tweeds, shetlands and flannels, it has a soft, fleecy look. Woollens often make a nice appearance, but aren't as durable and don't retain their press as well as worsteds.

Back to School

Miss Jean Arthur, an extremely personable motion picture actress, has matriculated at Stephens College, an outstanding school for women in Missouri, at the age of 38.

This is a commendable step on the part of Miss Arthur, who has expressed a determination to round out an education that was interrupted by the necessity of going to work, and who has signed up for courses in philosophy, humanities, marriage and the home, biology and horseback riding.

If Miss Arthur is serious and steadfast in her purpose, she will do a real service to the cause of adult education. Being a movie actress, she can draw attention to falsity of a notion still too widely entertained, the notion that, once past his so-called formative years, a person is too old to learn much, too old to absorb formal instruction. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sailors

Sailors may grouse at times about the distinctive dress which they wear. Jumpers, collars and all the rest of it may be a nuisance to the sailor who wants to go ashore in a hurry. But there are few sailors who do not feel some sense of pride when well turned out in a uniform which stands for a good deal of tradition and prestige, thinks The Halifax Herald. There have been attempts from time to time to change the garb. Just as there are busy people who would forbid the Highland soldier to wear kilts for his "walking-out" uniform. These misguided people often propose changes with a view to "efficiency" (and sometimes, one suspects, because they have an office at headquarters and not enough to keep them usefully occupied.) Such "efficiency" is often misapplied.

Britain Not Backward

It should be pointed out that sweeping statements to the effect that the British industrial plant is obsolete should be taken with a large grain of salt. Certain industries such as mining and textiles have not kept pace with the mechanization of similar industries in other countries. However, in other fields Britain leads the world. The tremendous production of motors, machine tools and electrical equipment, ships and vehicles of all kinds during the war is indication enough that Britain is far from backward industrially, the Winnipeg Tribune says.

ILL-TEMPER

When temper takes the bit and rein,
The sanest man becomes insane.
Until he's taken time to cool
The wisest man will be a fool.
Even the greatest of the age
Desert good reason, in a rage.

The gods with taunting tricks annoy
The one they've chosen to destroy.
They rob him of his reason first
To leave him struggling at his worst,
For strength and skill to do are vain
When they are used without a brain.

Ill-temper long has proved to be
Man's craftiest, deadliest enemy.
Who would be fit for problems deep
Must patient, calm and thoughtful keep;
Stay still when angry words are said.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

When was the name of Constantinople changed?

Many people are under the impression that after the First World War the name of the Turkish city on the Bosporus was officially changed from Constantinople to Istanbul.

The name of this city has not been officially changed since it was captured by the Turks in 1453 and made the capital of the Ottoman Empire. From that time till now the official Turkish name has been Istanbul.

An ancient town on the site was known to the Greeks as "Byzantion" and to the Romans as "Byzantium." In 328 A.D. Constantine the Great began to enlarge Byzantium and two years later made it the seat of the Roman Empire in the East. It was then officially named "New Rome" and popularly "Constantinople," City of Constantine. The head of the Greek church still inscribes himself "Archbishop of Constantinople, New Rome."

Shortly after 1453 the Turks changed the name from "Constantinople" to "Istanbul," which is from Greek "eis ten polin," into the city, and which had been applied to one section of the city. In French "Istanbul" became "Stamboul." Foreigners, however, for nearly 500 years continued to call the city as a whole Constantinople and restricted the French "Stamboul" to the exclusively Turkish section.

After the First World War the Turks became tired of having Istanbul called Constantinople by foreigners and began to insist on the official Turkish name. At first the Turkish government requested that all persons writing to residents of the city address their letters to Istanbul. After this request had been ignored for several years the government in 1930 decreed that all letters coming into the city not addressed to Istanbul be returned. This meant that even foreign governments could not reach their diplomatic representatives in the city without using the official "Istanbul" instead of the popular "Constantinople." Individuals and firms outside the city could not correspond with anybody in the city without complying with the decree.

It was not long before foreign governments, including the United States, accepted the official "Istanbul."

In 1923 the Great National Assembly of Turkey declared Ankara on the Antolian Plateau to be the capital of the new republic. Foreigners had been calling this town Angora for centuries. Again Turkey insisted on the official native name and won its point by refusing to receive in Ankara any communications addressed to "Angora."

The old name, however, survives in "Angora goats," "Angora cats," "Angora rabbits" and other long-haired animals native to the Ankara region.

JUST AN OLD STORY WITH THIS MAN

Crawwordsville, Ind., April 12 —(AP)—Indiana telephone operators, kept at work by a new state law barring strikes or lockouts in public utilities, have been telling patrons of their dissatisfaction.

First they began by telling a caller "the Indiana public utility law is unconstitutional" and then accepting the call.

Then they added: "I'm working against my will."

up with an answer to this last one today when he told an operator:

"That's nothing. I've been doing that for 30 years."

Foods, Floods Leave Britain With "Gyme" to Fill

By HELEN ADAMS FRAME

London, April 12 —(Reuters) Britain has a "gyme" to fill in the banks of the flooded Fenland River Trent but she will have a longer and tougher task to fill the "gyme" which the adverse weather of the last three months has made in her food supply.

Opposite the 100-yard-wide breach in the Trent's banks is a huge water sealed pit, one of four in the area which have been there ever since the levees were thrown up in the 14th century. Local tradition claims it is bottomless and calls it a "gyme."

An equally alarming hole has been made in the country's available food supply by blizzards, snow, frost and floods. Each new set of statistics on the toll looks grimmer than the preceding one.

The latest was given last night by James Turner, president of the National Farmers Union, in a broadcast.

Two million sheep and lambs, a fifth of the total number in England and Wales were lost this winter, thirty thousand cattle were lost, 90,000 acres of winter grain, almost all of it wheat, were destroyed by floods and 200,000 acres more by frost. One hundred thousand tons of potatoes have been destroyed.

The Fenlands themselves are not yet free of floods.

About 30,000 acres which had been partly cleared of water have been inundated again.

On the outskirts of Gainsborough, Lincolnshire, 20,000 acres of some of the finest farmland in England are under water. Miles and miles of flooded countryside are dotted by roofs of isolated farmhouses and scraggling treetops and crazily hung with bits of debris.

Customer's Prank Annoys Bartender

Brantford, Apr. 12 (CP).— They tell stories of all sorts of persons who frequent beer parlors, but Brantford has one whose pet catfish caused confusion yesterday.

The customer ordered several beers for the catfish which he claimed was thirsty, to the astonishment of other customers and the disgust of the bartender. The bartender's annoyance resulted in the fact that the glasses were unfit for use after the fish had drunk from them.

The fish's owner desisted after the bartender threw away several glasses. Then, standing a round of drinks to all present, the customer left without taking the catfish. It was dead.

Arrest Man for Theft Of Copy of "Mona Lisa"

Paris, April 12 (AP)—French police arrested a 28-year-old Frenchman today who they said had confessed the theft of a 16th century copy of Leonardo da Vinci's famous "Mona Lisa," which hangs in the Louvre.

"That smile and those eyes made me lose my head," police said the man told them.

The painting, valued by its owner Paul Muller at more than 3,000,000 francs (about $25,000) was recovered.

OSHAWA MAYOR CHAIRMAN

Toronto, April 12 (CP)—Mayor Frank McCallum of Oshawa has been appointed chairman in charge of trucking operations for the Ontario government-sponsored campaign to collect food and clothing for British flood victims, it was disclosed last night.

Members of the Automotive Transport Association will supply without cost, their trucks to transport food and materials collected for municipal stations to the receiving warehouses.

While the campaign proper doesn't open until May 1, committee headquarters at Queen's Park has been informed that Niagara Falls schools collected 3,000 cans of food and 7,000 articles of clothing in one day.

LANGLEY COLLYER BURIED

New York, April 12 —(AP)— Langley Collyer, 61, was buried yesterday next to the blind and crippled brother he had tended devotedly for years.

"There goes a misunderstood man," said John R. McMullen, lawyer for the recluses, as Langley was lowered into a grave beside his brother, Homer, 65, in Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Homer was found dead in the home on Fifth Avenue on March 21. He died for lack of food and care, because, police said, Langley already had died, the victim of one of his own booby-traps set to catch any intruder. But because of the mass of debris, Langley's body was not found until last Tuesday.

RAISES SHETLAND PONIES

Schomberg, April 12 —(CP)— Shetland ponies are the unusual crop raised by Rolph Davis, local farmer. He has 28 at present and says there is a good market for the little animals. A few go to circuses and he has sold some to American customers.

THE VITAMIN CRAZE IS NEARLY OVER

From what correspondents ask, and still more from what they tell me I infer that most people still think vitamins are something you take in capsules or in "shots" administered by the make-believe "nurse" in the office of the doctor who is too busy to see you himself, to restore your "pep." People who are not obsessed with the notion that vitamins work magic generally imagine vitamins serve as remedies for most common complaints—they describe briefly their symptoms or more likely give their own diagnosis of the trouble and ask what vitamin they need.

Now maybe, you are in the mood to listen to a few simple facts about the functions of vitamins in nutrition, metabolism, digestion, assimilation, health and vite, and I mean the vitamins that occur naturally in food. If you are I'll tell you what I believe to be true, and you may take it or leave it.

1. I believe nine out of ten children, youths and adults suffer from long-continued vitamin B complex deficiency, due to the ultrarefinement of our modern diet, particularly the extensive use of white flour instead of whole wheat or a flour that retains a fair part of the vitamin B complex that grows in wheat.

2. I believe a large share of the common complaints of children youths and adults which are treated or combatted with physics, tonics, sedatives, pain-killers and other drugs are manifestations of vitamin B complex deficiency and call for increased intake of vitamin B complex—not just today or the week but everyday the year around.

3. I believe that any one using vitamin for this prevention or correction of any trouble or complaint may hope for satisfactory results only if understands clearly that vitamins are not medicine but essential food or food accessories and therefore they are to be taken not as "doses," but as regular daily rations food or food supplement, today, tomorrow, and everyday for the rest of life. One must eat to live.

4 I believe the assay of the present day diet made by Prof. Norman Jolliffe affords a good idea as to what ails most Americans. From his studies Dr. Jolliffe drew this conclusion:

"It seems, therefore, that a 55% fraction of the calories in the American diet of 1840 containing a minimum of 600 international units of vitam B1, has been replaced in the contemporaneous diet by a like fraction containing only about 50 international units."

The 55 per cent of the calories in the diet of Americans a century ago was supplied by flour containing all the wheat, whereas the 55 per cent of the calories in the diet of Americans today is supplied by refined white flour.

5. I believe the best way to restore vitamin B complex to the everyday diet is by making plain wheat a staple, and in order to encourage you poorly nourished people in this I'll send on written request accompanied with stamped envelope bearing your address, a pamphlet "Wheat to Eat" which tells how well nourished, sensible Americans use ordinary wheat in the everyday family dietary.

By written request I mean your writing—I do not read or answer clippings.

Canada's External Commodity Trade Boosted to $4 Billions At End of Post-War 1946

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 12. (CP)—The thick black line on the chart staggers up, up, until it reaches an all-time peak, then dips briefly, then begins it upward course again.

The line is the indicator on a graph showing the trends and developments of Canada's trade with the world from 1939, through the dishevelled war years and on into the new peace of 1946.

It tells of the phenomenal growth that has boosted the Dominion's external commodity trade from around the $1,500,000,000 mark in the early months of pre-war 1939 to more than $4,000,000,000 at the end of post-war 1946.

It shows how this trade broke through the multi-million-dollar ceilings as the war progressed—$2,000,000,000 in 1940 $3,000,000,000 in 1941, $4,000,000,000 in 1942, $4,500,000,000 in 1943—until in 1944 and 1945 it hovered above the $5,000,000,000 mark before the development of a minor, post-war recession.

Following the thick black line are two others, one a broken line denoting exports and the other a narrow tracing indicating imports. Their sum total is that of the heavier line.

The export marking shows that Canadian sales abroad have advanced from approximately $800,000,000 in early 1939 to a peak of $3,500,000,000 in 1944 and 1945 before levelling off to around the $2,380,000,000 mark as 1943 ran out.

The important indicator climbed a smoother course ,with few recissions, starting out at $65,000,000 in 1939 and moving steadily ahead until it approached $2,000,000,000 at the end of last year.

While figures were not available in all cases, trade department officials said that generally speaking both exports and imports were continuing the upward trend early in 1947.

What, it might be asked, has caused this great increase in Canada's foreign trade. The answer is in one word—War.

For instance, credits extended by the Dominion contributions made through U.N.R.R.A. to Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, France, Greece, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland Russia and Yugoslavia, account for the substantial increases in the value of Canadian imports to those countries between 1939 and 1946.

Then again, export value exports for 1945 are subject to distortion caused by the wartime demands of the armed forces and strategic requirements of the Allied powers. Shipments of war materials during that year totalled more than $1,000,000,000 while for 1946 the comparable figure dropped to $5,400,000.

Export Values Up

Nonetheless, export values last year established a new peacetime peak of $2,300,000,000, compared with a 1939 total of $900,000,000. As a matter of record, the highest previous peacetime figure was in 1928, when the total was $1,300,000,000.

The United States and Britain headed the 1946 list while France came third.

Countries whose imports from Canada were financed chiefly by loans or U.N.R.R.A. donations received a wide variety of Canadian goods, although the emphasis was on food products and vehicles and ships for the rehabilitation of devastated transport systems.

A wide increase was indicated in exports to Latin America, with shipments to the 20 countries in that area comprising both primary and manufactured goods. Food made up two-thirds of exports to Britain while forest products accounted for more than 50 per cent of shipments to the United States last year, with one single item—newsprint—forming 25 per cent of the total.

Wheat Flour Ranks High

Wheat flour ranks high among the principal Canadian exports, being exceeded in value during the last year only by newsprint and wheat.

As before the war, products of Canadian farms, forests, fisheries and the mining and metallurgical industries continue to dominate the export field, despite the expansion of industrial facilities during the war period.

On the import side of the trade ledger, coal and coke are heading the list of goods being brought into the Dominion, followed by machinery, petroleum, cotton and automobiles and parts.

The United States continues to be the chief supplier of Canada's ports, with 75 per cent of the goods coming from that country. Last year, for example, imports from the United States totalled $1,400,000,000 against $1,200,000,000 in 1945.

Chief Justice Says Taylor Had Fair Trial

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — Chief Justice R. S. Robertson of Ontario said Friday in a written judgment that in his opinion Joseph Taylor, Sarnia foundry worker convicted of murder in the fatal beating of his wife, was given a trial in which defence arguments were put "fairly and properly" in the trial judge's charge to the jury.

Ontario Court of Appeal last week dismissed Taylor's appeal against his conviction with one judge, Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, dissenting. It released the reasons for its ruling today shortly after Taylor, under sentence to be hanged April 19, had been granted a reprieve to June 3.

Taylor's appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada is scheduled to be heard in Ottawa tomorrow.

"The trial judge dealt adequately and properly with the defence theory of drunkenness producing an incapacity to form the intent essential to the crime of murder," said Mr. Justice Robertson. "There is no evidence in this case upon which a jury could reasonably find either provocation or heat of sudden passion such as are essential to reduce the offence to manslaughter."

In his appeal, Taylor, alleged to have slain his wife by beating her over the head with part of a kitchen chair in their beach cabin near Sarnia last Nov. 30 following an afternoon and evening of drinking, asked for reduction of the conviction from murder to manslaughter or, failing that, a new trial.

An elderly well-dressed woman today walked into Court of Appeal offices and said she believed Taylor was her son and asked for assistance in checking the relationship. She disappeared after court employees directed her to newspaper offices.

Dominion Carilloneur Uses Much Muscular Energy to Play Programs

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 12 — (CP) — The young man had hefty arms and a job that kept him a lot nearer Heaven than 99 per cent of people. His office was a breath of modern splendor on the last half of the two-way elevator route up the great, tall thinness of the Parliamentary Peace Tower.

He looked across his desk and grinned, holding up a sheaf of papers with a lot of musical notes scrawled on them. "I've just finished my summer program," he said. This meant much work with Mendelssohn, Mozart, Tschiakowsky and Gounod and also Donnell.

This was Donnell himself, in fact, Robert Donnell, the Dominion carilloneur, the man who uses his fists and his feet to make music, beautiful warming music from the 53 bells of the carillon which was installed in the Peace Tower of the Parliament Building in 1918 as a commemoration of the Canadian sacrifice in the First World War.

Heavy Brawn Work

To finish brain work of the summer's program was a happy event. But through June, July and August he has to look forward to the brawn work — the hour programs, from 9 to 10 p.m., EST, on Sundays and Thursday, which drain the vitality from his body was though he had played through a rough, tough football game.

These are the things which send him to the showers to wash away the effects of his extreme exertions. At other times of the year, the programs last only 15 minutes or a half-hour. These also send him to the showers but not with the same aching necessity.

Occasionally all Canada hears his music through the CBC. No pianist with a light touch, his doubled fists pound the wooden handles of the keys sufficiently hard to sound the bells connected with them but lightly enough to voice expression. Cushioned pads protect his fingers but fail to forestall callouses.

At times some number forces him to slide swiftly back and forth across the bench, his feet and hands pounding their respective notes.

Has 2,000 Arrangements

It is this sort of thing which keeps the 140 pounds of the former Guelph choir boy distributed evently and ably over his five feet and eight inches. He first came to Ottawa in 1932 to play the carillon at the Imperial Conference, was appointed assistant to Percival Price in 1936 and became Dominion carilloneur in 1939. He served with the R.C.A.F. for three years during the war and returned a year ago to his little working space, suspended between Heaven and earth.

At this time of year, with Parliament sitting, he plays Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and Wednesday evenings. The carillon's range of 4½ octaves allows him to play almost any number and his 2,000 arrangements, kept in four files, are adequate for just about any occasion.

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — Summoning all the simple dignity and brief eloquence of the Anglican ritual, Toronto today prepared for the funeral service and burial of her beloved Archbishop, Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Primate of the Church of England in Canada. Archbishop Owen died suddenly Wednesday after a heart seizure in his office. He was 70 years of age.

All afternoon and evening yesterday, and again today from 9 a.m. to noon, the body lay in state in the chancel in his Cathedral Church of St. James. In an unadorned casket of episcopal purple, and attired in the robes and symbols of his eminent office, it had been revered by thousands who filed silently through the English Gothic structure and up into its flower-banked chancel to pay their last respects.

Presided over by the church's senior Metropolitan-Most Rev. W. R. Adams, Archbishop of Kootenay — and attended by representatives of the principal Protestant faiths in the Dominion and those of Crown and state, today's rites will be simple.

Two favorite hymns — "My Faith Looks up to Thee" and "The Strife is O'er," and Psalm 90, "Lord Thou Has Been Our Refuge," together with Henry Purcell's setting of the anthem "Thou Knowest, O Lord, the Secret of Our Heart," will be the only musical offerings. At the request of the family there will be no funeral music, nor, in accordance with the long-known preference of the late Archbishop, will there be any eulogy.

The opening sentences of the short, moving service will be read by Dean G. E. Riley, Rector of the Cathedral, while the senior bishop present will read the lesson. Most Rev. C. A. Seager, Bishop of Huron, will impart the benediction. Altogether four archbishops and four bishops will participate.

Honorary pall-bearers are the three Diocesan Archdeacons and 12 Diocesan Rural Deans while the active pall-bearers are six junior clergy of the Diocese.

Some Provinces Make Exemptions In Gas Taxes

(By The Canadian Press)

With the cancellation three weeks ago of a three-cent federal tax on all gasoline used in Canada, each individual province has taken its own course of action in continuing the tax as provincial revenue.

A Canadian Press survey of gasoline taxation shows that in some cases provinces have made exemptions for certain industries such as farming and fishing, whereas the federal tax was on all gas used with no exemptions.

A continuation of the federal policy is in force in both Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, where the provinces assumed the federal tax April 1 giving no exemptions or rebate.

Quebec farmers using gas in the course of their work will get a refund of 11 cents a gallon at the year's end. No others are exempted and the remaining gas users will pay 11 cents a gallon tax.

Road users are the only persons to whom Ontario's 11-cent a gallon tax is applicable. Airplane owners, motor-boat owners and farmers, are exempted and the motorist is the only gasoline tax payer.

Manitoba's tax arrangement under the federal system was seven cents for the province and three for the Dominion, with farmers and fisherman exempted. The province now has taken over two of the former three cents federal tax, making a total of nine cents a gallon for all users except farmers and fishermen who are exempted as before.

The Saskatchewan government after withdrawal of federal tax, imposed a two-cents-a-gallon tax, bringing the total to 10 cents. Gasoline used in Agriculture is the only exception.

To all users in Alberta except farmers gasoline tax is nine cents a gallon. The two cents tax which replaced federal tax has been absorbed in the case of agricultural users, making the provincial tax to farmers seven cents a gallon.

British Columbia collects tax only on the gasoline used on public highways. Nine cents of the 10-cents-a-gallon tax for all other consumers is rebated to them, and the extra cent held back for collection cost.

Both Sides Look To U.S. Govt. For Next Move

Washington, April 12 (AP) — A collapse of negotiations to end the important long lines portion of the cross-country telephone tieup left both sides looking to the United States government for the next move today.

"We're settling down for a long strike," said President Joseph A. Beirne of the National Federation of Telephone Workers.

Both Beirne and officials of the mammoth Bell Telephone System left the door open for continued government efforts to end the dispute over wages and other contract demands.

Administration officials talked privately of possible seizure of the industry by President Truman under provisions of the Federal Communications Act, but they showed little enthusiasm for this solution.

Labor Secretary Schwellenbach weighed his reply to a proposal by the N.F.T.W.'s policy committee that the government sponsor a face-to-face meeting between union leaders with press and radio reporters invited.

So far there has been no meeting between Beirne and C. F. Craig, A.T. & T. vice-president. Craig has conferred several times privately with labor department officials.

Meantime in upstate New York a strike of maintenance and plant employees against the New York Telephone Company was settled with an agreement to arbitrate a demand for a $12 weekly wage hike.

Company spokesmen hailed the development as the "first break" in the country-wide strike. The settlement affects only plant and maintenance workers outside of New York City.

Radio Interference Traced to Australia

Sarnia, April 11 —(CP)— Interference on police radios in Sarnia, London, Hamilton, Oshawa and York Township areas is caused by radio beam stations in Australia, Inspector R. Gooding said last night. The call letter of the station, which reached police radios by freak atmospheric conditions, was traced to Australia, where it's used to guide trans-oceanic clipper landings.

Cooking Under Pressure

Cooking under pressure is becoming more and more popular with the home chefs nowadays, specially with the homemakers who hold an outside job and still like to prepare good, substantial meals. If it did nothing else but shorten the time spent preparing meals, cooking under pressure would be favored by many homemakers but specially by those to whom time is precious. Fortunately this way of cooking saves more than just time. Foods cooked under pressure retain more of their original flavor than with other methods of cooking. Vegetables are also likely to have a better and fresher looking color.

There are several types of small pressure cookers now on the market and called pressure saucepans. Directions for use of each individual type is supplied by the manufacturer. Since the principle involved in pressure cooking is the same for all makes, certain general rules apply to any and each one of them. It is however essential to read all instructions carefully and also to follow them to the most minute details. The manufacturer also gives recipes and it is wise to use these until thoroughly familiar with the particular type of saucepan. After that one may experiment with favorite recipes to the heart's content.

Cooking is an art that is acquired sometimes easily other times with difficulty but perseverance and goodwill generally bring success. Cooking in a pressure saucepan is definitely an art but success will be sure to reward and crown all efforts.

The home economists of the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have done extensive experimental work with all the makes of pressure saucepan now on the Canadian market and offer recipes equally good and satisfactory for all.

Daring Face Tones, Festive Hats Key-Note of Smart Spring Wear

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York. (CP)—Gay, daring color is the key-note of smart accessories this Spring from festive flowers on hats to sheer nylon stockings to match shoes and costume.

In the hat department New Yorkers have fallen in love with variations on a theme Hattie Carnegie has made popular—a sailor or bonnet of natural straw piled with primary-color field flowers and often completed with a green ribbon tied in a bow at the back. This demure combination has taken the city by storm, closely followed for more formal wear by its dressed-up version in beautiful natural straw lace.

The new stockings in sheer navy blue, purple, green and brown look unexpectedly smart teamed with matching costumes.

For daytime wear dainty embroidered batiste blouses are being shown with lacy French slips under them. Pure silk square scarves in solid colors or gay patterns complement daytime costumes.

Important fashion houses are showing young, flat-heeled shoes with closed toes and soaring high-heeled pumps with hand-tooled gold trim. Long, slim French umbrellas with plaid or striped taffeta covers are carried with most costumes.

Satin Boots, Too

A neat, high-heeled black satin boot with side lacing and cuffs offers drama for dinner and theatre dates while flat sandals of dark alligator and suede are forecast for wear with light summer cottons.

A real color revolution is under way in a new make-up sequence featuring lipstick to match a red-head's hair. John Fredericks of hat fame, the originators of the new facial colors, recommend this lipstick only for red-heads. It isn't intended to be taken seriously but it is a lot of fun.

For brunettes there is warm, rich tan powder with brown lipstick—and dark brown at that. Blondes are offered a flattering pink powder and pale coral lipstick, no darker than normal lips but so startling it stands out in a crowd.

The climax comes in the make-up for the white-haired sophisticate who is offered blue-cold make-up, a pale blue powder and the choice of two lipsticks—vivid blue or pale blue that is just off white. The blues have no hint of flesh tones in them.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Refuse to vote for Hugh Booboo. The guy should be impeached. He passes forcing bids of two before a game is reached.

An opener of two in a suit says he has enough stuff to try for a game. So, what would he like to know? Two things. What, if any, is the best trump suit for their pair. And do they have a slam.

Not to go beyond their depth investigating, he would like to know first whether they have a slam. If told this quickly, he can concentrate on selecting their best denomination.

Partner of such an opener knows he is required to keep the bids alive to at least game. His first concern is to announce if he has slam quality or lack of it.

What would be slam quality help? A sure trick (ace or K Q). If he has such a sure trick, he gives a positive response. If he lacks a sure trick, he gives a negative response.

The negative response is a reply of two no-trump at once. In future rounds he follows the order of choice in T-A-N: take-out, assist, no-trump. But only after he has denied a sure trick.

The positive response is a reply that follows T-A-N at once, with one exception. The exception is that he does not bid two no-trump. In other words, with a sure trick only no-trump two must not be used.

South opens with a bid of two hearts when north has the hand shown here:

♠ Q J 10 8 6
♥ 7 6 2
♦ J 4
♣ K 7 3

The first response by north is two no-trump to deny holding a sure trick. On the next round, if possible, he will bid spades to show his biddable spade suit. But first he must say he has no sure trick.

Suppose the club king was an ace of clubs. This would be a sure trick. The first response would then be a takeout to spades. Not only would it show the biddable suit. He would admit having a sure trick.

Your partner relies on honest replies.

The Movie Column

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's movie fans have had their say on what they like on the screen and the winners, hands down, are the picture "The Way to the Stars," and the actor, James Mason. Margaret Lockwood topped the poll on feminine stars.

In a questionnaire organized by movie magnate Sidney L. Bernstein, who owns hundreds of British movie theatres, 86 per cent of the answers thought British pictures had improved since 1939, but only 26 per cent saw any improvement in the American product.

Mr. Mason, now on Broadway in the play, "Bathsheba" got 27 per cent of the votes for most popular actor with British Stewart Granger second. Most popular American actor was British-born Ray Milland, in third place, while Bing Crosby came fourth. Britain's John Mills and Lawrence Olivier finished out the half dozen favorites.

Hollywood's Ingrid Bergman and Bette Davis followed Miss Lockwood in the feminine poll. The runners-up were Greer Garson, Patricia Rock, Vivien Leigh and Jeanne Crain.

British born Alfred Hitchcock, the master of mysteries, was picked as best director.

A surprising result of the poll was that Lawrence Olivier's spectacular "Henry V," 11th on the popularity list, was voted definitely "bad" by 13 per cent of the voters. However, 42 per cent thought it outstanding.

In Manhattan

By PAT USSHER
(By The Canadian Press)

New York, April 12 (CP) — Campus communism gets a brisk, satirical going-over in "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," a "Joe College" musical comedy adapted from the Max Shulman novel which is the newest production in the musical field to reach Broadway.

The George Abbott production moved into Manhattan along with a warmly-received revival of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Tenting Tonight," a tepid comedy, in time to catch Easter holiday business.

"Barefoot Boy With Cheek," at the Martin Beach Theatre, is a moderately-amusing piece of light-hearted nonsense. It has none of the fantasy of 'Brigadoon' or 'Finian's Rainbow," two of the major musical successes of the current season. But it has some agreeable performers, some pleasant songs and the advantage of timeliness in its theme — even though the problem of communism is treated frivolously.

Nancy Walker, last seen hereabouts as Brunhilde Esterhazy, a wacky woman taxi driver, in the musical "On The Town", gives a droll performance as the communistic Yetta Samovar.

Fantasy To The Fore

Fantasy may be lacking in "Barefoot Boy" but it's there in good measure in "Alice in Wonderland," presented by Rita Hassan and the American Repertory Theatre at the International Theatre. Bambi Linn is delightful and completely natural as Alice in this production, adapted by Eva Le Gallienne and Florida Friebus. Miss Le Gallienne first offered it in New York 15 years ago and "Alice" seems to have lost little of its charm during the last decade

Back to College

"Tenting Tonight,' the third and least interesting of the holiday arrivals, is a farce comedy flimsily built around the housing shortage among war veteran college students.

Author Frank Gould wrote his play about a group of former servicemen seeking a college education but stymied by a school rule that they first must find a place to live. They solve the problem but fail to provide a satisfactory evening's entertainment in doing so.

2000 Rubber Workers Strike

Akron, O., April 12 — (AP) — A strike of 2,000 employees closed the Seiberling Rubber Company plant yesterday, bringing to approximately 3,400 the number of rubber workers involved in walkouts here.

An unauthorized strike yesterday of 1,400 United Rubber Workers (C.I.O.) following the suspension of an employee stopped work at the Sun Rubber Company.

The strike at Seiberling followed failure of company and union officials to agree on a new contract. The company is offering an 11½-cent pay boost and other conditions accepted by the union in "Big Four" rubber plants, but the union is asking additional concessions.

Genoese Police Take into Custody Lucky Luciano

Genoa, Italy, April 12—(AP)—Genoese police went aboard the Turkish steamship Bakir in Genoa harbor today and took custody of Charles (Lucky) Luciano, onetime New York vice czar, re-deported to Italy from Cuba.

Persons aboard the Bakir said Luciano apparently had not expected to be jailed on his arrival.

Dr. Adolfo Colombo, Genoa's assistant chief of police, said earlier that Luciano would be confined here until arrangements could be made to transfer him to Palermo, Sicily, for investigation of his return to the Western Hemisphere last year.

Luciano, a native of Sicily, was sentenced in New York in 1936 to serve 30 to 50 years in Sing Sing on charges of compulsory prostitution. After serving 9½ years he was paroled and deported.

After spending seven months in Italy he bobbed up unexpectedly last October, in Havana. On Feb. 21, the United States Bureau of Narcotics notified the Cuban government that it would ship no more narcotics to Cuba because Luciano's presence there might lead to "diversion of the drugs."

Cuban secret police arrested Luciano next day and after a series of legal procedings Luciano was deported.

CHIVALRY RATHER COSTLY

Chatham, April 11 — (CP) — Chivalry dead? Not as far as Jack Richardson is concerned. But the price you pay. As he stood on the "last dry step" overlooking the flooded basement of a downtown store, a young woman dropped a glove. Richardson reached to retrieve it, and tumbled into five feet of chill Thames River overflow. While he scrambled back to the stairway, someone else got the glove.

Rare Newspaper Presented

London, April 12 (CP)—A rare newspaper, "The Upper Canada Courier" for Aug. 27, 1835, published in Toronto, has been presented to the University of Western Ontario by Thomas Blackburn, manager of Lord Beaverbrook's London "Evening Standard."

Relatives Begin Burial of 84 Tornado Victims

Woodward, Okla., April 12. — (AP)—Relatives today were completing arrangements for burial of the 84 victims of Woodward's Wednesday night tornado which left 1,000 injured and caused property damage estimated in the millions.

Plans for mass funeral services have been abandoned. Instead, four of the leading churches have arranged separate rites, the first to be held today for 15 victims.

Yesterday relatives stood in line at the city clerk's office to procure burial lots in the city cemetery. Funeral directors said services and burials probably will continue through next week.

The bodies of four victims, all children ranging in age from six months to six years, remain unidentified.

Even as the community went about the sorrowing task of burying its dead, its leaders laid long-range plans for reconstruction.

Workers will begin erection of a tent city today to house the homeless.

The approximately 20 injured remaining in Woodward have been moved to a church basement.

AT THE CAPITOL — Confronted by an unseen danger that tinges their love with terror, Lucille Ball tries to probe into Mark Stevens' past in "The Dark Corner," the new 20th. Century-Fox psychological mystery-drama opening Monday at the Capitol. On the same program "Cinderella Jones," starring Joan Leslie and Robert Alda.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma looked at the clock after supper, saying to pop, It's almost 8, I dont want to miss the Jack Perdy and Floyd Egan program.

Then I cant miss it either, unless I leave the room, pop said, and ma terned the radio on and the orkester played Happy Berthday to You, and Jack Perdy and Floyd Egan started to talk to each other, Jack Perdy saying, Congradulations, Floyd, and believe me, Floyd, when I say that, I mean it. You're a great guy, Floyd, you're one of the best, and it's a pleasure and privilidge to be associated with you he said and Floyd Egan said, That goes dubble with me, Jack. Congradulations to you, old boy, and that comes from the bottom of my hart, he said.

Oh yes, I forgot, they're both celebrating their berthdays today, ma said. Oh dear, I hope that's the end of it, she said.

Which it wasn't, Jack Perdy saying, Floyd, we may indulge in a lot of kidding and horse play, but if it wasn't for you I'd never be where I am today, and I dont care who knows it, and Floyd Egan saying, The way I feel Jack, it's just the other way around, I owe everything to you, Floyd.

Oh dear, tern them off, ma said and pop said, But there's a nice warm feeling in their program tonight.

Now William, everybody expects Jack Perdy to insult Floyd Egan continuously about his stinginess, and they expect Floyd Egan to insult him back titt for tatt about his stupidity, and they have no bizzness to inject their personel affairs in a public program, ma said. It makes them seem so forced and unreal, she said.

And she quick terned to another station and pop said, Yee gods, radio is in its infancy, and so is the human race lissening in.

Being the end of the subject.

AT THE BELLE — Barry Fitzgerald portrays a fighting farmer in "California," Paramount's Technicolor adventure due today at the Belle Theatre. Ray Milland and Barbara Stanwyck are his co-stars.

High flood waters have helped cut this year's muskrat catch in some sections of Ontario. Jean Gray of Oriole, Ont., is seen with one of the 1947 crop of prime skins, trapped at Caledonia, on the Grand River. It will bring top price of $2.75. Girls at right were helpers during last year's season at Turkey Point, where rats were plentiful. This year the catch is only about one-fifth of normal.

Spring in Palestine

(By Eric Hardy in Christian Science Monitor)

As I walked up the hill along the Bethlehem Road and into Jerusalem, this sunny Eastertide afternoon, and heard the chaffinches and greenfinches calling from a cluster of pine trees—one of the few clusters of trees in this rocky countryside around Jerusalem—I realized how different is spring in the Holy Land from what we were accustomed to in England.

"Our thrush is singing so beautifully, it's a delight to hear it," wrote my wife from England, in an air letter I have just received. "Somehow I can't imagine that there can be anything comparable to the English spring bird song in places such as you're visiting now."

That is true of Spring in Palestine. There are so few woods here that song birds are rarely heard. The chaffinch is the most noticeable bird, but it is its bright little note: "Pink, pink," that one hears more often than a song. I heard three robins "ticking" when I visited the Garden of Gethsemane, last Sunday, and I saw a cock blackbird by the olive groves there; but neither sang. I heard the bell like song of the great tit; and in the pine trees and cypresses by the Russian Church, overlooking the garden, I heard the riple of greenfinch song and the delicate tinkle of the goldcrests. But such sounds are not yet common on Holy City.

Spring is late here in the high hills near Jerusalem, and makes up for its lack of bird song by the glory of its wild flowers. Jerusalem is set 2,300 feet high amid wild hills whose gray-brown rocky countryside terraced with patches of thin green vegetation, is now a garden of Alpine plants which have so fascinated my horticultural friend that he wants to bring them home to his garden in Berkshire!

Now these hills are massed with the exquisite blooms of the scarlet anemone corone which visitors so often mistake for fields of poppies; an interspersed among the rocks are bunches of wild cyclamens, of a delicate pale lilac tint. No garden could show them more lovely. There are pale lilac statices, daisies twice the size of our humble English Bellis perennis; early purple orchids, and masses and masses of small yellow composite flowers.

During the weekend, I motored down from Jerusalem through the hills to Lydda, on the plain where the glory of the scarlet anemones and the cyclamens ends; but, all alongside the mountain-roads, the poor, yet pretty little Jewish and Arab children had gathered enormous bunches of these scarlet and pink anemones and stood proffering them for sale as English country children gather bluebells at Whitsun.

And, in the drench of spring sunshine on Sunday morning, I came back through the hills by the single track from Lydda which is Jerusalem's only railway. For two hours, as I sat by the open Pullman window, I was treated to one of the most beautiful of Nature's vistas I have ever enjoyed—a great rocky landscape stretching away up the hillsides, a panorama of light brown and gray rocks, of green sheep-grazings, splashed with scarlet anemones, blue irises and delicate cyclamens; and near Jerusalem, the orchard trees in blossom and lovely red-legged partridges, "juggling" among the rocks of the dried-up beds of the streams.

Along the Jericho road this afternoon, the purple lupines the scarlet anemones, and the cyclamens looked beautiful beside the Archeological Museum.

In the Garden of Gethsemane, the other day, I noticed not only cyclamens in these well-kept borders, but begonias, pelargoniums, antirrhinums marigolds, and iris in flower. The scarlet anemone of the Holy Land at Easter is sometimes also purple, rose, or white in color; and, like our English "windflower," it has not petals but beautifully colored sepals that take their place.

On the city walls by the ruins of the citadel next to the Jaffa Gate, the wild flowers, mostly yellow composite, including our humble coltsfoot are noticeable. Beside the Hebron Road, below the city walls at the Jaffa Gate, the wayside is golden with this abundance of yellow hawkbits and similar composite, and large lizards have come out of the rocks below the city walls to bask in the warm sunshine. In Galilee, a new beauty has been added to the scene in the Dutch tulips, narcissus, and hyacinths grown by Dutch Jew refugees from Europe who have settled in Karkur in Sedi Nehemia and in the swamp land near Lake Hulch itself. The Dutch art of bulb growing has proved more than welcome, in that the settlers already have orders for more flowers than they can supply.

The swallow doesn't reach Jerusalem until about Eastertide; for, although when crossing the Sinai Desert on the last day of February, I saw plenty of swallows near the Canal, and indeed I had first seen them in the Nile Valley on the fourteenth of February, none had reached us at Jerusalem in early March. However, I watched the wheatear, on the hills outside Jerusalem, on February the 19th. In recent days I have heard snatches of song from the goldfinch, but the thrushes and crested larks which I watched near the coast of Lydda were not singing. The white wagtail is almost everywhere on passage migration; many of the kestrels I see about the hills, hovering in search of lizards, must be on migration northward.

But it is the wild flowers in their glory and not the birds, which will make me remember my first spring at Jerusalem.

Richard Suspended for Game And Fined $250 for Part In Fracas Down in Montreal

Campbell Warns Teams That Drastic Penalty Will Follow if Trouble Repeated

Toronto, April 12. (CP)—With the Richard incident inflated into one of the most controversial issues in big-league hockey history, Stanley Cup hysteria reached a fever pitch today for the third clash of the best-of-seven series between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto's Maple Leafs.

For tonight's game, which finds the teams tied at a victory apiece after trading 6-0 and 4-0 wins on Montreal ice, a capacity crowd was assured. But scarcely anyone of the 15,000 who will jam Maple Leaf Gardens knew what to expect.

Some looked forward to seeing a red haze of downright hate hovering over the ice surface. Others expected the players to behave like a bunch of chastened schoolboys.

Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, sounded a warning note yesterday when he announced the suspension of Maurice Richard for drawing blood by banging two Leafs over the noggin with his stick. While Montreal's rocket was suspended for tonight's game only along with his $250 fine, Campbell added:

"This punishment is not to be considered by anyone as a guide for future action in such cases and any recurrence of this type of conduct by any player in this series will result in a much more drastic penalty, including suspension extending into next season if necessary."

Lynn May Not Play

It was not known whether Vic Lynn, whose cut eye required five stitches, would get back into action for tonight.

Otherwise, the Leafs expected to be at full strength except for veteran Nick Metz, hurt in the first game of the series against the defending Stanley Cup champions.

Canadiens were left with the problem of replacing Richard for tonight's game. With centre Elmer Lach eliminated during the regular season with a fractured skull, veteran captain Hector (Toe) Blake was the only one of their first-string punch line available.

It was likely he would play on a line with centre Buddy O'Connor and either Bobby Fillon or rookie Leo Gravelle.

The Canucks got some good news, however, when it was learned that defenceman Kenny Reardon would be back in action. The rearguard sparkplug missed the first two game of the series through an injured toe. Rookie Johnny Quilty, out last game with a sore foot, also is expeced to play.

MONCTON HAWKS READY TO PLAY HAMILTON TIGERS

Maritime Team Hopes to Even Series by Win in Toronto

Toronto, April 12. (CP) — Moncton Hawks and Hamilton Tigers were all set for the second game of their Eastern Senior semi-final at Maple Leaf Gardens this afternoon, Moncton determined to even matters up after taking a 6-3 defeat in the first game a Hamilton Wednesday night.

It's a best-of-five series, winners to meet the winner of the series between Montreal Royals and Sherbrooke St. Francis for the all-eastern senior title.

Hamilton Tigers won the Eastern Senior title a year ago and lost to Calgary Stampeders in the Allan Cup final. This year they are all out to win the works.

The Moncton Hawks got down this way only three days before the first game at Hamilton, and they're in tip-top-shape. They looked out-classed in the first game, but every game is different. In the nets they have little Hughie McDonald, one of the finest goalies ever seen in these parts, a mighty mite who many a time stopped the entire Hamilton team cold last Wednesday after his defence was beaten.

Tigers were still not sure whether Dillon Brady would be at his old place on one of the forward lines.

The Tiger players were to meet before the game today with Manager Percy Thompson and Coach Redding to discuss the question of Brady's position.

ST. MIKES TAKE OWN DRINKING WATER TO WEST

Eastern Junior Champions Sure They Can Lift Memorial Cup From West

By BILL FREEDMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 12 —(CP)— St. Michael's College Majors aren't taking any chances on the West—not even Western drinking water — as they make final preparations for a Prairie invasion they hope will net them the Memorial Cup.

The Irish students, kings of Eastern junior hockey, know from their history books that the West is no longer wild, but the books don't guarantee that aqua pura, Western style, will suit their systems. So when their train leaves here for Winnipeg tonight, they will carry gallons of ice-cold water from Lake Ontario to quench the thirst of the Double Blues through their Dominion final grind.

"The boys aren't overconfident," said Father H. V. Mallon, athletic director of the Catholic secondary school. "They know they have to be good since they are in for a real series with either Moose Jaw Canucks or Brandon Elks." Just which of those two teams will play host to the Irish will be decided tonight, when they meet for the eighth time after splitting six games and tying one.

The team that swept through all Eastern opposition was at full strength for the Western jaunt.

Arrive on Monday.

Majors will arrive in Winnipeg 14 strong Monday morning and work the kinks out of their legs in an afternoon practice. Actually, 22 St. Mikes enthusiasts will make the trip. The other eight include Father Mallon, coach Joe Primeau, student managers Arnold Teolis and Clare Malone, "No. 1 fan," Rev. F. Lee of Fort Erie, Fred Sandford, father of captain Ed Sandford, plus two team handymen — Bill Broadhurst and Jack Sadler, whose official capacities might be termed statistician and ticket manager.

Five of the players are in their last year of junior hockey, having exceeded the age limit. They are: Red Kelly, Ed Harrison, Bob Paul, Ray Hannigan and Warren Winslow. Kelly will likely turn professional with Detroit Red Wings next year. The others, with the exception of Winslow, are on the Toronto Maple Leaf list.

Sports Roundup

By AL COLLETTI
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 12 —(CP)— The gentle are of gate-crashing has not become extinct even though one-eye Connolly has gone West to new fields....one-eye, in his day here, was the best among the free-loaders able to scheme their way into ball games championship fights, and other big sporting events....his favorite stunt was to show up at a boxing match carrying a bucket of ice water and looking like a boxing "second" with a sweater on and a cap stuck in his back pocket....however, even one-eye's subterfuges are mild compared with the many Johnny Haines, head usher at Ebbets Field, has run across in his 24 years as a fixture in the Brooklyn Dodgers ball park....his specialty is ferriting out free-loaders and his belt is notched with victims all the way back to his spinal column.

Brooklyn Underground

There was the time when an ambulance screeched to a halt near the rotunda at Ebbets Field just before an important game during the heat of the pennant race last year....out jumped a young man in a white coat—conventional garb for an interne. "Quick!" he said. "Let me in. We got a call that someone's hurt out on the field."....unfortunately for the imposter Haines was standing nearby.... "Wait a minute fella" Haines barked. "Didn't you try to get in last Sunday with an armful of empty boxes?"

Today's Guest Star

Ford Frick, president of the National League, while making no direct reference to the Durocher case told the knothole club (Brooklyn fan organization) that if he were preaching a sermon, his text would be: "If there be one without sin among you, let him cast the first stone."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Don't look now—and don't say you weren't told. According to forces at present at work, it appears, and quite strongly, that the Central Ontario Baseball League may be resurrected from its ashes, and with the aid of a few vitamins, once more bloom in at least a reasonable facsimile of its former glory.

* * *

The idea, it seems originated up around Peterborough way and the seeds of suggestion thrown out by one Eddie Murphy, are sprouting and at the moment look likely healthy young seedlings with a future.

Peterborough it appears, is anxious for the loop to take physical form. The Batawa Baseball Association met in conclave on Thursday night and voted unanimously in favor of the proposed new loop. Port Hope, it is reported, is in favor of the idea, while the hot stove league that gathered at the Kiwanis Junior baseball party here the other night and tossed the matter hither and yon came up with a decided "Yes". Trenton Fliers is the dark horse at present, but the boys in blue will likely fall in line.

* * *

So there you have it. The proposed new league will comprise teams, it is hoped, of Peterborough, Belleville, Port Hope, Batawa and Trenton Fliers. This set-up is a good one, with no great amount of travelling involved. The league will likely be given a Senior "B" rating, although that may appear to be a trifle high insofar as last year's squads in this district were concerned.

* * *

However, even baseball leagues must crawl before they win dashes, and the move is one in the right direction. As far as Belleville is concerned, the idea we feel sure will be greeted with enthusiasm by the fans in general. Outside teams have always proved good attractions, and the ancient friendly enemies from Port Hope and Peterborough would add a little paprika to the diamond sauce this year.

* * *

The new league, would not conflict in any way with the Belleville Baseball Association activities. Schedules could be arranged to suit both loops, and as the COBL set-up would call for Wednesday and Saturday games only, we feel that that wrinkle could be ironed out easily.

The annual meeting of the local baseball association has been set for the Memorial Arena on Tuesday evening next at 7.30 and the new executive will take the matter of the proposed new COBL loop into consideration. The Ontario Baseball Association annual is scheduled for Toronto on Saturday next, and immediate action on the part of those interested in the new loop is necessary. Batawa officials have already suggested a meeting fohr Wednesday or Thursday to which representatives of the teams mentioned would be invited. This would rush matters to a head besides having everything in readiness for approach to the OBA.

* * *

Coming back to the Belleville Baseball Association meeting, President Don Thomas stated today that it is imperative that all team representatives, players, etc. as well as others interested in the coming season's baseball activities, be present. General feelings around the circuit are that the coming summer should top the last two insofar as the game is concerned. The grass is beginning to grow; the old urge is making itself felt; and thorough organization, schedules drawn up and other important business should be completed before the asparagus goes to seed. The meeting is called for 7.30 p.m. on the well-known dot.

* * *

Richard, didn't exactly open the door in Montreal the other night but he made a valiant effort at closing it—on himself, when he teed off on Ezinicki's noggin and likewise that of Lynn, drawing the gore in both cases. Tonight at Maple Leaf Gardens the Battle of the Bloodletting Behemoths of Hockeydom will be scarcer than Yankee fans in Brooklyn. If the spry young Mapleos take tonight's tilt—and they should—Les Canadiens chances of taking a snort out of the Stanley Cup this season will be decidedly slimmer.

* * *

Steve Hook, stormy petrel in softball here last year, who played for the Army and Navy Flashes before going to Kingston, has accepted a position in Toronto and will do his mushball chucking with the Rooneys of the Toronto Softball League the coming season. He left for Toronto early in the week.

This Chandler - MacPhail-Durocher-Rickey embroglio which ended in a baseball atomic bomb drew various comments from the baseball experts of the U.S.A. Some were for, others against. Some thought Durocher's year suspension was not enough, while others termed him the "Chandler Goat". Be that as it may, Durocher had something coming to him. There is something like ethics involved. No big name in sport, or anything else, as far as that is concerned can become the butt of printed and aired reflections even in jest on his private life nor become involved, as Chandler said in an "accumulation of unpleasant incidents," and continue to command the respect of millions of baseball fans.

* * *

Ask any American kid who the United States Secretary of State is, or a red-blooded Canadian youngster who commanded the Canadian Corps, and they may or may not give the correct answer. But ask either who the greatest baseball slugger of all time is, and they shout back "Babe Ruth" so fast, you'll have to clutch your bridgework.

* * *

Outstanding figures in the big leagues, whether hockey, football or baseball are often greater heroes, and incidentally the models for young boys than are the national figures, or those in the seat of government. The least that all idols of small boys can be is circumspect in their behavior and careful of their utterances. So perhaps Chandlers handling of the Durocher case may be a lesson to others after all.

* * *

Back to M'sieu Richard. President Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League head does not intend to allow mayhemic action, deliberate, that is, in his loop. He clamped down a $250 fine on The Rocket, and suspended him for one game, following the hearing of the Ezinicki episode yesterday. So tonight the "Rocket" will be de-fizzed and view the shock troops from the sidelines.

Robinson Handles 15 Chances Without Miss

Brooklyn, April 12 (AP) — Jackie Robinson's debut in a Major League uniform wasn't as auspicious as his initial appearance in organized baseball last year by the Negro infielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers handled himself as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Playing first base yesterday, the Dodger speed merchant failed to hit safely in four official trips to the plate but drove in three runs on two fly balls and a fielder's choice as the Dodgers swamped New York Yankees 14-6 in an exhibition game.

His play in the field was flawless as he handled 15 chances during the nine-inning game with ease.

Clyde Sukeforth, manager pro-tem of the Dodgers, said before the game that he plans to give Robinson a thorough trial at first base, "If he fails to make it he will be used in a utility role at either second, short or third. I am satisfied he can play any infield position."

FANS LINE UP AT TICKET OFFICE

Toronto, April 12. (CP)—Ardent hockey fans armed with stools, camp chairs and upturned ashcans, began the long wait, to purchase tickets for tonight's third game of the Stanley Cup finals here between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs 11 hours before the ticket office opened today. The line began at 11 p.m. last night.

By 2 a.m. their ranks were bolstered by 200 fans, stretched in a long line against the darkened walls of Maple Leaf Gardens, which extended approximately 600 by dawn. Latecomers were assured by old-timers that they would only get standing room and even those fairly close to the front realized their best chance was a grey seat, about 150 feet above the ice.

EAST AND WEST JUNIOR STARS SPLIT IN SERIES

Junior B's From Western Ontario Win Their Game While Eastern Junior C's Carry the Torch

Toronto, Apr. 11 (CP). — The Ontario Hockey Association played host last night to 92 potential "big leaguers" in a double header of O.H.A. all-star junior B and C players from throughout the province.

These eager and excited youngsters returned the favor when they put on a fast and rugged exhibition in aid of the Ontario Crippled Children's Fund and the Canadian Paraplegic Association before 2,308 fans at Maple Leaf Gardens.

A rousing battle displayed Western Ontario's junior "B" superiority when "general" Joe Primeau's legions over-ran Charlie Conacher's eastern battalion by an 11-4 count.

"Easterner" Bucko McDonald rallied his junior "C" forces to avenge their big brothers' defeat and came up with a 10-4 retaliation over Normie Himes' division.

Sparked by the presence of scouts from every professional club the over-eager players put on a clean demonstration.

Many well-executed plays were observed although the boys were strangers to each other and had played together only twice before at pre-game practices. The great number of replacements kept the gams moving at a fast pace.

$5,000 Expended

"The idea of this is to give these boys a chance to show in front of professional scouts in the best surroundings," said O.H.A. President George Panter. The O.H.A. expended an estimated $5,000 to bring the boys from the various communities they represented.

These young stars were chosen by their team-mates as most valuable to their individual teams.

The coaches of the teams said they got a kick out of being able to handle teams with such an ample stock of reserves.

Bucko McDonald's Easterners spread their scoring fairly even among the team. W. Mundell of Aurora, M. Beaumont of Georgetown, Gananoque's R. Atkins, J. McKeown of Portsmouth, P. Pettigrew of Hastings, G. Sullivan of Milton, W. Boychoff of Bradford, G. Minton of Victoria Square, Whitby's C. Lintner and Napanee's J Markle chalked up markers.

The scorers for Normie Himes squad were E. McTaggart of Durham, J. Lewis of Ingersoll, E. Dick of New Hamburg and G. Morrison, Orangeville.

Primeau's team was sparked by J. Woods of Brantford, who scored three goals and assisted in another.

Other western scorers were D. McKay, Hamilton H. Weaver, Kitchener; G. Jacques, Preston, D. Allison, London and S. Horvath, Port Colborne.

M. Quackenbush of Toronto De St. Michael's, D. McWhirter, Owen La Salle, G. Magoretta, Toronto Scund and K. Potts, Kingston Saints, were the eastern scorers.

ACCUSED IN JEWEL THEFT

Detroit, Apr. 11 (CP). — Two men accused in the theft of $64,800 in jewels from Sir Eustace Pulbrook, chairman of Lloyd's of London, in Pasadena, Calif., last March 4, were held by police here yesterday. Inspector Marvin Lane identified the men as Robert Hockaday, 24, and George M. Ludwig, 26.

Spring Sport Season Gives Promise Of Banner Year Throughout Province

(By The Canadian Press)

To erase the memory of a long, cold winter as well as a few bad hockey wagers, the Spring sport season is eagerly welcomed by young and old, male and female, across the Dominion.

All in all, 1947 promises to be a banner year for sport, a Canadian Press survey today showed.

The temperate climate of the west coast is primarily responsible for the early start of a match play open golf tournament now in full swing. The seniors competition is next on deck and tennis fans too are getting their share of early play.

Elsewhere golfers are taking practice strokes on the living-room rug, yachters are checking equipment and caulking leaky seams, horse players are devising new systems to beat the nags and baseball and softball teams have moved into extensive Spring training.

Despite the fast-melting snow and budding trees, hockey still holds the spotlight in the east and middle west. In the east, all eyes are focussed on the Stanley Cup finals between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, and the playdowns between teams from Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes for the Allan Cup.

To Build Stadium

Hockey interest in the west centres on the Memorial Cup finals between Toronto's St. Michael's Majors and the winners of the Regina game tonight between Brandon and Moose Jaw.

West Coast professional baseball gets under way in 10 days and interest is reported at high pitch. Added incentive to the baseball interest in Vancouver was given by the "O.K" seal put on plans for a $350,000 stadium by the city council recently.

Baseball, soccer and softball programs highlight wide sports activity in Ontario. Lawn bowlers, their winter curling season over, are champing at the bit, the province across, while tennis and golf activity is expected to be heavier than usual.

At Stratford, the Nationals are expected to field a strong contender for senior Provincial baseball honors. Several newcomers have been added to the team. Baseball also is the main feature at Kitchener and Waterloo.

Many Nines Prepping

From intermediate down to midget, the nines are prepping at St. Thomas and the Woodstock intermediates have been bolstered with the addition of pitcher Ken Terry, former pro with Kingston and Sherbrooke in the Border League.

The Niagara Falls, Stamford and Chippawa Baseball Association promises to provide "extra heavy" competition this season. But at Galt, uncertainty shrouds the picture insofar as a senior squad is concerned. Brantford's intermediates are stepping up to a senior status for 1947.

The Bruce Peninsula League in the Owen Sound area, was revived last year and may expand, though softball still holds the spotlight. The Northern Baseball Association may be revived this season in competition with the current six-team Nickel Belt loop.

DANISH KING IMPROVING

Copenhagen, April 12 —(AP)— Physicians attending King Christian X of Denmark, who had a heart attack Easter Sunday issued a bulletin this morning saying: "Improvement in His Majesty the King's condition is continuing. His fatigue is somewhat lessened. The next bulletin will be issued Monday."

ACCEPTS APPOINTMENT

Berne, April 12 (Reuters)—The Swiss Federal Council today accepted the appointment of Dana Wilgress, former Canadian Ambassador in Moscow, as the first minister to the newly-established Canadian legation in Switzerland.

Wilgress, now attending the International Trade Conference in Geneva as chief Canadian delegate, will take up his duties when the conference ends.

PRAIRIE CAPITAL HOCKEY MECCA OF RABID FANS

Brandon and Moose Jaw Juniors Play Sudden Death Game in Regina

Regina, April 12 — (CP) —This prairie capital is a hockey mecca of rabid fans from Brandon and Moose Jaw intent on cheering their respective teams in the sudden death game tonight for the Abbott Cup, emblematic of Western Canada junior hockey supremacy and the right to meet Toronto St. Michael's Majors for the Dominion crown.

Hockey-mad Reginans queuel for about 12 hours yesterday for seats left after 2,200 Canuck supporters and 500 Elk rooters were satisfied. The Queen City Garden, where the teams will battle overtime if necessary in the eighth game of their original best-of-seven series, seats 5,000.

Canucks, who knocked the Brandon club back on their heels in the last two games while the Elks needed only a tie to win, were grimly confident of making coach Ken "Mighty Mite" Doraty happy.

In the other camp, Ross Nicholson's boys, who lost only one and tied one of the first five games of the series, were still confident they could swing the 3-3 one tie record in their favor.

With the resurgence of Captain Metro (Marvellous) Prystal, who failed to show any of his mid-season sparkle in the first five games, and the new-found brilliance of second string centre Harvey Stein, Canucks could afford elation at the swift turn of events.

Huskies Will Operate in Pro Loop Next Year

(By The Canadian Press)

Although final announcement on plans haven't been announced, the Toronto Huskies basketball team which this winter provided Toronto with its first major league basketball in the Basketball Association of America loop is almost certain to operate again next season, Harold Shannon, club vice-president, said last night.

The Huskies finished out of play-off contention and had poor attendances but, said Shannon, most of the team's financial backers have expressed willingness to continue their support.

Canadian amateur swimming and diving championships will be held in Victoria Crystal Gardens in August, the exact date to be set later, it was announced yesterday. Some 120 swimmers and divers from all over Canada are expected to compete.

Norman (Irish) Connelly, 17-year-old left winger with Wilf Cude's Noranda junior hockey team, has signed to play in the Montreal Canadiens farm circuit.

Barbara Ann Scott, world's champion figure skater, will appear at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto April 18 and 19 in a benefit show for the relief of the People of Britain fund. Previously it was announced that Miss Scott would appear on April 18 only.

George Abrams of Washington opened his 1947 bid for a middleweight bout at Chicago last night by defeating Anton Raadik, dangerous hitting Estonian, in a rough 10-round battle.

May Inquire Basis On Which U.S. Would Admit Nfld. to Union

St. John's, Nfld., April 11 — (CP) — Preliminary steps to determine on what basis the United States would admit Newfoundland as a 49th state were taken yesterday in the national convention, elected to discuss possible future forms of government for the island colony.

Delegations already have been selected to confer with officials in London and Ottawa within the next two months on possibilities of either remaining under a British commission government, assuming Dominion status or joining Canada as a 10th province.

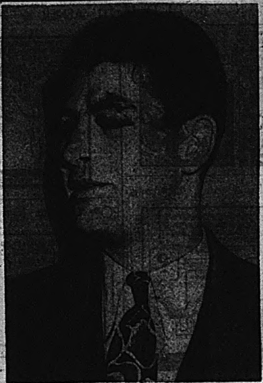
Preliminary steps with regard to the United States were taken in a notice of motion in the convention. It will first have to be passed before the committee is selected.

The motion, by D. I. Jackman, stated that if it were agreeable, a delegation be selected to interview the United States government regarding possible terms of Federal Union. The delegation would ascertain conditions on which such a union might be effected.

No immediate action was taken on the motion which was tabled.

MINK COAT STOLEN

London, April 11 (AP)—A mink coat and £1,500 ($6,000) worth of jewels were stolen last night from the home of Barbara, Countess of Moray, police reported yesterday. She is the widow of the 18th Earl of Moray.



A DOUBTFUL STARTER — Vic Lynn, one of the two Toronto victims of the berserk action of the wild-mannered Maurice Richard in Thursday night's N.H.L. playoff battle in Montreal, displays a closed optic and gashed eyelid. The clever left-wing rookie star from Saskatoon was rushed to hospital when the Leafs returned home yesterday, and treatments were started to reduce the swelling around the completely closed eye. It will not be known until game-time whether Lynn, who came within a fraction of an inch of losing his eye, will be able to play in the third game of the Stanley Cup series tonight.

Hambletonian Candidates Heading North

By SID FEDER

New York, April 12. (AP)— The corn-tassel Man O' Wars are heading north from their winter vacations, up the road that leads to the Hambletonian in August, and from the advance billing you get the idea that "this is where we came in."

Practically the entire forpcast for 1947 is that the heavy sugar among the three-year-old trotters season —piled up around the million-dollar mark, incidentally— will be cut up between Hoot Mon, the $30,000 Swiftie from the Castleton Farm of Mrs. James B. Johston, Jr., of Rochester, Mich., and Rodney, the giant stepper owned by R. Horace Johnstone of Charlotte, N.C.

Up at Goshen, N.Y., where they're already getting the place ready for the 22nd Hambletonian August 6, the oracles say it's "Hoot Mon" at 3 to 1 in the spring books, with Rodney crowding right behind. There'll be $55,000 in the Hamletonian pot this year, which makes it the large slice of the $100,000 in stake money to be raced for over the kite-shaped strip from Aug. 5 to 9.

There is, to be sure, some Hambletonian support for Way Yonder, who won four out of seven for Kentuckian Clarence Gaines and driver Tom Berry last year, and Nymph Hanover, a large free-striding filly, and Grand Parade, successor to Greyhound in Col. E. J. Baker's Illinois barn, and a few of the others.

But mostly it's all Hoot Mon and Rodney. They split a pair of decisions the only two times they tangled last year—Rodney checked in with a 2.02 mile for his best and Hoot Mon scored at 2.03 1-2.

Canada Sets Up Legation In Switzerland

Ottawa, April 11. (CP)— The External Affairs Department today announced establishment of a Canadian Legation at Switzerland and the appointment of Dana Wilgress, former Canadian ambassador to Russia, as minister.

Mr. Wilgress will retain his personal rank of ambassador in the Canadian Diplomatic Service.

Mr. Wilgress is at present attending the international trade organization conference in Geneva as chief delegate of Canada and will take up his duties as Canadian Minister at Berne on the conclusion of this conference. In the meantime Mr. Paul Emile Renaud will be Charge D'Affaires ad interim at the Canadian Legation at Berne.

Mr. Wilgress has been Canadian minister and later ambassador in Moscow since the opening of the Canadian diplomatic mission in the Soviet in 1942. Prior to that appointment he was Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce.

His new post is expected to involve much travelling as a roving delegate-at-large to meetings of the United Nations and other international conferences.

THIRSTY BODIES

There are 11 gallons of water in the human body.

WOULD PAY PASSAGE

New Toronto, April 11 — (CP) —Reeve W. E. McDonald of New Toronto, has agreed to pay the passage to Russia of any Communist who found himself dissatisfied with Canada. His announcement came after Stephen Grydzyn, a resident of the town, declared the Ukrainian hall here was being used to teach the tenets of Communism to the children of Ukrainian parents. The matter will be investigated by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Reeve said.

SOCCER MATCHES OFF

Eton, England (CP)— Floods which forced Eton College to start its Easter holidays three weeks ahead of schedule resulted in this year's Lent Half being the shortest on record and the only one in which all football matches had to be cancelled.

Boucher Tells Of Stanley Cup Games in 1928

By FRANK BOUCHER
(Written for The Canadian Press)

Winnipeg, April 12 — (CP) — My greatest Stanley Cup thrill? We have to go back to 1928 for that one, to the night in Montreal when New York Rangers knocked back the old Maroons at the end of a best three-of-five game series that went the full route.

That was New York Rangers' first Stanley Cup and here, in Winnipeg where we are planting our hockey school for next fall and conducting a spring training camp there is no doubt in my mind that Rangers, who missed the N.H.L. final this year will be back in there again soon.

But about that 1928 win. The final series was played at Montreal because there was no ice in New York so late in the season.

The series opened with a 2-0 victory for Maroons and Rangers dug in the second game for a 2-1 triumph. Bill Cook scored the first goal on my assist and I sank the winner.

Then Maroons roared back and blanked us in the third game, 2-0. Rangers won the fourth 1-0 and the series was deadlocked. I scored the only goal of that game.

The fifth and final game of the series I will never forget. Maroons gave everything they had. Rangers did the same. It was the toughest game I ever played as Rangers won the Stanley Cup by taking that final, 2-1. I scored both goals.

Greatest Stanley Cup thrill? That was it and I was fortunate to be playing with the greatest team of hockey players of my career.

Sports Shorts from Britain

London, April 12 (CP)—Practically any thing can happen in sport these days—100-to-1 Lincoln and Grand National steeplechase winners, the easy Cambridge victory over Oxford in the boat race and Charlton Athletic's 1,000-to-1 chance victory over Newcastle to reach the Football Association cup finals—but consider this: a fellow cleaned up £1,494 ($5,776) on a losing bet.

He wasn't named, but newspapers called him a London Scotsman. Here's how he did it:

He placed a £6 double with London bookmaker William Hill on Jockey Treble to win the Lincolnshire Handicap and Double Sam, at odds of 50,000 to one, to take the National.

When Jockey Treble came in, Hill was faced with a possible liability of £300,000. The bettor laid him £150,000 to £1,500 against the double, thus reducing Hill's liability to £150,000 and making sure of a profit to himself of £1,494—£1,500 less stake.

Easy eh?

Symbol of the 1948 Olympic Games in London has been chosen. It will be St. Stephen's Tower, with Big Ben the five Olympic rings grouped around the top of the clock. The hands will show four o'clock — official starting time is 4 p.m., July 29.

The Olympiad Executive Committee considered several of London landmarks and the final choice is a gesture to many athletes who will come here from former enemy-occupied countries, BBC broadcasts to which were heralded by Big Ben's chimes.

Great Expectations have been fulfilled for Frederick Charles Dickens, 40, of Seaton, Devon, who claims to be a direct descendant of Charles Dickens. He won £10,268 ($41,072) in a football pool.

The organizing committee for the 14th Olympic Games to be held in London next year is not out to make a profit but if any money is left over it will go to the cause of amateur sport in Britain, Lord Burghley, chairman of the committee, told members of the London press club at a sports dinner.

FLORIST, which will carry the brown and purple silks of the Medway Stable in this year's King's Plate Saturday, May 24, at Woodbine Park, being pulled up after an early morning breeze at Woodbine Park yesterday. Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — Today's question: How long now before those old men of the mountain, Hamilton Tigers, get the Old Age Pension?

The way Hamilton Tigers are travelling in their hunt for their second consecutive Eastern Canada Senior hockey championship pension time is probably a long way off for them but it's a fact that in point of years they're probably nearer the greybeards' pay-off than any active hockey team in the land.

Doug (Kirkland Lake News) Hallett had a look at the Tigahs when they relegated Hollinger Greenshirts from the Allan Cup chase and writes that these venerable puck chasers "continue to astound their critics as they continue on their merry way. They have played together so long they have each others style down pat . . . a perfect band of opportunists."

Statistical note: Tigers' average age would be on the wrong side of 30.

Friendly Boost

Ab Demarco of New York Rangers plumps for Chuck Rayner, the "Kenora Kid" who guarded Rangers' nets through the N.H.L. season to win the Hart Trophy as the player most valuable to his team.

Rayner and Demarco are year-round pals, play together in the winter and visit each other in the off-hockey season so Demarco's remarks are not surprising.

Speaking to Britt (North Bay Nugget) Jessup Demarco says,— "I suppose they'll give the Hart Trophy to Maurice Richard but Chuck deserved it all the way, in my opinion." And Britt notes that Rayner literally held Rangers up by their bootstraps most of the season with his stellar goaling.

Bunny (Toronto Telegram) Morganson comes out flatly: "If St. Mike's keep on playing the same kind of hockey they displayed all season they should have little trouble regaining the Memorial Cup honors lost to Winnipeg Monarchs just one short year ago this month."

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at the headlines on his way to the sporting page, saying to ma, Here's a young inventer suing the Apex Dye Corporation for patent infringement. The poor chap has about as much chance as a fly in a blizzerd. You can't buck the moneyed intrists, he said.

That's right, pop, me and Puds Simkins found that out this afternoon around at the drug store, I said, and pop said, Oh reely? I didn't know you and Puds had a financial intrist in the drug store.

We've got a intrist in the soda fountain whenever we've got enough money for a nice cream soda and we had this afternoon, I said. We were sitting there drinking them through our straws, and there was 2 sissy looking kids in white sailer suits doing the same thing on the next 2 stools, and I bet they were the moneyed intrists all right, because they each payed the man with a doller bill and got the change, I said, and pop said, You didn't think you should of got the change for Peet sake, did you?

No sir, but me and Puds made up a plot to make such a fearse noise sucking through our straws that the 2 rich sissey kids would get diskusted and go away and leave the rest of their ice cream sodas for us to finish, I said, and ma said, What a gastly picture, I just hope it didn't succeed.

No mam, it didn't I said. The 2 kids started to make even fearser noises with their straws than we were making with ours, and 2 ladies on the other side of them got so diskusted they went away and left half their chocklit Sundays, and the 2 rich kids were the closest so of course they grabbed them before me and Puds could. So that proves you're right, pop, you cant do anything against the moneyed intrists, I said, and ma said, Oh dear, do your homewerk.

Which I did feeling against it.

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 14

On another occasion she had felt the years stretch and between them. At a supper club after the theatre a young man at a table across the narrow room had sent her a complimentary, amusing, innocent little note by the waiter.

Cornelius had colored, holding his anger, and suggested that they leve at once. Bill would have thought it totally foolish, of course, but in a gay place and in a party mood the note would have amused him. But Bill, her contemporary, would have been sure of himself and sure of her. Cornelius, old and only rich, had been outraged. After that he seemed to be on guard lest my young men look too closely at her.

They had dined and they had been to the theatre to see a delightful domestic comedy. Now they were in a small night-club which was poorly patronized this rainy June evening.

Carol said, "This is our last evening together, I'm afraid. I'm going home in the morning."

"Going home!" he said all the joy leaving his face. "Why? Aren't you having a good time?"

"I'm having a wonderful time but...well, I've stayed longer than I expected and surely there must be reasons to take you home, too." As though she were speaking to a child cautiously.

"I haven't any reasons to go home," he said. His voice was tired and flat. "I've retired, you know. Betty, my daughter is away visiting friends. She has so many friends." Then he stared at her humbly for a few minutes before he said, "I'd—I'd like to marry you, Carol."

Had Bill since that night in November made her immune to shock? She felt nothing at this proposal of marriage; she only sought reasons for refusing to marry Cornelius.

He however, spoke first. Coloring, he leaned forward and covered her cool hand with his warm one. His words rushed, "I want to marry again, Carol. I'm not old. I'm still...I've wanted to marry someone like you, someone I could be proud of, a girl who wouldn't marry me just for my money. I haven't told you because it doesn't mean anything to me but—but I'm important. There aren't any doors closed to me. The best homes in Detroit, the best people...I have Betty, but she'll marry. I could give you everything."

"But, Cornelius, I can't give you anything." You can't give it twice! You can't give it and take it back again and then give it to someone else....How unhappy she had made him look!

"But you haven't anyone either, my dear. I'd be good to you, Carol. I was good to my wife—faithful. I feel too young to settle down to—old age. I enjoy doing things and going places. And when the war is over, we could travel. We could go anywhere and stay as long as you like. On the cruise you were the only girl I really wanted to know. The first time I saw you, the first night out..."

Suddenly the tears stood in his eyes.

Carol drew back. "I'm sorry. I didn't mean."

"You haven't said anything to hurt me, Carol."

"You've been very sweet to me."

"I didn't prepare you. I just blurted out...I'm an old fool. But when you said you were going home...You see, I haven't had such a good time since my wife died. We used to come to New York and go everywhere. Since she died, I've known girls here, but they were—well, cheap girls after my money. They couldn't talk about anything and they didn't care for me. You're ...you're a lady, Carol. I—I want you. But if you'd like to think about it more..."

She felt utterly helpless. How dear he was, how sincere, how honest. And how reverently he believed that a young woman of twenty-six and a man of sixty could be happily married. Poor Cornelius who had so felt his inadequacy that an innocent little note from another man had completely unbalanced him. She thought, "Why can't I be mercenary and marry him for his millions? Perhaps in Clinton with Bill and Evelyn looking on I could have one little moment of triumph as Mrs. Cornelius Weger. I'd be the richest woman in Clinton. How silly, as if he money means anything, as if anything means anything except to live with love again."

She was grateful for his sudden smile. "I won't take 'no' for an answer, Carol. I'll pester you. Maybe you'd come out to Detroit and see my home and meet Betty. She'd like you. Poor kid, she had a fit about one of the girls I've taken out. She thought she was cheap, too. But a girl like you..."

"Shall we leave it like that then?"

"You won't give my any hope."

Carol drew her coat around her. "I can't. Truthfully, I can't. I don't know anything about divorce except my own. But in my own case I know what it has done to me. I'm not straight. I seem to be all crooked. Divorce doesn't sever you from just one person. It severs you from the world you knew before and the people you knew before. It leaves you feeling morally unhealthy. No, I can't give you any hope, Cornelius. I've got to get myself straight again. I'm going home and get a job."

"But if you need anything, you'll let me know? You'll write to me, won't you?"

"Yes, or course. And now... let's go please."

On the way to the hotel he was cheerful and solicitous. And standing for the last time at the elevator he said, "You're good and beautiful, Carol. I'll be waiting to hear from you, my dear. You've made me very happy. You see, sometimes I get 'off' on the modern woman. Women aren't like they used to be and they lose a lot from not being. It seems that having a good husband and a family isn't enough for them. But you...maybe you'll resent this...but you're like my wife in many respects."

"Thank you. That's a real compliment."

He smiled. Then he put her hand to his lips and kissed it.

Stepping on the elevator, she turned and saw him once more briefly. A short, stout little man with gray hair and clear brown eyes, he stood, smiling at her. He would not have liked it, she thought, if he had known that his smile was quite paternal.

Later, looking into the darkness, she thought, "And the first man you meet after your divorce is a man who wants to be your lover. The second is your former husband's friend. And the third is old and rich. Is there a fourth? Or do you choose one of the three? Clive and Scott and Cornelius, as different as day from night...But my thoughts about them stop when I listen for Bill's breathing in the next bed and don't hear it...I still listen..."

The Labor Day holiday at the Clinton Yacht Club was always one of the usual gayety. All day the previous Saturday, yachts and sailing craft had drawn alongside the pier before the sprawling white club house and proceeded either to empty their cargoes of sunburned men and women or to take on more as visitors. Thus the sunny decks were dotted with people drinking tall, cool, drinks before luncheon and giving an account of their summer holidays in other places. There was a dance that evening and invitations to this particular dance were long and eagerly anticipated by those who were not members.

Freda and Ian brought their swift, immaculate little cruiser to its berth. After two weeks of constant cruising earlier in the Summer and from weekends since both were burned to a deep, even brown and wore white trousers and white shirts and tennis shoes. They were alone now except for the colored boy who had been cooking for them on the fishing trip from which they were returning.

Ian shielded his eyes from the glare.

14 Million Tourists Visited Ontario Last Year And More Expected in Coming Season

(By The Canadian Press)

... "Come to Canada!"

That's what advertisements in countless United States magazines and newspapers tell the people.

"Come to Canada!"—and they do, by the millions. Last year the Dominion's tourist industry amounted to more than $250,000,000 and even greater revenues are expected this season.

But the over-all intake, like that of all post-war era industry, hinges on one vital factor—strikes. A survey by The Canadian Press today showed that tourist bureaux in all the provinces have only one fear. That is if basic industries decide on strike action, the resulting slump will be evidenced in Canada's huge tourist industry.

Last year the number of tourists reached record proportions as millions of Americans came by automobile, train, boat and plane to sight-see, hunt, fish and generally relax and enjoy themselves in the Dominion's many playgrounds. Added to these were hundreds of thousands of Canadians, many of them spending their first vacations-with-pay as a result of recent labor legislation in several provinces.

To Sponsor Week

To focus greater attention of the Canadian public on the value and importance of the tourist industry, the Canadian Association of tourist and publicity bureaux is sponsoring a tourist service education week from May 1 to 7.

Ontario, most powerful magnet of the industry, last year welcomed some 14,000,000 tourists from the United States who contributed more than half the entire Dominion's tourist revenue. Prepared for an even greater influx this year, the Department of Travel and Publicity has opened six more reception centres bringing the total to 13. Already close to 500,000 inquiries have been received from the U.S. and other parts of the Dominion.

The Province of Quebec was the next greatest attraction in the Dominion with more than 12,000,000 persons coming to se "quaint French Canada."

Visitors to this world—famous Niagara Falls tourist centre will set a new attendance record this summer, Ontario Labor Minister Charles Daley, chairman of the publicly-owned $7,000,000 dollar Niagara Parks Commission System, predicted today.

Hard to Estimate

"It is difficult to estimate the exact number who come to Niagara Falls each year, but we are expecting upwards of 8,000,000 visitors," he said. "We believe the tourist season will start earlier than usual this year, and will continue until late in October."

Open for public inspection this year will be historic Fort Erie, at Fort Erie, and Fort George at Niagara-on-the-Lake, restored at considerable expense by the commission.

In the west, the Rocky Mountain playground provides the principal attractions for British Columbia and Alberta, while fresh water fishing facilities bring many thousands to Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Salt-water "big-game" fishing and hunting help boost the Maritime Provinces' tourist figures.

Prince Edward Island: 121,300 tourists spent $4,300,000 holidaying and fishing.

Nova Scotia: 253,281 tourists spent more than $10,000,000.

New Brunswick: Tourist figures unavailable. Record number of non-resident game and fish licences sold last year.

Quebe: Sight-seeing brought some 12,000,000 tourists, two-thirds of whom visited Montreal.

Ontario: Holidaying Americans numbered 14,000,000 last year and spent some $130,000,000 for an all-time record. Aside from many scenic attractions, hunting and fishing reserves abound in southern, northern and northwestern Ontario.

Manitoba: More than 150,000 persons spent some $10,000,000. Fishing and holidaying on the many lakes north of Winnipeg are key attractions.

Saskatchewan: Some 30,000 persons, the majority visiting Waskesiu National Park near Prince Albert, brought revenue totalling about $2,500,000.

Alberta: Some 500,000 visitors, mostly Canadians, visited the two national parks—Banff and Jasper—spending some $10,000,000.

British Columbia: 1,000,000 persons—more than half of them from the U.S.—spent close to $40,000,000. Sight-seeing the major attraction.

Rawdon Twp. Council To Purchase Snowplow

In preparation for another winter of heavy snow, Rawdon township council at its April meeting held on Monday recommended that a new snowplow and wing be purchased immediately. The new plow will be used on the recently purchased Adams grader.

Council was in receipt of a petition requesting that a road be built into Callaghan's Rapids, the communication being placed on file with the road committee authorized to investigate the matter and give it consideration.

Road voucher No. 3 for $1,079.50 was ordered paid as were the following bills: Stirling News Argus, $8.80; Connor Hardware, $15.50; Belleville Burial Company $85.50 for funeral of William Bromley who died while working on the farm of Ronald Brown. The residence of Mr. Bromley was unknown. Fleet insurance on machinery owned by the township was taken out with the Pilot Insurance Company.

It was recommended that the township purchase a new three-quarter ton pick-up truck with tenders to be called by the clerk. Council adjourned to meet Monday May 4th.

SWOLLEN RIVERS RECEDING AFTER FLOOD SURGE

Clear and Cooler Weather Expected to Aid Clean-Up in Many Communities

(By The Canadian Press)

Clear and cooler weather today was expected to aid the clean-up in the wake of Ontario's worst floods since 1937—but a number of communities still had water in the streets and thousands of acres of land had been turned into veritable lakes.

Swollen streams everywhere were receding this morning. Cities and towns that bore the brunt of what was hoped to have been the last surge of Spring overflows included Galt, Paris, Brantford, Caledonia and Cayuga on the Grand River; Owen Sound on the Sydenham; Walkerton on the Saugeen, parts of Ottawa with Renfrew and Billings' Bridge on the Rideau.

The Grand River was receding after a flood surge from the Belwood Lake dam near Fergus all the way through Galt, Paris, Brantford, Cayuga and Dunnville to its mouth on Lake Erie at Port Maitland.

Brought Near Normal

After the flood gates on the Shand dam were opened Saturday to relieve the tremendous pressure on artificial lake Belwood a flow of 18,000 cubic feet per second tore down the river but the gates were progressively lowered during Sunday as the storage lake was brought down near normal.

At Brantford the Grand hit a peak of nine feet eight inches above normal Saturday night before starting to recede. All along the river basements were filled with mud and water. Living rooms and kitchens were flooded, fences broken down and streets were covered with silt and debris.

Dam Never in Danger

E. F. Roberts, secretary treasurer of the Grand River Conservation Commission who had warned valley residents before the dam was opened Saturday, said actually the dam itself had never been in danger. With the dam's outflow down to 2,500 feet a second from its top of 18,000 cubic feet the situation now was under control.

Mr. Roberts said "a lot of water had to be handled, and the dam handled it well." He pointed out that heavy floods in the lower reaches of the Grand were not entirely due to opening of the Shand dam. He figured that only about half the water came through the dam gates; the other half was from tributaries below the dam.

Buildings on the Grand river shore at Galt were without electricity and heat as water filled basements and covered some streets. Seven families were evacuated from threatened homes as the Grand there touched a peak of 20 feet above summer normal late Saturday.

2,000 Sandbags Used

More than 2,000 sandbags were thrown on the dykes at Paris while at Brantford, just below Paris on the Grand, the dykes held, preventing more serious damage in the city.

REFUGEE SHIP BOARDEB BY NAVAL PARTY

Jewish Immigrants Tried to Hurl Back Sailors Who Clambered Aboard

Jerusalem, April 14 (AP)—An official press release announced today that the refugee ship Guardian said to be carrying some 204 uncertified Jewish immigrants had been boarded by a naval party last night off Tel Aviv.

"The boarding party met with some oposition, but the details are not yet known," said the communique. It added that 20 refugees had been taken off the vessel today and landed at Haifa for hospital treatment.

Some of the refugees at Haifa said that when the Guardian was intercepted by a British destroyer, the immigrants unsuccessfully tried to hurl back the first two British sailors who clambered aboard.

The refugees asserted the boarding party used tear gas and fired several shots, killing two immigrants and wounding several. This was not confirmed, however. The immigrants said that when they saw further opposition was useless they destroyed the Guardian's engines.

Armed police and military patrols scoured Jerusalem's Jewish section today following the shooting of a British constable last night and the escape of a pretty young Jewish woman who had been imprisoned for working with the so-called Stern gang.

Police said the constable, who had been patrolling Zion Square was shot by a lone gunman in a dark alleyway. His wounds were not believed to be serious.

Several hours earlier, a woman identified as Geulah Cohen, 21, serving a seven-year term for broadcasting over a secret radio of the Stern group, climbed out of a window of the government hospital here, where she was brought 11 days ago for treatment for pneumonia. It was her third escape since her imprisonment last June.

SENATOR URGES CANADA TO JOIN PAN-AM. UNION

Vandenburg Says By 'Every Rule of Reason' Canada Should Be A Member

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, April 14. (CP)—Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep.-Mich.) today declared that "by every rule of righteousness" and "by every rule of reason" Canada should be a member of the Pan-American Union.

He addressed the governing board of the Union on the 57th anniversary of its founding—a day being celebrated with ceremonies and addresses throughout 21 countries of North and South America.

"I would welcome the final and total new world unity which will be nobly dramatized when the 22nd chair is filled and our continental brotherhood is complete from the Arctic Circle to Cape Horn," Senator Vandenberg said.

As chairman of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee Senator Vandenberg was the chief spokesman for the United States in the series of anniversary events which will continue all week in all the western hemisphere countries except Canada.

"I express the wish that the time may soon come when our continental fellowship will be geographically and spiritually complete through the association with us, on some appropriate basis, of the great and splendid Dominion of Canada," Vandenberg said.

"This is not a new idea. At the Inter-American conference in Mexico City in 1945 our resolutions expressed 'the wish that collaboration of Canada with the Pan American system shall become even clearer'.

22nd Chair Made

"Nor is that all. When the Pan American building here in Washington was erected in 1919, the room for the governing board and the great council table were built with a prophetic eye to that happy day when Canada should be among those present.

"A 22nd chair was made. It has been empty long enough. Nor is that all.

"Around the inner courtyard of the Pan American Union building are the coats of arms of the countries which here make common cause for peace and progress in this hemisphere—and the coat of arms of Canada is already here with the rest.

"By every rule of righteousness she is eligible to this association. By every rule of reason we should wish her here. I would welcome the final and total new world unity which will be nobly dramatized when the 22nd chair is filled and our continental brotherhood is complete from the Arctic Circle to Cape Horn".

Senator Vandenberg's comment on Canada's conspicuous absence from this hemispheric organization was the most significant reminder since the inter-American conference in 1945 to which he referred.

In the young days of the union there was an accepted reason for Canada's absence—her ties with the British Empire. Since the union was formed Canada has become an independent, sovereign nation within the British Commonwealth, tied to it only by the common allegiance to the Crown.

Msgr. J.F. Nicholson Invested As Protonotary Apostolic By Archbishop O'Sullivan

Wearing the mitre and beautiful vestments symbolic of his high position in the church, Monsignor J. F. Nicholson, P.A.V.G., newly-appointed Protonotary Apostolic, celebrated his first Pontifical High Mass in crowded St. Michael's Church on Sunday morning.

His Grace Archbishop J. A. O'Sullivan, Kingston, conferred the rare honor on Monsignor Nicholson against the beautiful decorative setting of the altar. The church was colorfully decorated in the Papal colors of yellow and white.

Members of the Roman Catholic clergy from all parts of the district were in attendance and assisted in the impressive celebration of the Mass. Scarlet and white garbed altar boys the rich vestments of the new Protonotary and Clergy and His Grace the Archbishop; the soft intonations of the organ and choir added to the beauty and impressiveness of the occasion.

In the full regalia of their office seven fourth-degree members of the Knights of Columbus, acted as a special guard of honor. Included were Knights Harold Barrett, A. B. Collins, J. V. C. Trualsch, Geo. Lee, Walter Belair, Frank Cushing and Charles Doran.

Special guests at the celebration of the Pontifical Mass included a cross-section of all walks of city life. Present were His Lordship Mr. Justice Charles A. Cameron, Exchequer Court of Canada, and Mrs. Cameron; Judge J. C. Anderson; County Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan and Mrs. Donnan; George H. Stokes, M.P.; J. Fred Wilson, M.P.P. and Mrs. Wilson; Alderman Angus Duffy, president Canadian Legion and Col. H. E. Smith of the same organization; William McKenna, president Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, Arthur Galbraith, Cecil Reid and William Vallance of the same association; Alderman Claude Tice; Sheriff J. D. O'Flynn and Mrs. O'Flynn; City Comptroller Harold Bateman and Mrs. Bateman; W. H. Morton, Gerald A. Morton of The Ontario Intelligencer and Mrs. G. A. Morton; Messrs. Howard Clarke, Arthur Young, Lorne McDougall and other outstanding residents of the city.

Assisting Clergy

Assisting His Grace the Archbishop were the Very Rev. D. A. Cullinane; Trenton, and the Rev. C. E. Baker, Belleville. In attendance on Monsignor Nicholson and assisting in the celebration of the Mass were the Very Rev. A. C. Wilson, S.J., rector of Regiopolis College, Kingston; Rev. F. Gallery, St. Mary's College, Brockville; Very Rev. L. B. Garven, Tweed; Rev. A. J. Welsh, Kingston and the Rev. J. A. Carley, Belleville.

His Grace Archbishop O'Sullivan in a brief address related the solemnity of the office of a priest of the church, "a dispenser of the mysteries of God and an ambassador of Christ among the people". In celebrating Mass, His Grace pointed out, the priest is performing the same Divine act of worship no matter what vestments he wears. On the Mass is the church built up. It is a symbolic ceremony.

His Grace described the various vestments worn by different high officers of the Church. The Pontificate is usually all bishops, "but we have cardinals who are not bishops, just priests. There are abbots in Quebec."

Function of Protonotaries

Protonotaries, His Grace went on, look after the business end of the church and are in direct contact with the Holy Father, looking after his interests. He knows those priests who have rendered a signal service to the church, and he has conferred upon these men the honor of Protonotaries Apostolic.

"As a special mark of affection and appreciation of service rendered in this district, the Holy Father has conferred upon Monsignor Nicholson the same full honors as accorded the Pontificate."

"From the time he was ordained thirty-five years ago, the Monsignor has given very distinguished service to this diocese. He was singled out as being better than the run-of-mill priests. He served with distinction in the first Great War and a grateful country bestowed upon him the Military Cross."

"He came back holding the love and esteem of his fellow comrades who knew him and loved him as a distinguished soldier. He became the administrator of the Diocese when the Archbishop was unable to carry out the work. He carried on this work with distinction and won the love and affection of his fellow priests."

Perpetual Use of Purple

Archbishop O'Sullivan said that "This particular mark of distinction was not only a delight to me, but more so because the present Apostolic Bishop of Canada was most anxious to have the honor shown Monsignor Nicholson. The Monsignor not only has the very definite and perpetual use of the

Eight Russian Spy Rings In Canada Says Gouzenko

Toronto, April 14 (CP)—Eight Russian spy rings exist in Canada, Igor Gouzenko asserts in a copyright interview in the May issue of the picture magazine New World.

The former Soviet Embassy clerk whose disclosures touched off the sensational spy trials declares flatly:

"There are three military intelligence spy rings with centres in Ottawa, Halifax and Vancouver;

"Three NKVD (Political Police of the Soviet Union) spy rings, in Ottawa, Halifax and Vancouver, where there are consulates;

"Naval intelligence spy rings in Halifax and Vancouver."

Gouzenko's published answer to the question "who is in charge of espionage in Canada today?" is:

Motinov Director

"Lieut.-Col. Motinov, who was in the Embassy at Ottawa, is now in Washington and is probably directing Soviet spies in Canada. However, there are enough Soviet people here to continue espionage without his help."

(Lt.-Col. Motinov, former assistant military attache for air in the Russian Embassy section headed by Col. Nikolai Zabotin, was named in the royal commission report on espionage as one of the Russian agents in Canada. He was one of the members of the Embassy who was recalled to Russia shortly after the spy investigation was announced, but his present whereabouts is not known here.)

Best sources as spies in Canada in the view of Soviet leaders, Gouzenko claims, are: "Secret or open members of the Communist Party in Canada who are required to carry out orders given by Moscow" and "crooks in need of money, who by some chance happen to be in positions where they can obtain information." He asserts that "neither Sam Carr nor Fred Rose was recruited in Canada; they were trained by Moscow for the job and sent to this country."

Gouzenko says that diplomatic representatives of states under Moscow's control "are also suspected of espionage activities in Canada and other democratic countries," and that this camouflages the activity of Soviet agents, "who are now directed not only from Soviet agencies and consulates, but also from the Embassies and Consulates of satellite countries." He adds: "The work of the Soviet agents is paid for likewise by the people of these satellite countries."

He declared also that Soviet espionage in Canada is paid for out of the nation's money without the knowledge of the Russian people, and that "in some instances the Canadian people themselves unknowingly pay the Soviet agents," asserting that money collected for the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund went to "the not-so-poor Soviet agents—with one hand the government receives money from the Canadian people while with the other hand it pays out secretly thousands and thousands of dollars to its agents in Canada."

Plan New World War

Turning from specific to ideological matters, Gouzenko asserts that while the Russian people do not want war ever again, the Soviet government wants peace only temporarily for the purpose of gathering strength for a third world war.

He declares "it is possible to forestall a war only if the democracies are strong enough to block Soviet aggression."

He urges Canadian fortification of the Arctic in co-operation with the United States, and says on the question of what Canada's general policy should be with regard to Russia:

"The Canadian government should bear in mind that when it is dealing with the Soviet government it is dealing with a small group of people who do not represent the Russian people and who do not consider themselves responsible to the Russian people."

Travel 6000 Miles Over 21 Days For 3½ Minutes of Sun's Eclipse

Providence, R.I., April 14 (AP)—A 6,000-mile 21-day journey—for 3 1-2 minutes' work—begins today for a Brown University expedition off to Araxa, Brazil to watch an eclipse of the sun May 20.

Professor Charles H. Smiley, Director of Brown's Ladd Observator and head of the expedition, hopes to be the second man to see the zodiacal light—faint streaks of light rariating outward along the eclipse from the sun.

The first was a Japanese astronomer named Honda in 1936. Honda awaited the eclipse with a black bag over his head. When the sun was covered an assistant snatched the bag off and Honda held up a cardboard disk to hide the strong light of the inner Corona. That way he adapted his eyes to observe the weak zodiacal light.

Smiley, a member of the commission on eclipses of the International Astronomical Union and one of the world's authorities on eclipses, will use special dark glasses made in Providence with lenses twice the density of the darkest glasses the manufacturer usually makes.

Paris—(Reuters) — Dr. A. Baxter, chief scientific officer at the British Admiralty who was on his way to Brazil to obbserve the total eclipse of the sun next month, was one of four persons killed yesterday when a British York airliner crashed in the fog at Dakar, French West Africa.

The other three casualties were Portuguese.

Baxter's colleagues, Dr. A. Hunter and J. H. Strong, were both injured, and the British expedition to Brazil may be cancelled, it was reported from London.

WAGE INCREASE BEING SOUGHT BY RUBBER WORKERS

20 Cents an Hour More Requested 6 of Which Are for Increased Cost Of Living

Toronto, April 14. (CP)— A general wage increase of 20 cents an hour will be sought for 12,000 Ontarion and Quebec rubber workers, it was announced today by Joseph Mackenzie, Canadian director of the United Rubber Workers Union (C.C.L.-C.I.O.). The announcement followed a weekend district policy committee meeting of the union.

The increase will be sought under a clause in the rubber workers' union contracts which permits the union to request a wage increase "if warranted by the general economic situation in Canada," Mr. Mackenzie said. The wage demand is the first specific 1947 wage objective announced by a major Canadian union and represents a combination of three demands.

"Six cents an hour is to offset increased living costs since existing wage scales were negotiated last October," the Canadian director said. "Six cents an hour make up for decreased take-home pay due to reduced hours, no overtime and a cut in job rates. Eight cents an hour is the "rubber worker's share in the industry's record of profits arising from increased productivity."

Committee Set Up

A three-man committee of the union was set up to start preliminary negotiations for the increase.

Mr. Mackenzie said the cost-of-living increase was based on an expected total increase of nine points in the cost-of-living index between last October and June 1, when the 1947 union negotiations are expected to be complete.

Regarding the increase to make up for decreased take-home pay, he said hours of work in some plants have decreased three hour a week since the 1946 wage settlement without any offsetting wage increase.

"No overtime currently is being worked in any U.W.R.A. plan and job rates have been subjected to a general shaking down and reduction in every plant which was reported. A minimum of six cents an hour will be needed to make up for the reduction in take-home pay caused by these changes since October."

All-Time Record Profits

Worker-productivity is about five per cent greater than in 1946, Mr. Mackenzie said in outlining the demand for eight cents an hour as the union's share of increased profits. He said the United States rubber industry reported all-time record profits in 1946.

In recent wage negotiations, U.S. Company representatives said they made greater proportionate profits on their Canadian operations than on their U.S. plants. Approximately 80 per cent of the union members are employed by U.S.-controlled companies, the union official said.

"The Canadian rubber worker has seen his fellow rubber workers in the United States receive wage increases totalling 30 cents an hour during the past year, through negotiations and without strike action. The Canadian rubber worker had to. . .strike in 1946 to win a 13-cent increase."

Last year's rubber strike lasted from six to eight weeks in various rubber plants in Ontario.

Greek-Turkish Aid Program Scored By Russ Delegate

Gromyko Says U.S. Seeks Sponsorship of U.N.

Lake Success, N. Y., April 14—(AP) — Russia charged today that the Truman administration was trying to conceal the "unilateral character" of the Greek-Turkish aid program through a belated effort to stamp it with "the trademark of the United Nations."

In a sweeping attack on the Truman program, Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, told the Security Council that the amendment proposed in the United States Senate by Senator Arthur Vandenberg. (Rep. Mich.) only "underlines the unilateral character of the proposed aid."

"This amendment even prejudices in what way the Security Council and the General Assembly must vote if they want to take a decision," he said.

Albania Objects to Aid

Gromyko spoke after Albania had voiced as objection to the $400,000,000 American air program.

The Albanian position was stated by Karamen Yili, minister to Paris, He declared the Truman plan could not strengthen the United Nations and that "it lessens its authority and prestige."

The Albanian representative, whose country is not a member of the United Nations, expressed belief that the United States program was "in contradiction with the Charter" of the U. N. Yili spoke in place of Hysni Kapo, Albanian Ambassador to Yugoslavia, who returned to Europe yesterday.

In corridor meetings, delegates centred their discussions on the April 28 special session of the General Assembly on Palestine, which was officially set yesterday by Secretary-General Trygve Lie, Belgian delegate Fernand Van Langenhove will be temporary president of the meetings.

Faces Greatest Test

Opinion was general that the United Nations faced the greatest test in its 18-month history in tackling the delicate Holy Land issue, which cuts broadly across racial, religious and political lines.

Lie convened the special session asked by Britain after 29 countries, including Canada, voted "yes" in a poll of the 55 members. No opposition ballots were received.

The Arab League, which has five members in the U. N., passively opposed the meeting on the grounds that Britain should offer some recommendations in asking the U. N. to solve the problem. The five did not ballot, but Faris El Khoury, Syrian delegate to the council and principal Arab spokesman in the United States, commented that all "would send delegations to defend their case" and their presence here would mean they agreed to the extra session.

83,000-Ton Liner Runs Aground Off Southampton

Southampton, April 14 (AP)—A dock official reported tonight that the 83,000- ton liner Queen Elizabeth was aground off the entrance to Southampton harbor.

A Southampton docks officer reported the Elizabeth was upupright and in no danger.

The 83,000-ton ship, world's largest passenger liner, was heading for the river, inward bound from New York, when she ran her bows into a mud bank.

Wives and Children of Red Soldiers In Russ Zone Are Taciturn, Aloof

(By RICHARD KASISCHKE)

Fuerstenburg, Russian-occupied Germany, April 14 (AP)—A considerable community of Russian dependents—wives and children of Soviet soldiers—exists here.

In general they seem aloof towards Germans. The children in particular appear tacitturn and act distrustful of any inquisitive Americans who show up.

American correspondents, making a conducted tour of the Russian occupation zone of Germany, encountered in the Kommandantur Square of this city of 15,000 numerous Russian children trudging home from school.

German children gathered quickly to see the correspondents but while they lingered to chat and beg chocolate and gum, the Russian children quickly became close-mouthed upon hearing a foreign tongue. Especially was this true when the Americans asked what "Pop's" job was and how many Russians were in town.

Here and in some other Mecklenburg region towns we saw Russian children and their mothers riding in German-made automobiles behind German chauffeurs, going shopping or calling on "Papa" at his office.

BAND CONCERT ENJOYED

Following the Sunday evening service of worship in Tabernacle United Church the Belleville Municipal Band, under the able leadership of Mr. Ross Hunter, presented an outstanding program of truly good music, featuring the descriptive composition by Mr. Reg. Hinchey, "Saganaska", the Indian name meaning Bay of Quinte. Two numbers, "Carrying Place" and "Evening" from a suite of four, were played by the Band, and were received enthusiastically by the large audience.

An arrangement of the well-known "Lord's Prayer" by Albert Hay Malotte made a fitting close for a musical program which will be long remembered by those who had the privilege of hearing the Band, in its first concert this year.

Following the concert, members of the Men's Club of Tabernacle Church, and their wives, were "at home" to the members of the band.

ARRESTED FOR STRIKING POLICE OFFICER

Joseph Cronk, age 50, city hall apartments, has been taken into custody by local police following an alleged assault of a police officer by striking him over the head with a milk bottle.

Two constables went to investigate and when at the door of the apartment they asked Mr. Cronk to come to the police station he struck Constable Westlake over the head with the milk bottle. The hard cap the officer was wearing saved him from injury.

Orville Terry, Trenton, Burned To Death in Truck

One Trenton man was burned to death and another was seriously burned about the hands and face when the transport truck in which they were riding Saturday night caught fire after crashing into a bridge abutment and careening into a car proceeding in the opposite direction.

Burned to death was Orville Terry, age 60, Film Street, Trenton, helper of the Fox Cartage truck, while the driver, Norman Ferguson, 31, Sidney Street Trenton, is in Cobourg Hospital.

The accident occurred shortly after 8:30 Saturday evening when the two were returning to Trenton after taking a load of furniture to Kitchener. Police stated the truck struck the guard rail of the bridge and then careened into westbound vehicle driven by Alfred Minaker, Colborne.

Formerly of Oshawa, Ferguson is a veteran of the last war having served with the transport division overseas. He has a wife and four small children.

Shell Oil Dealers, Employees Guests Of Company

Local manager of the Shell Oil Company of Canada, Ltd., Mr. Les. Airth, played host Friday night to Shell Oil dealers from Belleville and district and to employees of these dealers.

The occasion was the annual meeting at which marketing plans for the coming year were presented, while five Belleville and district dealers were presented with long service awards by J. A. Carruthers, Divisional Manager.

Receiving handsome scrolls and lapel buttons for long service with the company were Mr. Huff of Colliver and Huff, Picton, who has been associated with the company for 20 years; Mr. E. Hill, 15 years, and Aselstine and Son, Belleville, and Mr. Hanthorne of Carrying Place, for ten years' service.

One of the highlights of the evening was the showing of a new Hollywood technicolor film produced by the George Pal studios. The picture portrayed the historic story of oil from the Babylonian days, through the era of the medicine doctor and his cure-alls to the present day of highly scientific research and the development of petroleum products.

Another first showing in Belleville was the presentation of a two-cast play entitled "Trained to Win." This play was developed by Shell to show to new employees the value of careful methods.

Company representatives present at the meeting included Mr. Gilbertson from Home Office; Mr. Carruthers, Mr. Dixon and Mr. Burt from Divisional Office, while Mr. R. M. Emler and Mr. Hill of Ottawa were also present. A refreshment period followed the film, affording an opportunity for the renewal of old acquaintances.

Maple Syrup Reported Stolen From Shanties

With maple syrup selling at prices considerably higher than for many years, certain unprincipled syrup-lovers are seeking to obtain their year's supply without the formality of paying for it.

Provincial police have had several complaints from district farmers to the effect that syrup has disappeared from sugar shanties during the night. One farmer, Ivan Perry, 3rd concession Sidney township, stated six or seven gallons had been missed from his bush since the start of the syrup season. Another Sidney man reported that three gallons had been stolen.

Body of Child Found in Creek, Missing Sunday

Missing since ten o'clock Sunday morning, the body of two-year-old Gordon Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Young, four miles west of Maribank, Hungerford township, was found Monday morning in Goose Creek, two miles from the farm residence.

The body was found by Roy Young, uncle of the lad after an all-night search made possible by the use of bonfires. Over 150 men searched unsuccessfully for the lad on Sunday with Provincial Police officer Hector Gould of Belleville heading in the search.

The two-year old lad was last seen while playing with a bottle in the backyard of the Young residence. A part of the broken bottle was found Sunday afternoon in a field about one quarter of a mile from the home, while the neck of the same bottle was later found one-half mile from the home.

Fields in the vicinity of the Young home are extremely rocky and full of rain ponds and searchers on Sunday concentrated their efforts nearer the home than where the body was eventually found. Funeral arrangements had not been made at press time.

Mr. and Mrs. Young have one other child, a daughter, Donna Rosena, age six years.

Memorial Service For Late Primate At Christ Church

A memorial service for the late Most Reverend Derwyn Trevor Owen, Archbishop of Toronto and Primate of all Canada, was held in Christ Church on Sunday morning. Appropriate hymns were sung, and immediately following the sermon special prayers were offered and "The Dead March" from "Saul" was played by Mr. Gordon Black. The anthem, a special arrangement for boys' voices, was "Hail, Festal Day," with solos being sung by Billy Philp and Junior Newman.

The rector, Rev. J. Grant Sparling who attended the Primate's funeral representing the Bishop of Calgary, preached the sermon. He said: "The church honored him in life by raising him to the highest position in office, and God honored him in death by calling him to Himself during the great festival of the resurrection."

Archbishop Owen was described as coming from humble origin, but was a man who made the best use of the gifts which he possessed, which consequently brought him to the dignity of the Primacy. His whole life was a challenge to the younger generation. The secret of his rapid advance was due to the complete dedication of his whole soul to Christ, his faculty for hard work, his simplicity and kindness plus his great ability to deal with people.

In conclusion the rector said: "Derwyn Owen was a great man, but the One who made him great was the Christ who dwelt in his heart. This call to true greatness comes to us all. It is not a greatness which belongs to the educated, the cultured or the wealthy but it is a greatness which is the heritage of those who give their all to Christ."

Police Blotter

Provincial police early Saturday morning investigated an unreported accident which had occurred three miles east of Trenton on the Belleville highway apparently some time during the night.

Provincial Constable Sam Ervine found a late model sedan in the north ditch in a badly wrecked condition. Checking of licence number revealed the vehicle to be owned by John Parker of Trenton.

City police reported theft of a number of muskrat traps and a pair of rubber boots from a car parked on a local parking lot. Another complaint was to the effect of shop-lifting having taken place at a local grocery chain store.

The local fire department had a run to an apartment above White's butcher store on McAnnany St., where the switch of an electric refrigerator had burned out.

Paris, April 14 (Reuters) — Police were trying hard today to establish the identity of a young man found unconscious last night in the Marseilles-Paris Express and who today expressed surprise that he was not in San Francisco instead of Paris.

Danish Queen Is Taken Ill With Influenza

Copenhagen, Apr. 14 (AP). — Queen Alexandrine of Denmark has been taken ill with influenza after long nights of vigil at the bedside of ailing King Christian X, a Royal physician announced today.

The physician said the Queen's temperature was rather high.

A bulletin said the king, who suffered a heart attack Easter Sunday, "spent a quiet night with good sleep" and that his general condition was unchanged. Yesterday the 76-year-old monarch's strength was dwindling, his four physicians said.

A State Department source said today that Prime Minister Knud Kristensen had asked cabinet members to cancel any trips and remain in Copenhagen. The source said cabinet members now in the provinces had been recalled, and that a cabinet meeting had been called for today.

Under the Danish constitution, upon the king's death all ministers must place their portfolios at the disposal of the new monarch.

Atlantic Crossing By Constellation Made at 299 MPH

By DOUGLAS AMARON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 14 —(CP)— A British Overseas Airways Corporation Constellation landed at London airport today, thus completing in 10 hours, 54 minutes what is believed to be the fastest flight from Montreal to the United Kingdom by a commercial airlines aircraft.

The giant, 44-passenger plane made the flight non-stop under near perfect weather conditions at an average speed of 299 miles an hour. B.O.A.C. officials said they believed this was the first time a commercial line plane had flown non-stop from Montreal to London.

Today's was not a commercial flight, however, as the aircraft, carrying five Canadian newspapermen, B.O.A.C. officials and the families of corporation members, was on a "positioning flight" in preparation for the opening tomorrow of London-to-Montreal service.

The new service, which will be paralleled by flights from Montreal, will not be direct but calls for stops at Prestwick, Scotland, and Gander, Nfld. Tomorrow's opening flights, on which the Canadian newspapermen will return, will be by way of Shannon, Eire, instead of Prestwick.

The Constellation today, which flew at 15,000 feet throughout, was travelling light with only 11 passengers and this helped speed the crossing. The previous record for a commercial crossing was believed slightly more than 11 hours on a Montreal-to-Prestwick trip

Capt. Alan Andrew, veteran of close to 200 Atlantic flights, was in charge of the plane. Among the passengers wer ehis wife, his 13-year-old son Nicholas, and his 2½-year-old daughter Sally.

The press party was in charge of Leonard Green, B.O.A.C. public relations officer in Montreal, and its members were Ross Willmot of the Montreal Star, Andre St. Perre of Montreal La Presse, Leslie Powell of the Montreal Gazette, Thomas Lee of the Toronto Star and myself.

Workers Reach Agreement With General Motors

Detroit, April 14 — (AP) — Announcement of an agreement between General Motors Corporation and the United Electrical, radio and machine workers of America (C.I.O.) providing for a 15-cent hourly increase for more than 30,000 employees was made today in a joint statement by corporation and union.

The agreement is effective today. Under its terms all wage rates and classifications of hourly-rated employees represented by the union will be increased 11½ cents per hour.

The remainder of the 15 cents will be used to cover the cost of six paid holidays and other economic items. Assignment of 3½ cents holiday pay to meet other economic issues was one of the original demands of the union.

The holidays for which G. M. will pay employees represented by the union are New Year's, memorial Day (May 30), Fourth of July, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The union's demand for a health, welfare and retirement program will continue a subject for discussion in negotiations. The agreement must be ratified by membership of the four U. E. unions involved. Under the terms of the agreement, the International Union must notify General Motors of ratification by the local membership not later than April 21.

Police said Chief Constable C. G. Bromley of Mattawa arrested the men on disorderly conduct charges Saturday night. They said Dufond smashed the lock on his cell, released Jocko, opened cells occupied by three other prisoners and then tried to get through the wall.

U.S. Virtually Wide Open For Attack by Air

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, April 14 — (AP)— The United States — its wartime aircraft detection network all but dismantled — is virtually wide open to a surprise attack from the air.

An unofficial survey indicated this today following disclosure last week of a document dealing with War Department thinking of the national security effects of the atomic bomb.

That document, prepared primarily for Congressional use, commented that present-day methods of delivering an atomic attack are limited to long-range bombers or bombs smuggled in by agents. Rocket delivery is something to be reckoned with in the future, the paper said.

Questioned by a reporter concerning the aerial assault theory, officers assigned to the development and employment of defence weapons emphasized that the greatest problem would be the detection of any attacking force in time to get fighter aircraft and anti-aircraft guns into action.

During the war the sea coasts, borders and interior of the country were covered by a tie-in radar network which detected the approach of aircraft from any direction and plotted its course as it moved inland.

Demobilization reduced army and navy manpower to the point, however, where it no longer became possible to operate this detection complex. While it is presumed that local defences areas still in operation continue to use radar detection equipment, they are not numerous enough and linked together to form a screen.

One officer summed it up this way:

"It would be possible today for a foreign aircraft to approach and fly clear across the United States without ever being reported."

HITLER HAD REASON

Frankfurt, April 14 — (AP) — Adolf Hitler ordered enemy war prisoners treated ruthlessly in hopes that reprisals would discourage German soldiers from surrendering, records of a private conversation he held a few months before the war ended disclosed today.

An official transcript of the conversation was discovered by the American army.

Toronto, April 14 (CP)—When Larry O'Shaunessy, of Toronto, found Norman Bloomer, 38, ransacking drawers in his house Saturday and heard the excuse "I'm hungry," he thought fast and lured Bloomer downstairs with the promise of food. Police found Bloomer waiting patiently in the kitchen and arrested him on a housebreaking charge.

A Big Season Ahead

It takes a large concern to turn out business worth a quarter of a billion dollars. Yet such a business Canada carried on last year and will be stretching to higher figures this year unless all signs fail — and that can scarcely happen.

It is the great tourist industry or the show that Canada herself with her vast resources and the natural appeal of her mountains and streams, her lakes and her forests is holding forth the year round. For it is Canada herself that is the appeal, her natural attractions and her people.

Forecasts are that the parade of cars entering Canada in 1947 holiday season will be higher than ever in history.

The season is not far away and when it comes it will come early and last till late in the autumn. That is the prediction of those who are in touch with the situation of planning to entertain this great invasion of friends mainly from the United States.

Every Canadian can play a part in doing his share towards welcoming the visitors to the lakeside areas and other resorts through the exercise of every courtesy to the country's guests.

Much of this incursion will be by motorcars because people can help with a car to make their own entertainment and spread their tour of sightseeing far and near.

Talk of Emigrating

At times people of the Old World look across the seas and there is an urge to emigrate. That has been the fact behind the development of countries in the New World. After the greatest war in history, great numbers of Europeans are now openly talking of going to newer lands in the New World, or South Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

It is stated that the population of Eire is now at the lowest, namely 2,953,452 and that the government is being asked to reduce the tendency of young Irishmen to go abroad in the hope of greater opportunities. In England there are numbers of young men who are talking of seeking their opportunity and fortune abroad. Atlantic transportation companies state that more than 100,000 persons in Britain have made application for passage to the United States and Canada. Authorities of South Africa in London state that 40,000 Englishmen are looking to the Union of South Africa in the hope of making their home there. Two liners have been chartered by the Union to transfer one thousand priority skilled workers a month to South Africa.

It was well for the New World that years ago enterprising men and women from the older countries of Europe decided to set out for the West and to make their home in North America. How much the present state of Canada owes to these people and their descendants, Canadians should know for many thousands emigrated during the past century.

Though the whole world was torn by two wars, yet it was really Europe that felt the two great conflicts especially. Europe has been the source of previous movements of emigrants.

With the tendency to wish to set up anew in newer areas of the world there is of course the desire of Europe to retain their young life possible so as to bring about its rehabilitation and recovery from the tragedies of two worldwide conflicts.

After Two Years

Two years have passed since Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, died, just as the World War II was entering its last stage. To him, worn out by his labors for the struggling world of freemen to crush tyranny and find a way for security and understanding among the various peoples, it was not given to see that Promised Land of victory to which he had done so much to lead the democratic peoples. To him had he lived it would probably have been no less distressing and no more surprising than to those who have lived into well in to two years of peace to find so much anxiety as there is today.

President Roosevelt's name is secure among the great leaders of men in the hall of fame; that he is destined to be remembered ages hence is the feeling of all people of today. His great associate in counsel, former Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain a year ago named him as one of the supremely great figures in the history of the United States and mankind.

Among the never-to-be-forgotten associations with the life of President Roosevelt were his fireside chats, when that voice of his, carrying the very heart of sympathy, touched on problems of the progress of the war. These gave every listener a sense of brotherhood with the man who was leading the U. S. in the war. These made people feel that they personally knew President Roosevelt, for his voice had the quality of appeal and doubly so as its messages were relating to the steps towards victory.

While he did not survive the war, his share in bringing the victory over the aggressors was very great. For what he did, the democracies will forever honor his name.

Study Flood Relief

Residents of the cities, towns and villages everywhere in Ontario will sympathize with their fellow-Canadians who have been the victims of flood waters in Western Ontario during the past week. The end of the winter season and the arrival of spring came to most parts without any untoward manifestations. Hereabouts several mild spells of weather during the winter made the ultimate risk from ice breakup and jams disappear. Another factor in the situations is the difference in the terrain of the area flooded from that in these parts.

The latest flood disasters will speed up the study by engineers and municipal councils of the problem of protection against floods. The question will be one that will keep the public attention tense.

Novice Parents

An encouraging sign for the future of American children is that parents no longer consider themselves omniscient. The annual report of the Child Study Association of America states that the widespread, urgent desire of parents for education and counsel is far greater than the supply of such help. The association also has been overwhelmed with requests for pamphlets, reprints and book lists on child rearing. Mrs. Sidonie Matsner Gruenberg, executive director, points out that it has taken a generation or more for fathers and mothers in any large numbers to acknowledge that they have anything to learn. Parents of today, she says, are generally ready to admit ignorance and confusion about problems that parents of yesterday felt no doubt of their ability to handle comments Washington Post.

Rural high school pupils may have according to the plan of the Department of Education for rural high school districts, opportunity for extra activities as sports, drama, glee clubs, orchestras, said S. D. Rendall at a meeting of the O. E. A. in Toronto last week. The ninety-minute lunch hour is to be eliminated in favor of two forty-minute periods.

HOME TOWN FRIENDS

It is good for men to travel. There is nothing like a trip
To some distant haunt of splendor via motor, train or ship.
For the mind at times will weary and the heart resent routine;
Then the doctor's best prescription is a little change of scene.
But the best of all the tonics every time I've had to roam,
Was to find among the strangers just a friend or two from home.

It is good to view the ocean from a beach of golden sand.
To admire a rugged mountain, dawn to dusk, I'll gladly stand.
This old world is filled with wonders for the eyes of all to see.
There is grandeaur in abundance, whatsoe'er the spot may be.
But the finest sight I know of, howsoever fair the place,
Is that glorious smile of greeting on a long-familiar face.

Of all the thrills of travel the most rapturous I know
Is that shouted word of welcome from a friend of long ago—
One you've missed, but not forgotten, with the passing of the years.
Oh, there is no joy just like it, when he suddenly appears.
For the finest sight I know of, be it London, Paris, Rome,
Is to see among the strangers a familiar face from home.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, April 14 (CP)—An announcement is coming in Ottawa which probably won't arouse any unusual interest throughout the nation but which in the behind-the-scenes government of a Canada at grips with a technological age is considered an important one.

It is the appointment of Dr. Otto Maass as scientific adviser to Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief of the army's general staff. Wartime director of chemical warfare for the National Research Council, he has been heading that directorate since its post-war switch to the Defence Department and has been carrying on as a professor at McGill University.

But he is, in reality, one of those vital men whose duties and importance are so broad they are somewhat nebulous. A British scientist who recently visited Canada said he considered Dr. Maass one of the 10 most powerful men in this country.

He said foreign science considered Dr. Maass Canada's top scientist and one of the top men in that field in the world.

Much of the American-born scientist's contribution to the Allied war effort has never been told because it is still banned by security. However, the citation accompanying his recent award of the gold medal of the Professional Institute of the Civil Service gave a broad hint when it recalled his important work in the fields of chemical, flame and biological or bacterial warfare.

Shipping: Government sources say the shipping situation is still so tight on the North Atlantic that few immigrants would reach Canada even if there were no immigration barriers.

The sources said many ships now were tied up for conversion from wartime to peacetime use. Other ships for passenger service were under construction.

As a result shipping was as tight as it ever had been and was the governing factor in the movement of immigrants.

Trade: Government officials believe that the conference of the International Trade Organization in Geneva may last as long as six months although they hope that it might be completed in three months.

They describe the Geneva conference as a preliminary to a world conference at which the various nations will be asked to agree to the mutual abandonment of trade barriers in order to increase world trade.

There Was No Body; Sad-Eyed Man Fools Undertaker

Boston, April 14 — (AP) — Undertaker D. Brochu bent a sympathetic ear when a sorrowful-appearing man commissioned him Saturday to handle funeral arrangements for his wife.

A man giving his name as Edward J. Gilboy haltingly told him that Mrs. Gilboy had died in hospital. Would he handle the funeral?

Then the stranger looked down and said: "I haven't been working lately. This suit looks pretty shabby. Would you stake me to a new one? Her insurance will take care of it."

Off they went to a men's clothing store. The suit cost $59.

"I'll be waiting for you when you bring back the body," said Mr. Gilroy.

Off to the hospital went funeral director Brochu. There was no body.

NOT AS CHILLY AS THAT VIEW OF COURT

Chicago, April 12 —(AP)— Judge Walter J. Labuy decided today that it wasn't cold enough in the Chicago postoffice for two pairs of pants.

The judge sentenced Harry Richardson, 50, a mail handler, to a year and a day in prison for theft, despite the defendant's contention that a package containing a pair of trousers had broken open, that he wanted to retie it, and that he donned the trousers beneath his own pair because the postoffice "was chilly."

Strike Threats Face Members Of "Big Three"

Detroit April 14 (AP)—Strike threats faced two of the automobile industry's "Big Three" today as the third, General Motors Corporation, awaited official union action on an interim offer of a 10 cent hourly wage increase

General motors proposed that the "cost of living" wage hike be effective on approval until August when the corporation said it would again discuss wage rates for its 265,000 production workers.

Meanwhile the Ford Motor Company was threatened with a strike of supervisory employees by mid-May as the Independent Foreman's Association of America Executive Board approved filing of a 30-day strike notice Sunday.

Chrysler Corporation was the target of a similar notice Saturday after union officials reported no progress in negotiations covering its 75,000 workers.

In negotiations with General Motors and Chrysler the United Auto Workers Union (C.I.O.) has demanded a 23 1-2 cents an hour raise, a guaranteed 40-hour week and other concessions. It is expected to present similar demands to Ford when new contract discussions start in May.

The current average hourly wage rate at G.M. is $1.31. It is $1.33 at Chrysler and $1.39 at Ford.

The first reaction of Walter P. Reuther, U.A.W. president, was that it was inadequate, but he said he would refer the offer to the rank and file for final decision.

The auto union's executive board is expected to discuss the proposal at its meeting in New York starting tomorrow.

BBC Criticized For Allowing Wallace Air Time

By ED L. CAMPBELL

London, April 14 — (AP) — The government-controlled British Broadcasting Corporation drew criticism in the press today for giving Henry A. Wallace network time for an address last night in which he declared that "the immense power and wealth of America is being used for strategic and military purposes."

Wallace, former Democratic vice-president of the United States, made a 15-minute BBC broadcast immediately after the popular quarter-hour "9 o'clock news." Some BBC officials estimated that at least 15,000,000 heard him.

In the Sunday Times, the often influential columnist who signed himself "Scrutator" asked "what conceivable claims" Wallace, a private citizen, had to BBC air time. He added:

"Americans will ask themselves whether some hidden anti-American influence has been at work. Perhaps our own authorities might prudently examine the question."

The Conservative Daily Mail commented today that Wallace was "honest and well meaning" but that "his path to the stars is rather foggy."

"We suggest that Mr. Wallace has come to the wrong address," it said. "He should be delivering his homilies either in Washington or in Moscow."

Canada's Tourist Industry Will Set New Record

Windsor, April 14 (CP)—All signs are that Canada's tourist industry will sky rocket to new records this year, officials in charge of Dominion and Ontario government travel exhibits said yesterday.

The exhibits are now at Convention hall in Detroit.

F. A. Venn, assistant director of the information branch of the provincial travel department, said: "Last year the tourist trade represented between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000 in Ontario alone. The expectations are this will be exceeded this year."

The Ontario exhibit has been shown in Cleveland, Chicago and Boston. After a second display in Chicago within the next two weeks, it will be returned to Toronto to await the opening of tourist information booths at Ontario ports of entry.

PERFORM AUTOPSY

Wavell, Ont., April 14 — (CP) —Dr. R. P. Smith yesterday performed an autopsy on Robert Todd, 78-year-old retired prospector and trapper whose body was found trussed with rope and a dog chain under the floor of his cabin Friday, probably victim of thieves who stole his $28 Old Age Pension.

Dr. Smith reserved his opinion as to the cause of death. Police earlier said they believed death was due to strangulation.

SUGAR CONSUMPTION AND DIABETES

At least one-half of the calories consumed by most of us are made up of carbohydrate—starches and sugars—and most of the carbohydrates is in the form of sugar, beet or cane sugar. The consumption of sugar in the United States is now nearly 100 pounds a year per person.

Whether this excessive sugar consumption causes or favors development of diabetes the medical authorities seem unable to make up their minds. Thus Joslin in his famous book Treatment of Diabetes Mellitus, says that in the United States the consumption of sugar has been stationary in recent years (not going much above the 100 pounds per capita) whereas diabetes has continued to increase, and in some other countries where the consumption of sugar is high the incidence of diabetes is low. However, in Australia where in '37 the per capita consumption of sugar was 121 pounds and the diabetic death-rate 16.8 per 100,000, efforts are made to discourage excessive use of sugar, not that it destroys appetite for more wholesome or essential fool.

That's as near as one recognized authority comes to saying excessive sugar may cause diabetes.

Joslin does positively warn against overweight, saying that of 252 diabetics between 51 and 60 years of age but two were below, standard weight prior to the onset of the disease, and among 1000 consecutive cases 770 were overweight. It appears that people training for diabetes generally accumulate superfluous flesh for ten years or more before they finally achieve diabetes.

The more wholesome or essential food that people who are fed up with sugar, candy, cake, ice cream, syrup, don't care for, thank you, is the food that should supply the essential vitamins and minerals.

We know now that one vitamin, at least, the one I call "poor man's insulin", promotes the efficient utilization of carbohydrate in the body. We know, too, that the daily requirement of this vitamin (B1, thiamine), that is, the quantity of it the individual must get every day to maintain normal health, growth and vigor, varies with the quantity of carbohydrate consumed.

Here I must drop the plural (meaning physicians) and go into the singular for the nonce to say that to me it seems inescapable that the habit or custom of eating too much pure carbohydrate (sugar, refined white flour products) without the vitamins that grew with the sugar or starch, inevitably leads to overweight and obesity or to diabetes—unless (1) a correspondingly large amount of daily exercise, work or play aids metabolism of the surplus fuel and/or (2) a correspondingly large daily ration of thiamine, best, in the form of the B complex, is taken to supplement the diet.

To the forty million persons in the United States who are carriers of the tendency to diabetes (by inheritance) and who may pass the tendency on to their children, and particularly to the ten million or more of these carriers who are actually training for diabetes (more about all this in later articles), I say it won't do you any harm to give the foregoing the once over thoughtfully and let it rattle around in your skull until we meet for the next lesson.

To medical readers, if any, I say in the interest of public health it is your duty to stop me if I'm wrong about anything so vitally important as this by letting me have it straight from the shoulder Doctor. You'll find I can take it and do; at least I respect professional integrity.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How cold is "twice as cold as zero?"

Such expressions as "twice as cold" and "twice as hot as" are meaningless from the scientific point of view.

They cannot be evaluated in terms of thermometer readings and are used only in everyday speech to indicate individual reactions and degrees of comfort and discomfort that depend on other factors besides sheer temperature as measured by the thermometer.

Cold is the absence of heat and only heat is measured. In a general way heat may be defined as energy produced by molecular motion is supposed to cease in substances is known as absolute zero—459.4 degrees below zero on the Fahrenheit thermometer.

"Twice as cold as" is particularly meaningless, because there is no point from which degrees of cold are reckoned. Some say that when the Fahrenheit thermometer registers 32 degrees below zero it is twice as cold as when it registers zero, since 32 degrees above zero indicates the freezing point.

By the same process of reasoning it should be twice as warm when the thermometer registers 96 degrees above zero as it is when it registers 64 degrees below zero, which is manifestly absurd.

It would be like saying that a person is twice as poor when he has $50 as he is when he has $100.

We may, however, properly say that it is twice as many degrees above or below zero or the freezing point at one time as it is at another time, just as we may properly say that a person has twice as many dollars at one time as at another.

Woman Found Beaten, Slashed

St. Catharines, April 14 — (CP) —Mrs. James Herman was found by police early today, beaten and slashed, lying on the floor of her home after an unknown man forced his way into her home shortly after midnight. It was the second time in two weeks a St. Catharines woman has been beaten by an assailant in her own home.

Police, called by William Clark to whom Mrs. Herman was talking on the telephone when the man, carrying a knife, knocked at her door, said the woman was unconscious when they arrived at her home. Her wrists were slashed and her face red and swollen. She was taken to hospital and discharged this morning.

Mr. Clark told police he was talking on the phone when Mrs. Herman said there was someone at her door. She left the phone and Mr. Clark said he heard her talking to a man and then heard a scream. He immediately notified the police.

About two weeks ago, Mrs. Hamilton K. Woodruff was brutally attacked by an unknown man and still is in hospital where her condition is reported as good.

Chatham Mayor Annoyed By Press Reports

Chatham, April 14 (CP)—Mayor Ralph Steel of Chatham charged at a city council meeting Friday night that the Toronto Daily Star published exaggerated stories about the flood conditions here earlier in the week when the Thames River went on a rampage.

The mayor's comments followed a report from alderman Garnet Newkirk who with city manager T. M. S. Kingston, attended a meeting of the Thames Valley Authority Steering Committee at London.

The mayor and city council said they wanted to understood that they were not opposed to the Thames Valley Authority but they wanted to be assured that the scheme would benefit Chatham and Kent county. The authority, as it has been presented, involves a number of dams above the city of London and the Chatham city council was not at all sure that the scheme would prevent the flooding of the Thames in areas below here.

Council passed a resolution to call a conference between the Kent municipalities and ascertain if they were agreeable to asking W. R. Smith, engineer of the Authority, to come and present information on the project.

Stories Exaggerated

Mayor Steele said he met representatives of the Toronto Star on the basis of the standard of newspapermen in this section and tried to treat them fairly. He charged that they exaggerated flood stories, attributed to him statements on flood control which he did not make and led people to believe that the city water was contaminated.

"One impudently suggested that I should say that the Ontario government was trying to pass the buck," said the mayor.

"I refused to make any statement, but later I was telephoned by a reporter purporting to be from the Star who read to me a statement attributed to myself which he alleged appeared in the paper, I was told that I had criticized the Ontario government and the flood control scheme."

"I don't say I was misquoted," said Mayor Steele. "The statements were absolutely false. I never made them. In view of the excellent co-operation we have in this part of the province from newspapermen, I hesitated to criticize, but after thinking it over for a few days, I decided to bring the matter before the council."

Two Arrested After Beating Up Hitch-Hikers

Toronto, April 14 — (CP) — Three Niagara Falls youths, hitch-hiking home from the Leafs-Canadiens hockey game here Saturday night, were beaten and one of them was bitten by two men in a car, who picked them up at the city's western outskirts.

In police custody on charges of assault and robbery are John Burns, 25 and Raymond Walker, 20.

After Walter Harris, 19-year-old Niagara Falls collegiate student was robbed of $3, gagged and thrown out of the car, the thugs wheeled about, picked up Howard Riley 19 and John Mottola 21. After the passengers had been relieved of $11.50 a suspicious policeman stuck his head into the parked car and the suspects drove off.

So vigorously did Mottola, a member of a St. Catharines hockey team, and Riley fight, the driver of the car lost control and crashed into the stone foundation of a barn. The police followed the car and made the arrest when the vehicle stopped.

Syrup Plentiful On Local Market At $5 Per Gallon

With vendors claiming the current sap season was again about ended, there was considerable maple syrup offered on the local produce market Saturday with prices ranging from $4.50 to $5.00 per gallon, can included.

Several vendors also offered maple sugar at 60 cents per lb.

Eggs held steady at 40 cents per dozen for firsts with mediums bringing 35 to 38 cents and a few extra-weights up to 45 cents the dozen. Capons sold up to 50 cents the pound while the general price of chicken ranged from 40 cents to 45 cents the pound. A few broilers were offered at $1.40 to $1.60 per pair.

The offering of apples appeared to have declined from previous weeks, although a few good Spy and Delicious were offered at from $3.25 to $3.50 per hamper. Cookers sold from $2.25 up per bushel.

Potatoes held at $1.50 per bag with winter vegetables at 50 cents the half peck. Spanish onions sold at 45 cents the half peck. Cabbages sold at 15 cents and sauerkraut at 15 cents the quart.

C.I.O. Promises Co-operation In Telephone Strike

Washington, April 14 — (AP)—The C. I. O. promised today to throw its "effective co-operation" into the United States-wide telephone strike as the tie-up entered its second week without any sign of a break.

The striking National Federation of Telephone Workers meanwhile planned a direct appeal to President Truman to take a hand, although N.F.T.W. president Joseph A. Beirne disclaimed any desire for seizure of the industry. Nor was the government giving any indication that it intended to take that step.

The flurry which accompanied the tentative agreement on a basis for settling the dispute with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's strategic long lines division died down when the proposed settlement was rejected by the union's national policy committee.

Even before that, company representatives walked out of the other government-sponsored conference here involving the Bell system's biggest unit, the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The striking unions contend that A. T. & T. has refused to bargain on their 10 country - wide demands and scores of local issues.

The demands include a $12.00 weekly pay increase, higher pensions and longer vacations, union security and dues check-off. The more than 20 companies in the Bell system offered to arbitrate the wage demands locally but declined to bargain on a system-wide basis.

With Canada's Naturalists

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto, April 8 (CP)—When Shelley wrote, "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?", we doubt if thoughts of drifting snow ere crossed his poet-mind. For once we heard—or thought we did—with unfeigned consternation, the earliest crocus thus hold forth in weary lamentation: "Tell Shelley I am buried here, beneath six feet of snow; Spring may not be far behind, but it's mighty far below."

Enjoy—don't destroy, should be the rule when you see the trilliums blooming in the spring woodlands. These lovely white flowers, officially adopted as Ontario's floral emblem in 1927, are becoming scarce. Industrial and residential expansion has accounted for some of this scarcity by invasion of their haunts, but indiscriminate picking continues to be the chief cause.

Why does picking destroy the trillium when many other wild flowers thrive in spite of it? Because it is a perennial, carrying its stock from year to year, not only by seeding, but by the development of new sprouts in its rootstock. When the flowering season is over the plant sends food from its collar of green leaves at the top, down into the root to nourish new sprouts. But in picking the trillium, this collar as well as the flower, is taken. Hence, both seed and sprout propagation are cut off and the plant dies.

When trillium gathering has been radical as it often is in suburban areas, whole colonies have been destroyed forever in a single season. There are many other species, Lady Slippers or other wild orchids among them, which are just as sensitive to picking as the trilliums.

With most spring wild flowers the safe rule is to leave them in their natural habitat for others to admire and enjoy. Better a memory of fresh and healthy beauty, than drooping specimens in a vase.

At the Ontario government fish hatcheries at Mount Pleasant, near Brantford, and Normandale, near St. Williams, the output runs about 1,200,000 brown and speckled trout, and bass, annually. Distributed in provincial lakes and streams, their recreational and tourist values pay excellent interest on the investment.

This year's research activities will be undertaken to determine to some extent, what proportion of these introductions eventually arrive in anglers' creels. Thousands of specimens are "tagged" by clipping the adipose fin—an accessory of little, if any use to the fish.

British Columbia school children observe a special day—a sort of Remembrance Day—in which local wild flowers and wildlife of all kinds are discussed with an eye for protective measures. In Britain there's a Flora League for children. Members have pledged themselves not to destroy the native flowers that are scarce, and to encourage conservation in all its branches to the best of their knowledge and opportunity.

Wife Preservers

A procedure to wash delicate laces without reshaping is to baste the lace article to a white cloth. Swish the cloth through lukewarm suds, rinse, straighten the backing cloth, and hang to dry. Iron from the back side of the lace over a thickly folded Turkish towel to prevent crushing the design.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Three Strikes Against Her Right in The Beginning

Some women marry men much younger than themselves. They are starting off with one strike against them, but if other things are right, their marriage can be successful in spite of the handicap.

Other women marry men they know will probably be unfaithful to them, or who are habitual drinkers, or perhaps incurable spendthrifts. All such women, like the first, are beginning married life with one strike against them, and whether or not they'll be able to win the game is dependent partly on their own skill at playing it, and partly on whether the man they marry has sufficient desire to play his part in it.

It's a reckless woman who will take on a marriage that has three strikes against it right in the beginning; who has no skill at the game herself and who picks a man who did just that, without blinking. See if you can pick out the three strikes she had against her to start with, as you read her letter:

"I married a man 11 years younger than me five months ago. When we were married, he didn't have a cent and I had to pay the way. Mistake number two,—yes, I know.

"I've caught him in a few lies. But I also lied. I told him I was younger. So that's even.

"I have a daughter who loved him very much. She and I have so much fun together, but he is such a sorehead she doesn't seem to want him around any more.

"He and I don't seem to get along. A day never passes but we argue about something. Our biggest one is him not supporting his home. He promises to give me so much, but when it comes time, he just doesn't. If he isn't sulking, he is crying or calling me names in the hall. Oh yes, I can hold up my end in tongue-lashing, but not in the hall.

"I want to use my money for a home, not spend it all this way with no help. What I want to know is, shall I keep going for my daughter's sake, or shall I quit? Kitty.

"Did you count 'em — those three strikes that had this woman licked in her marriage before it even got started? First, the man was 11 years younger than herself; second, he was the type who was perfectly ready to sit back and depend on his wife for support; third, she started off with a lie—oh, yes; a little one, but still a lie—between them, so that she killed, inside herself, the chance of that perfect confidence between two people upon which a successful marriage depends.

"There isn't a thing in the letter, either, that would seem to counteract any of these liabilities, so that you wonder what on earth she ever married him for. If she already had a daughter, as it appears, she probably had one marriage behind her already. Wouldn't you think, whether she was widow or divorcee, that she would have learned a little something about the things necessary to insure married happiness?

Why this woman thinks she should keep such a marriage going for her daughter's sake, I can't imagine. What is the daughter getting out of it except a warped picture of marriage that may do lasting harm to her personality? If this mother were a sufficiently strong character to give her daughter a demonstration of how to turn a bad marriage into at least a bearable one, then the girl might gain something constructive out of the experience.

But I'm afraid that any woman who had so little sense as to marry under the conditions she did would not be the type to have anything very worth-while to pass on to her child. About the most she can do for the girl, I think, is to use her money, as she suggests, in setting up a home of her own, free of name-callings and tongue-lashings, and to keep this husband out of it unless he shows that he can do better than he has done thus far.

Beautifying Your Shoulders

Actress Yvonne De Carlo practises swinging on a bar. This is an excellent exercise to develop the shoulders.

By HELEN FOLLETT

With all the beautifying efforts that seem necessary to fight the oncoming birthdays, it is necessary to give a thought now and then to shoulders which, if lovely, smooth and fine-lined, contribute enormously to the svelte silhouette. Do your best, but it will be a long search for a formal that does not display them.

To develop the roundness and beautiful contour of the shoulders it is necessary to exercise the deltoid muscle. This can be accomplished by stretching exercises and arm swinging. Swimming is ideal for the purpose and tennis helps a lot, too. Chinning the bar and other exercises is possible to those who attend gym classes. The entire weight of the body is assumed by the shoulders and develops strong musculature of chest, shoulders, upper back and arms fairly quickly.

An Easy Exercise

What about shoulders - that carry too much adipose upholstery? An easy exercise is to shrug them. Sit in a straight-back chair. Hands on the hips, body erect. Lift the elbows as high as you can, stretching the body at the waist line, raising the shoulders within an inch of your ear lobes. Keep the head level and balanced.

These movements must not be casual. Muscles must work and work hard if fat cells are to go into a state of dissolution.

Another exercise that will help put Mrs. Plumple in form again:

Take the erect position, spinal column stretched full length. Fold the fingers inside the palms of the hands. Drop the hands at the sides of the body. Lift them slowly, with muscle pull, until they are straight out in front from the shoulders. Fling them far back over your head, as if you were about to hurl a heavy weight.

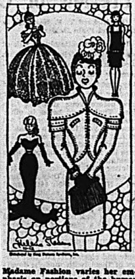
After five minutes of these movements, sit tall in a straight back chair, circle your arms in their sockets.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

To give variety and change, Fashion, that sweet old tyrant has been in the habit of putting emphasis upon various portions of the female form. In the time of Queen Elizabeth, it was popular to so extend the hipline that a woman could scarcely pass through a door. When Louis XIV reigned in France, court beauties wore white wigs of such height that they could not sit erect in their carriages.

There was the period of the hoop skirt, the era of the bustle, and the mania for the eighteen-inch waist, which was a health enemy of the first water. Thirty-five years ago there appeared the hobble skirt, binding the ankles to such an extent that it was almost impossible for a woman to board a streetcar. Nice girls did not lift their skirts at that time; they were not supposed to have legs.



Madame Fashion varies her emphasis on portions of the human

During the last few years, shoulders have been accented, every little sleeve having a shoulder padding. Now the emphasis is on the bosom. If you can't grow one of your own, you wear falsies. At the risk of being thought an old dodo, we believe that this whimsy is being overdone. It throws the silhouettes of extremely slender girls out of all balance and proportion.

The first thing the flat-chested girl must do is to pull herself up full length and stay that way, standing, sitting or walking. She will then straighten her back, lift her chest and have her head balanced. This pose will bring a more normal fullness to the facade, giving an appearance of more bosom, and flattening the tummy. Inches will be added to the bust measurement.

To attain good posture, you have to work at it mentally as well as physically. You must think of yourself as having a certain anatomical splendor; in time you will attain it. You can train your muscles by carrying yourself beautifully. They will gradually become stronger, more resilient. The flat chest is usually the direct result of sloppy carriage, and a flat chest means deflated breasts.

A cleverly designed bra, of course, is a help. If the breasts have lost tone, it will guide the flesh on its upward path, thus magnifying proportions. Blouses and bodices should be made with plenty of fullness in the front. Yokes are flattering.

Ten minutes a day devoted to bust development may bring results, if continued long enough. Every night massage the breasts with cocoa butter, sending flattened fingers round and round with slight upward pressure. Then do arm-swinging exercises, one arm at a time. In the morning sponge with cold water, breathe slowly and deeply before an open window.

Answers to Readers' Questions Concerning Weddings

Marjorie: Yes, your engraver is correct in what he told you. There is a definite difference between the At Home card enclosed with a wedding invitation and the At Home card enclosed with the announcement. The At Home card enclosed with the invitation must not carry the bride's new name because at the time the invitations are mailed, she has not yet acquired that name. At Home cards included in the invitations are worded:

At Home
after the first of May
Two Pleasant Road
New Haven, Connecticut

But when the At Home card is enclosed with the announcement the bride's married name may be used because the announcements are mailed after the ceremony has been performed. A correct form for these, and very practical since the plate can later be used for a joint visiting-card, is:

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Bliss
At Home
after the first of May
Two Pleasant Road
New Haven

Lillian S.: The fiance should give his fiancee her engagement ring in private....it should not be presented "in front of all the guests at the engagement-announcement party." When the announcement is made at a party, the girl is wearing her ring. As a matter of fact, this is sometimes the way the announcement is made.

Bill: These are the responsibilities of the groom:

Marriage license.

Wedding ring.

Wedding present to the bride.

Bride's bouquet. Corsages for bride's mother and for his own mother. Boutonnieres for the best man and ushers, and for the bride's father and his own father. Often the groom provides the bouquets of the bridal attendants, consulting with the bride as to her choice for these flowers. And the groom sends his bride a corsage to wear with her going-away costume.

Gifts to his best man and ushers; also their ties and gloves. Car in which he and his best man come to the wedding.

Clergyman's fee (Five dollars is considered minimum, ten dollars is average for people of moderate means....but the larger and more elaborate the wedding, the larger the fee.) Some clergymen do not accept a fee. Others do not accept a fee in cases where the family of the bride or of the groom are members of their congregation.

Expenses of the wedding trip.

Fashion Flashes

STILL IN DEMAND, especially by the matron, is the full-length, fitted coat with embroidered touches. Black worsted crepe is used for a handsome coat made with one-button closing at the softly fitted waist. The tapered, waist-length collar and the big patch pockets at the hips are elaborately trimmed with braid and tiny jet bead embroidery.

SPRING SONG is the apt name of a charming new model done in red silk crepe with an all-over design of music notes, bars and clefs in black and white. The dress has a simple shirt-waist top and the skirt is pleated from a deep hip yoke. With the dress is a matching cape that is also pleated from a plain shoulder yoke. Cape ties on with a big bow.

THERE'LL BE PLENTY of toppers for Spring, but, despite the classic boxy shorties, several new models are coming into the sartorial spotlight. Navy and white checked woolen is used for a smart topper made with curved cutaway hemline that dips slightly in back. Double collar with high lapels. Narrow turn-back cuffs.

Glamour in Gingham

By ANGELA CRAIN

British designer Joy Ricardo captures the trim effect in the lime hopsack suit worn by Greta Gynt, English film star soon to be seen in "My Heart Goes Crazy." The simple line of the suit is accented by a smart gingham shirt and matching hat trim.

DREAMY DRESSES, the ticket for Spring dances, favor nylon net in all sorts of delicate pastels, especially for youthful wearers. Pale lilac and rose net— the bodice softly draped; the skirt in alternating panels—makes a lovely frock. Soft pink velvet roses cascade from the waist down the side.

Banquet Held.

At the evening banquet held in St. George's Parish Hall, Scouts from points as far apart as Prescott, Peterborough and Ottawa were in attendance. The international aspect of Scouting was illustrated when Scout-Executive Clayton S. Ingeson from Watertown, N.Y., addressed the banquet.

Scout-Executive Ingeson spoke of the value of Scouting in the development of youth leadership among the youths themselves, and the directing of the energies of youth away from juvenile delinquency and towards more useful objectives.

New York City Guards Citizens Against Smallpox

New York, April 14 —(AP)— The United States Navy Department made about 250,000 units of smallpox vaccine available to health officials today, and the army sought other supplies, as the city moved to protect its 7,500,000 citizens against the first outbreak of the disease in eight years.

From Millbrook, 75 miles north of New York City, came word that four cases had appeared in that community of 2,000. New York city has five cases, and two persons have died. These were the first smallpox fatalities here since 1912.

Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander, arranging to have 82 police stations functioning as vaccination clinics by Wednesday, said last night the outbreak could become one of the city's "worst emergencies." Fire stations also may be mobilized in the vaccination program.

Whole families are appearing together to receive their vaccinations. Up to last night, 66,688 persons had been vaccinated since the outbreak was reported.

Actors Ask Inquiry Into Clothing Digs

London (CP)—In 81 provincial theatres recently surveyed, 32 have dressing rooms below street levels, said John Keet in the British Actors' Equity Letter.

He added that in 22 theatres 45 per cent of the dressing rooms have no ventilation at all and 24 per cent of all the theatres have no running hot and cold water in the dressing rooms.

"Equity," he said, "has submitted these and other facts to the home office committee of inquiry."

Double Summer Time in Britain

Orkney Islands, Scotland, April 14 — (Reuters) — Some 18,000 country folk in these islands — Scotland's biggest egg producing centre — refuse to recognize British double summer time because the hens do not care for the idea —and the hens rule the roost.

The farmers, who include almost two-thirds of the population, have petitioned Joseph Westwood, secretary for Scotland, and their Member of Parliament, Sir Basil Neven-Spence, to do something about it.

They claim they get more daylight by "God's time" than they do by the double summer time system which went into effect throughout Britain Sunday.

They contend that their lives are ruled more by the laws of the hen than the laws of the British government.

Royal Family Resumes Tour

Bulawayo, South Africa, April 14 — (Reuters) — The Royal Family, refreshed after their three days rest at Victoria Falls, resumed their tour, now in its last stages, when they arrived today at Bulawayo, former capital of the Matabele tribesmen, defeated in 1893 by forces under Cecil Rhodes.

They drove through tree-lined, gaily decorated streets.

The King, replying to the Mayor's address of welcome, said they were especially glad to come to Bulawayo because of its association with Rhodes — "that great Englishman who loved this place so much" — and said they intended to visit Rhodes' grave in the Matopo hills during their stay.

Bulawayo now is a busy mining centre.

The Royal Family are now on their way back to Capetown from where they will sail for Britain in the battleship Vanguard April 24. They are expected home May 11.

Needs New House Appeals to Queen

Brigg, Lincolnshire, England—(CP)—Because she "could get no satisfaction from the local council," Mrs. H. Cawkwell, a middle-aged housewife, wrote to the Queen appealing for help in getting a house.

"My dear Queen," she wrote, "I am appealing for your help. I am living in an old house....I have applied for a new house but cannot have one....The rain comes down the walls. There are four of us, my husband and myself, my father 82 years old and a little girl....no one is interested in my cause."

The Queen's lady-in-waiting forwarded the letter to Brigg Council with a request that Mrs. Cawkwell's application might be considered.

NEVER-TO-BE-FORGOTTEN COPS' BADGES STOLEN IN POLICE STATION

Baltimore, April 12 —(AP)— Two policemen told their superiors that someone had stolen the badges off their uniform coats.

They explained the shields were taken right in the station, too. It happened when they left their coats behind to go on wagon duty they said.

Preview of Christmas Toys

(By Richard T. F. Harding in Cleveland Plain Dealer)

If it seems untimely to talk of toys while splotches of March snow remain in shaded spots, remember that Christmas is on the way, that the bells on Santa Claus' reindeer may be jingling in your ears before your shopping is done. That would be as in other years, but mere repetition will not accustom you to it. To avoid it, consult someone good enough at arithmetic, and at holidays, to figure the number of shopping days remaining.

Better still find out what toy makers are up to. They are having in New York their 44th annual American fair, an exhibition for the trade, but one about which they have permitted some information to leak out to the general public. As a result of their carelessness it is possible to report that many designers have put the expected emphasis on things atomic and electronic, but that others of them, with modern developments of an ageless idea, have produced dolls, with equipment therefore, of such quality that they seem to have stolen the show. That kind of defence against science never can be complete, but it appears to hold at least half the debatable ground.

To emphasize the effect of their exhibit, some of the makers of dolls and the playhouse furniture that accompanies them brought in a group of girls under 6 to be demonstrators. The children needed no urging. All that was needed was to turn them loose among the playthings with a referee to break up monopolies, and the toy buyers' eyes were caught and held.

The girls went at housekeeping so eagerly, in a life-sized playhouse, as to suggest that the disease of spring cleaning is hereditary. They found a complete complement of furniture to move and when they turned to the kitchen discovered a stove with removable burners, an oven and a broiler. At that point they needed all their youthful ability at make-approval of the Safety Council — it contains no provision for making a fire.

Dolls are growing up. They appear in the show through the toddling and kindergarten ages into the younger school years. They walk and talk, but fortunately with vocabularies so limited that they tell no tales. Plastic ones have a skin described as warm to the touch and vulnerable to the burning sun. There is a rubber one that blows bubbles out of a real pipe and that has ears that repeatedly need washing. That there is no connection between the two ideas does not detract from their entertainment value.

Brother and sister dolls and mother and daughter combinations give full play to the talents of clothes designers, who are said to have made all former doll wardrobes obsolete in quality and quantity. And there is a doll-sized baby carriage that is easily converted into a bassinet.

For The Real Young And For Father

Designs in blocks for tiny youngsters who are beginning to coordinate have had more than the usual attention. While their users are unconsciously learning form and color, their slightly older brothers are doing as well as their sisters. They are benefiting by their trade's first full opportunity, since the war began, to use the rubber, steel and aluminum for which they had to substitute, and by its first unlimited use of many plastics.

Transportation and construction are making their usual appeal to boys, with such improvements and modernized ideas as might be expected. There are earth-haulers, bulldozers, road rollers and scrapers. And there is a construction set fastened with rubber gadgets which make it easy to take down one job and put up another. The father of the family may look forward to spending January's evenings happily on his knees because there have been produced for him a new group of highly developed electronic trains.

Wintry Weather Slows Operations Against Guerrillas

Athens, April 14 —(CP)— Wintry weather today was reported slowing operations by some 15,000 Greek government troops trying to close in on 2,500 anti-government guerrillas reported pocketed in the southern Pindus mountains.

Advices from the area said that 28 inches of snow had fallen in two days on peaks 5,000 to 6,000 feet tall. A communique yesterday said, however, that the pocket had shrunk from 1,500 square miles to about 450.

The Larisa correspondent of the Athens Populist newspaper Vradyni reported that the bitter cold was proving a serious handicap to the guerrillas, who had been forced from their billets into snowcovered and unprotected heights. He said that a military unit had found 30 frozen bodies of insurgents and that 11 shivering guerrillas had surrendered.

At the same time, guerrilla retaliatory action was reported elsewhere in Greece.

The Ministry of Public Order announced that a band of 300 it described as Communists had attacked a gendarmerie mobile unit at Ladi near the Turkish border, killing one and wounding three while suffering five fatalities.

In the central Peloponnesus, the ministry said, an "anarchist band" attacked a passenger bus. The announcement said the band killed four passengers, wounded 11, stripped the dead, robbed the other passengers and made off with the bus.

Vradyni reported that "a very strong band" captured a village west of Lamia in an attack in which eight villagers were killed, 20 armed villagers and three gendarmes forced to withdraw and several houses set afire.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

By SAM GORDON

An opening two bidder has some very ambitious ideas. Partner should be careful with his first response. Any encouragement will infect the opener with a touch of slamitis.

The idea is that such an opener has in his own hand the makings of a game. It takes very little help from partner to make a slam. If partner has a sure trick, a slam is usually there.

If partner has no sure trick, however, the opener should be so advised. Then if he is still slam-bitious, it is because he has much more than he announced so far. Not because he was encouraged.

South opened with two spades when north had this hand.

♠ J 8 4
♥ 7 5 4 2
♦ K 8 3
♣ 9 7 2

North promptly assisted to three spades. They reached a small slam that was not there. Not only did it cost them what they could have made at a game. It also lost them the tricks they were set.

Confronted with having no sure tricks, north defended his bid. He insisted that a king and queen of different suits were enough for a positive response to encourage a slam.

In answer to an opening of two in a suit, two no-trump is the first response to show no sure trick. It is known as a negative or discouraging response. It denies slam help quality.

If the response is other than two no-trump, it is a positive response. It is an admission of slam help quality. And the quality to consider as help for a slam is a sure trick; ace or K Q.

Some experts have grown overconfident. They suggest that king and queen in different suits are enough for a positive response. It is not so. They are wrong. Very wrong.

Horse Sense insists on a sure trick for a positive response to a two bid. It is a necessary safety for the best results.

An akoolap drools to disprove the rules.

The Movie Column

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A movie dealing with the activities of Russian agents in Canada and the United States is on the books at Twentieth-Century-Fox. Entitled, "The Iron Curtain," it was inspired by J. Edgar Hoover's speech to the United States House of Representatives on March 26 and by the Royal Canadian Commission's report on espionage, filed June, 27, 1946.

The picture will be filmed in semi-documentary style in Toronto and western United States cities beginning this summer.

Wins Both

Frederic March has done what no other actor has been able to do—he won top movie acting honors for his portrayal of Al Stephenson in "The Best Years of Our Lives," and now he has also won the Antoinette Perry Award, the top "Oscar" in the stage world, for his superb impersonation of the blustery and endearing Clinton Jones in the Broadway play, "Years Ago." The two awards never went to the same actor in the same year before.

Britain's Oscars

England is handing out prizes to film folk these days too, with the Daily Mail's national film awards going to actor James Mason and actress Margaret Lockwood.

Around The Lots

Alexis Smith and Ronald Reagan will be teamed again in "Sunburst," an original screen story on which youth will have its chance—the authors are two ex-GI's aged 23 and 27, and the producer will be Randall Macdougall, aged 32.

The Johnston office is planning a legal department to handle future suits against irresponsible persons who take Hollywood for a ride just to be sensational.

FREE CANCER DIAGNOSIS

Winnipeg (CP)—With a steadily rising demand among Manitoba citizens for subsidized cancer services, the Manitoba Cancer Institute has recommended to the health services committee of the provincial legislature that a start could be made by offering free diagnosis in the rural areas.

SOX AND CARDS TEAMS TO BEAT FOR PENNANTS

Joe Cronin and Eddie Dyer Think Their Squads No Worse Than Last Year

By JOE REICHLER

New York, April 14 (AP)—In accord with the majority of the experts who established them as overwhelming favorites to renew their world series rivalry next fall, manager Eddie Dyer of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Joe Cronin of Boston Red Sox said today they expected their teams to finish first in their respective leagues.

Going out on a limb on the eve of the opening of the Major League baseball season, Dyer, in the annual Associated Press Poll on managerial comment, said:

"We expect to win, but it's not going to be easy."

"We will repeat if the boys will forget all about their 1946 clippings and play ball."

The baseball writers representing the Major League cities, in a poll, made it a walk-away for the Cards and Red Sox. Of the 96 experts polled, 88 picked the Cards in the National and two selected the Red Sox in the American League.

Following are comments of other managers:

Steve O'Neill, Tigers—"Pitching is our strong point.... I am confident we can give the Red Sox a run for their money."

Bucky Harris, Yankees—As I see it the Yankees have as good a chance to win the pennant as any team in the league."

Lou Boudreau Indians—"I pick the Red Sox to repeat, with the Tigers second. I pick the Indians to finish third."

Ossie Bluege, Senators—Barring injuries, I believe we will finish in the first division."

Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox—"Barring injuries the Sox will have a good chance to climb into first division."

Muddy Ruel, St. Louis Browns—"We are in the process of re-building. Much depends on how some of the recruits come through."

Connie Mack, Philadelphia Athletics—"We are better than last year but whether it is enough to get out of the cellar I can't say."

President Branch Rickey, Brooklyn Dodgers—"We are not ready for the Cardinals because we haven't got the stopper—the pitcher who can put out the conflagration if there is one."

Charlie Grimm, Chicago Cubs "We have a first division club although there are some pitching ifs and our second base combination has to stand up."

Billy Southworth Boston Braves—"The Braves should finish higher than last year when we wound up fourth."

Bill Herman Pittsburgh Pirates—"I don't know where we will finish but we'll score more runs than the Dodgers or anyone else."

Mel Ott, New York Giants—"We have set our goal at a place in the first division. In my opinion, it is not beyond our reach."

Johnny Neun, Cincinnati Reds—"We have a young aggregation club with lots of hustle. We're going to be troublesome."

Ben Chapman, Philadelphia Phillies—"All clubs in the National League have improved more than the Phillies, making it rougher for us this year.... we definitely are not a last-place club."

Cornish Knight May be Horse To Beat in Derby

(By The Canadian Press)

Annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association at Kitchener next Saturday will receive glowing reports from all committee heads, with the treasurer's report from W. J. Snyder showing a surplus of $2,405 or $1,400 higher than a year ago. Ralph Ball of Port Colborne will be re-elected president by acclamation and Snyder also is unopposed for secretary-treasurer.

Cornish Knight, owned, trained, groomed and ridden by Canadians, persevered in a seesaw stretch duel at Jamaica Park Saturday to win the $20,000-added Experimental Handicap and steps out in front in the Kentucky Derby picture.

Vancouver Meralomas won the western senior men's basketball championship at Vancouver Saturday night when they defeated the hard battling Winnipeg St. Andrew's quintet 55-48. Meralomas won the first game 68-55.

Marius Russo, once the ranking southpaw on the Yankee pitching staff, has been sent down to the New York club's Newark farm of the International League.

Ninety-two racing greyhounds, most of them recently arrived at Phoenix, Ariz., for the opening of a dog racing track, died Saturday in a fire that destroyed the barn in which they were kennelled.

Toronto Montgomery Maids captured the Eastern Canada women's senior basketball title at Montreal Saturday night by trouncing Pauls Athletic Club of Montreal 41-8, in the second game of a two-game playoff.

PETES MIDGETS EDGE BELLEVILLE IN HOOP FINALS

Visitors Eke 1-Point Lead in Ontario Midget Finals — Second Game in Peterborough Today

Belleville trails by single point in Midget O.A.B.A. series. Peterborough Midgets came into Belleville on Saturday afternoon and took a single point lead in the first of a two game series for the Midget Basketball Championship of all Ontario East of and including Toronto. Winning their own Central Ontario League, and taking a series handily from the Toronto champions, Harbord Collegiate, the same team that beat out Niagara Falls for the Junior C.O.S.S.A. championship two weeks' ago, came to town with a fine reputation.

The local boys, winners of the Eastern Ontario League championship, were not given much chance by those who should know, but surprised their supporters with the very fine showing they made.

Peterborough opened strong and took a lead of 4 points in the first quarter, when McKee broke clear frequently for soft shots. The locals finally tagged the Peterborough star, and began to do a little scoring on their own, to trail at the half by a single point, the score being Peterborough 13, Belleville 12.

The second half was a ding-dong affair with Peterborough maintaining a small margin until well along in the last quarter when the Belleville team evened the score and went ahead by one point with a minute to go. Time out with 27 seconds to go saw the Belleville squad still in front 24-23, but with 10 seconds left, Peterborough managed to score another field goal to take the lead back, and the game finished with the Petes ahead 25-24.

Play Again Today

The return game will be played in Peterborough at the collegiate on Monday afternoon at 4.15 p.m.

For the locals Buchanan got eight points, and played a strong game from start to finish. Spiegel played strongly at guard and collected four points as well. Galbraith worked well, turning in the best game of this season.

For Peterborough, McKee gathered in 14 points, while Richardson was a tower of strength at guard and managed to score five points as well. Both teams played a fast rugged game, but were surprisingly clean. The winner will go to Kitchener next Saturday to play in the Provincial championship tournament.

Ed Shortt and Gordon Watkin handled the game with Lloyd Faulkner scoring and Don Dolan timing.

Ben Ritchie's boys were a credit to their coach, and he is to be congratulated on his effort with them.

Peterborough C.I. & V.S.: Richardson 5, Lee 4, McKee 14, Connell, Welsh, Nelson, Grafstein, Northcott 2. Total 25.

Belleville Y.M.C.A.: Buchanan 8, Ketcheson 2, Burke, McMillan 2, Rose 2, Dudley, Jeffrey 4, Spiegel 4, Galbraith 2, Scott. Total 24.

Truman Will Throw First Ball At Washington

Washington, April 14 — (AP)—The 1947 baseball season opens today, and the United States No 1 fan will be right there to see that everything goes off properly.

President Truman will throw out the first ball, and then (at 3 p.m. EST) Washington Senators will play New York Yankees in the year's first game. All other clubs will wait until Tuesday. A capacity crowd — 32,000 — is expected.

Mrs. Truman will go along with the president, as will many of his cabinet members. The Senate, with unusual foresightedness, has knocked off work for the day.

Floyd Bevens probably will start on the mound for the Yankees and Bobo Newsom for Washington.

CITY STORK BUSY

Toronto (CP) — In the first three months of this year Toronto's births numbered 1,808, an increase of 714 over the comparable period last year. Up to March 31 this year there were 592 marriages, a drop of 22 from the total to the end of March, 1946.

WINDSOR LOSES TO TRENTON BUT WINS 112-84

Handicap Too Big for Flyers to Overcome in Basketball Fixture

Windsor Alumni basketball team bowed to the Trenton Flyers by a 49-40 score here on Saturday night, but won the Intermediate "B" semi-final round 112-84 having taken the first game in Windsor 72-35. Windsor now meets Timmins or Sault Ste. Marie in the titular series.

Saturday's game, played on the Air Station court was a hard, closely-fought affair with both teams displaying brilliant basketball. Trenton took an early lead in the first half and was never headed although the visitors came to within three points of the winners at the end of the first half. The score at half time was 21-18.

The Airmen, displaying a consistent offensive in an effort to cut down Alumni's big first-game lead, played a fine passing game and increased their lead to six points at game end.

Windsor, however, came back strongly and played heady basketball confining their efforts mainly to a defensive game but taking full advantage of scoring opportunities.

Fairhurst was the outstanding star for Windsor netting seventeen points. Hogan with eight also played brilliantly amassing eight markers. Goost with six and Simescu with five were other leading visiting players.

Bremner paced the point parade for the Flyers scoring 18 points in a brilliant display. Sherwood also turned in a fine exhibition with eleven points with Watson doing likewise with ten.

The teams:

Trenton Flyers: Sherwood, (11); Fox; Bremner, (18); Haline, (3); McGee, (4); Watson, (10); Smith, Campbell, (3).

Windsor: Hogan, (8); Sahagian, (2); Goost, (6); Fairhurst, (17); Malovski, (2); Simescu, (5).

Officials: Referee, Ed. Shortt, Belleville; Umpire, "Red" Townsend, Belleville; Timekeeper, Corporal Cantor, Trenton; Scorer, E. Dunning.

Sports Roundup

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 14. (CP)—Baseball is upon us again and with it the "if" season .. .If anything, if—it is is more prevalent than ever. . . .outside of the champion St. Louis Cards and Boston Red Sox, scarcely a major league club is unaffected . . . Here are some of the big if's:

If— Clint Hartung comes through for the Giants, Mel Ott's New Yorkers may climb up toward their old respectability. .

If— Jackie Robinson clicks at first base, the Dodgers may be a stronger contender for the N.L. pennant. . . .

If— Hank Greenberg still has his old home-run power, he can give Pittsburgh a massive shot in the arm. . .

If—The five new major league pilots are successful, second division clubs may advance . . .the National League has three new pilots—Billy Herman at Pittsburgh, Johnny Neun at Cincinnati and the as yet unnamed successor of suspended Leo Durocher. . . . There are two new maestros in the American—Muddy Ruel at St. Louis and Bucky Harris in New York. . .

It Should Come To This

The Brooklyn management question still is up in the air. . One candidate suggested by New York sports writers is Bill Terry . . . Terry was boss of the Giants when he made his historic remark: "Is Brooklyn still in the League? . . . He lived to regret it the same year when the Brooks knocked the Giants out of the championship race . . .Clyde Sukeforth, acting manager of the Dodgers, is not thought likely for the big job. . . although a southerner, Sukeforth has been high in his rave notices for Robinson.

Wonder What Happened to them?

Remember the big topic at this time last year? It was the Pasquel Brothers and their raids on the majors. . . Nothing much has been heard about Jorge and Bernard this year but the Mexican League still is operating—and still has a few refugees from the majors. . . .

AT THE BELLE — Ray Milland and Barbara Stanwyck in one of the many romantic high spots of "California," Paramount's Technicolor adventure romance attracting large audiences to the Belle. Barry Fitzgerald co-stars with them.

AT THE McCARTHY — Brian Donlevy, who co-stars with Yvonne De Carlo and Jean Pierre Aumont in Universal-International's "Song of Scheherazade," suspects conniving by Charles Kullman, featured headliner in the film, now playing at the McCarthy Theatre.

HERSHEY BEARS NEED ONE GAME TO WIN SERIES

Defeat Pittsburgh Hornets 2-1 With Buller and Bruce Scoring Counters

(By The Canadian Press)

Hershey Bears will be back on home ice for the all-important seventh and deciding game of the American Hockey League Calder Cup playoff finals tomorrow night against the slumping Pittsburgh Hornets.

The Bears, who at one time virtually were with their backs to the wall when Pittsburgh led the best of seven series three games to one, came back Saturday night to edge the Hornets 2-1 in Pittsburgh.

The reverse ended a Hornet success sequence of 16 home contests, and left the series even at three victories each.

After a scoreless first period big Hymie Buller, Hershey defenceman put the Bears ahead when he sank Frank Mario's short pass at 12:37 of the middle session. Early in the third period Gordie Bruce playing despite three cracked ribs, provided the winning margin when he made good a pass from the veteran Herb Cain who has sparkled for the Bears in the playoffs.

Young Tod Sloan kept goalie Gordon (Red) Henry from breaking the league mark for the most shutouts in the playoffs when he lifted the puck into an open cage at 3:33. Henry already has four whitewashes to his credit.

Former Lieut.-Governor Mathers Dies in Halifax

Halifax, April 14 — (CP) — Frederick F. Mathers, Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia from 1940 to 1942 and Deputy Attorney General for the province for 22 years, died today after suffering a stroke. He was 75.

A native of Saint John, N. B., he became Lieutenant-Governor of the province which his Irish-born parents adopted. Having served only two years of his term, he retired for reasons of health and remained in retirement following a lengthy career of public service.

AT THE CAPITOL — Robert Alda gives lovely Joan Leslie an up-to-date Cinderella slipper in the above scene from Warners' newest musical comedy, "Cinderella Jones," which opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "The Dark Corner," starring Lucille Ball, Clifton Webb, William Bendix and Mark Stevens.

THE ROYALS DEFEATED 10-8 BY SHERBROOKE

All-Negro Line Accounts for Seven of Ten Goals Secured by Winners

Montreal, April 14 (CP)—In a surprise showing, the underdog Sherbrooke St. Francis team scored a 10-8 victory over the favored Montreal Royals here yesterday and squared their best of five eastern Canada semi-final hockey playoff at one game apiece. Third game will be played here tomorrow night.

The all-Negro line of Manny McIntyre and the two Carnegie brothers, Ossie and Herbie, accounted for seven of Shebrooke's goals, Ossie and Herbie Carnegie sniped three tallies each while Manny scored one counter. Other marksmen for the winners were Adjutor Cote, Bob Lauzon and Tony Demers.

The over-confident Montrealers took a 6-1 lead midway through the second period, but were forced to relinquish it when a series of penalties disorganized their defence and the team was forced to back-pedal for the latter half of the contest.

Tod Campeau was the big gun for Royals as he collected three goals. Ernie Laforce, Doug Harvey, Cliff Malone, Floyd Curry and Jacques Locas sniped the other markers.

A solid Montreal crowd which numbered close to 12,000 turned when the trailing Sherbrooke evened the count midway through the finale and then yelled themselves hoarse as Herbie Carnegie sank the winning goal.

Toronto Maple Leafs in Hard, Clean Game Defeat Canadiens 4-2 to Lead Series for Cup

Mortson, Polle, Lynn and Kennedy Score for Leafs; Clancy Rules With Iron Hand

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 14 (CP)—Montreal Canadiens could only hope today that the return of Maurice Richard to their lineup tomorrow night would provide the spark they need to overcome the dashing young Toronto Maple Leafs in their best of seven Stanley Cup final.

The Canadiens missed the rapier like thrusts of their swift right winger Saturday night as bowed 4-2 to the Leafs, who thus took a 2-1 lead over last year's champions, who won the first game 6-0 but lost the second 4-0.

The Leafs, led principally by the two men whom Maurice Richard slashed with his stick in the second game of the series in Montreal Thursday night where he drew a match penalty and a one-game suspension, roared into an early lead through superior play and then sat back to wait for the breaks.

Pounces On Loose Puck

Vic Lynn, rookie leftwinger, could barely see out of his left eye, nearly closed by a gash above it from Richard's stick. But he saw well enough with the good right one to pounce on a loose puck in the second period and fire Toronto's third goal—the one that really won the game.

And Bill Ezinikie, the Winnipeg golfer who was the victim in the outburst which brought Richard his unusual penalty, proved a prime factor in the Toronto triumph. He jolted the biggest of his opponents with lusty but clean bodychecks and backed away from no one.

Rookie defenceman Gus Mortson started the Leafs on the way to victory with a first period goal which climaxed a brilliant piece of stickhandling. Bud Polle, from Fort William who got into action in this series because of an injury to reliable veteran Nick Metz in the first game, scored in the second before Lynn rapped his counter home.

Scored Two Quick Goals

When the Leafs gave way to Montreal pressure, the Canadiens nearly evened it up with a brace of second period goals—one by rookie Leo Gravelle and the other by Buddy O'Connor, who stood out for the Canadiens and assisted on Gravelle's counter.

The champions held an edge on territorial play during the final period, but Ted Kennedy dashed all their hopes when he scored on a breakaway with only 46 seconds to play. He took his time a he went in on goalie Bill Durnan pulled that usually stolid performer out of position, and flipped the puck into the net.

Managing director Connie Smythe of the Leafs summed it all up afterwards as "good hard clean hockey—the way it should be played."

It was late Saturday when Clarence Campbell, National National Hockey League president, announced that the Richard suspension was for the Saturday night game and that he would be eligible for the fourth game here Tuesday night. Two Toronto doctors—Dr. F. G. Kergin and Dr. W. E. Gallie—had found the league's leading goal scorer suffering from a "mild strain of internal legiments of the knee" but fit to play immediately.

CALGARY SKATED INTO THE ICE BY WINNIPEG FLYERS

Manitoba Club Evens Senior Series in West by Winning 2-1

Winnipeg, April 14 — (CP) — Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Flyers rolled into the Manitoba capital today for the third game of the Western Canada Senior Hockey finals, all square as a result of Winnipeg's unexpected 2-1 win over the Alan Cup holders in Calgary Saturday night.

Flyers, showing little resemblance to the team that lost the first game 10-3, checked Calgary into the ice in the second game and prevented Stampeders from opening up with their fancy passing attack.

There were no particular stars in the Flyers' victory. They all fought desperately, checked the powerful Stampeders relentlessly and capitalized on the breaks for their well-earned markers. The work of Bun Nicholson in the Flyers' goal was the main factor in their winnng effort.

Although surprised at the outcome coach Jack Arbour of the Stamps admitted they were outplayed, but was confident his club would take the next two straight.

Clint Albright, who flew from Winnipeg to join Flyers for the Saturday game, put Winnipeg ahead 1-0 in the first period and centre Don Raleigh, added the other Winnipeg counter in the second. Sam Fabro set up the play for both goals.

Tony Demarais shot Calgary's lone tally in the third period.

SPLENDID BOXING CARD AT KINGSTON

Kingston, April 14 (CP)—In the Saturday night boxing card sponsored by the Princess of Wales Own Regiment and Regiopolis Boxing Club, Tommy Tomlinson, of Diamond, A.C., Toronto was given the nod over Jack Dugan of Peterborough by two of the three judges in the evenly fought final bout. Another Toronto boxer, Pete Kolaski, scored a clean cut decision over Howard Jones of Peterborough in the 150 pound semi-finals.

Results:

Coby Coville, Brockville and "Habs" Gallivan, Regi Boxing Club, Kingston, battled to draw at 176 pounds.

"Pal" Graham, Brockville, decisioned "Hoot" Gibson, RBC, at 130 pounds.

Norm Thompson, Gananoque, won by decision over Dick St. Louis, RBC, at 145 pounds.

"Gert" Jones, Brockville, defeated Johnny Farrel, RBC, by decision, at 118 pounds.

Pete Kolaski, Toronto, outpointed Howard Jones, Peterborough, in five round semi-final at 150 pounds.

Roy Hay, Peterborough, scored TKO over Janny Buguere, Brockville in 150 pound special feature.

Tommy Tomlinson, Diamond AC Toronto, received judges nod over Jack Dugan, Peterborough, in five round final at 155 pounds.

Kansas City Pla-Mors Leading Series 3-0

(By The Canadian Press)

Johnny Mowers, who a few years back was frustrating would-be goalscorers in the N.H.L. for Detroit Red Wings, took up his goalmouth post for Omaha Knights in the U.S. hockey league finals Saturday night and treated the fans to an oldtime display of his acrobatic netminding.

But, alas, it was in a losing cause that the Niagara Falls, Out. goalie performed the spectacular stops. For the Knights dropped the third in a row in the best-of-seven series to Kansas City Pla-Mors by a 3-1 score. The game left Kansas City leading the series 3-0 and gave them almost certain odds to cop the honors.

Omaha scored their only goal in the second period with Don Morrison clicking for the first tally of the game. Ray Powell came back to tie the count five minutes later and within 30 seconds Dick Butler netted what proved to be the winner. He also added the final goal in the third period while Knights were short handed.

FRONT OFFICE FEUDS FORGOTTEN AS SEASON OPENS

Many Changes Have Taken Place Since Baseball Went Into Moth Balls Last Year

New York, April 14 — (AP)—The Major League baseball season opens today in Washington to the vast relief of all concerned, giving the noble Athletes a chance to elbow Larry, Lippy and Happy into the background.

After two day's solitary presidential preview between New York Yankees and Washington, all 16 clubs will swing into action Tuesday.

What promises to be the most interesting campaign in many seasons has been overshadowed in recent days by the rumpus between president Larry Macphail of the Yankees and manager Leo (Lippy) Durocher of Brooklyn, resulting in Leo's season-long suspension by Commissioner A. B Chandler.

Two months of spring training have produced the usual quota of surprises but none created such a stir as the promotion of Jackie Robinson from Montreal to Brooklyn. Robinson, the first Negro in modern major league ball, will open the season with the Dodgers possibly as the starting first baseman.

Exhibition games have revealed nothing to shake the general belief that St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox are heading toward another World Series date.

Joe Cronin has come up with some new pitching help from rookies Mel Parmill and Fritz Dorish to augment a sound staff. Power remains the basis of the Boston club with Ted Williams apparently headed for a great season.

Detroit and New York are generally expected to be the contenders although neither figures to have enough unless the Red Sox stumble badly.

The Cardinals are the class of the National, stronger than they were last spring. Brooklyn generally was conceded to be the team with a real chance in the National until l-affaire Durocher. Now the Brooks have no manager.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

It looks as if the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Canadiens are getting down to hockey brass tacks and playing the game as it should be played instead of trying to convert one another into various varieties of hamburg. Saturday night, when the Leafs won 4-2, the fans were treated to a brilliant brand of the winter pastime, typical Stanley Cup stuff, and everybody went home satisfied, with the exception perhaps of the ebullient Dick Irvin and his doughty band of Les Canucks.

The Leafs took a 3-0 lead over their bitter rivals and appeared headed for another shutout for the Turk, and perhaps a high score when the Canadiens flashed into sudden action. They struck quickly, savagely, and drew within a one-goal margin of the flying Leafs. From then on it was hockey of the brilliant type. Canadiens flashed to the attack consistently but the Maple-Os held them off and scored the clincher in the last minutes of the game.

* * *

M'sieu Richard, stormy petrel of the series, and the theme of reams of copy for the Toronto and Montreal sportswriters, was judged fit for Saturday night's tiff, and that means he will be in action in the Gardens on Tuesday gloaming. The "Rocket" who slugged Ezenicki and Lynn over the noggin with his shillalagh, sprinkling gore over the Forum ice in the second game his paid his debt to hockey society, according to National Hockey League prexy Clarence Campbell, and will likely be a good boy for the rest of the series.

* * *

Soccer rose from its ashes hereabouts on Saturday morning when from fifteen to twenty former players got the kinks out of their legs in a practice that saw a number of junior players in attendance. It looks as though the game is due for a new lease of life and enthusiasm is increasing by leaps and bounds. So much, in fact, that Boyd Finlay, Don Hurst and others have called a meeting Thursday night for organization purposes.

* * *

There will be another practice held on the Queen Alexandra School grounds on Wednesday at 6.30 and Mr. Finlay is desirous of all former players turning out. The boys are anxious to get a team in action and will be ready for exhibition games in the near future. In fact they have extended an invitation to a team from the Trenton RCAF station for Saturday next. The big date however, and this is only in the tentative stages, is Wednesday of old home week, when the teams expect to have a team from Peterborough, or some other outside point, play here and give soccer fans a thrill.

* * *

Finlay tell us that he was highly satisfied with Saturday's workout and turnout. The boys chipped in and bought two balls and really went to work. There are applicants for all positions and it is felt that the new Belleville Soccer Team will round out into something worthwhile. There will be a lot of wrinkles ironed out at the Thursday meeting, and present indications point to a successful rejuvenation of a game that once was very popular in these parts.

* * *

Larry McPhail, president of the New York Yankees, is a quaint character who has shown remarkable ability to produce money-making extravaganzas while wrecking the play efficiency of his teams, remarks one of the great one's baseball writer friends.

* * *

To the joy of other teams in the American League, the ineffable McPhail has done a good job of cutting down the once mighty Yanks to what looks like second division size, but he apparently hopes to make the fans forget days of former glory by giving them between-inning fashion parades and afternoon symphony concerts.

* * *

That's a fact—symphony—Beginning next month, the Yankees will sponsor symphony broadcasts every afternoon during the 26-week period of the baseball season. According to publicity blurbs, the program will be a happy combination of music and sports, since the musical score will be interspersed with inning-by-inning baseball scores.

* * *

McPhail describes this scheme as "further evidence of the community spirit of the New York Yankees," but he doesn't make it quite clear if the object is to make baseball fans out of symphony addicts or vice versa.

* * *

Some will see in this move a Machiavellian plot to drive people to the Yankee Stadium through sheer boredom, but this argument isn't sound. The McPhail edition of the Yankees would probably be an excellent advertisement for the Dodgers, except on days when Bobby Feller or Hal Newhouser might be the visiting pitchers. Besides, singing commercials would be far more effective than symphonies.

* * *

More likely is the theory that McPhail believes he can substitute bass horns for base hits.

* * *

Chicago, April 14. (AP)—Chicago Stags, having disposed of Washington Capitols 66-61 last night to cinch their semi-final series of the Basketball Association of America, will enter the playoff finals against the winner of Philadelphia-New York series which resumes tonight in New York.

Philadelphia and New York opened their best-of-three semi-final session Saturday night at Philadelphia with the warriors taking an 82-70 home floor recision.

Chicago beat the Caps four games to two.

Montreal, April 14 (CP)—There were rumors around Halifax for a while that the city might get into the hockey game, throwing the weight of the civic coffers behind the effort to get a winner in senior ranks for the seaport city.

But that interesting possibility was squelched effectively by Mayor (Gee) Ahern who is opposed to the city getting mixed up with the merry-go-round of hockey financing. But, he added, "any individual or individuals operating a club will be given our full co-operation."

A city-backed club would be something of a novelty at that, although back in the days of that dodo-like affair sometimes called simon-pure amateurism, plenty of smaller communities used to pitch in practically to a man to put over a winning team.

The municipal finances didn't necessarily enter the fun, but popular subscription, co-operative building of rinks and so on isn't unknown.

Sound And Fury

If you don't think last Thursday's Stanley Cup game between Toronto and Montreal wasn't thing to raise the jackles, just ask Jim Coleman of the Toronto Globe and Mail. Jim, sweating profusely as his Leafs downed the champion Canadiens, raised such a lather over the Maurice Richard incident that his typewriter went on the rocks as he batted out some heated words....

They're beating the drums for Montreal Royals to take the Allan Cup now, and the Carlin crew have the backing of no less a character than the peerless Tommy Gorman. Even though Royals tossed his Ottawa Senators out of the race, Tommy came up with bouquets for Royals coach Frank Carlin as "the best coach in senior hockey in Canada today."

CANUCKS DEFEAT BRANDON ELKS TO WIN SERIES

Moose Jaw Will Meet St. Michael's Majors for the Memorial Cup in Winnipeg

Regina, April 14 (CP)—Moose Jaw Canucks today were setting their sights on the Dominion Junior Hockey champions after a sweeping return to form in their last three games had brought them the western title at the expense of the Brandon Elks.

Saturday Canucks defeated Elks 6-4 to take the Abbott Cup, emblematic of western junior supremacy, in the eighth game of their series. It was the third straight win for Moose Jaw, who came from behind what the dopesters claimed were almost overwhelming odds. In the first 5 games Canucks won only one, tied another and dropped three to Brandon, one of the latter by a 9-1 score.

The Memorial Cup series, in which Canucks will tangle with Toronto St. Mikes, will open in Winnipeg Tuesday, the second game scheduled for Moose Jaw Thursday and the third at Regina next Saturday.

The meeting of Moose Jaw and St. Mikes will be a return performance, with Canucks determined to turn the tables on the eastern team. The last time they met, in 1945, Toronto defeated Canucks four games to one at Maple Leaf Gardens.

In Winnipeg Saturday's sudden-death match the Saskatchewan club had to come from behind. Brandon chalked up the only two points of the first period on goals by Bud Evans and Bill Johnston. In the middle frame goals by Vic Kreklewetz, Ivan Wilson and Harvey Stein gave Canucks a short-lived lead, Evans coming through late in the period to even the count.

Metryo Prystai put Moose Jaw ahead again early in the hectic third period but Evans, the game's leading score-maker, tied the game again six minutes later. The winning goal was scored by Wilson at the 9:50 mark.

World Champion "Whippah" Here Friday Night

World champion Whipper Billy Watson will come back to Belleville next Friday night for the opening show of the summer wrestling season. Champion Watson will meet his old foe and foremost challenger for his British Empire title Earl McCready.

It's a great match to start off the season here and Manager Walt Gerow is to be congratulated in being able to prevail on Phil Lawson, the Whipper's manager, to bring the champion here. Watson is in tremendous demand all over Canada and the U. S. Right now he is campaigning through Texas and the Southern States but he will fly back to Toronto for his match with Wee Willie Davis and come right on here the next day.

Since his magnificent victory over Wild Bill Longson in St. Louis to lift the world title which Longson had held for five long years, the Whipper has been just about the busiest athlete in the whole world. Wrestling an average of two to three nights a week, Billy has put in thousands of miles by air every week. He has defended his world title a score of times already, but the world crown will not be at stake when he meets McCready here next Friday night.

However if McCready should succeed in pinning Billy the latter would undoubtedly have to give Earl a title match. This would likely have to be held in Maple Leaf Gardens or other large arena. In the meantime Belleville fans can give a cheer of two for Gerow's persuasiveness and for the Whipper's principle of not forgetting the old friends who knew him 'way back when.

Two outstanding supporting bouts, Toar Morgan and Bulldog Drummond, Korman and Stack will be added to Friday's feature attraction and Manager Walt Gerow advises the fans to order tickets early for the visit of the champion.

O.L.A. PREDICTS GREATEST YEAR FOR LACROSSE

Seven Teams Enter Senior Series; Age Limits of All Groups Changed

Toronto, April 14. (CP)—More than 100 delegates attended the 58th annual convention of the Ontario Lacrosse Association held here Saturday and predicted the greatest year in the history of the gutted-stick game.

Advance registration showed that seven teams would compromise the senior groups and would include, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Orillia Brampton, Owen Sound, Mimico and Toronto Lakeshores.

In the Intermediate section, 16 clubs were signed. They were: Hespler, Owen Sound, Essex, Sarnia, Windsor, Brampton, Caledon, Weston, Fergus, Midland, Huntsville, Orillia, Oshawa, Peterborough, Scarboro, and Oshweken Reserve.

The Junior section would include: Mimico, Toronto St. Vincents, Weston, Brampton, Owen Sound, Fergus, St. Catharines, Dundas, Caledon and Orillia.

Juvenile: New Toronto, Long Branch, Mimico, Weston, Brampton, Huntsville, Fergus, Owen Sound, Peterborough and Caledon.

Entries in Midget, Bantam and Peewee Groups were received from Simcoe, New Toronto, Long Branch, Mimico, Weston, Sarnia, Windsor, Detroit, Brampton, Owen Sound Orillia and St. Catharines.

Major amendment to the O.L.A. rulings was a change in the age limit for all groups. Junior ,Juvenile, Midget, Bantam and Peewee age limits would be 20, 18, 16, 14 and 12, respectively—a year younger than previously.

It was decided that the fees for referees would be raised "to interest a better class of officials," Senior adjucators would receive $12 a game, an increase of $5. Intermediate referees would get $6.00 and Junior $4.00. For Senior playoff duty, the whistle tooters would get $15 a game.

In the election of officers, the following were honored: President, Fred Sandnord, Mimico; 1st Vice President, J. C. McLeod, Owen Sound; 2nd Vice President, Jeff Hipkin, Brampton; 3rd Vice President, Lloyd Beatty, Long Branch; Secretary-Treasurer, "Gene" Dopp, for his 25th term; Assistant Secretary, Charles W. Rowen, New Toronto; Executive, Jack McLean, Sarnia; Alex Roeburn, Caledon; John Worthy, Brampton; Wallace Catell, Dundas and Norman Gair, Mimico; Auditors, W. Scott and F. Hayes, Toronto.

HAMILTON TIGERS UP TWO GAMES ON MONCTON HAWKS

Clare Shillington Performs "Hat Trick" as Tigers Win by 6-3 Score

Toronto, April 14 — (CP) — Moncton Hawks face elimination in the Eastern Canada Senior hockey semi-finals as they meet Hamilton Tigers for the third game of a best-of-five series here tonight.

The Tigers took both previous tilts by identical scores — 6-3 — the first in Hamilton Wednesday night and the second here Saturday.

Veteran forward Clare Shillington led the Bengals to victory Saturday with a three - goal performance. Ab Conick clicked twice while Frank Liscombe collected the other marker. Chick Charlton, George Bell and Doug Leadbeater were the Moncton snipers.

Should Hamilton win tonight, they will meet the winner of the Montreal Royals - Sherbrooke St. Francis series for the all eastern title on the road to the Allan Cup.

Before the game began Saturday, the Ambitious City squad tested their netminder Art Childs with five man passing plays directly in front of the net. The passes went like clockwork, and when they failed to score, did so only through Childs' acrobatic efforts.

Then the game began, and the practice paid off. The Tigers did a thorough job of bewildering the Moncton goaltender Hughie McDonald, who often didn't see the puck until it glanced off some part of his body.

And at the other end of the rink, Childs was more than equal to the occasion when the Hawks came to life halfway through the third period and dominated the play for nearly five minutes. They poured rubber at him from all angles but Childs yielded nary a goal.

CASE DISMISSED

Vancouver, April 14 (CP)—His misunderstanding of English apparently was an asset to a 47-year old Jamaican when he appeared in police court charged with threatening a fellow tenant of a rooming house. "Are you excitable," he was asked by Prosecutor Stuart McMorran. "No....I'm a British subject," came the reply. Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson dismissed the charge.

TORRID PLAYOFF ACTION! — The high-speed stroboscopic camera caught this bit of low level action during the second period of Saturday night's NHL playoff encounter at Maple Leaf Gardens between Toronto and Montreal. Toronto defenceman, Garth Boesch, sprawls to the ice on the left, while Canadiens' Kenny Reardon is about to make a three-point landing alongside. Leafs' Ted Kennedy can be seen behind Reardon with Montreal's Buddy O'Connor behind Boesch. The last two-mentioned players are heading for the loose puck not visible in the picture.

THE OIL WORKER
THE NICKEL WORKER
depend on each other

Tanker discharging 650,000 gallons of fuel oil into the 7 million gallon storage tanks at the Port Colborne Nickel refinery.

In one year more than 17 million gallons of fuel oil are required as fuel for the furnaces and sintering machines in the Canadian Nickel smelting and refining plants. 100 carloads of diesel oil are needed for the trucks and tractors in the Sudbury district, and 75,000 gallons more in Saskatchewan to produce the power required to mine the sodium sulphate used by the Nickel industry. Seven thousand 45-gallon drums of lubricating oil and grease are also used each year.

Into Canada's petroleum industry go hundreds of tons of Canadian Nickel. Rock bits, tools, drilling equipment are of tough, strong Nickel Steel; pumps, valves, bearings wear longer because of Nickel. In the oil refineries Nickel alloys stand up under intense heat, at sub-zero temperatures and in contact with corrosive acids.

So the Canadian Nickel worker produces the Nickel the petroleum industry needs; the oil worker produces the petroleum products the Canadian Nickel industry needs. Each and every industry in this country creates employment in other industries. No matter how we earn a living, we are all one family, each depending on the others.

CHAPTER 15

"Looks like a mob," he said.

Freda, her dark hair hidden by a red bandana, thrust her hands into the pockets of the trousers and peered through her dark glasses.

"Gets bigger every year, doesn't it?"

"Let's turn around and go out and do more fishing."

She smiled at him. "Don't worry. I won't make you dress and take me to the club for luncheon. I can eat fish again here on board."

Several boats away, someone called to them loudly.

Ian! Freda! Ahoy! Come on over and join us!"

They waved. "Shall we go?" Ian asked.

"Why not? Maybe they'll ask us to stay for lunch. We won't have to dress and I won't have to eat fish...I hope."

It was Tom Purnell, Bill Strutevant's boss, who had called to them. Ian had known Tom for many years and one of the few things that had ever startled Ian was Tom's marrying in middle age a girl who had been model in New York. But even those who had been spontaneously verbal in their belief that the successful Tom could have found a wife in Clinton had to admit that Thelma was both an aggressive and a stunning girl.

The fact that Thelma was often irritatingly aggressive and strongly self-opinionated caused Freda to see her little. About twice a year they dined together and remained the best of acquaintances. Not that Freda disliked Thelma. Rather she admired her good taste in clothes, her management of a handsome house and her unquestioned devotion to the aging Tom. But Thelma had been outrageously spoiled by her husband, and Freda found it difficult to agree when she disagreed and stubbornly refused to flatter and cajole and weakly submit to Thelma's strong ideas.

To get on with Thelma one had to follow where she led. Ian had suggested that Thelma's air of superiority shielded one of great inferiority since one or two bold souls had been fit to remind Thelma that she had not always been the wife of one of Clinton's most successful men.

Ian and Freda jumped to the pier and walked down to Tom's boat. Tom, a big man with a thatch of sandy hair and a rugged face, arose from a deck chair to greet them. Thelma, dressed with studied carelessness in a navy slack suit, her black, curly hair close-cropped, removed dark glasses from her dark eyes.

Tom's big voice boomed. "Hello!" He pumped their hands and slapped Ian on the back and shouted to the colored boy to fix more drinks.

Thelma said, "It's grand to see you! Come and be lazy with us. Do you know..."

Evelyn Sturtevant!

Though Evelyn, her amazing dark eyes also hidden by dark glasses, had not moved from the deck chair, Freda had recognized her at once. The black hair growing back from the pronounced widow's peak, the fine features of her face, the fine, lovely body in the white sharkskin playsuit, the beautiful hands with the perfect nails deeply crimson. Evelyn certainly.

Evelyn smiled her slow smile and said in the drawl Freda remembered.

"I've met Mrs. Kelly, but I have not met Mr. Kelly."

Tom said, laughing, "Well, you know him now."

Ian asked, "Where's Bill?"

"He went up to get some soda," Evelyn said. "We were out of it. He'll be back any moment."

While the men were speaking of fishing, Freda saw Bill with three bottles in his hand walking down the pier. Tall, wearing a brown slack suit, walking in long easy strides, he was the handsomest man she had seen since the last time she had seen him. His dark hair was receding slightly, broadening his forehead, and there were features of gray at his temples. As he came closer and jumped aboard, she saw that his deep tan accentuated the blueness of his eyes and the whiteness of his strong teeth. Her heart began to ache for Carol.

She knew that his being so glad to see them was not a pose. He put an arm around Ian and asked, "Where you been, Grandpa?" and said to Freda, holding her hand, "Gosh, it's good to see you two! What have you been up to?"

Freda thought, "I can't hate him any more. Darn it, I just can't. I hate him and I've missed him like the dickens. He's so good to look at and so darned nice. There's an innocence about Bill, a humility that gets you. That's why he hasn't any enemies. That's why he's gone so far. There were probably smarter men Tom could have selected as his assistant, but he chose Bill perhaps because he likes to have him around. Not that Bill isn't smart. He is. But his likability gets him as far as his ability. You can't beat that combination."

More chairs were brought from below to form a circle on the deck. The men talked about war and business and fishing; Thelma held forth on her activities of the Summer. She had been on Long Island for several weeks.

The usually talkative Freda listened. She was willing to listen because her mind was active with new and exciting thoughts. Evelyn, smoking, was silent, too. But it was in Evelyn's silence and in Thelma's talking that Freda sensed the malice between them.

Freda's lovely eyes quickend. Malice between Evelyn and Thelma? But why? She didn't quite know yet. She thought, "I'll work on it." Certainly there was no cause for jealousy between them. Each had everything and the man she wanted. Though Thelma could hate intensely, Freda did not think the languid Evelyn capable of anything save a passive antipathy which she doubtlessly expressed only by ignoring the object of her dislike.

Had Evelyn refused to flatter and cajole and follow Thelma? Or had Evelyn's air of bored superiority been so much greater than Thelma's that the latter was furious because she could not surpass it? Freda thought, smoking nervously, "Ian sits over there chewing on a cigar, looking as innocent as a babe. But he'll know the answers to all the things I'm fussing about in my mind. You never think he sees anything, but he sees everything."

She was relieved when Tom insisted that she and Ian remain for luncheon partly because the situation between Evelyn and Thelma interested her so she could not bear to leave and partly because she would not have to eat fish again. One thing was certain, she thought. Thelma resented Evelyn's cool-possession and poise. Freda wondered why it hadn't occurred to Thelma that Evelyn was a silent person because she was an inarticulate person. That was putting it politely, she thought.

The plain truth of the matter was that Evelyn was superably lovely, superbly lazy and also a superbly stupid female, and Thelma, kieen ambitious, aggressive, accepted the indolence and stupidy as an affront and snobbery. It was wonderful to watch them, to listen to Thelma's account of gay times on Long Island, knowing how it infuriated her that Evelyn was scarcely half-listening.

Freda turned to Evelyn. "Have you and Bill been away this Summer"

Slowly Evelyn came to attention. "We were on Long Island, too. At my sister's place. We had a marvelous time."

Freda was sweetly stupid. "Oh, then you were all together, you and Bill, Thelma and Tom."

"No," Evelyn said pleasantly, "We were not together. I don't believe I know Thelma's friends there."

Turning quickly to see Thelma's reaction, Freda saw the color rise beneath the sunburn. She thought, "Thelma is gritting her teeth. She's burning up. Evelyn has just told me, after Thelma has been trying to impress me, that Thelma's friends don't measure up socially to the friends of Evelyn's sister. Oh this is wonderful! I wonder how long Thelma will allow herself to be snubbed by the wife of Tom's assistant."

When she glanced at Bill, she was startled to discover that he was uneasily aware of the conversation of the women. Instantly Freda regretted her delight at the situation. Bill seemed troubled. He had never been troubled when Carol had been with the Purnells because Thelma liked Carol and Carol had been wise enough to permit Thelma the full limelight. Tactfully Carol had always agreed with Thelma and had made Thelma feel as important as Thelma wished to feel, Carol had steered the wise, quiet middle course, endearing herself both to Tom and Thelma.

After an excellent luncheon Evelyn yawned and begged to be excused. She was going to take a nap, she said. It would probably be a long evening....Bill lingered only a little while longer on deck and then went below to the cabin. At the disappearance Thelma became quite garralous again. A little later Freda and Ian left, promising to see them again that evening at the dance.

Walking back on the pier to their own boat Freda asked, "Well, did you see what I saw"

Ian seemed troubled, too. "I saw Bill losing his job. Those two women are going to get into each other's hair."

Freda said, "But if Bill loses his job and doesn't get another as good, then Carol won't get her alimony. And at the rate Bill is living, his inheritance won't last forever. He gave Carol a good slce of it as a settlement." She looked up at him. "Now let that be a lesson to you."

Ian grinned. "I saw you sizing up the situation and laughing inside."

"Look again and you'll see that I'm not laughing. But the funny part of it is that Evelyn doesn't know she's running Bill. By being better born than Thelma, she's going to ruin Bill. Evelyn can speak of Long Island as she can speak of places in Europe, but Thelma speaks of it as a place to boast about. That's the difference and that slight difference will... Oh, it makes me sick; Sick! I'm glad Carol isn't coming tonight. What an awful mess Bill has made of it! If only emotions were things you could spank and put back in place when they get out of hand."

"He'll never get rid of Evelyn."

Freda was silent. Then she said slowly, "Maybe the worst of it will be his wanting to get rid of Evelyn and not being able to... We still like Bill, don't we?"

The Yacht Club dance was everything its members and guests had anticipated. There were sufficient new faces to stimulate interest and sufficient familiar ones to make you feel at home. Flirtations abounded and young men who had been away for the Summer secretly admitted that their own, homegrown femenity was hard to beat. There would be, before the evening was over, the annual nearing drowning of the noisiest inebriate, the fight in the bar over a blonde and the taking of a taxi home by an irate wife. The Yacht Club dance usually provided Clinton gossips with enough material to last until the New Year's Eve celebration. This year was no exception.

Freda and Ian joined Tom Purnell's large party and once more Freda felt the one-sided feud between the two wives. It was also as if they had tried to surpass each other in the smartness of their clothes. Reluctantly Freda admitted that Evelyn, wearing white lace, won the contest hands down. The always vivid Thelma even in crimson chiffon with her curls gleaming seemed to sit in the shadows and seemed to know that she sat in the shadows.

Several young men had danced with Evelyn, and Freda had not been danced with for years by young men wanting to be respectful not to recognize that Thelma was receiving the same treatment tonight. But Evelyn, extremely pleasant and gracious as she left the table and returned to it, seemed happily unaware of her hostess' hostility.

Lewis Promises Full Production Of Soft Coal

Pittsburgh, April 14 — (AP) — Full resumption of soft coal production in the United States was promised today with the end of John L. Lewis' safety shutdown—but the threat of a June 30 strike hung over the industry.

Week-end orders in which Lewis directed United Mine Workers (A.F.L.) district officials to send diggers back to work in pits the union deemed reasonably safe promised a lively increase in production.

The work stoppage began April 1 with a six-day mourning period for Centralia, Ill., mine blast victims, and then continued until Saturday under Lewis' edict that miners would stay at home pending Federal inspection of all mines.

Still idle were some 123 pits out of 518 which Interior Secretary Krug ordered closed until specific safety measures were taken. The other 398 have been inspected and found safe. Last week ended with production touching 60 per cent of normal.

The June 30 strike threat stems from the fact that the date marks the end of government control of the mines unless Congress makes some other provision. And Lewis and the operators are still far apart on any contract to replace that now held by the U. M. W. with the government. The miners staunch believes in a "no contract, no work" policy, apparently will not be hampered under private control of the mines by the court order which now blocks their traditional tendency to drop picks and helmets when their contract expires.

End of Cigaret Famine Near

Paris, April 14 —(Reuters)— End of Europe's seven-year cigaret famine — and with it the most fantastic black market ever known — is believed here to be in sight.

First indications in France are that tobacco rationing ends on April 21 and the cigaret ration for men jumps from 80 to 100 a month. The 40-a-month ration for women, however, will not be changed.

End of the French tobacco ration will not stop the black market, although it may be curtailed considerably. One French tobacconist said: "Many rich people who prefer American cigarets will continue to buy them in the black market rather than roll their own."

In Germany the black market in cigarets still operates, although in the British zone it is on a reduced scale owing to the ban on sending duty-free cigarets from Britain to occupation personnel.

DRIVEN BY FIRE INTO SODDEN FIELD

Cyrville, Ont., April 14 (CP)— Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cardinal and their two-year-old son wree driven into sodden fields Saturday night when fire destroyed their two-sorey farm home, just beyond this suburban Ottawa village in the centre of the flood area.

Only a table and a chest were saved, and loss has been estimated at $1,500. The blaze is believed to have started in the chimney.

Ships on Lookout For Nine Crew Members Missing

New York, April 14 — (AP) — The United States Coast Guard asked all ships in the North Atlantic to be on the lookout today for nine crew members of the 2,131-ton Norwegian ship Belpamela, who took to life rafts before the ship sank April 11 800 miles east of Norfolk, Va.

Eighteen other crew members, the Coast Guard said, were picked up yesterday by the S. S. John P. Mitchell.

A message from the Mitchell said that "rolling cargo bursting out the ship's side" caused the sinking.

The Coast Guard said the S. S Misoa, a tanker owned by the American Petroleum Transport Company, radioed today it had taken off the crew of its 10,000-ton sister ship, Fisher's Hill, which is burning five miles southeast of Colorado Light, near Aruba, just off the Venezuela coast. The message said one crew member was injured.

Six Officials Still in Plant

Toronto, April 14 —(CP)—Six officials of the Moffat Stove Company remained in the strike-besieged plant here for the fourth day, doing their own cooking and washing.

Pickets of the United Steel Workers of America (C I O.) have been guarding the entrances since employees went on strike Thursday night seeking a new contract.

A well-stocked refrigerator in the plant cafeteria provides three good meals a day for the beleaguered officials — Art Harris, maintenance superintendent, Works Manager W. S. Miller, Assistant Works Engineer, Arthur Boys, Works Engineer W. S. Newsome, Personnel Superintendent Reg. Robinson and J. D. Heard, manufacturing supervisor.

DIES AT AGE OF 88

London, Ont., April 14 (CP)— William Henry Roberts, retired local steel worker, died Sunday here at the age of 88. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. Tucker, London, and Mrs. Fred Power of Sarnia.

3 Canadian M.D.'s Attend Interim World Health Body

By ROSS MUNRO
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Geneva, April 14—(CP)—Three Canadian doctors, from Dominion and provincial governments and the medical profession as a whole, represented Canada at a two-week conference just finished here of the interim commission working to create the World Health Organization of the United Nations.

They are Dr. G. D. W. Cameron, Deputy Minister of National Health at Ottawa, Dr. T. C. Routley, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, Toronto, and Dr. J. A. M. Melanson, chief medical officer of the New Brunswick Health Federation, representing the Dominion Council of Health. Dr. Routley also is chairman of the preparatory committee of the World Medical Association.

This 18-country conference will be followed by another commission meeting here this summer and if 26 countries have ratified by then the constitution of the World Health Assembly will be drawn up within six months and the entire organization set up.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, former Deputy Minister of National Health, is in a key position in the work in his capacity as executive secretary of the interim commission.

In addition to the job of laying the foundation for the world health organization, the interim commission also is responsible as a United Nations agency in taking over international health tasks already under way.

UNRRA health work now is being taken over by the commission as well as the health organization of the League of Nations and health problems relating to movement by sea and air.

Other duties of the commission include establishment of international standards for serums/vitamins and hormones, development of an international pharmacopea—an official list of drugs with precise prescriptions, and an international epidemiological service giving weekly reports on the world situation concerning such diseases as cholera, plague, and small pox.

TRUMAN FETES CANADIAN-BORN HOUSE VETERAN

Democrats, Republicans Conspire to Honor Charles Eaton, Nova Scotia Native, on His 79th Birthday

Washington (CP)—President Truman and his Democrat friends entered into a Republican conspiracy against Charles A. Eaton (Rep. N. J.), chairman of the House foreign affairs committee and everybody, including the victim, had a good time.

The veteran Congressman was presiding over his committee on the 79th anniversary of his birth in Pugwash, Nova Scotia. About an hour before noon, adjournment time his secretary told him the President wanted to talk to him on the phone in his office.

A little apprehensive that the call might mean some new and grave international crisis had arisen, Dr. Eaton hurried to his private office.

"I just wanted to wish you a happy birthday," the President said, and went on to say how much he admired and appreciated the co-operation of the veteran who has been called "the conscience of the House of Representatives."

Then the big folding doors separating the office from the reception room were thrown open and Dr. Eaton found a throng of his colleagues and friends gathered about a loaded refreshment table with a huge, three-tiered birthday cake in the centre.

Presiding was the blonde ex-actress Francesca Braggiotti, wife of John Davis Lodge, scion of the Boston Lodges and "glamor boy" Democrat successor to the Connecticut constituency formerly held by "glamor girl" Clare Booth Luce, Republican.

Vigorous Figure

The party planners had to contrive some way to get Dr. Eaton to his office for the surprise so they asked the President to telephone him, knowing the foreign affairs committee chairman would lose no time in answering a call from that quarter.

One of the most vigorous, forceful and authoritative members of Congress where he has served since 1924, Dr. Eaton carries his tall, powerful figure as straight and alertly as might be expected of a man of 50.

He left Canada in 1901 to become pastor of Euclid Avenue Church in Cleveland, became an American citizen and has lived a distinguished and useful life in the United States ever since.

It was no accident that he became so prominent in foreign affairs that President Roosevelt asked him to help negotiate and had him sign for his country, the charter of the United Nations in San Francisco two years ago.

As far back as 1901 Dr. Eaton made this statement on world affairs: "The earth has shrunk to a neighborhood and commerce is now a matter of continents and hemispheres. Into the matrix of a common life all civilizations are flung and must give and take what they can. All peoples will be modified in ideals, institutions, and methods. The mighty hand of God is pressing the nations together."

At this moment of grave international crisis Dr. Eaton is one of the most important men in the United States. He is discharging his responsibilities in a non-partisan manner that wins him almost daily acclaim.

SERVING CANADIANS C-I-L THROUGH CHEMISTRY

"Chemistry? ... I KNOW HOW TO SPELL IT!"

WITH LITTLE GIRLS, chemistry is just a collection of letters. To them it's smart to be able to put them together correctly. But chemistry means much more than just a classroom spelling triumph.

A turn of the tap brings water purified by chemistry. The farmer grows good things to eat because his land is fertilized by chemistry. Frocks and other wearing apparel are coloured with dyes; their fabrics are improved by chemical treatment. Chemistry helps make many other things . . . brushes, paint, book-bindings, "Cellophane", nylon. Those colourful, useful plastics are also products of this great science.

And it's going to make others, for the chemical industry is always forging ahead on the trail of newer and better things . . . with the C-I-L Oval as the symbol of an organization devoted to serving Canadians through chemistry.

For instance: "CELLOPHANE"

THE SMART, modern packaging material that protects foods, cosmetics, fabrics and so many other things, shows them to advantage at the same time. "Cellophane" is a typical product of Chemistry, made by Canadian Industries Limited, Head Office, P.O. Box 10, Montreal.

CORNER CASBAH JARGON JUNKED BY REST TEENS

Swishy Dishes, Whistling Vansomes Ditch Slanguage for Post-War Return to Comprehensive Vocabulary

By RAY TIMSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto (CP)—The slanguage is sliding. Canada's 'teen agers who, during the war cooked up a most unitelligible vocabulary known as hep-talk, are returning to a speech comprehensible to everyone.

A girl is no longer referred to as a "swishy little dish with a gambolling gait that makes the vansomes whistle the equivalent of woo woo." She's just a girl now—Mary Brown.

And that store at such and such an intersection where the gang congregated and split "shakes" is a store—not the "corner casbah" Dad's car is the family automobile—not the "blitzbuggy."

Today, sympathy goes to the bobby soxer who "doesn't rate." She doesn't get tabbed a "sunken punkin' droolin' with schoolin' and strictly a feeble greeble." The slanguage is gone—taboo.

From 1941 until last fall words and phrases along the same lines as those above, poured from 'teen-agers' mouths at a clip faster than John L. Lewis declares strike action.

At a dance in 1944 we witnessed a youth "make the approach." His exact words: "Greetings Gate, are you a dead beat? You're not? Then you're a cruisin' Susan and a gen alligator? Well, come on celery, lets stalk." Which means, folks, just what the 'teen-ager will say in a ballroom today: "May I have this dance, Miss?"

Stick to Grammars

The kids certainly kept apace with wartime tempo. Their comments were so advanced that even Buck Rogers took a backseat. But, tempus fugit, and wartime 'teen-agers are growing up. Today they are sticking to the grammar text-books.

The reason for this rather sudden change-over may be found in the fact that Pop is no longer in the war plant and is not dead on his feet when he comes home at night. He has more time to correct that son of his. Here's an example:

Johnny, 1944: "Say what's the matter old man? You look beat from your bobby-sox to your dandruff. Don't be a glurp, shake up your watch-works and slide your jive."

Johnny, 1947. "Evening, Dad. Can I get you the paper?"

Or:

Father, 1944: "Who was that on the 'phone son?"

Johnny: "Oh, it was just a C.O.D. from my clicker. We're going to make with the feet on the main drag and stop for a fizz or three."

Johnny, 1947: "It was Mary Brown, Dad. We are going for a walk and possibly a soda."

At any rate, the slanguage is sliding—and so are a few parents and English teachers, sliding into a chair, with relief.

Would Revise Laws Of Channel Islands

London (CP)—Absence of a code of civil or criminal procedure in the Channel Islands is mentioned by the special Privy Council committee appointed to investigate proposed constitutional and judicial reforms in Jersey and Guernsey.

In their report, published as a white paper, the committee declared:

"Apart from a recent work on certain aspects of the customary law of Jersey, there appeared to be no text book on the subject less than 100 years old, and there are no adequately reported decisions of the royal courts in the sense of the English law reports."

The report said, according to the evidence of the solicitor-general of Guernsey, "it is almost impossible to ascertain what the civil law of the island is" and added "there is considerable doubt whether the English criminal law prevails on the island."

Describing the island's criminal law as "nebulous" and "vague" the committee urged that the time has come when it should be made "stable."

The committee also recommended setting up of a joint court of appeal for the whole of the islands to hear civil and criminal cases, with the right of appeal in civil cases to the Privy Council in London.

RECOVER MINERS BODY

Locust Gap, Pa., April 12—(AP)—Rescue workers digging with picks and shovels Friday recovered the body of an antnracite miner entombed by a roof collapse 1,300 feet below the surface. Search continued for a second victim.

The body of Alex Malakowrki, 58, was found 24 hours after he and Monroe Reitz, 54, were trapped by an estimated 35 tons of coal in the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company colliery.

Primate Buried In Churchyard Of First Charge

By WILLIAM BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 14 — (CP)—Beneath cold, bleak skies and in the lee of a favorite elm in the churchyard of his first charge of 50 years ago, Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Archbishop of Toronto and Primate of the Church of England in Canada, was laid to rest Saturday.

The revered prelate, who died suddenly Wednesday after a heart seizure in his Synod office at the age of 70, was buried in the presence of the highest representatives of church and state in the cemetery of St. John's Parish in suburban York Mills.

The committal rites by Rt. Rev. L.-W. B. Broughall, his successor as Bishop of Niagara and a friend from boyhood, brought to a close the brief, moving service of the Anglican Church for her dead which were begun earlier in the Cathedral Church of St. James.

Previous to the service the cleric's remains had lain in state within the Cathedral Saturday, robed and wearing his pectoral cross and episcopal ring. Hundreds of Toronto faithful and personal friends had filed past the bier Friday afternoon and evening, and again Saturday from 9 a. m. to noon.

Guard Prelate's Bier

Leading Ontario citizens in reverence to Archbishop Owen's memory, Premier George Drew ignored a severe cold to guard the prelate's bier for the first half hour Saturday. After standing watch at the foot of the casket with Agriculture Minister Kennedy, who represented him later at the funeral, the premier was obliged to return to bed.

Most Rev. W. R. Adams, Archbishop of Kootenay, Senior Metropolitan of the church and now acting primate, presided over the short service broadcast across Canada. By wish of the family in deference to the departed pastor's known preference there was no eulogy, nor dirge.

Two favorite hymns — "The Strife is O'er" and "My Faith Looks up to Thee" — the 90th Psalm, "Lord Thou Hast Been Our Refuge" and Henry Purcell's lyric setting to the anthem, "Thou Knowest Lord the Secrets of Our Hearts," were the choral offerings which, supplemented by the prescribed prayers and reading, comprised the service.

The family, with Mrs. Owen bravely following the hymns and readings, occupied front pews in the Cathedral and later journeyed in the cortege to the cemetery.

Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, suffragan Bishop of Toronto and Archbishop Owen's principal companion and helper in Toronto Diocese, stood by the purple-covered casket to recite the prayers, as did Most Rev. C. A. Seager, Archbishop of Huron when he imparted the final benediction.

Air Commodore A. D. Ross, G. C., represented the Governor-General while the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Hon. Ray Lawson, attended in person. The Dominion government and Prime Minister Mackenzie King were represented by Secretary of State Colin Gibson with Hon. John Bracken, leader of the opposition in the Federal House of Commons in attendance.

PAIR IDENTIFY PHYSICIAN

Montreal, April 12 — (CP)—A 17-year-old Quebec girl and her 18-year-old sweetheart yesterday identified in criminal court Dr. Leon Azoulay as the physician they allegedly visited earlier this week for the purpose of obtaining an abortion. They testified at the preliminary hearing of a charge that Dr. Azoulay conspired to use instruments or noxious substances to provoke an abortion.

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves", she thought—but it was her kidneys—the filters of her blood—that needed attention. Dodd's Kidney Pills contain essential oils and medicinal ingredients that act directly upon the kidneys—and help restore their normal action. 144

Vitamin E Helpful For Heart Disease

Kansas City, April 14. (AP)—Two Canadian doctors told the Kansas City Academy of Medicine Friday night that Vitamin E could be recognized as "the most effective drug known in the treatment of heart diseases" and as one which appears to have dramatic healing powers.

The doctors are brothers, Drs. E. V. Shute, of London, Ont., and W. E. Shute of Guelph, Ont. Their main thesis is that the action of the vitamin improves the circulation in the heart muscle.

Dr. W. E. Shute, a surgeon, said he had noted a rapid relief of pain in some types of heart ailments and a rapid decrease in dropsy.

Dr. E. V. Shute, obstetrician and gynecologist, detailed results that indicated the vitamin improves the capillary circulation and utilization of oxygen in tissue. His experiments have proved conclusively, he said, that vitamin E has notable effect in restoring circulation in the smallest blood vessels.

He said he had witnessed "remarkable recoveries" in the blood clotting that is associated with an inflamation of the veins (thrombo phlebitis), chronic ulcers resulting from hardening of the arteries and blood clots on the brain.

Both doctors said they had no illusion that the vitamin could be considered a cure-all and warned that indiscriminate use could have harmful effects.

WAIST SIZE WAS FEE

Spy Hill, Sask (CP) — Small-waisted ladies of this southeast Saskatchewan town received preference when the local women's organization charged one cent per inch of waist measurement as entry to a tea.

Sheriff or Judge Commons Argument

London (CP)—In Scotland judges are called sheriffs-substitute, the "substitute" being unnecessary, and as far as Joe, Westwood, secretary of state for Scotland, is concerned a title good enough in 1746 is good enough today.

Hector Hughes, Labor member for Aberdeen and a lawyer, said in the Commons the judges are not in fact substitutes and the name is "misleading and undignified." He would like legislation to eliminate "substitute" and leave the judges with the title of sheriff.

Westwood said he could hold out no hope of such legislation but Hughes said the legal profession in Scotland had a draft bill on the subject.

Westwood said the matter might have been considered by the lawyers, but the term had been good since 1746.

"Is the secretary for Scotland aware that prisoners have not objection to this title?" a member asked and the House laughed.

Thos. Gaffney, 85, L'Amable, Burned To Death in Fire

British War Bride Hurt, Boarder Burned in Blaze

Bancroft —(Special)— Thomas Gaffney, age 85 years, of L'Amable, five miles south of this village, was burned to death early this morning when fire swept through his frame dwelling. Three other occupants of the home received burns and lacerations in their escape from the flames.

Believed to have started from an over-heated stove, the blaze was discovered by Mrs. Gaffney and her son James as they emerged from the barn at six o'clock after doing the milking. They looked up and saw the house a mass of flames.

Clifford Gaffney, son of Mrs. Gaffney, and his overseas bride, were sleeping in an upstairs room and waking to find their escape by the stairs already cut off by the flames managed to escape by kicking out a window and stepping onto a verandah roof. The roof was too steep and they fell to the ground, both suffering bruises. The young woman is in Bancroft hospital.

A boarder at the Gaffney home, Wesley Robinson, age 50, made a valiant but unsuccessful effort to save Mr. Thomas Gaffney from the flames and searched frantically through the upstairs to find him. He emerged from the house seriously burned about the hands and face and is also in Bancroft hospital. A few minutes after Robinson emerged from the house Mr. Gaffney was seen briefly at a flame enveloped upstairs window. He slumped back almost immediately and it was impossible to save him.

Russ Infiltration Into Spitsbergen Seen Intensifying

New York, April 15 — (CP) — The New York Times in a Stockholm dispatch quoting the Swedish newspaper Tidningen yesterday reported that Russian infiltration into Spitsbergen is intensifying "and an iron curtain has been lowered over the entire White Sea area including Franz Josef Land."

The Russians are so secretive about their activities on Spitsbergen that Norwegians working in neighboring Norwegian - owned coal mines did not know how many Russians were employed nor their output, the story stated.

According to Tidningen the Norwegians are also worried about their seal fisheries because the Russians increasingly tend to keep Norwegian sealers out of what Moscow considers Russian waters "using gunfire from their coast guard cutters and shore batteries."

The Swedish paper stated the Russians have four coal mines on Spitsbergen while Norwegians own 32 and a Scottish company, the remaining four. Norwegians estimate that there are potentially 8,000,000 tons of coal on Spitsbergen. Tidningen said the Russians claim they got 400,000 tons annually from the island before the war.

The strategic Spitsbergen archipelago has a territory of about 25,000 square miles. West Spitsbergen is the largest of this group with 15,260 square miles of territory. The islands were mandated to Norway by the Allied Supreme Council after the First World war but the treaty was not ratified until 1925, Britain, the Dominions and Russia being among the signing powers.

Pat Sullivan Living on Farm In Gatineau Hills

Toronto, April 15 — (CP) — The Globe and Mail said today in a copyrighted dispatch from Lake Baskatong, Que., that J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, who resigned March 14 as president of the Canadian Seamen's Union on the grounds that the organization was Communist-dominated, is living on his new farm in the Gatineau hills.

The disclosure of Sullivan's whereabouts followed varied reports of his current occupation. Sullivan was quoted by the Globe as saying he was in "temporary retirement — communing with nature" and that he planned to return to labor organization work next fall.

Sullivan denied to the Globe he was "in hiding" and asked "What have I to hide from."

Not in Hiding

Maniwaki, Que., April 15—(CP)—Bringing to test the many rumors that he had mysteriously disappeared J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, Canadian labor organizer who retired because of what he called Communist malpractice in Canadian labor movements, has been found living on his isolated farm in the rambling Gatineau hills.

The former secretary-treasurer of the Trades and Labor Congress and former president of the Canadian Seamen's Union was last heard of publicly March 14 when he announced his decision to quit.

Since then rumors have had him in hiding in various places, including the Redemptionist Monastery at Aylmer, Que., where the rector said yesterday "Pat Sullivan is unknown to us."

GOVT. HAS POWER TO RE-IMPOSE PRICE CEILINGS

Abbott Claims in Vast Majority of Cases The Decontrol Had Not Led to Increases

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 15 — (CP) — The Commons, reconvening yesterday from an Easter recess during which the government extended its decontrol program, heard Finance Minister Abbott warn industrialists that the government has the power to re-impose price ceilings "in cases where it is considered to be in the public interest to do so."

While expressing the hope that the re-imposition of ceilings would not be necessary, Mr. Abbott said:—

"In the case of some abnormal situation where the government felt that the public were being exploited, speaking for myself at any rate, I can say that . . . we would not have any hesitation in asking for powers which I feel sure the House would give us."

In the "vast majority of cases" removal of controls had not led to price increases.

"I think," he said, "the wise industrialist of this country, as his volume increases, and presumably as he is able to increase his efficiency, should reduce his prices rather than increase them."

Ruled Out of Order

He spoke on a C.C.F. motion for reinstatement of controls on the basic necessities of life and for immediate action to halt a rising cost-of-living. The motion, moved by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, was ruled out of order by Speaker Gaspard Fauteux on the grounds that the subject matter was covered by the main government bill for the continuation of certain war-imposed controls.

The motion was one of a wide variety of topics touched on during the day. The topics ranged from flood control to trading with the enemy, from diplomatic relations with Russia to the holding of a by-election in Halifax.

Hitler Said GI's Served to Get Rich And U.S. Farmers 'Uprooted Caste'

By RICHARD O'REGAN

Frankfurt, Germany, April 15 (AP)—Hitler and his ministers had the idea that American combat soldiers eagerly joined the United States Army during the war just to get rich on $50 a month.

Most American soldiers, they felt, fought and died in Germany to "earn money" or for "adventure." As for the Japanese, Hitler thought them all liars."

Hitler's attitude toward the American "GI"—and toward the United States in general—was conditioned largely by photographs and by what his ministers and officers told him, the records of his staff conferences showed today.

These stenographic transcripts, captured by the United States Army and released here, revealed the following secret conversation on March 5, 1943 between Hitler and his officers:

Gen. Alferd Jodl: "The Japanese are convinced that the focal point of the war will remain in Europe throughout 1943."

Hitler: "We cannot be pleased about that."

Jodl: "The evacuation of Guadacanal was a success."

Hitler: "I don't believe a word of what the Japanese say. They tell lies all the time and the entire picure they give you is aimed at something which later on proves only to be a manoeuvre of some sort."

Former Ambassador Walther Hewel, foreign ministry representative of Hitler's war council: "It would be interesting to know how the American divisions in North Africa are. Neurath (son of Baron Constantin Von Neurath) came over from Tunis last night. It is interesting what he says. He has interrogated American prisoners and says they are a rough gang. Most of them came over to earn money or to have adventures or to see something else."

Agreeing with Hewel, Hitler said that the United States would never reach the stature of Ancient Rome.

Hewel: "Well, somehow the Americans have good manpower."

Hitler: "It isn't as good as you imagine. (The good manpower) is concentrated in a few areas where the Europeans live (in the United States.) The farmers live in poverty. I have seen pictures, the farmers are a miserable crippled lot of people, a completely uprooted caste which wanders around."

Want Answer Whether Russia Agreeable to 40-Year Pact Against German Aggression

Moscow, April 15 — (AP) — United States officials said today Foreign Minister Molotov's suggested amendments to the American - proposed four - power treaty to keep Germany disarmed were unacceptable to State Secretary Marshall as a basis of negotiation.

The informants said the American secretary still wanted a yes or no answer from the Russians on whether they are willing to agree in principle to a 40-year treaty against German agression. Discussion of the proposal was to be resumed this afternoon in the Council of Foreign Ministers.

Marshall was reported authoritatively as planning to take the line that Molotov's amendments represented in effect a Soviet effort to write much of the German peace settlement into the Big Four pact. The United States insists the German settlement can be effected only through regular peace conference procedure.

The generally-held American view was that Molotov was trying to swamp the American treaty idea by his sweeping suggestions for redrafting the proposal at last night's session, in which he asked for everything from a special regime for the Ruhr to guarantees of land reform in Germany.

The issue boiled down to this: Does Russia want to agree to Marshall's proposal that the council of foreign ministers, while here assembled, agree to the appointment of plenipotentiaries empowered to negotiate a treaty which will have as its main objective keeping Germany disarmed for the next 40 years.

On this specific point, Russia has given no answer and Marshall wants to get one.

The United States is not inclined to accept — even in principle — most of the Soviet Union's proposals for revising the 40-year treaty originally suggested by James F. Byrnes, Marshall's predecessor.

Thus, today's session was likely to spell out in detail whether this conference of the Big Four will be a success or a failure insofar as a disarmament treaty for Germany is concerned.

Both France and Britain have endorsed the American proposal and British sources took the view that Molotov, by proposing amendments, had committed his country to entering the negotiations. Both British and French sources were optimistic on this point.

REYNOLDS PLANE LEAVES ALEUTIANS FOR EDMONTON

Hopes to Land in New York Around Eight O'Clock in Globe-Circling Flight

Edmonton, April 15. (CP)—Officials of the Department of Transport's Air Control office here said they had been informed today that the Reynolds Round-the-World plane "Bombshell" would reach Edmonton about 12:54 p.m. M.S.T. (2:54 p.m. E.S.T.) on its flight from Adak in the Aleutian Islands.

The plane took off from Adak at 5:23 am. M.S.T. for Edmonton after being forced to land because of mechanical trouble shortly after they had passed over the island.

Reynolds, a Chicago manufacturer, had planned to arrive at Anchorage, Alaska, at 5:15 a.m., M.S.T. after 3,000-mile hop from Yokota, Japan. Owing to the delay at Adak, the plane will stop here for any necessary repairs and fuel before proceeding to New York on the last lap of the jaunt.

Seattle, April 15 (AP)—Milton Reynolds took off from Adak at 4:24 A.M. PST (7:24 a.m. EST) this morning for Edmonton, Northwest Airlines was informed today by its Flight Control Officer in Anchorage, Alaska.

Turned Back to Adak

New York, April 15 (AP) — Frank Lamb Director of the Round-The-World Flight attempt of the Reynolds "Bombshell" said that Milton Reynolds telephoned him from Adak, Alaska, just before 7 a.m. EST today and said he hoped to land in New York "about 8 p.m. tonight."

Lamb said Reynolds told him the plane had turned back to Adak because it was running into heavy headwinds and its fuel was running low, and after refuelling there it would take off for Edmonton, on its next to last leg.

The return to Adak came as the converted Douglas A-26 attack bomber was en route from Yokota army airdrome, in Japan, to Alaska. Capt. William P. Odom of Roslyn, New York, the pilot, had said there that he planned to stop either at Fairbanks or Anchorage, in Alaska.

The entire crew was "pretty tired," Lamb said, and anxious to finish the trip which began from La Guardia Field here at 5:11 p.m. EST Saturday.

The present world-circling flight record of 91 hours 14 minutes was set in 1938 by Howard Hughes.

If Reynolds arrives at 8 p.m. he will have made the trip in 74 hours 49 minutes.

DR. JOSEF TISO IS SENTENCED TO DIE ON GALLOWS

Became President of Nazi Puppet State of Slovakia During World War II

Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, April 15 (AP)—Dr. Joseph Tiso, round-faced British priest who became president of the Nazi puppet state of Slovakia during the war, was sentenced today to die on the gallows for crimes against the state.

The verdict was handed down by a special national court which has been in session here on the case since Dec. 2.

Sentenced to death in absentia was Dr. Ferdinand Durchansky, Tiso's foreign minister.

Alexander Mach, Tiso's minister of the interior, was tried simultaneously with the other two but no sentence was pronounced in his case.

Dr. Tiso who was known before the war as a distinguished Roman Catholic religious leader in a land predominantly Catholic, was charged with 111 counts in a 213-page indictment, any one of which could have brought the death penalty.

The most serious offences charged were that Father Tiso asked for and gladly accepted the "protection" of Adolph Hitler; that under his administration at least two Slovak divisions were sent to fight the Russians; and that in July, 1944, as vast German armies were limping back from the east, he used what military force he still possessed to oppose a Slovak revolution which broke out.

On Jan. 17, 1944, the Vatican radio, heard in London, said Father Tiso had "retired" as a Monsignor of the church "owing to his political activities."

2,700 Uncertified Jews on Steamer Await Deportation

Haifa, April 15 —(AP)— The tightly-packed steamship Guardian, renamed the Theodor Herzl by her 2,700 uncertified Jewish passengers, lay in the custody of a flotilla of British navy ships while preparations were made to deport the immigrants to Cyprus.

Two Royal Navy corvettes were to tranship the first batch of some 1,200 refugees. The remainder were to be transferred to other ships lying in the harbor to await later shipment.

Troops of the 6th Airborne Division stood by to supervise the transhipment.

An official announcement said six of the passengers were in hospital with bullet wounds yesterday as the result of a skirmish which took place when the Jews tried to repel a British boarding party.

PASSENGERS ARE BEING TAKEN OFF GROUNDED LINER

Twelve Tugs and Ship's Engines Not Able To Move Vessel--New Attempt to Be Made

Southampton, Eng., April 15—(AP)—The giant liner Queen Elizabeth, stuck solidly on a sandbar eight miles off the coast, began discharging her passengers cargo and oil to other vessels today.

The 83,673-ton Cunard White Star liner, the world's largest passenger vessel, went aground in a fog last night while nosing her way into her home port with 2,446 passengers aboard.

Twelve tugs and the Queen Elizabeth's own mighty engines failed to budge her at high tide this morning. The Cunard offices said another effort would be made at high tide tonight after the vessel had been lightened.

Divers and agents for Lloyds of London, which carries much of the Queen's insurance, stood by to examine her bows when she shook loose from the sand. If her plates have been strained, the Queen Elizabeth may be out of service for a long time. The only drydock large enough for her repair, the George V at Southampton, is occupied with putting a new stem on the Queen Mary.

Harbor men were pessimistic about chances of floating the Queen tonight.

"She is there for three days. Until they empty her tanks, take off her passengers and get off the luggage I don't think we can move her. She is well aground. Most of her bow seems to be stuck in the sand."

Another Southampton harborman ventured the opinion that "they may have to wait for the next big tide some time in June before they can move her."

"She's on the most treacherous reef around her, and with her weight she's bound to sink deeper into it," he added.

When the liner ran aground yesterday it was hoped she might be floated free on the rising tide about 2.30 a.m. today, but she defied the efforts of eight tugs to pull her off.

Officials said it was unlikely any cabin or tourist class passengers would be taken off the ship by tender today.

The Elizabeth originally was scheduled to dock in Southampton at 7.30 p.m. yesterday. Balked in their plans to go ashore, the passengers danced last evening and took part in the usual shipboard amusements as though the ship still were at sea instead of hard aground.

U. K. SUGAR BEET CROP RECORD

London, April 15 — (Reuters)— The sugar beet crop for 1946-47 was a record one in Britain. The Ministry of Agriculture said that with a yield of 11 tons per acre, it exceeded that of the preceding year by 1.3 tons, the previous highest being the 10.37 ton-per-acre crop in 1939-40. It estimated the crop will produce 570,000 tons of sugar.

Press Survey Shows Canadians Want Good 5-Cent Chocolate Bar

(By The Canadian Press)

What Canadians want is a good five-cent chocolate bar, a Canadian Press survey showed today.

Most citizens questioned agreed with C.C.F. Leader M. J. Coldwell, who pleaded in the House of Commons yesterday for a return to the five-cent bar. He raised the question in commenting on the recent price increase which hiked the wartime six-cent bar to eight cents.

The survey showed that while the average Canadian kid will go for his chocolates regardless of price, his more money-conscious dad is beginning to emit loud squawks of protest. In some localities the price boost led to increased supplies while others noted no change in a candyless situation.

One curious feature was a wide divergence in reports on sales, Toronto reporting a 50 per cent drop in sales volume and other cities of the Dominion reporting sales of all supplies available. Some points said it was too early to note any difference in the week since the increase went into effect.

Downtown department and chain stores in Winnipeg were displaying only one line of bars and little interest was being displayed by buyers.

Montreal reported there was a slight dropping off in sales but most adults were buying all in sight. Dealers anticipated a further decline in sales as supplies increased. Ottawa confectioners looked to an easing in the supply situation while they reported customers were getting more "choosy" at the higher price and inclined to take only what they considered the better bars.

Toronto dealers took an optimistic view and said that when customers got used to the idea of the eight-cent bar they'd start buying again.

In the west, while complaints were frequent and there was some decrease in sales, dealers generally reported selling all they had on hand.

Britain's Budget Calls for Easing Income Tax Burden

Dalton Foresees Possible Surplus of $992 Millions

London, April 15. (CP)—Britain's income tax burdens were eased slightly today by Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, as he brought down in the House of Commons the first balanced British budget in ten years.

He announced what he termed a "brutal and deliberate" increase of 50 per cent in import duties on leaf tobacco, 80 per cent of which is imported from the United States and told British smokers to smoke one-quarter less than they did last year to save dollars.

Foreseeing a possible surplus of £248,000,000 ($992,000,000) in the 1947-48 fiscal year, Dalton announced income tax easements which he estimated would free about 750,000 persons from paying the tax. But he warned that the contemplated surplus "cannot be regarded as available for wholesale tax reductions this year."

Rate of Tax Relief

He said earned income relief would be raised from one-eighth to one-sixth and lifted from a maximum of £150 to £250. The effect of the concession was that single men would pay no tax on earnings under £2 10s ($10.40) a week and would not begin to pay the tax at the full standard rate of nine shillings in the pound until earnings exceeded £5 10s. Income tax reductions would be raised from £50 to £60 for each child.

The Chancellor rejected proposals to tax pari-mutuel betting on horses, dogs and football pools, declaring:

"The Labor Party stands for justice and to tax these alone and let the bookmaker go free would be wrong."

The tax increase on tobacco will raise the price of a package of 20 cigarets from 2s 4d (46 cents) to 3s 3d (68 cents). Announcing it, Dalton said:

80 Per Cent of Tobacco Imported

"I break the news brutally to the House. Our current consumption of tobacco exceeds 250,000,000 pounds weight a year and about 80 per cent is imported from the United States. To satisfy this insatiable demand, we are drawing heavily and improvidently on dollars."

He emphasized that Britain needed to rebuild her foreign credits and that "no one but a scatter-brained fool decries the export drive. We must export or we shall expire."

Dalton waited until almost the end of his speech to announce the tobacco increase. He said he was aiming for a 25-per-cent reduction in British tobacco consumption.

"I regard this particular economy as a minimum of patriotic duty at this time," said the Chancellor. "I would much sooner get a larger saving of dollars and less revenue."

On the basis of a 25-per-cent reduction in smoking, he estimated an annual saving of £7,500,000 from tobacco purchases in the United States, most of it from the American loan.

In announcing the prospective budget surplus, Dalton declared:

Huge Expenditures

Britain during the fiscal year just ended spent an over-all total of £3,910,000,000 ($15,640,000,- Fuehrer Proposed To Enter Vatican, Seize King Victor

By JAMES DEVLIN

Frankfurt, April 15 (AP) — Adolf Hitler reacted to Benito Mussolini's resignation with a grandiose plan to move into the Vatican—"we will apologize afterwards"—and to capture the Italian King, the Crown Prince and the whole Italian government.

Frenzied scene at the Fuehrer's headquarters July 25, 1943, is reflected in stenographic notes of the occasion which were found by the American army.

"Tomorrow I shall send a man down who will order the commander of the 3rd Panzer Division to go down to Rome with a special command group to arrest the entire government, the King, and the whole gang, but primarily to get hold of the Crown Prince and Badoglio and his gang," Hitler declared.

Ambassador Hewel, German Foreign Office Liaison Officer at Hitler's headquarters, suggested: "Should we not say that the exits of the Vatican will be guarded?"

"I don't care, go into the Vatican immediately," Hitler replied. "Do you think I am afraid of the Vatican?"

"We'll get in immediately because the entire diplomatic corps sit there, and I don't care. The gang is there, the entire dirty gang. We will get them out. What does it matter? We will apologize afterwards."

Farmers' Income Taxes Show Sharp Increase

Ottawa, April 15 — (CP)—Canadian farmers were levied $7,113,926 in income tax in the 1945 - 46 fiscal year, a Commons' return reported for Robert Fair (SC — Battle River).

That compared with $3,335,870 in 1944-45; $1,111,937 in 1943-44; $440,212 in 1942-43; $150,103 in 1941-42; $204,319 in 1940-41; $151,549 in 1939-40.

In 1945-46, that tax was levied in 27,411 farmers' returns as compared to 15,714; 7,571; 3,569; 1,488; 1,869; and 1,721 in the previous years.

The 1945-46 year brought in 53,308 returns which were assessable and 82,731 which were not assessable.

Liberal Government Suffering From Control Mentality, Claims Fulton, M.P., Kamloops

The Liberal Government is not only continuing the price and rental controls but is extending the sphere of controls in a manner which indicates it is suffering from a control mentality—a mentality which says, "we have governed well for 13 years—we know better what is good for you than you know yourselves," Major E. Davie Fulton, M.P., Kamloops, told the Belleville Progressive Conservative Association here last night.

Major Fulton, the youngest member of Parliament on the Opposition, charged that the government has embarked upon a scheme of controls as a matter of policy. It denies this heatedly saying it is continuing existing controls for the emergency period.

The speaker dealt with legislation which he said would show the practical effects, and practical application to this district as a part agricultural area. He quoted an act which affected the armed services.

Fertilizer Act

"Under the Fertilizer Act", he said, the government can prevent the farmer from buying, or anyone from selling, a particular fertilizer he may want, but which it does not think as good as something it has in mind.

The present Wheat Board Act, he charged, gives the government complete control of every stage in the marketing of not only wheat but all other grains as well. Under the Agricultural Act the minister of Agriculture now controls every other farm product. He buys, sells, makes contracts, sets the price and may requisition what he needs without the necessity of consulting producer boards. He refused that necessity written in the bill when the Progressive Conservatives made such an amendment.

To fullfil contracts overseas, he can sell cheese short and then requisition more. He has sole control of agriculture, an industry with an income of $1,500,000,000 and a capital value of $5,511,474,000.

Progressive Conservative Policy

The Progressive Conservative agricultural policy, Major Fulton said favors floor prices, a proper Marketing Act, producer boards setting limits within which they can operate freely. He believed the proper way to carry out contracts with Britain was to buy wheat at the parity price and sell it to Great Britain at the contract price. Instead of the farmer bearing Canada's benevolence to Britain, all people should share it. If the selling price is lower than parity, then the difference should be made up by the taxpayer in general.

The Postmaster-General alone has the power to make supplemental payments to rural mail couriers, out of monies given him by Parliament. "He can bonus these couriers any amount he sees fit entirely at his own discretion" the speaker said.

The size of the standing army was determined by the Governor-in-Council, and not Parliament, directly contrary to constitutional principles. The act was amended finally at the insistence of the opposition.

Food For Europe

"If Canada is going to provide food for Europe cheaper than production, it is not fair to ask the farmer to shoulder the burden," Major Fulton said. "Producer Boards should share in the negotiations of contracts so they will know they are fair and reasonable. The present Bill gives the Minister full control. He is the Czar of Canadian agriculture."

He was not accusing the minister of introducing a totalitarian state in Canada, the speaker declared, "but he is so taken with control methods that he does not know where he is going."

Going Through Anyway Attitude

"The Government had controls for six years and should know the proper time to abandon them," Major Fulton quoted Mr. Howe as stating. And the government has adopted a "they are going through anyway" attitude. "When one sees the things we fought against threaten this country, he feels like fighting on," the speaker added.

The CCF charges that the Progressive Conservative Party wants to go back to unrestricted, unfettered private enterprise conditions with all their potentialities for monopoly, combination and enterprise. The Liberals say the Conservatives wish controls removed in order that certain individuals and corporations can make a profit.

"Of the two," Major Fulton said, "the Liberal criticism is the weaker because it is unintelligent. It smacks pretty well of cheap politics. Both criticisms are unfounded because they admit of no middle course. They are born of extremism. Both parties are embarked upon a course of controls; both are committee to a policy that control is better than decontrol; the CCF deliberately, the Liberals because they haven't the courage to change the course which they embarked on as a matter of expediency."

Both being committed to an extreme form of control themselves they naturally tend to take an extreme view of the Conservative policy and conclude it will go to the extreme of freedom which is license and eventually chaos.

Freest Possible Rein To Initiative P. C. Policy

"No party," Major Fulton said, "wants to return to the economic imperialism which culminated in the disorder of the '30's. But the Progressive Conservative Party has as its basic philosophy the belief that the interests of all are better served by giving the freest rein possible to the initiative that is in us, limiting it only by what's necessary to ensure that the liberty of one individual does not—either in the personal or economic sphere—trespass on the liberty of his neighbor."

"But this does not mean state planning or control," he added, "our personal lives are not planned by the state, or should not be, nor is it necessary that our economic lives should be moulded by the state. What we believe is that Parliament should lay down the laws setting the limits of economic freedom, the transgression of which is license and punishable.

The individual then, within those limits is free to plan, direct and control his own activities. He is not planned, controlled and directed by the state.

P.C. Philosophy of Freedom

This philosophy of freedom distinguishes the Conservative Party from the other two, the speaker said. The C.C.F. believes in controls and advocates their extension. The Liberals sometimes deny controls, sometimes not, but both apply them. "And I am referring here to not only price and rental controls, the extension of which for a limited period appears justifiable, but the whole philosophy of controls. When we are criticized for opposing controls it is generally price and rentals that people have in mind."

In conclusion, Major Fulton paid tribute to Conservative Leader John Bracken. "He is not a colorful dynamic man," he said, "but he is the builder of the team which will make the best government Canada ever had. All the Liberals have at the moment is a tried experienced machine but its philosophy is poor and its policy one of expedience."

The speaker was introduced by George H. Stokes, M.P., and thanked by Mr. Frank Cushing. Brief addresses in which they urged support for the Provincial Campaign for Clothing for Britain, were given by J. Fred Wilson, M.L.A., and Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. President Harry Rollins presided with piano entertainment offered by Bill Navin. Community singing was led by Harry Knott and Johnny Baker.

Youth Serving Three Months Escapes From County Jail, Recaptured Near Napanee

Serving a three-month jail term for breaking and entering Robert Duffy, formerly of St. Thomas, escaped from the county jail at Belleville, shortly after seven o'clock, Monday evening.

The escaped prisoner was recaptured early Tuesday morning by Provincial Constable Everett Smith, a short distance west of Napanee. He was brought back to the Belleville jail.

According to reports Duffy had been accompanying the jail governor and two trusties in an evening duty of picking up the next day's rations from a storeroom in the basement of the jail. As the governor opened the door of the storeroom Duffy ran down the corridor and escaped through an unlocked door.

The alarm was immediately turned in to the Belleville police but despite the fact the streets were combed officers failed to round up the escapee.

However, Duffy visited the home of C. F. Moore, Great St. James Street, where he tried to make a long distance call to Montreal. The line was busy and Duffy left the house taking with him Mr. Moore's suit coat in which were some personal papers and keys.

Duffy, and two other youths, one of them his younger brother, were apprehended by Montreal police about one month ago and were returned to Belleville to face a charge of stealing a car owned by H. C. Brown, MacDonald Ave. The three were in possession of the car when arrested in Montreal.

When he appeared in Belleville court Duffy was sentenced to three months in jail on a charge of breaking and entering, the car theft charge being dropped.

Garbage Collection in Areas Abutting City Limits Laid Over

Question of garbage collection by the public works department from residences outside the corporation again came up for discussion at council Monday evening with the presentation of a recommendation from Alderman Chas. Hyde asking that garbage collection be made on the east side of MacDonald, on the north side of College, and on the west side of Sidney Streets.

The recommendation suggested that a charge of $12 annually be made to each householder for this service, the charge to be paid quarterly in advance.

In speaking to his recommendation Alderman Hyde claimed an additional $300 revenue could be gained for the city by picking up garbage from residences just outside the city limits, and this at no additional cost as in any event the trucks had to travel over the streets.

Alderman Harvey pointed out that the matter had previously been discussed with council deciding not to extend garbage collection services outside the city, while Alderman Tice stated he agreed to the principle but held $12 was not enough. "If these people want these services, let them pay for them," he said, "I think $50 annually should be charged."

To this Alderman Armstrong pointed out that garbage collection cost city residents only slightly over one mill. The amount of $12 suggested as being charged would be approximately four times that which city residents pay for garbage collection.

Alderman Chamberlain felt the amount should be sufficient so as to reimburse the city if disposal of the garbage was made by burning in the incinerator when constructed.

No action was taken on the matter, councillors voting to lay it over until another committee meeting.

Offices of Relief Administrator And Sanitary Inspector Of Health Board to be Combined

Miss Helena Lynch and Herbert Belsey Will be Retired on May 31st

The city offices of relief administrator and sanitary inspector for the Board of Health will be combined with the activities of both offices to be looked after by the one official it was decided by members of city council Monday evening when they adopted a committee report to this effect.

Present city relief administrator Miss Helena Lynch who has served for many years in that office, and Mr. Herbert Belsey, sanitary inspector for the Board of Health, will be retired as of May 31st, with the city comptroller being authorized to call for applications for the position of Welfare Administrator-Inspector, Board of Health.

Starting salary for the new position will be $2,240 with an annual increase of $120 until the maximum of $2,600 is reached, the official to supply his own car. It is understood that $200 of the above salary figure is allowance for the use of the official's car.

Granted Retiring Salary.

The committee recommendation called for Miss Lynch and Mr. Belsey to be granted a retiring salary of one half of the amount they are now receiving, from June until November 30th.

Although the report turned in by Aldermen Duffy, Clarke and Butler was ultimately passed by council the matter saw considerable discussion before it came to a vote. Before acceptance of the report an amendment to have the matter returned to council committee for further discussion was defeated.

"We should have the concurrence of the Board of Health on this action before we pass the report," maintained Alderman Chamberlain as he opened discussion on the matter.

To this Alderman Duffy stated that the chairman of the Board of Health, G. E. Thompson, had met with the council committees appointed to investigate into city welfare, and he was entirely in accord with the report.

Merely Passing Buck Claim.

Alderman Harvey also felt that the board should be consulted on the matter, while Alderman Chamberlain further stated that the concurrence of the entire board should be obtained, not just that of the chairman.

"By turning this matter back to committee meeting for further discussion we are merely passing the buck," stated Alderman Follwell. "If we communicate with the Board of Health as a whole they will simply say they have nothing to do with it. The council pays these officials and it should have the right to discharge them if it thinks this action necessary. The council does not require concurrence in this matter."

Alderman Tice questioned the legality of the city paying Miss Lynch and Mr. Belsey six months salary following their official discharge. City Solicitor A. B. Collins informed council that in his opinion the council may grant the officials in question a retiring allowance.

"These officials are not being fired, they are being retired," pointed out Alderman Duffy. "And we are not being extravagant with other people's money."

When the amendment was made to refer the matter to committee for further discussion, Aldermen Chamberlain, Allin, Harvey and Vanner favored the amendment, while Aldermen Armstrong, Clarke, Duffy, Follwell, Hyde, Lattimer, Lazenby, Tice and Wilbur voted against. When the motion for adoption of the committee report was placed by Alderman Duffy it was carried.

City Buildings Under-Insured Council Informed

Buildings owned by the city of Belleville are currently under-insured to the amount of $156,000 members of the city council were informed through aespecial report submitted to the city comptroller by an independent valuator.

Speaking to council on the matter City Comptroller Harold Bateman stated the valuation for insurance on city property had been set some years ago and were out of line with present values. It was intimated that it would cost the city approximately $250 additional to bring the insurance valuation up to present levels.

No immediate action was taken on the matter, it being referred to a committee of Aldermen Clarke, Chamberlain and Butler for investigation.

Third Reading Given

City council gave third reading to a by-law regarding the purchase of 50 acres of the Docter property east of the city for use as an industrial area. Cost of the property is $400 per acre.

Ex-Alderman Lorne McDougall, as member of the Industrial Committee, in speaking on the by-law, pointed out that the ratepayers had voted the sum of $25,000 for the purchase of an industrial area. It was planned to run a railroad siding through the site, costing an estimated $15,000. Of this amount the C.N.R. would finance $10,000 at no interest cost to the city ,the amount to be paid back at the rate of $1,000 per year.

Parts of the purchased property would be resold to industrial plant owners wishing to locate with two firms already being interested. Mr. McDougall expected there would be little trouble in disposing of the property.

Objects to Extra Cost

Alderman Clarke objected to the addition $10,000 to which he stated the by-law obligated the city. The ratepayers had sanctioned the expenditure of $25,000, not $35,000. Alderman Chamberlain claimed however that the council was dealing only with the $25,000 in passing the by-law.

Council was in receipt of a communication from the Property Owners' Association expressing regret at the "apparent lack of co-operation between the council and Chamber of Commerce." The letter also urged strict economy on the part of city council, and also asked that the report of the Department of Municipal Affairs on the validity of the by-law establishing the two year term for aldermen be made public.

The letter was recommended acknowledged with an invitation from council for the Property Owners to attend council to explain further their charge of lack of co-operation between council and the Chamber of Commerce.

Asks for Remittance of Taxes

Council recommended filed a communication from Jamieson Bone asking remittance of taxes on that part of the building occupied by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. In his letter Mr. Bone claimed when the Chamber of Commerce began operations it was agreed that as this body operated solely on city business, no taxes would be charged on that part of the building, it being understood that in lieu of additional rent the taxes would be remitted.

Mr. Bone will be advised that the council has no authority to remit taxes.

The applications of the Farrar Furniture Store on Front Street, and that of radio station CJBQ for permission to erect neon signs were referred to the city engineer with power to act.

The committee report recommending that the Belleville Shrine Club be given authority to park cars on Willard Street, and also to make sewer connection with mains on Willard Street, was adopted by council.

Under Inquiries

Under inquiries Alderman Follwell asked the manner of checking tools in and out of the city tool shed. He was informed by Alderman Harvey, chairman of public works, that the city foreman was responsible.

Alderman Lattimer wanted to know the members of the local traffic committee and was informed there had been no re-appointment this year. The Alderman later brought in a motion asking for the appointment of a permanent traffic committee to investigate local traffic conditions and to report back to council.

What action was contemplated regarding the proposed riverside drive was also asked by Alderman Lattimer. He was informed by Alderman Armstrong that the project for the south part of the proposed area had been dropped as it was considered that the cost would be too great. The cost to develop the south approach onto Bridge Street would almost equal the $50,000 voted by the ratepayers.

Signs Being Made

The question of proposed supervision of traffic in front of local schools was also brought up by Alderman Lattimer. He stated that council had voted to inaugurate the supervision program at a January meeting and still nothing had been done. Alderman Follwell replied that the necessary signs were being made in Western Ontario and had not yet arrived. He said the signs could have been made in Belleville just as easily.

A later motion passed by council authorized the city comptroller and engineer to take immediate action regarding setting up the school traffic supervision program.

Alderman Lazenby inquired as to when the auditor's quarterly report would be available, and also submitted for the approval of council a design for the scroll which will be presented to veterans on Veterans' Day. Alderman Duffy inquired as to what action had been taken regarding the preparing of a nominal role for the Veterans' Day program.

Asks About Arena Revenue

Alderman Hyde wanted to know for the next meeting of council the revenue of the Memorial Arena since it was taken over by the city, and also what fees had been collected from the market. Alderman Allin inquired as to repairs at the police station and Alderman Lazenby wanted to know when the "eyesore" public lavatory on the market square would be ready for use. He was informed that material shortages had held up the work but that the contracts for plumbing and heating were now proceeding.

Under general business Alderman Armstrong opened discussion of the gas plant report received from Gore and Storrie and asked when council was going to consider the matter. He later brought in a motion asking that the Mayor be requested to call a special meeting with the public utilities commission to deal with the gas plant report. The motion carried.

R. Wemp Speaks To British Israel Local Group

"Regardless of the teaching of men, the Word of God definitely declares that God established His Kingdom on the earth at Mount Sinai, and said that it would endure forever and become the fifth World Empire—a nation and a company of nations with headquarters in the Isles of the Sea, which are North and West of Jerusalem," stated Mr. R. E. Wemp, Field Secretary for the British Israel World Federation, at a public meeting in the Y.M.C.A. last evening.

"The Anglo Saxon nations are the only ones answering this description" continued the speaker, "and if they are not Israel and God's Kingdom on earth, then that Kingdom and Israel does not now exist, in which case the Bible becomes a meaningless jumble of words, not to be taken seriously by anyone."

Mr. Wemp is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Harron, John Street during his stay in the city.

Survey Indicates Large Number Of City Businessmen Do Not Favor Holding Old Home Week

A consensus of a cross section of city business and industrial life revealed that large per cent of those contacted in a newspaper survey today were against the holding of Old Home Week here, while others were in favor of holding it, if it was properly organized and an all-out effort be made to make it a credit to the city, others were in favor of it, and some "knew nothing about it."

Following are some of the answers given an Ontario Intelligencer reporter who queried representatives of various walks of life in the city with regard to the Old Home Week celebration.

Case 1.—"I am in favor of it for it will bring a lot of publicity to the city and district. It will be good advertising and help build a community spirit and bring in former residents. But it needs the wholehearted co-operation of everyone in the city if it is to be a success."

Case 2.—"I am definitely against holding such a celebration. In the first place there is a decided lack of accommodation here. Where are they going to put these people up? The hotels cannot handle the ordinary transient traffic."

Case 3.—"I am in favor of it, if the city spends money to make it a success. But this cheap idea of bringing honky-tonks into town to entertain the people is bunk, and if that is all they are going to see, then the idea had better be forgotten."

Case 4.—"The idea is the biggest frost in the world. What are they going to do with the people. Where are they going to feed them. So far nothing has been arranged for entertainment, and in my opinion nothing can be secured. There is dissension in the city about the celebration, and that means failure."

Case 5 — "In my opinion it is a very poor time to hold it. Affairs like these need at least a year's preparation plus the co-operation of all organizations with the city and the committee in charge. And we have not that. I am not against the idea generally, but it should be properly organized."

Case 6 — "I don't know anything about it. I've heard there is to be such a thing, but I have given it no thought."

Case 7 — "In my opinion this Old Home Week Celebration is not being managed properly. In my case I am for it 100 per cent if the city and the people want it, and will help to put it across. I can decorate a float and give them money, but I cannot accommodate people nor feed them. What should be done is a community feeding place, and accommodation arranged for months ahead. Under the present conditions I say 'No.'"

Case 8 — "I am in favor of the celebration. Ninety per cent of the people visiting here will stay with relatives and friends, but if we have to put it over let's do it in a way that will be a credit to the city. Half-way measures are no good. Go 'whole-hog' or none."

Case 9 — "Oh yes, I am in favor of it. It means a great deal to the old boys and girls and I think the city should make a real effort to give them a good time. It will be good for business and everything else. Let's have it, regardless of cost."

Case 10 — "If the celebration is handled on a sound basis, then I am in favor of it. And there is no reason why it should not be sound, if managed properly. But put on a good show and give the old boys a good time."

Case 11 — "Sorry, but I've given it no thought. I would not like to pass an opinion on anything I have not studied."

Case 12:—"No, definitely not. Not if the city is going to spend $9,000 of the taxpayers' money. I would like to see the celebration held but this is no time for it. The old boys and girls can wait another year or so when the city is financially better able to pay for such a thing."

Case 13:—"I am in favor of Old Home Week, but such an affair or any other that demands 100 per cent co-operation cannot be a success unless it gets it. Certain factions are pulling against one another here and that can only mean one thing, failure. Let's all get together in the common cause, then we'll have a celebration of which the city will be proud. Unless everyone helps, I am against it."

Case 14:—"From what I understand, nothing much has been done for the entertainment of the large crowd expected. I am in favor of an Old Home Week, but it should be a 100 per cent affair and not a ghost of a thing like that which happened when the war ended."

Case 15:—"Under normal conditions, the idea may be sound but the present is an inopportune time to hold Old Home Week. Hotel accommodation will be almost impossible to secure at that time. Tourist homes will be taxed to capacity. Old Home Weeks should have at least a year's preparation with the wholehearted co-operation and teamwork of all citizens. To make it a success, it needs money. And the money should come either from the city, private contributions or through ads and programs. There are so many worthy projects in the offing to which people will be asked to contribute, and on which they can spend their money to better advantage than for entertainment purposes."

Point Traverse

'Sucker Run' On at Milford

Point Traverse, April 15 — The annual sucker run is on at Milford, and for years the village's first sign of spring has been the appearance of the sucker or mullet fishermen on the banks of the Milford creek.

The common sucker, the fish with the unfortunate face, scorned by the cognoscenti but admired by thousands, is now running. In hundreds of lakes and streams on the Great Lakes it is ascending streams to spawn in fast waters.

The lowly sucker has become quite popular with local housewives, as lake whitefish, which brought commercial fishermen 80 cents per pound during the Jewish Passover, are too high in price and suckers are bringing about 15 cents a pound.

Medical Science Narrowing World

This fast-moving modern world is worth living in. Never before had man so much scientific knowledge and so much equipment in civilized lands to rout the causes of ill-health, sickness and disease and in consequence many lives are saved.

Yet modern travel especially by plane is so swift that new problems have to be faced, one being that of disease being carried from Asia by air passengers. This requires the alertness of modern health bodies to prevent outbreaks of communicable diseases.

Medical science has given the knowledge and equipment and can come to grips with disease with unprecedented speed, thereby adding greatly to the opportunities for continued health and freedom from disease.

In New York a very old disease has reared its head, smallpox. In the words of the New York Times, "one man dies of smallpox in a New York hospital. Immediately there is set in motion city, state and federal apparatus to search out every person who had even a momentary contact with the victim on a bus ride of thousands of miles from the Mexican border to New York. In this city already thousands of persons have been vaccinated. All across the country thousands more probably will have the prophylactic treatment during the next few days or weeks. A possible epidemic will be stopped before it has had an opportunity to get started."

The Times shows how smallpox since it requires twenty-one days for incubation demands immediate action since in the incubation period "a man can fly twice around the world by commercial plane. The epidemic diseases of Asia are only as distant from New York City as the nearest airway flight schedule."

On the question of Asiatic diseasees, the New York newspaper says:

"To a recently returned traveler from Asia there could be no more striking example of the difference between the United States and most of the rest of the world, especially between our country and those of the Far East. In any Asian country one death from smallpox would not be worth even a line in any local newspaper, for the reason that every day in the countries of the Far East there are thousands of such deaths. Just how many no one knows, not even the governments, for in most places no statistics are kept.

"Most of Asia throbs like a wound behind a scab of ignorance with every known disease caused by filth. There are not enough medicines, not enough doctors, not enough knowledge in any Asiatic country to do more than pick at the surface of the problem. Much more than that is needed. What is needed is the knowledge we have in this country, the organization to stop an epidemic before it gets started, the trained technicians to instruct. That is one import that would be welcomed anywhere."

Strange Story of the Collyers

One of the strangest stories carried in the news recently was that of the Collyer brothers of New York City who lived in self-chosen isolation in a brownstone house on famed Fifth Avenue, gathered through the years a mass of litter and junk around them and spent the years living the lives of hermits. One of the two who was blind, had been found dead and not for some weeks was the other found caught in one of the numerous booby-traps he had constructed in the junk which littered the rooms of the once fine mansion.

Few could have believed that in this quarter of a great city two men could so bury themselves in the introvert life of recluses as did these brothers. It began it is thought because Homer was blind and required assistance and the other, Langley, was devoted to him.

The police had found in that great mansion while they were searching for the second of the brothers, more junk than would fill a junk yard. So heavily-laden were the floors that the police had engineering advice from the department of public works of the great city on the strength of the floors, lest they might collapse while the litter was being moved out during the search for the second brother. City trucks carted away 120 tons of junk which included fourteen grand pianos, more than 3,000 books, an old generator, parts of a Model T. Ford and vast stacks of newspapers. In the latter work of the removal they came upon the body of the missing Langley.

It is a story that attracted the attention of the newspapers for weeks because it was news of human beings who had become so diverted from the normal course of life. Only occasionally had the one brother made his way out into the world of the present to buy food for himself and the brother in the darkness of that mystery house.

Facts it is said are stranger than fiction. Fiction has to be built up on facts and life is so varied that ever and anon there is something new turning up in human experience. Had a novelist or story writer chosen to tell some such story, as no doubt many writers have done, he would have failed to provide some of the very factual evidence which the finding of the mountains of debris and litter brought to light. The novelist and story-teller trust to their experience and imagination, but this case of the Collyers was more impressive than the most impressive fiction on such a theme, first because the characters were human beings and then because they went to extremes to which few novelists or storywriters would make their characters go, without being charged with making them untrue to life. The Collyers' lives proved that such strange existence can be real enough if men are so far from the normal in their ways.

So far from the beaten path of ordinary life did these men live, though they occupied a boarded-up mansion in one of the greatest cities and streets of the world, where crowds passed by in unending flow. Hidden from the life of the vast city of the New World these men elected to live out their queer shrunken lives, when they might have enjoyed sunshine and the company of their fellows.

Hesitation in Spring

We are concerned about the scandalous behavior of April. All this display of airy caprice and gay uncertainty before a tired, grim world that has to make up its mind about German industry and the atomic bomb! All these freakish flutterings and wanton reversals and irresponsible crises of wind and sun and rain! Christian Science Monitor comments.

The world hangs in a delicate balance these days. It's bad enough to have the balance of power between East and West threatened, without having to face this other precarious balance between March and May, the blustering last words of winter and the warm reassurances of spring.

Robert Frost pointed up the problem nicely in his "Two Tramps in Mud Time" when he wrote of a typical instance:

> The sun was warm but the wind was chill.
> You know how it is with an April day
> When the sun is out and the wind is still,
> You're one month on in the middle of May.
> But if you so much as dare to speak,
> A cloud comes over the sunlit arch,
> A wind comes off a frozen peak,
> And you're two months back in the middle of > March.

Of course, the weather is not unlike the climate of public opinion, which seems to veer lightly between pessimism and optimism, with crises blowing up as swiftly as April squalls and golden moments of hope breaking through suddenly to entice people to take off their coats and relax prematurely in the sun. There's not much logic to April and its tentative, unpredictable whims—but behind the uncertainty of transition is the irreversible logic of the advancing year.

INVITATION TO SOUTHERN FRIENDS

Friends of the south, come north, I say,
And share with me the spring.
Come for the glorious month of May
When trees are blossoming.

I've been with you where palm trees sway
And skies are summer blue,
And would your graciousness repay
With many a lovely view.

Come north when grass turns green once more,
When tulips are in bloom
And purple lilacs at the door
The morning air perfume.

For all your kindness I shall be Life-long remembering.
Come north in May and share with me
The beauty of the spring.

DO HAVE SOME MORE LIME

I'm painfully aware that I have the scientific I.Q. of a high-school sophomore (or I hope I have), so you should remember this while I venture to interpet Dr. A. S. Rogen's observation in Glasgow Medical Journal (Nov. '40) that calcium lowers the viscosity of the blood and so, presumably, lessens the work of the heart and improves circulation. The first time we quoted this observation that qualifying word may have sneaked past unnoticed but this time it is only fair to say that Dr. Rogen carefully put it that way—"it may be assumed."

Actually he gave no scientific measurement or comparison with a standard or normal blood viscosity to support what he assumed calcium does to the blood. However, I doubt that calcium either lowers or increases the viscosity of the blood. I believe it improves the circulation by preventing construction of the arterioles—the smallest arteries. As Starling's "Human Physiology explains:

"The pressures and velocities in the local arterioles, capillaries and veins are all increased by local vaso-dilatation. Conversely, constriction of the arterioles of any given part will diminish the velocity of the blood through this part (slow the circulation) and also the pressure in its capillaries."

One of the functions of calcium is regulation or control of neuromuscular irritability, and hence it tends to maintain regular rhythm of the heart beat, prevent constriction of the coronary arteries, prevent "attacks" of angina, prevent slowing of the flow of blood in the heart wall itself and consequent thrombosis.

Certain obsessions regarding calcium (lime) are groundless and for health's sake should be discarded by doctors and laymen One is that "too much lime" or calcium in hard drinking water may damage the body in some way. As long as the water is satisfactory to taste it is immaterial whether it contains much, little or no calcium or lime salts—the lime or calcium in water is not absorbed or used by the body. Another is that "too much" lime or calcium may cause hardening of the arteries, kidney disease, arthritis or rheumatiz—this motion is based on the crude observation of calcified areas in degenerated or diseased tissues—around cavities in lung tuberculosis, in lymph nodes broken down by infection in the walls of arteries in advanced arteriosclerosis, in or about joints where degeneration has occurred. No intelligent physician today imagines this ultimate classification of degenerated tissues is ever due to "too much" calcium or lime. On the contrary, such degeneration occurs prematurely in too many instances because of lifelong calcium deficiency.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Apple Juice

Four year old drinks from a pint to a quart of commercial apple juice daily. What is your opinion of the habit? The child wets the bed especially, I think, when he has taken the larger quantity of apple juice the day before: (Mrs. B.A.M.)

Answer —Provided the child takes as much milk the apple juice is all right, but not if he takes it in place of milk. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet "The Bed-Wetting Habit."

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How far back can one remember?

The average adult cannot remember many things that happened to him at an earlier age than four or five.

What may be described as "earliest remembrance" varies widely with individuals. Many grown persons, including some very old ones, have hazy recollections of isolated incidents and experiences that took place when they were only two or three years of age.

Franklin D. Roosevelt said he could remember a torchlight parade during the Cleveland-Blaine presidential campaign when he was only 18 months old. In Harriet Connor (Mrs. Herbert D.) Brown's "Grandmother Brown's Hundred Years" (1929) we are told that Grandmother Brown at 99 could remember in considerable detail a schoolroom as she saw it at the age of two. Herbert D. Brown himself remembered the last time his mother nursed him, although his mother admitted that she probably nursed her children longer than did most mothers of her day. Abraham Lincoln wrote that he could remember very well a farm his family lived on when he was four and never had seen again.

It is hard to determine with any degree of accuracy how far back a person can remember because of the tendency to confuse the real with the imaginary. A child's imagination is so vivid that often he thinks later he has seen things that he has only heard of from his parents or other members of the family, and what appears to be first-hand information is actually only second-hand coming from others rather than through personal observation or experience. This accounts for the fact that some persons seem to remember things that happened before they were born. Some authorities suppose that no impressions made on the brain are ever completely obliterated during life and require only the proper stimulus to bring them back to mind.

In "The Tempest" Shakespeare touches on this subject in a colloquy between Prospero and his 15-year-old daughter Miranda. Prospero suggests that Miranda could not remember when they came to the island because she was then "not out three years old."

Phone Listings Increase 650 During Past Year

Containing a record number of new and revised listings, the new telephone directory for Belleville and vicinity is now being distributed, according to G. W. Proctor, who said that 8,300 copies are slated for subscribers in this community alone.

Because there are more than 6,300 new and changed listings in the book, Mr. Proctor stressed the importance of consulting it before telephoning and also urged subscribers to bring their memo and desk pads up-to-date to avoid calling wrong numbers.

The circulation of the new book, which has a buff-colored cover to distinguish it readily from the old one, will be greater than that of any previous edition. The new directory, largest in the community's history, reveals an increase of over 650 telephones in Belleville alone since the publication of the March 1946 book.

Among the names with the most listings in the Belleville section toe Smith, Thompsons and Browns still rank high. As usual, the directory lists subscribers in Madoc, Picton, Trenton and other communities in the district.

Swiss Gov. Orders Blockade Of Gambling Casino

Milan, April 15 — (Reuters) — The Swiss government's "blockade" of the Italian gambling casino at Campione, in Swiss territory opposite Lugano, will go before The Hague court as a problem of international law unless negotiations now going on between Italy and Switzerland find a friendly solution, it is reliably reported here.

Campione, only a few square miles in area on the shore of Lake Lugano, is separated from Italy by a Swiss corridor one mile wide, but it is under Italian sovereignity and laws.

Hundreds of Swiss citizens were in the habit of visiting the gaming halls and the Swiss press recorded scores of suicides, embezzlements, thefts and family tragedies due to losses at the Casino, where the stakes are high.

On several occasions the Swiss government vainly made representations in Rome to have the place closed. Finally it decided to "blockade" Campione, and now no one is allowed to enter the town between 7 p.m. and 5:30 a.m. with the exception of doctors and midwives.

Two Children Die In Fire in Wash House Mother Badly Burned

Edmonton, April 14 —(CP)— Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Edmonton reported today that two children—a four-year-old boy and a 22-month-old girl died of burns suffered when fire broke out in a wash house outside their home at Chisholm, Alta., Friday. Chisholm is about 75 airmiles northwest of Edmonton.

The children's mother, Mrs. Francis Ward, was seriously burned as she fought to save her children. Another child, three years old, suffered slight burns.

It is thought the fire started when a can of gasoline was overturned by the children as they played in the wash house in which a fire was burning in a stove.

LACK OF APPRENTICES

Washington, April 14 — (AP)— Senator Homer Capehart (Rep-Ind.), chairman of a United States Senate small business sub-committee, said today hearings opening Thursday will consider complaints of a lack of apprentices in the mechanical end of the newspaper business. The Senator said "experienced printers are moving from the small shops to the large cities to get higher wages than the small papers can pay."

Fericki was found Saturday "keeping house" in the grave in Oak Grove cemetery. In fact, officers told the court, he had been "at home" there for 18 months.

FOUNDED HEALTH CRUSADE

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 14 (AP)—Charles Mills De Forest, 68, founder of several charitable institutions and author of two books, died here Saturday. De Forest founded the modern health crusade in 1916 and in 1924 founded the Knighthood of Youth Movement. He wrote "Hygiene For Success" and "How Old am I Financially?"

OLDEST BLACKSMITH

Nobleton, April 12 —(CP)— The title of York County's oldest blacksmith goes uncontested to Joe Ballard, who is still working at the age of 80 years in his shop on No. 27 Highway. Joe is also one of the few who have seen agricultural implements develop from hand-operated cradle scythes to the tractor and combine.

CONVICTED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Toronto, April 14 —(CP)—A criminal assize court jury Saturday convicted Harry Johnston, 17, on a charge of attempted rape of a 13-year-old girl. It recommended that consideration be given Johnston's age and lack of education when sentence is imposed.

Women's Canadian Club Hears Splendid Address on Indians Of Canada by Mrs. Thornton

Members of the Belleville Branch of the Women's Canadian Club, meeting in the Church School Assembly Hall of Bridge Street United Church Monday evening, were privileged in having as their guest Mrs. Mildred Valley Thornton, who chose as her subject, "Indians as I Know Them."

Mrs. Thornton is an artist of note and an art critic. She first became interested in Indians from an historical point of view as the original Canadians; and as she later learned more of their background her interest grew through a study of their modes of life, their colorful costumes, arts and crafts. Speaking in response to Mrs. May's introduction, Mrs. Thornton said: "As one who is proud to be called a Canadian, I am glad to be able to speak in behalf of that large and silent group, who now represent the original Canadians. I have spent much time studying their traits of character, painting their portraits and pictures in their villages during the past eighteen years, and I have found that strangers always meet with the utmost kindness, courtesy and hospitality from the Indians. Although I have not learned the various dialects spoken by the different tribes, they all are able to understand one common language,—the language of the heart."

Not a Curiosity

"Canadians," she said, "are prone to accept the Indian as a curiosity to be dressed up and displayed on special occasions and then pushed back again, out of the way, until another 'occasion' arises. Indians are human beings have the same feelings, joys and sorrows as other folk, and I submit that these people, who were good enough to be conscripted for overseas warfare, should be good enough to live on the same standard of life as other Canadians.

The slides shown were very good reproductions of the pictures painted from life models. The costumes vary in materials and designs, but many wear coats of smoked buckskin beaded in a variety of beautiful designs and colors.

All tribes have some similar traits of character and customs, but all also have individual characteristics, which are definitely different and outstandingly distinguishing. In every tribe faces are marked with poise, peace and dignity."

Slides Shown

Mrs. Thornton showed slides from paintings of Indians of several different tribes, explaining that 'plain people' are entirely separate and different from the 'coast tribes.' In Southern Alberta, on the 'Blood' Reserve, each chief is given three names during his earlier years, descriptive of the traits he possesses during babyhood, childhood and youth. In later life he chooses which name he will retain. These people are good farmers and are especially good ranchmen, as through the years, their ancestors were used to riding. They have nice homes, modern machinery and fine cars, but their chief and his wife live in a small one-room house.

Continuing the speaker said, "Blood Indians are part of the Blackfeet tribes. "Carrying-Something-Woman" is the name of the chief's wife, who because she had fulfilled a vow, was able to give a 'sun dance'. On these rare celebrations the Indian women built their own lodge with the tepees in a great circle. Years ago these were made of buckskin with symbols painted in dyes; now they are made of the white man's canvas, and the symbols are painted with white man's paint. A medicine man named 'He-Will-Be-Black' still gathers roots and herbs for remedies in case of sickness, but the younger generation prefers the services of a modern doctor and hospital.

Blackfeet Wealthy

The Blackfeet are a wealthy people. They are good farmers, and have large coal fields on their reservations. A hospital was badly needed and they insisted on having a woman Dr., so they built the hospital themselves and at present they pay the Doctor and her nurses for their services. The same Doctor has been with them for twelve years." A picture of a modern Blackfoot maiden was very lovely. The model was a great granddaughter of a former very important chief; she is now a trained nurse.

On the 'Stoney Reserve', Mrs. Thornton painted portraits of twin brothers, 'Yellow Bear' and 'Spotted Eagle', now known as Joshua and William Hunter,—95 years of age. They can remember Rev. John MacDougall, pioneer Methodist minister, with whom they have made long treks, and with him hunted buffalo. The herds then numbered from 300 to 7,000 and were the 'staff of life' to the Indians.

On the 'Five Hills' Reserve in Saskatchewan, she met Mrs. 'Rough Thunder' of the Cree tribe, whose husband, the chief, had two wives,—the only polygamist of the tribe. 'Buffalo Bow' whose picture she painted in Regina, is 105 years of age. He is a Sioux living in the Qu'Appelle Valley; is a descendent of the well known 'Sitting Bull', who, coming north from the U.S., pleaded to remain in Canada. The Sioux are not treaty Indians but have been given a reservation and are quiet and dignified citizens.

Several Castes

On the South Arm Reserve are found the 'flat heads'. Here are several castes in Indian society, and only the wealthier, better class 'pressed' the skulls of their infants between two boards to make them grow long and narrow. At present only two real flatheads are living on the reserve.

Mrs. Thornton said in part: "Plains Indians are democratic, sharing everything, and are very different from the coast shore tribes. These coastal Indians are prosperous since they have gotten back the fishing industry in place of the Japs, who monopolised it for many years. They are intelligent, hard workers, and have fine, comfortable homes. They gave generously to the Government Loan ($40,000 from one tribe) and do not object to Income taxation. Their ceremonial costumes are covered with pictorial designs of leaves, flowers, birds etc., in pearl buttons and beads on a blanket of fine broadcloth. Occasionally one finds a monogollian influence featured in the faces of coast Indians."

Totem Poles, Made

"Totem poles are made by some coast tribes. These originated around the Thibetan River. Each pole tells the history of a clan or family in the tribe, such as the 'Frog Clan', the 'Owl Clan' or the 'Eagles', and they take a place similar to that of English family crests. Erroneous ideas are widespread concerning the worship of these poles,—but Indians have never been idolators. Only a chief or chieftess may have a pole before the home, either as a house-post or outside. There are very strict laws regarding totem poles, unwritten but respected. Poles are either historical or memorial. On a memorial pole for a dead chief there is a plaque at the bottom, containing the name of his successor. Every pole tells the story in its crest of some family legend or myth, which has been handed down for many generations.

Cultured, Energetic

'Queen Charlotte Island' Indians are cultured and energetic. They make some of the most elaborate of the totem poles, and do black slate carving as well as being metal craftsmen. They will take a silver dollar and hammer it until they make a beautiful bracelet of intricate design.

Pot latches are now unlawful, but some of the older coast people in out-of-the-way places still give them occasionally. Among these folk the status of women is much higher than among the plains people, and women are often the virtual rulers of the tribes."

Concluding Mrs. Thornton said: "In presenting these pictures and telling these incidents relating to the people who posed for them, it is my hope that they will awaken interest and kindly good will and will increase brotherhood and understanding toward these, your fellow Canadians."

COPS FIRE SIX SHOTS AT TIRES

Toronto, April 15 —(CP)— Police fired six shots last night at suburban Scarborough to puncture the tires of a car they said was stolen. Three men, Roy Lewis, 18, of Westfield Centre, N.B., William Campbell, 19, and Roger Goyette, both of Ottawa, were arrested on charges of car theft. Campbell and Goyette claimed they were hitch-hikers and didn't know the car was stolen.

WEDDINGS

REID—SCOTT

Allan Mills.—A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at St. John's parsonage by Rev. G. N. Maxwell at 2.30 p.m., when Lorraine Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Campbellford, became the bride of Mr. Ross Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reid, of Springbrook.

The bride's gown was of powder blue crepe with eyelet embroidery, with hat and gloves to match. She was attended by Miss Edith West, of Hastings, whose dress was of turquoise blue with black accessories. The bride wore a corsage of pink roses and fern and the bridesmaid's corsage was red roses and fern.

Mr. Russel Reid, of Frankford, was his brother's groomsman.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Scott, wearing grey with a pink carnation corsage and the groom's mother wearing powder blue with pink carnations and fern.

Buffet refreshments were served to forty guests in the dining room which was decorated with pink and white streamers, wedding bells and Easter lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid left by motor for Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit and hat with cream wool top coat. On their return they will reside in Campbellford.

SMITH—NICKLE

On Saturday, April 12, the mantel at 332 Charles Street, Belleville, was beautifully banked with Spring blossoms to form a setting for a candle-light marriage ceremony when Jean Webster Nickle, youngest daughter of Mrs. Nickle and the late Mr. T. L. Nickle, of Madoc, became the bride of Roy Cecil Smith, younger son of Mrs. Smith and the late Mr. Arthur Smith, of Marmora. Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne, of Picton, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Hubert Nickle, of Madoc, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace, featuring a fitted bodice with deeply scalloped neckline and softly-draped skirt over white bridal satin. The matching lace gloves ended in deep lily points over the hands. Her embroidered fingertip veil was held in place by a scalloped silk-net headdress and she carried a cascade of white roses and sweetpeas.

The matron of honor, Mrs. F. J. Follis, of Bancroft, sister of the bride, wore an aqua taffeta gown with matching gloves and hat and carried a Colonial bouquet of roses and sweetpeas.

Elisabeth Follis, tiny niece of the bride, was a very pretty flower girl in coral pink taffeta with matching headdress and she carried a Colonial bouquet of roses and sweetpeas.

Mr. P. Huddleston played wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Stanley Hawthorne, of Madoc, as he sang "I'll Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

The groom was supported by Mr. Thos. Crawford, of Toronto.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Smith received the good wishes of their friends with the bride's mother, gowned in grey printed crepe with corsage of roses and fuchsia sweetpeas, and the groom's mother in black crepe with corsage of roses.

For travelling the bride wore a grey tweed suit with matching hat, rosewood topcoat, black accessories and gardenia corsage. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in Marmora.

Friend were present from Marmora, Toronto, Kingston, Madoc, Bancroft, Detroit and Picton.

Living policyholders get lion's share of benefits

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE over the years have learned that it is good business and good citizenship to own Life Insurance. Gone are the days when men, and women especially, shunned the thought of Life Insurance because they associated it with grief and bereavement.

In 1945, the latest year for which government figures are available, far more than half of the benefits—$94,757,745 or 59%—disbursed by Life Insurance companies in Canada were paid to living policyholders. In addition, $66,518,801 was paid to survivors in death benefits.

The lion's share—59%—was paid out in funds to provide for education, retirement, establishment in business, mortgage repayments, and so on.

A large slice of this big share took the form of policy dividends—an annual profit-sharing to Life Insurance owners, which amounted to $29,141,785, or 18% of total benefits.

Maturing endowments and Annuity payments accounted for 23%, and other policy payments 18%.

So, remember . . . Life Insurance offers financial benefits which you can enjoy—plus protection for your loved ones.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ADVICE TO THE LOVEsD ry No Cause For Gossip in a Train Ride

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 17. My sweetheart is 20. We are engaged and, as soon as he is released from the army, we will be married.

I have not met his people, as they live in another state. When he comes back, and before we are married, he wants to take me to his home to see his family. Should I go with him? I can trust him, and I know he would do me no harm, but I am afraid people will talk about me for going away with him when I am not married.

Please give me your advice.

"Motherless Girl"

I cannot see any reason at all why you should not go with your fiance to make a visit to his family.

I do not know how long a trip it is from where you live to his family, but it certainly cannot be so far that the two of you would be thrown together under any unconventional circumstances while travelling. Of course, if you were going to make a trip across the country by car, and stayed overnight at the same hotels for several days, it would be a different matter. But I assume that you and your fiance will simply get on the train and stay on it until you reach your destination. And if anyone gasps about anything so harmless, I would not let it trouble me.

Maybe You Will Have to Choose the Lesser of Two Evils

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have a daughter going on 20. She has a boy friend who comes every night to the house and he wants to be alone with her in the front room.

I have told my girl that she must put a stop to this, that it's not the right thing and she shouldn't be so free with her kisses and affection. Such things are very sacred and should not be given until the right man comes along. But when I tell her that, she gets very hot-headed and says I don't trust her. I do, but that kind of behavior can be the beginning of a lot of trouble.

I love my girl and want her to have a boy friend like other girls, and bring him to the house for good times. But I don't want them to just sit alone in earnest love-making. Do you think I am right in this?

"Mrs. A. W."

On general principles, I would think that you are quite right in feeling that your daughter and her boy friend might spend their evening in a better way than petting. But I imagine, from what you write, that you are going to have a hard time convincing your daughter of that. If she is as old as 20, she probably feels that she is too old to be told what to do or how she should entertain her friends.

I am afraid that, if you insist that your daughter change her ways, it would simply mean that she would stop having this boy come up to her home and would meet him elsewhere. This would certainly be a much worse situation than the one you already have on your hands.

Perhaps you have not gone about discussing the [illegible] with her in the right way, but have been so critical of her conduct that you have antagonized her. Don't you think that you might be able to explain to her, sympathetically and understandingly, that she is making herself cheap in letting any boy think she is out for that kind of attention and that, sooner or later, he will probably lose interest in her?

If you cannot get anywhere with your daughter, however, by trying to talk to her in this way instead of scolding her, then I think you will have to choose the lesser of two evils and leave her to her own devices when she entertains young men at home, rather than make things so uncomfortable for her that you chase her out of the house to less desirable meeting places.

Bad Manners Never Pay

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About a year ago, I met a girl who was about the nicest and sweetest girl I ever knew. She was going on 18 and I was just 20. The first night I met her at a skating rink, she took me home and introduced me to her folks and they were very nice indeed.

Unfortunately, I treated her very badly by not showing up for dates that I had made with her, or else being late for them. She decided to give me one more chance and it failed, so we parted. But it is now six months since I have seen her and I realize that she was my ideal girl. I would like to know if I can win her back again, as I really wish to make it up to her. I tried calling her up, but she doesn't wish to talk to me. What should I do? I am really sincere in trying to win her over again.

"Frank"

It is too bad, Frank, that you did not have better manners in your early acquaintance with this girl. Better make a mental note to brush up on these manners of yours lest your lack of them trip you up on some other occasion.

In the meantime, you are evidently going to have to conduct quite a campaign to make this girl believe in your sincerity. Since she refuses to talk to you on the telephone, then I would suggest that you begin by sending her some nice flowers, which she can't very well return. And, since she evidently is well-versed in manners—since she objected to yours—she can hardly help getting in touch with you by letter or by phone to thank you. With the flowers, you might send a very short, penitent note, telling her how very sorry you are that you behaved so badly and that you wish she would give you a chance to show that you can really be different.

Don't follow up your gift of flowers by immediately trying to rush the girl into making a date. Let things simmer for a bit and then send her something else, perhaps a box of candy. You can probably think up several other things you might do that would be pleasant little attentions to her, to give her the impression that you really mean business and yet not force your company on her. If you handle things tactfully and diplomatically and do not, as I say, try to rush her, you may be successful in your efforts to make her feel kindly toward you again.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Hands And Personality

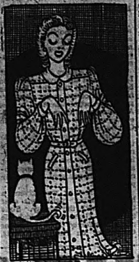
There is much difference in hands, both in form and behavior. Some are calm and reserved; others are jittery, always on the move. Some have an appearance of strength and usefulness; others are soft, pudgy and inert. Have you ever noticed? It is fun, really. The game will sharpen your powers of observation. Incidentally, it will make you wonder just what sort of an impression your hands make.

That standards of beauty change with the years is evident. Once the little dimpled hand was considered a good-looks item. Now it is the interesting, capable hand that heads the list. Years ago it took a woman ten minutes to put on her gloves because they were skin-tight. Now look at what the women wear! Gloves slip on and off in a jiffy. The same thing has happened with shoes. If a woman couldn't pack her tootsies into a number four she was ashamed of her feet. Now a number seven shoe is considered average.

An artist will tell you that bone construction, line and curve determine the hand's beauty of outline, and that graceful pose is an important element. By that is not meant the affected "ladylike" pose, but natural grace and animation.

Large hands with overdeveloped knuckles, and those with discolored surfaces, advertise their defects when glittering jewels are worn. So it is with vivid nail polish. When hands do not qualify for good-looks laurels, they should be made as inconspicuous as possible.

It often happens that hands aren't alike. The right one, being the work hand, may be larger, may not be as white and smooth of surface as the left. If yours are like that, don't let the matter fret you; there are many other women in like circumstances. Just be a little more generous when applying the massage cream to the working member.



Graceful hand movements are dependent upon flexible wrists.

The shaping of the fingernail contributes to the good or ill looks of the hands. Long, pointed nails on a short, plump little hand are out of the picture. They should be oval, to conform to the curves of the fingers and complete a harmonious pattern.

Graceful movements are dependent upon the flexibility of the wrist. If your wrists feel bound and awkward, give them a vigorous massage, then do a few simple exercises. Hold the palms downward and wave bye-bye. Hold them down, turn them up slowly, back again and repeat. While doing this, keep the fingers curled, petal like. Note whether or not they assume graceful poses.

Fashion Flashes

BEAUTIFUL OFFERINGS await Spring trousseau shoppers. A slim, high-waisted white satin gown is teamed up with a white, pleated silk sheer robe with the dust ruffle of the hem repeated at the peplum, the sleeve and the little collar.

IDEAL for smart country or suburban wear is a suit with three-quarter length coat of deep purple suede, double-breasted, with half belt extending to the sides to hold hip fullness. Skirt is of hand-loomed tweed in misty blue and fuchsia to match peaked pales of the coat.

THE WHISPER OF SPRING is heard in the beautiful moires, failles and taffetas now appearing. Pure black silk moire makes a pencil-slim evening frock that has a deep square decolletage framed by a single fold of the fabric. A double-puffed ruffle lends animation to the skirt and extends from the hip to the deep centre front hem slit.

LOTS AND LOTS of white wool evening coats and capes. A pretty wraparound coat of white wool fleece has a deep, full shoulder cape lavishly embroidered with gold paillettes and bugle beads.

THE STAR OF EVENING clothes for the younger generation is the frock that is snug of bodice and full of skirt. A beauty is of white silk net over white taffeta. The snug bodice has deep scooped-out neckline and is buttoned down the front with tiny self-covered buttons. A wide sash of pale blue taffeta trails its sides down the skirt. Sash is finished with pink rosebuds.

IT'S YEAR 'ROUND for white now, what with white suits walking out of stores as fast as shown. A blouse of brilliant print or a bright-toned scarf adds a fillip to that white suit, be it of white woolen or white satin.

AT LAST . . .
THE LAUNDERALL

It's HERE

The Washer You Have Been Waiting For . . .

The Washer That is Really Automatic

Using the Launderall is simple. You load in—through the TOP-FIL-DOR—about 10 pounds of soiled clothes, add soap, close the machine, set the controls. The Launderall then automatically fills with water of the right temperature (hot or warm, as required) washes the clothes, drains itself, double rinses the clothes in clean water of the right temperature, drains itself, spins the clothes damp-dry, drains itself, shuts itself off. Your hands need never touch water when you use the Launderall. It rinses so thoroughly that there are no "soap spots" to burn under the iron or irritate baby's skin. Launderall needs no attention from you while it is doing your wash. You can load it, set it, go to bed, go out, rest, shop, bathe your baby, take the children to school or do a hundred other things. Your time is your own on washday—with a Launderall. It does indeed bring "A better life for the modern wife."

LAUNDERALL has the
TOP - FIL - DOR

The Launderall TOP-FIL-DOR is one of the greatest improvements in automatic washers. There's no bending or squatting to load or unload the cylinder—all handling of clothes is through the top. The TOP-FIL-DOR folds back out of your way, you drop the clothes into the cylinder, and, when they are washed and damp-dried, take them out the same way. It's no trouble, no effort. And—the TOP-FIL-DOR lets you add or remove clothes at any time in the washing or rinsing cycle, without losing the hot water. When your Launderall is not in use, the flat top makes a useful table surface.

LAUNDERALL has the
RE - VERSO - ROL
Washing Action

RE-VERSO-ROL Washing Action is entirely different from ordinary washing action. There's no slapping, twisting or tugging and no tangling. As the cylinder rotates, the four vanes in the cylinder lift the clothes and drop them gently into the water. RE-VERSO-ROL Washing Action reverses the cylinder rotation four times every minute, thus preventing the clothes from becoming twisted together or knotted into a ball. Thus, each piece of garment gets individual washing and rinsing and a better, whiter wash results.

LAUNDERALL has the
ROTO - DRIER

ACTION THAT SPINS THE WATER OUT.

When the Launderall has thoroughly washed your clothes, it automatically switches over to the ROTO-DRIER Action which spins the moisture out and damp-dries the clothes so thoroughly that even heavy seams are just as dry as the rest of the piece. ROTO-DRIED Clothes can be hung indoors without any danger of dripping. ROTO-DRIER damp-drying is particularly effective because the clothes are not bunched up in a knot but are distributed all around the cylinder and are damp-dried evenly. ROTO-DRIER Action cannot damage any garment, no matter how fine.

LAUNDERALL
fits in ANYWHERE

Launderall is COMPACT—only 24½ inches wide, 24½ inches deep and 36 inches high. It fits readily into the modern kitchen, the modern utility room, or the basement. The automobile steel cabinet is handsomely designed in the modern manner and beautifully finished. It wipes clean with a moist cloth.

LAUNDERALL is a BIG FELLOW

Most ordinary washers hold from 6 to 8 pounds of clothes (dry weight.) Launderall Jumbo Cylinder holds full 10 pounds—which means that you get your wash done quicker. Also, Launderall is designed to use less hot water.

see the NYLON TEST

The Launderall cylinder is finished so smoothly that you can rub a nylon stocking or garment over any part of the cylinder surface without damage to the fine nylon fibres. This dramatic test proves that your clothes are safe in the Launderall.

Bracken Discusses ConservationNeed In the Commons

Ottawa, April 15 (CP)—John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, told the Commons yesterday the flood damage in western Ontario presented "a great opportunity" to the Dominion and Ontario governments to initiate and complete policy of conservation.

Speaking on a number of topics on a government motion to go into committee of supply to consider estimates, Mr. Bracken said the federal government's great interest in Canada's natural resources gave it a "major responsibility" as a result of the various floods across the country.

He suggested that the same sort of administration which had made the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act a boon to the dry areas of the west could be used to benefit in the current situation. The whole question of flood control and of conservation had been raised.

Mr. Bracken said the responsibility for the needed works rested in large part on the federal government, which should get together with the provinces.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, agreed with Mr. Bracken and said he too, had seen, many thousands of acres of good land under several feet of water in western Ontario This resulted in soil erosion and was as bad as the wind erosion which denuded the lands of western Canada in the 1930's.

J. R. MacNical (PC—Toronto Davenport) said he agreed that step should be taken to prevent floods. In Quebec the Portneuf and Chaudiere Rivers annually caused trouble.

In Ontario there were many rivers which had or which might cause serious flood damage.

He felt there should be some over-all federal authority to handle flood control work.

Health Minister Martin said the responsibility for a flood control program was primarily a provincial government responsibility. This was generally recognized by municipal authorities in the flooded areas of western Ontario.

She said: "I think it is truly unfair and un-American to condemn someone without a hearing and to deny him the right to speak in his own defence."

Stories Are Better Without Censorship Stassen Tells Stalin

Moscow April 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Stalin told Harold E. Stassen in a conference April 9 that some foreign correspondents when left uncensored "depicted the Soviet government as a sort of zoological garden" and that as a result "it will be difficult in our country to dispense with censorship."

The former Minnesota governor, an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination of the United States next year, made public today the portion of his interview with Stalin dealing with the press, but withheld release of the talk on economics until an unspecified later time.

"I feel that if stories came out without censorship, it would be a better basis for co-operation and understanding by our people than any other basis," Stassen told Stalin.

GOVT. HAS POWER

Debate Resumed

Debate on the main control bill was resumed shortly before the adjournment with Harold Timmins continuing Progressive Conservative criticism of the measure.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said the government had been informed that the Russian foreign office has under consideration the appointment of a new Ambassador to Canada. The Soviet has not had an ambassador in Ottawa since December 1945.

Before debate on the main control bill was resumed, third reading was given a bill amending the Patent Act and providing, among other things, for approximately a 25 per cent increase in patent fees.

Second reading was given a bill continuing regulations over trading with the enemy. State Secretary Gibson, who had the measure referred to the Commons Committee on Public Accounts, said the regulations still were necessary because of enemy property still controlled by the government.

Third reading was given another bill extending the government's power to impose export and import restrictions in order to assure proper distribution of goods in short supply. An amendment by J. M. MacDonnell (PC—Muskoka - Ontario) to have a time limit set in the bill was rejected.

In moving his motion, Mr. Coldwell said the Canadian people were concerned about how they could make 'ends meet' in the face of rising living costs.

He placed before the House figures which he said indicated firms manufacturing many of the goods now advancing in price were reaping net profits ranging all the way from 70 to more than 400 per cent over 1945.

The people were looking to parliament to do something to reduce the rising spiral. Otherwise, labor would demand higher wages. The consumer was watching his dollar decreasing in value while company profits continued to increase.

Mr. Abbott said there had been a "very considerable number" of items chopped off control but a lot of others still remained. The greater part of foodstuffs still were subject to ceilings. There had been some increases but in the "vast majority of cases" there had been none when ceilings went off.

He said some increase in price was "inevitable" and added that he believed that government had achieved a "reasonable measure" of success in its program of orderly decontrol. He observed that some newspapers which a year ago had called for the outright lifting of controls now were urging "greater caution" upon business men in the raising of prices.

Russia to Negotiate After Much Prodding

Washington, April 15 (AP)—The State Department announced today that Russia, after six requests, has agreed to begin negotiations toward setlement of Russia's $11,100,000,000 wartime lendlease account with the United States.

The conversations will be held in Washington on the return from Moscow of Ambassador Victor Novikov.

Russia has requested a $1,000,000,000 post-war loan from the United States. Officials said there was no reason why this matter could not be introduced in the lend-lease discussions.

The Movie Column

By HELEN BANNERMAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Charlie Chaplin has returned to the screen with a movie which at the most conservative estimate, will astonish his fans, and at the other end of the line, may seem in bad taste.

The film is "Monsieur Verdoux," obviously based on the recent real—life story of the Paris Bluebeard. It is a comedy about a Parisian petit bourgeois who supports his family by marrying rich women and murdering them. What is at first startling is that it is comedy.

Any film by Chaplin has the master touch for he is one of the few really original thinkers in the movie business. His latest efforts seem to be an answer to those who have been saying that Hollywood has run dry of ideas —for here is a film bursting with such original ideas that it is bound to make a lasting impression.

In a press conference just before the premiere o: the picture in a Broadway theatre, Chaplin, who wrote the story, produced, directed and starred in it and composed the music, explained his murderer and the comedy:

"He's a poor little petit bourgeois, a bank clerk who is thrown into desperation when he losses his job, because he has a family to support. He is protecting his home, he thinks, just as a soldier using a flame-thrower in a war believes he is protecting his home.

"It is a slightly bitter humor, a satire on the inconsistencies of human nature...when you take part of life and overstate it, the absurdity begins to show and it becomes funny.

"It will shock audiences at first, but after the original shock is over, after the audience gets used to the unusual key in which this story is played, I believe and hope that the sardonic humor of this man, confused, and in a way victimized, by life, will begin to make itself felt."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

Mere sayso does not make it so. There must be furnished proof in the bleating thereof. And that goes for what is needed in a positive response to an opening bid of two in a suit.

Two no-trump is the negative response; denying a sure trick as help for a slam. Anything but two no-trump is the positive response; admitting a sure trick; either an ace, or king and queen in one suit.

An opening two bidder says he has game. With enough sure tricks in his own hand, he will go slamming on his own. He can get what info he may need from partner in the next or later rounds.

Without enough sure tricks for slam in his own hand, he wants to know fast if partner has a sure trick. This lets him know or plan how deep he can go for the added advices he may need.

No good purpose can be served by giving a positive response with no sure trick. It only puts responses on a basis of uncertainty. The fact that experts experiment with it does not mean it is good.

We know that experts have experimented with many such ideas that were wrong. We also know that they changed their ideas every few years. In the meantime, their experiments added only to confusion.

South opened with two hearts when north held this hand:

♦ 8 4 3 2
♥ 9 7 3
♠ Q 8 6
♣ A J 5

With a sure trick, north should not make a negative response of two no-trump. He should bid anything but. Providing, of course, that it is an honest bid in a takeout, assist, or three no-trump.

Without a biddable suit, he has no takeout. Without adequate support for hearts, he has no assist. The only bid left is no-trump. But he must not bid two no-trump. His bid is three no-trump. All he is saying is that he has a sure trick.

Do not fool around with a negative response when you have a sure trick. Some partners do not like that kind of carryings on.

11,000 Fans Will Watch Woodcock And Baksi Battle

By BILL MACKLIN

London, April 15. (AP)—The goal of their ring careers—a fight with Joe Louis for the world heavyweight title—is just around the ringposts in the 10-round elimination bout tonight between Britain's Bruce Woodcock and Joe Baksi of the United States.

Nearly 11,000 fans, paying £21 ($84) for ringside pews in Harringay arena, will cheer Woodcock in his crusade to make Baksi just another ex-challenger for the heavyweight crown.

The 26-year-old British champion was the first to check into London from his training camp and was welcomed at the railroad station last night by a throng of well-wishers.

"I feel simply grand," said Woodcock, who is not noted for his orations before a fight, "and I promise I won't let you down."

The majority of British boxing writers, who feel Baksi's greater experience against better foes will prove too much for the national hope, have made the American favorite.

The fight is scheduled to start at 9 p.m. D.B.S.T, (2 p.m. E.S.T.)

Would Change Rules of Big Steeplechase

By LARRY RAMBO

London, (Reuters)—The current clamor for revision of Grand National Steeplechase rules could be prompted by those who lost their shirts when unknown Caughoo romped home over the second largest field in the history of the classic—but the howls may bring results.

Many experts believe that conditions of the world's toughest steeplechase should be changed to limit the size of the field.

Proposals are being made for the race to be run either in two divisions, with the best horses in the first division and others running with "bottom weight" in the second division, or that the race be run in one division with "bottom weight" horses eliminated.

Supporters of this suggestion maintain that lower class horses clutter up the field and make the race more of a lottery than it ought to be. They stress that horses carrying the minimum 140 pounds—as Caughoo did—have won only twice in the last 30 years.

On the other side of the fence are those who believe luck will always play a great part in this unique 4 1-2 mile chase.

Those who hold this view say they are more than willing to take their chances that an unconsidered outsider will come up every now and then to add lustre to the event and money to their pockets.

This group also maintains it is a fallacy to thing that the bigger the field, the greater chance for mishaps. For instance, this year 17 horses—and jockeys—officially completed the course, or about 30 per cent of the field of 57.

Suggest Fight Changes

British boxing fans are another group of sports lovers who appear eager to see an alteration in sporting rules.

Main sore points are the color bar and bad decisions—both of which were emphasized by a lightweight battle between the Negro Cliff Anderson, and British champion Al Phillips last month.

This fight brought an immediate demand from fans that all color bar obstacles be removed from fights for British boxing crowns, but the earliest rule changes may be made to improve the efficiency of decisions.

Jack Solomons—king of British fight— promoters— has set his stamp of approval on a plan that may do much to avoid unpopular decisions in the future.

The system—invented by a former British boxing champion and advocated by Solomons—would include the installation of a scoring indicator outside the vision of the fighters. This, advocates say, would show the marks awarded each fighter at the end of every round and afford the spectators a true picture of what the judges thought. The indicator would also prevent onlookers from forgetting that a man who had outclassed his opponent in early rounds could still win a fight on the basis of points even though he faltered in the closing rounds.

It must be admitted, however, that the device still might not make the judges decision popular with the fans even though it would give them an insight into the judicial point of view.

Clarence Demar Sends Along Entry To Marathon

Clarence Harrison Demar, who finished second the first time he ran the Boston A. A. Marathon in 1910 and won it seven times after that, has filed his entry for the annual affair to be run Saturday. The 59-year-old runner's decision to run means that there will be five former winners in the test.

Scotty Rankin of the Galt, track club, fourth in 1945, also has entered.

Plans have been completed for honoring Aurel Joliat, one of the greatest little hockey players who ever came down the pike, at ceremonies in the Montreal Forum before Thursday's Stanley Cup playoff between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs. The little leftwinger of oldtime Canadiens squads, elected to the Hockey Hall of Fame a few months ago, will receive a scroll and other gifts.

British football players have been awarded a maximum wage of £12 ($48) a week in the winter and £10 ($40) a week in the summer. The minimum wage was set at £7 ($28) in winter and £5 ($20) in summer

Montreal's Johnny Greco, Canadian Welterweight champion, scored a sixth round TKO victory over Cleo Shans of Los Angeles in their schedule 10-rounder at Providence last night.

Brantford Redmen won their third straight victory in their quest for Intermediate "A" O.H.A. championship when they defeated Georgetown Raiders 9-5 at Waterloo last night. Fourth game will be played in Brantford Wednesday.

EVERY HOCKEY GAME A THRILL SAYS SHORE

His Greatest Thrill Was Winning Hart Trophy for Being Most Valuable Player

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

"Every game was a thrill."

The words come from Eddie Shore, the man they called "Mr. Hockey" in his boisterous playing hey-day with Boston Bruins when he became not only a veteran of N.H.L. play but a veteran of Stanley Cup wars such as the current Toronto - Montreal final series.

Looking back on his hockey career Shore wouldn't change a thing. The thrills were too many, too great, to want any change.

Old now in a hockey sense, he needs little build-up to weigh his words on the ice game. Was not he one of the greatest players to come down the pike carrying skates and hockey stick? Isn't he now almost a legendary figure in a big Time he has scarcely left?

"For me all Stanley Cup playoffs were a great thrill," said the manager of Springfield Indians in the American Hockey League, now growing until in customer-attraction it ranks close to the N. H. L.

"I don't know that any one playoff stands out in my mind as greater than others," said Shore. "They were all tremendously thrilling to me — not alone Stanley Cup playoffs but every hockey game.

"One of the biggest thrills I got out of hockey was to win the David Hart Trophy for the first time. (The trophy goes to the player considered most valuable to his team.) But an even greater thrill and pleasure was winning the trophy for the fourth time."

And remember bald Bill Stewart, the only American ever to coach a team to a Stanley Cup championship? He did it with Chicago Black Hawks in 1938 and says, "It was a great honor to me."

But like Shore, the game and the spirit was the thing for Stewart, now refereeing in the American Hockey League.

"The spirit and hustle and teamplay was the big factor," said Stewart.

"I have refereed in seven Stanley Cup series but believe me the most thrilling experience was when I coached Chicago which finished in fourth place to the Stanley Cup. In the final game at Chicago, after we had beaten Toronto Maple Leafs, they carried me off the ice. For me there will never be anything to touch that."

FINNS WANT TO PAY EVERY CENT REPARATIONS

Toronto, April 15 — (CP) — A visitor from behind Europe's 'iron curtain,' Lt.-Gen. Unio Sarlin, formerly of the Finnish army, says the Finns are determined to pay every cent of Russian war reparation demands of $480,000,000. Here to buy machinery for Finnish granite works, the general said his countrymen had stripped themselves of every comfort to meet their payments.

Sports Roundup

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 15 —(CP)— Once, in the long ago, every red-blooded boy wanted to be a giant....since then there have been many years of disillusionment and some have even questioned the ability of the beloved Mel Ott as a manager....but with every spring comes hope and this year may be the one... the Giants, who disintegrated after Bill Terry left active management, are better balanced than they have been for years...

Rookie Fever

Helping the temperature rise are three rookies who are regarded even now as sensational —Clint Hartung, Bob Thomson and Whitey Lockman... Lockman, a right fielder, burned up the spring training circuit until he broke his leg....although he is out for awhile, Ott says he'll be a big help when he returns ....Thomson, will play second base and with the capable Buddy Kerr at shortstop, the Giants should have a great doubleplay combination....

Hartung Hot

Hartung arrived at spring training camp with the hottest set of clippings in recent years ....a long-ball hitter with a tremendous throwing arm, Hartung is a cinch for a regular job in left field... and here's what Cleveland's Bob Feller says about him: "Put this in your hat. Hartung is a cinch to develop into one of the best hitters in the National League. Maybe not this year but certainly in another year or two."

Around And About

Bob Feller says of spring Giant hitting against him: "Well, anyhow, I've learned to scatter the hits—some inside and some outside the park." ....Billy Evans has written a book on umpiring and Joe (N. Y. World-Telegram) Williams says he is surprised the minor league boss didn't call it "The Best Jeers of My Life."

Little Benny's Note Book

I made a good idea with Puds Simkins to make our homewerk more intristing, and after supper I said to pop and ma, Hay pop, me and Puds have invented a way to make our homewerk eesier, and better by doing it together at each other house, and I'm suppose to call him up now and tell him if it'll be okay for him to come over here, and tomorrow night will be my tern to go over to his house and study. So how about it, ma? How about it, pop? I said.

I'm against it, ma said, and I said, Aw G, ma, why?

On generel principals, ma said.

Being a bum reason, and pop said, Well now, collaboration has its advantages. The boys who have the inspiration of competition, and 2 heads are better than one. Their branes would heat up faster, just as a pot boils sooner with 2 berners under it, he said, and ma said, I'm still against it.

Well aw heck, ma, why? I said, and ma said, On the same generel principals, and if you'd like me to be more specific in the way of details, I learned from Mrs. Simkins that you and Puds tried the plan out Saturday afternoon, and the collaboration consisted of one of you heating his branes while the other kept the pot from boiling too quickly by playing records of cowboy songs.

Benny, you cant beet a woman's general principals, pop said.

Which you probably cant, and I called Puds up on the telefone and told him the idea was postponed, and he claimed he was just going to call me up to tell me the same thing.

Major League Campaign Will Produce Plenty of Fireworks Even Without Leo Durocher

Nearly 20 New Rookies Will be on Hand and First Negro to Play Will Start at Brooklyn

By JOE REICHLER

New York, April 15. (AP)—Although Lippy Leo Durocher, baseball's stormiest petrel since John J. McGraw, will be conspicuous by his absence, the major league campaign beginning today is expected to produce more fireworks than any season in many years.

Already two unprecedented events are virtually certain to take place. One of the 20 new rookies expected to appear in the opening day lineups is Jackie Robinson, who when he trots out to his first base position for Brooklyn Dodgers, will become the first Negro to play in the major leagues since the turn of the century.

The same club, in all likelihood, will be without the services of a full-time manager, something that has never happened before on a season's inaugural. Stunned by the banishment of Durocher by Commissioner A. B. Chandler last Wednesday, President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers has had insufficient time to get an able replacement.

Rickey yesterday confirmed an Associated Press report that he has asked Joe McCarthy, the former New York Yankee skipper to take the job but had been turned down.

Leading Candidates

Clyde Sukeforth, manager pro-tem in the last three exhibition games, was slated to direct the team today. While Sukeforth continues on a day-to-day basis, conjecture over the new manager runs rampant. The leading candidates at this moment are Bill Terry, former New York Giants pilot; Pepper Martin, Brooklyn Scout; Ray Blades, Current Dodger coach, and Clay Hopper, Montreal manager.

More than one club starts the season without its full strength. The Yankees, for instance, will be handicapped without Joe Dimaggio, their No. 1 hitter. The great centrefielder, recovering from an operation on his heel, is expected to be out until May 15, at the earliest.

Detroit Tigers were slated to start without Dick Wakefield, the power hitter. The personality kid pulled a muscle and will miss several games.

First baseman Elbie Fletcher's leg injury has caused manager Billy Herman of Pittsburgh to change his winter plans which had Hank Greenberg, his big home run hitter, in left field. The former Tiger slugger and American League home run king last year has been happy about his change from first base to the outfield but must return to his former position until Fletcher is ready to take over.

World Champion wrestler "Whipper" Billy Watson who makes his debut in Memorial Arena here on Friday night. He meets the popular Earl "Moose" McCready, a favorite with the fans here, and the match should be a worthy opener for the 1947 wrestling season.

ANCASTER SCHOOL BURNS

Hamilton, April 14 — (CP) — Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed an 111-year-old public school at nearby Ancaster. Included in the loss was a minute book covering public school affairs in Ancaster for more than a century.

School authorities sought emergency accommodation for the 150 pupils who were to have returned to the school today after Easter holidays.

School Board official said the Ontario Fire Marshal would be asked to investigate the origin of the blaze.

ROCHESTER WINGS CLUTTERED WITH MANY ROOKIES

Sports Writer Does Not See How Team Can Figure in League Race

Rochester, N. Y. April 15 — (AP) — The Rochester Red Wings of 1947 are a typical St. Louis Cardinal farm team, cluttered with rookies.

Years ago a team loaded with Cardinal rookies meant something. Things are not that way anymore. For the last five years Rochester has failed to figure in the International League race because the Cardinals insisted on loading up the Wings with too many youngsters. The same state of affairs exists again this year. If Rochester figures in the International League pennant race it will be a surprise.

Cedric Durst, a former New York Yankee player who piloted the Quincy club for the Yankee system last season, is the new boss of the Rochester club. He succeeds Benny Borgmann who took over for Burleigh Grimes in the middle of the 1946 campaign.

The Rochester pitching with such veterans as Glenn Gardner, Bud Byerly, Roy Yochin, Max Surkont, Howie Krist, a former St. Louis hurler and big John Mikan, a southpaw, is the big hope in the Rochester camp. Gardner and Byerly were Rochester mainstays last year.

The Wings are rather inept in the infield. With Eddie Joost and Danny Murtaugh, their two big guns of 1946, now in the majors, a combination of newcomers and youngsters will mould this year's inner defence.

Russ Derry, former Philadelphia Athletic player, will play left field for the Wings. Tommy O'Brien, a former Pittsburgh Pirate flychaser will be in right field and Vernon Benson, who started in centre field for the Athletics in the 1946 American League campaign will be the Wings' other fielder.

HERSHEY BEARS NEED ONE GAME TO COP TITLE

Play Pittsburgh Hornets in Chocolate Town in Seventh and Deciding Game

There will be rejoicing among Pennsylvania's hockey fans tonight, but whether it will be in the small chocolate town of Hershey or the steel city of Pittsburgh will depend on the outcome of the seventh and deciding game of the Calder Cup finals for the American Hockey League championships.

Neither club has ever won the A.H.L. Crown although the Bears from Hershey battled through to the playoff finals three times since entering the League in 1938. Pittsburgh's Hornets reached the finals only once—in 1940.

The Bears have staged an amazing comeback after dropping three of their first four playoff games to the fast-moving Hornets. The Bears, virtually with their backs to the wall, blanked Pittsburgh last Thursday, and evened up the series at three games apiece with a win at Pittsburgh last Saturday night.

Back on home ice tonight the Bears are confident they will win.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Dashing "Whippah" Billy Watson, Pride of East York and the darling of wrestling fans hereabouts as well as the canyons of Toronto and other points, will make his Belleville debut as world champion on Friday night. And opposing him will be another Belleville favorite Earl "Moose" McCready. The Whippah is going great guns since he won the world's title from Wild Bill Longson, and his large following in this district will likely be on hand to root the "Whip" to another victory.

• • •

He has just finished an extended tour of the sunny south and he has left a wake of defeated pachyderms and an occasional draw. Watson has proved himself a very popular champion since he defeated Longson and he appears headed for a lengthy stay on the golden road of those who travelled it to the top. Longson held the title for almost five years and is reported to have netted between $50,000 and $75,000 during that period.

Manager Walt Gerow has provided two other attractive bouts for the season curtain raiser on Friday, all of them old favorites. Back again will be Toar Morgan, the Lindsay Lion who will clash with "Bulldog" Drummond and Al. "Krusher" Korman who tangles with Billy Stack in the preliminary. It looks like a gala first-night for the faithful.

Tonight, the Belleville and District Baseball Association will hold its annual meeting in Memorial Arena and plenty of work is expected to be done. Election of officers for 1947 will take place and there are plenty of other items on the agenda. Representatives of teams, players and fans etc., are requested to turn out so that the 1947 baseball baby hereabouts can be garbed in its new 1947 apparel and ready to step out. The meeting is scheduled to start at 7:30.

There are eight classes from flyweight to heavyweight.

Trenton Flyers fought brilliantly against the starry Windsor Alumni basketball squad on the air station court on Saturday night but the handicap of 37 points was too large to overcome. The Flyers were not the team that absorbed a 72-35 shellacking in Windsor last week and outplayed their conquerors to win by 49-40, hardly enough to pull the series out of the fire. Windsor now meets Timmins or Sault Ste Marie in the Intermediate "B" finals.

• • •

Flyers were worthy representatives of the Bay of Quinte Intermediate loop and played consistently good basketball throughout the schedule. They nosed out the Belleville "Y" squad, early season choice for the title, and went on to eliminate the strong Leaside Lions team. They fell by the wayside in Windsor, getting one of the periodical bad games out of their system, but came back, hardly strong enough to defeat the strong Border City quintet. They are to be commended, however, on their fine showing which brought plenty of basketball publicity to the shores of the Bay of Quinte.

Softball interests in the city and district are awaiting the call for the annual meeting which should be held in the immediate future, if any 1947 activity is to take place. The Belleville Softball Association was affiliated with the OASA at that body's annual conclave on Good Friday, and as there are reports of a number of teams ready to join, some sort of action should take place before the cabbages come to a head. A meeting was called for Wednesday of last week, but nothing of an official nature happened.

Tonight in Maple Leaf Gardens the Leafs and Canadiens join battle again in their quest for the battered Stanley Cup. Canadiens must win the tilt if they want to keep on the right side of the boys with the odds. On the other hand if the Day aggregation cop the joust they will be odds-on favorites to win the mug. Saturday night the warriors paid strict attention to the business of hockey, forgetting for the time, at least, any mayhemic tendencies and relegating to the limbo of temporarily forgotten things the series-honored custom of bloodletting. It should be a classic as Canadiens will have their backs to the wall of they lose. On the other hand the Leafian gang are just as anxious to get the thing over, and will skate on the ice with that idea in mind.

While with the Milwaukee club, Johnny Price had a trick bat he used in exhibition games. It was hollow and had a trap door. He would step up to the plate with his bat and manage to get into an argument with the umpire. Then he would shake the bat, spring the trap door, and one of his pets squeezed through the opening, right under the umpire's nose.

ST. MIKES READY TO MEET CANUCKS AT WINNIPEG

Teams Met in 1945 With the Irish Winning the Series Four Games to One

Winnipeg, April 15 — (CP) — For the second time in three years Toronto St. Michael's Majors and Moose Jaw Canucks today were preparing to meet in a Memorial Cup final. First game of their best-of-seven series will be played here tonight, with the second game billed for Moose Jaw Thursday.

The last time the two teams tangled in the final series leading to Dominion junior hockey supremacy, in 1945, St. Mikes set back the Saskatchewan team four games to one. Last year the Irish again reached the finals, but were tumbled by an aggressive Winnipeg Monarch squad.

Dates of all games were settled last night by Al Pickard, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. He turned down a request by Edmonton to have one game played there, his refusal based on the fact that "the heavy travelling involved does not meet with the approval of the Association or the club."

Gus Mortson May Miss Game With Canadiens But Richard Will Take Place With Team

Selke and Irvin Figure the Habitants Will Bounce Back Into Win Column

Toronto, April 15 (CP)—The little old lady sitting with her knitting outside Maple Leaf Gardens last night knew what she was waiting for.

Perched on a camp stool and wrapped in a plaid blanket to ward against the nightlong wait, the lady admitted to 60 years—and with maidenly modesty witheld her name. But she had it all figured out.

"Sure and after our Leafs beat that Dick Irvin tomorrow night all they'll have to do is win the next game in Montreal and they're Stanley Cup champions," she said. "Why, that means this is the last game we'll see here."

Others in the crowd that started forming at 6 a.m. last night 14 hours before the box office opened to dispose of a paltry few hundred tickets reserved for public sale, weren't quite so definite about it.

The big question was just how much difference the return of Maurice Richard would make to the Canadiens, behind 2-1 in games and desperately needing a victory before the best-of-seven round swings back to Montreal Thursday night.

Richard Ready to Go

Coach Dick Irvin said his starry right winger, suspended for Saturday night's game here for cutting two Toronto heads open with his stick, was all set to go.

The rest of the Canadiens were in fine fettle. Kenny Reardon, whose foot injury caused him to miss the first two games of the series, was skating like a whirlwind. Everything looked rosy enough in fact to cause manager Frank Selke to comment: "I think we'll win tomorrow night's game."

The Leafs who won the last two contests 4-0 and 4-2 after dropping the opener 6-0, were not quite so sure of their player strength.

Three players missed their workout yesterday, all nursing hurts. They were rookie defenceman Garth Boesch and Gus Mortson and centre Ted (Teeter) Kennedy.

Kennedy, nursing a bad cold, and Boesch, resting up a bothersome groin injury, were pretty definite starters. But Mortson was having an arm-injury X-rayed and may miss the contest.

HAMILTON TIGERS SCORE THREE IN TEN MINUTES

Third Period Explosion Enoug to Defeat Moncton Hawks by 5 to 4 Count

By IAN MacNEIL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 15 — (CP) — Hamilton's resurgent Tigers, a team of veteran opportunists who knew when to explode into life today were in the Eastern Canada Allan Cup finals and gloating over the three-goal explosion that flew away Moncton Hawks' chances 5-4

The blast came in the last ten minutes of the eastern semi-final here last night after 4,000 roaring fans, who had watched the Maritime champions skate rings around the Tigers for two periods, saw the Moncton free-wheelers rap in two fast goals for a 4-2 lead.

Then the lightning struck. Pierre Cadieux broke away with Dillon Brady and Bill Dinning to fire home the first counter. A minute later Clarence Shillington banged in his third goal of the night on a fireball pass from Johnny Conick. That equalizer seemed to breathe new life into Tigers and a little over a minute later the winner rattled into the net from the stick of Bill Dinning.

That three-goal splurge gave Hamilton the best-of-five series 3-0 and sent them into the finals against either Sherbrooke, St. Francis or Montreal Royals.

Up to the third period the game looked even with the score tied 2-2 at the end of the second.

The first goal of the night at 8:57 of the second period, went to Shillington. The free-skating Hawks promptly tied it up three minutes later. Shillington then teamed up with Johnny Conick and Bob Laurent to send the Tigers ahead. Carrying the play to the Ontario champions Hawks then equalized on a goal by veteran Sammy McManus.

After Whitlock rammed in a pass from Charlton, Sammy took Buck Trainor's shot and deflected it to Poirier who rapped it in for the final Moncton goal. That was the shot that started the Tiger explosion.

PETERBOROUGH CAGERS WIN

Ottawa, April 15 (CP)—Peterborough Outboard Marines shaded Rube Molot's B'Nai B'Rith 48-44 in the first of a two-game total point intermediate basketball game here last night. The second game will be played tomorrow night with the Marines holding a four-point edge.

Winners of the series will meet Moncton, N.B., April 18 and 19 in another two-game total point affair for the Canadian intermediate semi-finals.

The Marines capitalized on speed and firing accuracy in the second half of the play when the score was deadlocked 44-44. G. Burnes basket late in the second half broke the deadlock and they never looked back. E. Levitan led the Capital City champions in a brief rally in the late stages of the second half but he was too well checked by the opposing team.

B'Nai B'Rith had a 22-20 advantage in the first half but saw their lead slip away with G. Nicholls' scoring on an end to end dash.

Nicholls was high-scorer for the visitors with 19 points while J. Stewart collected 11 and W. Edger eight. E. Levitan set the pace for Rube Molot's boys with 16 points while R. Saslove collected 14.

The teams:

Peterborough—J. Stewart (11); E. Nicholls (19); B. Edger (8); C. Gillespie (0); G. Burns (4); A. Stewart (0); R. Kidd (4); W. Smith (2); A. Menzies (0); D. McPherson (0); Total 48.

Ottawa—I. Shapero (2); R. Saslove (14); E. Levitan (16); N. Torontow (2); M. Goldfield (2); B. Blacher (3); J. Bodnoff (4); H. Feller (0); A. Mosion (1); B. Segal (0); Total 44.

Referees—Lorne Gillespie and Don Keill.

WINNIPEG FLYERS BEAT STAMPEDERS IN THIRD GAME

Underdogs at Start of the Series Team Needs Only Game to Travel East

Winnipeg, April 15 — (CP) — Winnipeg Flyers, underdogs at the start of their Western Canada senior hockey final against the powerful Calgary Stampeders, today are within one game of the title.

Flyers edged the 1946 Allan Cup champions 3-2 here last night to take a 2-1 lead in games in the best-of-five series. The fourth game will be played here Wednesday night with Calgary, who scored a lop-sided 10-3 win in the opener, still favored to take the contest. Flyers won the second game 2-1 at Calgary.

More than 5,000 hockey - mad fans saw the Flyers, after a scoreless first period, pull into the lead in the last few minutes of the second, then hold their opponents on even terms at two goals apiece in the final session.

Sam Fabro, playoff replacement, Jack Kernahan and Clint Albright tallied for Flyers while Joe Fisher, also a replacement, and Ken (Red) Hunter were the Calgary marksmen.

Although the crowd was loud in its cheers for the three scoring aces, Don (Red) McRae, playing with a broken wrist suffered in the opening game at Calgary, was hailed as the "player-of-the-night."

McRae, used a great deal but at brief intervals, set up Kernahan for the first goal of the game and turned in a brilliant all-round display. Don Raleigh, Flyer centre, also received his share of bouquets, turning in two assists.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By VIC MORRIS Jr.

Montreal, April 15 — (CP) — Toronto's public enemy No. 1, Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens, who "blew a fuse" last Thursday and dented the conning towers of two Toronto players in an alleged scalping attempt, "is so fed up, he talks about quitting hockey and buying a farm where he can settle down," says Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll.

"No kidding, he does," says Dink, "He wants to buy a farm where he can spend the rest of his days on this mortal soil . . . watching the evening sun go down."

Richard, who rapped Vic Lynn and Bill Ezinicki over the noggins here last Thursday in the second game of the Stanley Cup finals which Toronto won 4-0, was subsequently fined $250 and suspended for one game by National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell. The incident created a controversy between Montreal and Toronto sports scribes who in their daily columns have been expressing many varied opinions and aspects of the "noggin rapping."

Dink says there has been a "lot of nonsense" talked and written since the series "with the Toronto papers contributing more than their share."

..Dink writes:

"Tommy Munns, sports editor of the Globe and Mail apparently thinks Irvin is ready for a straight jacket . . . that he has become a fanatic under the strain of his hockey duties . . . and quoted him (Irvin) as saying the series would not be decided by the better team — it would be decided by 'God'."

Jim (Globe and Mail) Coleman is also taken over the coals by Carroll for suggesting that Clarence Campbell censure Montreal sport scribes for making a national issue of the injury sustained by Elmer Lach in a game in Montreal earlier in the season. Lach fractured his skull in a collision with Don Metz and has been sidelined since.

Says Carroll: "That's a dandy, isn't it? So the National League is now to tell us what we can write and what we can't write. . .

CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Windsor, Ont., April 14 (CP)— Cyril James Williams, 26, was charged today with manslaughter in the death a few hours earlier of Mrs. Geraldine McMillan, 24, fatally injured in an automobile accident on east-side Wyandotte Street.

Police said the woman was a passenger in a car driven by Williams. The vehicle crashed into a parked truck.

Williams appeared in court and was freed on $5,000 bail until April 21.

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 16

Eventually the moment came for Freda to dance with Bill. And as they danced they said what Freda had known they would say—that the dance was a great success, that old Mr. Lane who handled it certainly handled it well, that the sprinkling of uniforms added color and dignity and that a drink at the bar was certainly preferable to being stepped on by the younger generation not content with straight dancing.

The bar was so crowded and noisy that Bill asked, "Shall we take our drinks and go out, Freda?"

"Let's do. This is a madhouse."

The night was clear and warm as they walked down the steps to the pier.

Bill asked, "Did little Ian go to camp this Summer?"

"Yes. He'll be home next week. I'm going up for him and I promised him we'd fly back. He's terribly thrilled about that."

"I suppose he's grown a lot."

"Like a weed he's about as skinny as a weed. He's too active to keep any flesh on him."

"He's a fine boy."

Bill had always romped with little Ian, and to the boy Bill was hero. He had once told Freda, "When I grow up, I want shoulders like Bill's."

Freda said, "One of his greatest ambitions is to grow as big as you."

Bill chuckled and they walked on a little way before he spoke again.

Freda, how is Carol?"

Her heart gave a little jerk. "She's fine. Perfectly fine."

"I never hear anything about her," he said. His voice was low and he kept his eyes ahead. "People never mention her to me. I suppose...it embarrasses them."

"Naturally. They also know that it would embarrass you."

"It seems queer that we live in the same town and never run into each other."

"It happened last Spring with pretty painful results...If you remember." She thought, "I won't say too much even if I have to bite my tongue."

"Yes, I remember. It was.... ghastly. It was my fault. I didn't think..."

Freda said, "She's working. Since June she's been doing volunteer social work at the General Hospital and loves it. She isn't taking anybody else's job, but rather lightening the work of the other people there. She does a little bit of everything, typing, making appointments, filling the case histories. She's met a lot of new people, doctors and their wives, and the reason she isn't here tonight is because she was invited for the weekend by some of the hospital people."

"I see," Bill said slowly. "I thought she and Scott."

"That still goes on," Freda said. There's a millionaire in Detroit who'd marry her in a minute and there's a perfectly fascinating man she met on a cruise.

"There's nothing like freedom to make a woman realize her attractions, if any. Husbands are so apt to be aware of your good points, but prefer to call attention to your bad ones. Carol has lost the married look that most married women have. It's that look of contentment and knowing where you are going to be this time next year."

"I see," he said again. "I'm glad she's making out so well. I'm glad she's—happy."

"Who said anything about her being happy?" Freda thought.

Bill said, "You must think I've been an awful heel."

She stopped still and looked up at him. "I'm not thinking that you're a heel at all, Bill," she said. "But I am thinking that you are a man coming out of a fever. I had a high fever once just after little Ian was born. I had the craziest thoughts and sensations. I was crazy. But one night the fever broke and the next morning I woke up with a clear head. It was like being dead and being in hell and then coming back to my good life again. I've complained a lot less since then. I've wanted a lot less and I've been a lot more tolerant of other people. Because that morning I knew I was a lucky woman. I knew I had everything in the world to make a woman happy. I had Ian and my son and ever since then they have been my whole world."

"I'm sorry for you, Bill. What a pity you couldn't look at Evelyn and admire her as one admires a beautiful, inanimate thing without wanting to possess it. You've traded a flesh-and-blood woman with a mind for a piece of statuary! You traded understanding and sympathy and companionship and a million other little things that would have enriched you for the rest of your life for a beautiful thing! Bill, you're a fool if you think that passion will last. Because passion is bound to die. Passion doesn't hold a marriage together, but sympathy and understanding and companionship and those million little things do. You have only to look into the eyes of a father looking at his child to know the greater thing you sacrificed.

"No, you're not a heel. You're a man I like a lot. And you've been honest with everyone except yourself. You're not a heel, a fool. Only a fool doesn't know the real from the false. Evelyn isn't your wife, Bill. She never has been your wife and she will never be your wife and she will never be the mother of your child. Evelyn is only your mistress."

Shaking with a cold fury, she turned and left him.

Bill stood still, hearing the sound of her tall gold heels hurrying away from him.

He felt as though he had been hit squarely between the eyes with the truth. With the ghastly truth that he had not faced, but which had been slowly, insidiously creeping into his consciousness and which he knew that some day he must face. The truth about Evelyn and him, the frightening truth that he could not go back, that no one can ever go back, that he had made a mistake so big and so involved that there was no way to save Evelyn and him from the most tragic of all man-woman relationships—all passion spent, leaving nothing. His throat ached.

You can never go back except in your thoughts. And to go back to the time preceding the divorce was to see himself as a man he did not know, a man devoid of reason a man in a fever. Only until now did he realize how much he had hurt Carol and how necessary she had been to him in the thousand and one little ways in which Evelyn had failed.

He thought, "This is all because Evelyn forgot to pack my dress shirt. That's what started me thinking. And Freda made me go on."

Evelyn had not packed his dress shirt and he had lost his temper while dressing tonight. "Why in hell didn't you bring it" he had demanded in the small, hot cabin. "You knew I had to have it for tonight." And Evelyn had shrugged and said, "Why, Bill, I simply forgot it. Borrow one from Tom." In the end he had had to borrow Tom's which was too large and made him feel sloppy.

Evelyn had not packed his shirt and by her forgetfulness of that seeming inconsequential thing, he had begun to think of things he had tried not to think about.

When with the natural instinct to blame another, he began to blame Evelyn for the divorce, he knew he was being unfair. Had she pursued him? Had she thrown herself at him? Had she suggested the divorce and their marriage? No. Evelyn had simply accepted that for which he had paved the way and at what cost to Carol he was only beginning to suspect.

He thought, "It's just because I'm all out of sorts tonight over that damned shirt. I'll go back and try to forget the whole thing."

Straightening, he lighted a cigarette and walked rather briskly down the pier. But his thoughts wouldn't let him go back to the dance. His thoughts pursued him, dragging his steps now, pulling down his shoulders and finally stopping him altogether...He stood still and looked down the river at the chain of lights and let his thoughts nibble at him.

"Evelyn has failed," he thought. "No, that's not fair. I've failed, too. She hadn't been like Carol and Carol set a standard Evelyn couldn't live up to. It's unfair of me to think that two women can be alike.

"What does a successful marriage boil down to? What makes it tick? Not holding hands and kissing but—but packing a man's shirt when he needs it and having his meals on time and managing money so that you don't wonder about it, but know that she has stretched it as far as it will go... It's reminding you that your insurance is due and that the office called when you were playing golf and that you've got to play down to the boss' wife...It's those things, those darned little things that make up the routine of a man's life, these same little things that Evelyn doesn't understand."

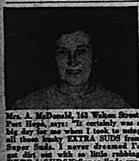
His earnest hope that Evelyn and Thelma would be great friends he had seen smashed almost from the very beginning. Evelyn had said, something thoughtlessly wrong and Thelma had been made to feel small. He knew that Thelma had been made to feel that she had come far in the world for one who had begun so small. Evelyn had said, "But, of course, women like you who have worked have ideas entirely different from mine. Our backgrounds have been so different."

From that moment on he had been tensely on guard whenever they were together, trying to listen to Tom all the while he was certain he must slip in a pleasant word now and then to ease the friction between the two wives. Then very carefully he had explained the situation to Evelyn who had looked quite shocked and sorry and had said, "But, Bill, I've been very sweet to Thelma. Really, I have been. I haven't done the slightest thing to offend her." It was impossible to explain to Evelyn that she consistently irritated Thelma just by being herself.

Now his job worried him, know Thelma's strong influence upon Tom. Thelma would speak of her acute dislike for Evelyn and Tom would take measures. Very subtly of course. But Tom never refused his wife anything. maybe it would be in the nature of a demotion or maybe he would be fired altogether.

What would he do? In a spasm of generosity because he had wanted no delay about the divorce he had settled upon Carol almost the whole of his inheritance, thinking that he and Evelyn could live quite comfortable on his salary with Carol's alimony coming out of it monthly. He was sure to get increases all along. But he had found Evelyn admittedly incapable of handling money.

She had said, "Bill, just let me charge everything. I'm sure I'd be no good with a checking account of my own." But the bills! He wondered how Carol had managed on the allowance he had given her to run the house, entertain guests and clothe herself. It seemed so small by comparison to what Evelyn had been spending. But what he did understand and that very regretfully was that he, for the first time in his life, was living far beyond his means with the frightening prospect of losing his job or taking a demotion and a "cut," all because Evelyn was simply being herself.



Mrs. A. McDonald, 163 Walton Street, Port Hope, says: "It certainly was a big day for me when I took to using all those husky EXTRA SUDS from Super Suds. I never dreamed I'd get dirt out with so little rubbing. EXTRA-SUDSY Super Suds sure proved to me that the more suds you have the less work you have to do to get things clean."

Thank you, Mrs. McDonald, for your swell letter. You see, Ladies, Super Suds is Concentrated. Super Suds actually gives you far more washing-power ... livelier, richer suds, without hard rubbing. And Super Suds costs no more than ordinary washday soap.

BRITAIN'S BUDGET

000) while revenue from all sources was £3,341,000,000. This resulted in a deficit of £569,000,000, which Dalton said was £157,000,000 "less than I thought."

Expenditures during the April 1-March 31 fiscal year, he estimated in his annual budget message, will be £3,181,000,000, 19 per cent under the cost of running the government during the 12 months ended March 31.

Spending on the army, navy and air forces will be 46 per cent less than last year. Estimated defence expenditures will be £899,000,000, a reduction of £754,000,000.

"We count on a further substantial reduction next year," he said.

Dalton said the "recoil" toward a balanced budget had been faster than expected and said:

"That is not a bad starting point for today's excursion."

Treasury receipts were almost exactly £1,184,000,000 despite the fact that £52,000,000 had been lost on beer taxes due to the shortage of barley.

The loss on beer was almost exactly balanced by a series of surpluses of tobacco, entertainments, purchase tax and import duties.

Tobacco, Dalton said, brought in £466,000,000 — £21,000,000, more than originally estimated.

Income Tax Yield Higher

The income tax £1,158,000,000 produced £45,000,000 more than had been expected and the excess profits tax the profits tax, stamps and death duties all topped the estimates, bringing inland revenue to £1,777,000,000—a surplus of £91,000,000.

With miscellaneous revenue, Dalton was able to announce total revenue from all sources as £3,344,000,000 — £160,000,000 more than the estimate.

Against this total expenditure was £1,910,000,000, or £23,000,000 more than last April's estimate producing the announced deficit of £569,000,000.

Summing up the expenditures Dalton said defence cost £1,653,000,000—a saving of £14,000,000 on the estimate.

Social services cost £441,000,000, or £117,000,000 more than the previous years.

The British zone of Germany cost £39,000,000 more than the original estimate of £80,000,000 to feed and administer.

Greece had cost £19,000,000 "more than we had bargained for."

Food imports cost £50,000,000 more than the estimate.

There would be a substantial saving on the lease and operation of ships. U.N.R.R.A. would cost only £1,000,000, instead of £90,000,000.

New Soybean Seed To be Distributed

Ottawa, April 15 (CP)— The Central Experimental Farm said today it was entrusting 30 precious bushels of Capital soybean seed, a newly-developed, high-yielding strain, to registered seed growers who hope to multiply it 30-fold for distribution to Ontario farmers.

The new variety, developed by F. Dimmock of the forage crops division of the farm, is rich in oil matures early, has a high yield and is easy to harvest. It has been designed especially for central and eastern Ontario.

Approximately 90 per cent of Canada's war-expanded soybean acreage is in southern Ontario, with most of the remainder grown in Manitoba and central and eastern Ontario. However, production in eastern and central Ontario has lagged because of lack of market and the risk of early frosts.

Increased industrial capacity to extract soybean oil has solved the marketing problem and the development of the capital variety with its early maturity has overcome the frost hazard.

Gruner Still Alive Says His Counsel, Answering Rumor

Jerusalem, April 15 (Reuters) —Dov Bela Gruner, 33-year-old Jewish Terrorist under death sentence, was still alive today, according to his counsel Max Seligman who is planning to visit him in his cell tomorrow.

Rumors had swept Palestine earlier that he had been executed "secretly" today, although an application to appeal to the privy council was lodged by his lawyer late last night in London.

Yesterday Gruner, with three other condemned terrorists, had been moved from Jerusalem to Acre—the execution jail.

Execution of Gruner would result in widespread renewel of terrorism, it was feared as Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish terrorist organization, had threatened to "kill seven British officers for every man who goes to the gallows."

DIES IN HOUSEBOAT HOME FIRE

Burlington, April 15 — (CP)— When fire gutted the house-boat which he built and on which he had lived practically a hermit's life, 65-year-old Fred Jarvis was trapped in the flames and died early today. He had been a life-long resident of Burlington.

Fishermen who were forced to chop a hole in the side of the boat to gain entrance, found Jarvis' body huddled at the bow near an exit which he apparently tried to reach. It is believed he was overcome by smoke. The body was charred almost beyond recognition.

Later, Mrs. Wigdon, who is planning to leave next month with their five-months-old son to join her husband, was asked if it was an emergency call.

"In a way it was," she replied. "My husband wanted me to be sure and take the washing machine with me. There are no proper facilities in Tokyo to wash baby diapers."

Two-Year Term for Aldermen Declared Valid by Solicitor

The legality of the present two-year term for which city aldermen are elected was the topic of considerable discussion in council Monday evening following the reading of a report from City Solicitor A. B. Collins regarding his recent interview with Department of Municipal Affairs on the matter. The letter follows:

"Complying with your letter of the 11th inst. for a statement respecting the interview with the Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs pertaining to the manner in which members of Belleville council had been elected since the enactment of the by-law providing for a two-year term for aldermen; please permit me to report as follows:

A deputation, consisting of His Worship the Mayor, Alderman Chamberlain, Mr. Bateman and the writer, waited upon the Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs at his office in the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, at which time by-laws number 4001 and 5009 were placed before the Deputy Minister. By-law number 4001 provided for the submission to the electors at the municipal election of December 4, 1944, of the questions propounded by the council pertaining to the election of aldermen. It will be recalled that the 1944 council authorized that the opinion of the electorate be obtained as to whether or not the electors favored the election of aldermen for a two-year term instead of electing them year after year as had always been done theretofore.

Bearing upon the two-year term the council adopted for a vote of the electors the following question, namely:—

"Are you in favor of a two-year term for aldermen under the following conditions?
1. That one half the aldermen shall come up for election each year.
2. That the first seven aldermen elected for 1945 shall automatically be elected for the first two-year term and the remainder for one year only."

The vote which followed taken at the annual municipal election held in 1944 showed that a majority of the electors, who had exercised the franchise, voted in the affirmative. Thereafter in August, 1945, the council pursuant to the vote of the electors passed by-law number 5009, for the purpose of giving effect to the will of the electors as expressed upon the question hereinbefore set forth. Following the vote of the electors upon the question and the council's subsequent enactment of by-law number 5009, the one half of the aldermen receiving the highest number of votes continued in office for two years, and at each election thereafter one half of the number of aldermen of the Belleville City Council are elected for a two-year term.

Following a review of the situation the Deputy Minister stated that the legislation contemplated the filling of all offices for which the electorate vote.

The Deputy Minister suggested that if The Council of The Corporation of the City of Belleville desired to continue the procedure adopted pursuant to by-law number 5009 it should apply to the Legislature for the enactment of a Private Bill validating the procedure now in practice.

It may be recalled that when the by-law was prepared, following the result of the vote taken on the question submitted in the election of December, 1944, it was suggested that it would be advisable to ask for validation by a special act of Parliament but the suggestion was not acted upon and your council has since carried on pursuant to the by-law which was passed in the year 1945 following the vote taken in December, 1944.

Yours very truly,
City Solicitor.

To a question by Alderman Allin Mr. Collins replied that he had received no instructions to carry out the suggestion of the Department to have the by-law validated. Mr. Collins made no committal, however, to a question from Alderman Allin if half of the council were sitting illegally. He stated that at the time the by-law was passed it was valid according to the wishes of the people and was prepared according to municipal regulations as then existed.

"There is absolutely no point to this whole discussion," interjected Alderman Follwell. "The by-law was admirably prepared and passed by the people and we still have had no objection from the ratepayers.

"What about the Property Owners' Association?" asked Alderman Allin, referring to a recommendation passed by that organization at a recent meeting.

"If they want to take any action there is a proper place for them to do it," returned Alderman Follwell.

Alderman Clarke was of the same opinion as Alderman Follwell. "Until someone questions our right to sit in council, we'll sit, that's all."

SUPER BATTLESHIP TOWS SMALL BOAT

San Diego, Calif., April 15 — (AP) — The little fishing boat Mabel Jo, with four aboard, hoisted a distress signal when the engine failed several miles off San Diego Bay entrance and — the super battleship U. S. S. Iowa came to the rescue.

The Iowa launched a small boat and the boat towed the Mabel Joe safely to port.

RAFT CLAIMS HE WAS 'ON THE DEFENSIVE'

Los Angeles, April 15 — (AP)— Actor George Raft, answering a $300,000 damage suit, contended he was "on the defensive" rather than the aggressor during a conference with the complainant, Edward Raiden, a lawyer. The lawyer alleged in his suit against Raft and others filed last Dec. 13 that Raft pummelled him while Joe Gray held him as Gray's brother, Mack Gray, looked on in the apartment of actress Betty Doss.

HANDS AT WORK . . .
LEARNING TO WELD

ONTARIO'S future prosperity depends directly on a sufficient volume of production to satisfy domestic needs and assure for Canada a pre-eminent place in the markets of the world. Take the metal trades for example . . . never before has the demand, both here and abroad, for the products of Ontario's metal industries been so great. Production must be increased . . . but to meet new production goals, skilled hands are needed. For them great opportunities lie ahead. Higher wages, job security, better working conditions are within easier reach of those who have mastered a skilled occupation.

Today, through the plan sponsored by the Department of Veterans' Affairs and other agencies, hundreds of young workers are being trained to meet the needs of the metal trades. Graduates of these rehabilitation courses are now ready to take their places in Ontario's industry. Available to you are veterans, well started on the road to skilled metal working trades such as tool making, blacksmithing, machine operation, iron working, pattern making, welding and forging. Seek them out with confidence. They are your future craftsmen.

WELDING

The Welding Course gives the student a good knowledge and practical experience of both oxy-acetylene and electric arc welding. Available at Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto and Brockville, this course includes the study of different metals and alloys. The graduate, with further practice, should become a good all round welder.

Vocational training courses are offered at training centres located in the following cities and towns in Ontario: Toronto, London, Hamilton, Kitchener, Windsor, Ft. William, Brockville, Kingston, North Bay, Ottawa, Guelph, Kemptville, Haileybury.

Old Home Week Discussed by City Council

That city council is in no way connected with the committee preparing the program for Old Home Week which is to be held in the city during the week of July 14th, was stressed by members of council at their regular meeting Monday evening.

Discussion on the matter was broached by Alderman Tice who stated that the holding of an Old Home Week this summer was ill-advised as accommodation in the city was already taxed to the limit and therefore would be no place to put two or three thousand additional persons who might visit the city. Also the alderman claimed not to be sufficient time to adequately prepare for the event and there seemed to be little enthusiasm for such an event being staged.

It was pointed out by the Alderman that city council was concerned only with the staging of the Veterans' Day program scheduled for July 14th. The Old Home Week committee had planned their program to coincide with the observance of Veterans' Day.

Ald. Vanner Agrees

Alderman Vanner agreed there was little time to prepare adequately for the Old Home Week program but asserted this should have been realized earlier, and not after considerable work had been done by the committee.

Alderman Vanner held that council should take no action to discontinue plans for the holding of Old Home Week without communicating with the committee in charge of planning the program. Alderman Duffy then outlined plans discussed at last week's meeting of the Old Home Week committee when it was suggested that the Inter-Service Club Council take over all responsibility in the matter.

No action was taken by council on the matter other than passing a recommendation from Alderman Chamberlain to the effect that the citizens be informed through the press that the city council was not in any way connected with Old Home Week and that all activities in this connection were carried on by the Old Home Week committee of interested citizens.

Council, however, was in receipt of a letter from W. C. Mikel urging that the Old Home Week be carried through. Mr. Mikel claimed that since 1877 births had exceeded deaths in Belleville by 70,000. This meant that 70,000 persons had left the city in that time, representing a loss of approximately seven million dollars to the city.

"Let's bring back those 70,000 Bellevillians to the Old Boys' Reunion in July," urged Mr. Mikel in conclusion. The letter was recommended filed.

Dancer Declares She Shot Lawyer Aboard Yacht

Havana, April 15 (AP)—Patricia Schmidt, 21-year-old Toledo, O., dancer who is billed as "Satira" in Caribbean capitals, says she shot and killed John Lester Mee, Chicago lawyer, aboard his yacht in Havana harbor a week ago after he beat her when she discovered he was married.

"We were terribly in love," she declared last night in the presence of her lawyer, Rene S. Castellanos. "He had promised to marry me."

Miss Schmidt faces indictment for homicide and under Cuban law the investigating judge, Santiago Mencia, must place some charge by noon today. Judge Mencia also must charge Charles Jackson, 27, of River Forest, Ill., by that hour or free him. Jackson was a war buddy and co-owner with Mee of the 72 foot yacht, also named Satira.

The judge already has stated that he would file a homicide charge against the dancer and would charge Jackson with concealment of facts.

There is no death penalty in Cuba and homicide sentences run from 6 to 20 years.

Miss Schmidt said she had lived aboard the Satira since January and did not learn until a month ago, when she happened to pick up some correspondence, that Mee was married.

"He became very angry and hit me on the face and body and ordered me off the boat. Then he ran out of the cabin. In a moment he came back and I thought he would kill me. I wanted to run from the cabin but he stood in the only entrance. I ran to the drawer and got the pistol and fired it blindly. He was coming toward me, I saw him fall. I ran to the door and called for help."

St. Henri Bank Robbed of $2,200 By Two Men

Montreal, April 15 — (CP) — Provincial Police last night reported two men held up the Banque Provinciale Du Canada branch at St. Henri De Mascouche yesterday and escaped with $2,200 after trussing up the manager. St. Henri is 33 miles north of Montreal.

Police said the armed men entered the bank and emptied the cashier wicket of cash after tying up manager Basil Allard, alone in the establishment at the time.

TONY GOES AMOK

London, April 15 —(CP)— Monday the 14th is unlucky for Tony Cavito, London second-hand dealer. Swollen Madawaska Breaches Cofferdam, Sets Back Work Month

Stewartville, Ont., April 15 — (CP)—Work on the new $10,000,000 Ontario Hydro-Electric power dam here, 45 miles west of Ottawa, came to a halt over the weekend when the Madawaska River, swollen by melting snow, breached the coffer dam on the site of the construction.

Officials said the work on the power project will be set back at least a month. They believe quicksand pockets beneath the temporary dam allowed water into the workings.

Majority of the 400 men working on the site have been laid off temporarily while skeleton maintenance crews carry on routine work.

"Christian Commandos" Invade London Clubs

London, April 15 (AP)—Some 3,000 self-described "Christian Commandos" opened a whirlwind invasion today of London clubs, pubs, prisons and movie houses to bring the word of God to "those who need it most."

Evangelist teams, composed of clergymen and laymen from the Church of England and all major Protestant bodies, have scheduled 12,000 meetings in a 10-day drive.

BOMB FOUND IN BRITISH COLONIAL OFFICE

Jewish Terrorists Said Responsible For Blast Attempt

War Office Searched After Threat Received

London, April 16—(AP)—Scotland Yard officers rushed to the War Office late today following a telephone threat that the building was to be blown up—threat that came a few hours after a home-made bomb, timed to explode this morning, was found in a branch of the Colonial office.

Nothing suspicious was found at the War Office which was searched thoroughly late today after an anonymous telephoner told Scotland Yard: "There is an organization which is going to blow up the war office at 1600 hours (4:00 p. m.) today."

A Colonial Office spokesman said the attempt was "part of the Jewish terrorist activities against this country."

Police said that the bomb was composed of 24 sticks of a French explosive resembling gelignite—not as powerful as they believed at first when they reported the bomb could have wrecked the entire four-storey building.

Other observers recalled that Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish extremist organization, had threatened vengeance for the execution of any of its "soldiers."

The bomb, wrapped as a brown paper parcel, was found by a staff member in a women's lavatory on the second floor of a 4-storey building used by the Colonial Office departments. The building is a short distance from the Prime Minister's residence at 10 Downing Street.

About 100 persons normally work in the building where the bomb was found, but only a few were in the section where it was discovered.

TWO MOTIONS TO DEFEAT CONTROL BILL RULED OUT

Bracken Serves Notice Conservatives Would Vote Against Bill On Second Reading

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 16 — (CP) — Two motions aimed at defeating the government's main control bill—both for different purposes — were ruled out of order yesterday as the Commons resumed debate on second reading of the omnibus measure.

The first was an amendment moved earlier by Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) which called upon the Chamber to declare itself to be opposed to the continuation of the "sweeping powers" of currently-existing boards outside the control of parliament.

Speaker Gaspard Fauteux ruled the motion out of order on the ground an amendment could not at the same time both approve the principle of a bill and enunciate a declaration of policy. His decision was supported by a vote of 124 to 53.

The second motion was an amendment moved by Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) which urged the government to institute a system of "orderly and democratic" controls which would reduce the prices of the basic necessities of life.

Motion Out of Order

Dr. Fauteux said this motion was out of order because it was substantially the same as amendments moved earlier in the session by the C. C. F. party. The decision was accepted by the CCF group without formal protest.

As the debate proceeded, John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, served notice that his party would vote against the bill on second reading as a means of protesting against the way in which the legislation was being presented.

At the House opening, Maurice Hartt, newly - elected Liberal member for Montreal Cartier, was introduced by acting Prime Minister St. Laurent and Postmaster General Bertrand and took his seat in the government benches.

Denies Right to Appeal

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) charged that under the control bill the government was continuing its denial of the right of appeal to the courts and protested the manner in which the legislation was being handled in the House.

THREE CONVICTED SENTENCED TO DIE BY STRANGULATION

Accused of Plotting Against Hungarian Republic in Effort To Establish Horthy

Budapest, April 16 — (AP) — A people's court convicted 13 persons today of plotting against the Hungarian Republic in an effort to re-establish the regime of Admiral Nicholas Horthy by armed revolt and sentenced three of them to die by strangulation.

Those condemned to die were Dr. Gyorgy Donath, a former member of parliament who was accused of being the "brains" behind the alleged conspiracy against the Hungary Republic regime, aging former Gen. Lajos Dalniki Veress, at whose home the state charged an "underground chief command" was established on Oct. 31, 1946; and Sandor Andras.

Sentenced to life imprisonment were Istvan Szent Miklossy, accused of establishing the alleged Revolutionaries economic policy; and Balint Arany, accused of being one of a committee of seven in charge of engineering the purported plot.

Given Hard Labor

The remaining eight defendants were sentenced to serve from one to 14 years at hard labor. All the sentences are subject to review by the Supreme Council of the Peoples Court.

Interior Minister Laszlo Rajk, a Communist, announced on Jan. 4 that 55 persons had been arrested in connection with the alleged plot, which he said was to have touched off the moment Russian occupation forces left the country.

Anti-Communists declared the accusations were part of a Communist "frame-up" intended to eliminate the dominant small holders party from the government.

Arany, who was sentenced to life imprisonment, organized the small holders party.

Admiral Horthy, who was Regent of Hungary for 14 years, was released from jail in Nuernberg more than a year ago, after having been held for a time as possible witness in the war crimes trials before the International Military Tribunal.

Snow and Rain General in Ontario Rest of Canada Has Spring Weather

(By The Canadian Press)

A snow storm drove northeastward across Ontario today while practically all the rest of Canada basked in spring weather. Eastern Ontario reported up to six inches of snow.

Early in the forenoon the Kentucky-born storm reached the Montreal area. It was expected to sweep down the St. Lawrence valley later in the day and to envelop the Maritimes with rain and snow by Thursday.

"It's unusual but not altogether unexpected at this time of year," said a weather forecaster at Malton, near Toronto.

Western limit of the stom area lay in Northern Ontario. Rain swept Southwestern Ontario — Windsor, London and the Niagara peninsula — and the snow belt stretched from Toronto to Montreal and included the Muskoka, Haliburton and Ottawa districts.

Forecasts indicated the weather would improve in the Toronto area by nightfall and in other parts of Ontario some time during the night.

Weather continued sunny on the west coast, where temperatures yesterday soared to 74 at Victoria and 70 in Vancouver. It was bright and clear in Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg, with the temperature in the Manitoba capital expected to rise to 50 during the day.

East of the storm area, most parts of Quebec province were overcast. The Maritimes enjoyed clear warm weather, 50 degrees above zero in Halifax, but indications were for overcast skies later in the day with perhaps high wind around the shores of Cape Breton Island.

The chilling onslaught of what everyone hoped would be the last snowstorm of the winter season caught most Ontario residents by surprise and sent them scurrying again for overcoats and rubbers.

The Peterboro-Trenton-Stirling area claimed the distinction of having the heaviest snowfall. The official depth at Peterboro was six inches, enough to warrant sending snowplows out on streets and sidewalks. Belleville reported five inches of snow overnight, Kingston and Oshawa three. Blustery, driving snow lashed Ottawa and rain was promised for the afternoon.

Farther west, Kitchener had 3½ inches of snow. Brantford, Sarnia, Stratford, Galt, Woodstock and Owen Sound reported snow and slush. Chatham had its share of the Southwestern Ontario rain.

Shortly before noon Windsor reported snow.

Poor visibility and slushy roads hampered traffic on many roads and highways. Communications services escaped lightly.

Stalin-Marshall Talk Fails to Break Any Of Deadlocks in Issue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Moscow, April 16 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told the Council of Foreign Ministers tonight Russia had no objection to completing Austria's peace treaty during the current conference. He promised his delegation would strive toward that end.

In a swiftly moving and harmonious session, the ministers rolled through 15 of the treaty's 59 clauses, agreed on a dozen of them and resolved relatively minor disputes which previously had impeded progress.

This was the first session of the council on the Austrian treaty It failed, however to raise any of the major controversies which may yet prevent completion here of the pact which is supposed to re-establish Austria as a fully independent democratic state, with Big Four guarantees to keep it independent.

In other divisions of the conference, it was reported earlier that State Secretary Marshall's 90-minute talk last night with Prime Minister Stalin failed to break any of the deadlocks which have tied the council in knots.

The chief value of Marshall's interview was believed to have been the presentation to the Soviet leader of a frank and unvarnished statement of American policy in relation to Germany, Europe and the whole trouble area of United States Russian political and diplomatic conflict.

The secretary clamped tight secrecy on the American delegation respecting his trip to the Kremlin.

It was disclosed officially that the meeting was arranged on Marshall's initiative in response to a request he had made several days ago.

Big Power Rivalry

Unless the Marshall-Stalin talk produced some wholly new and unexpected basis for agreement which has yet to be brought to light, the widespread belief that

2,200 OF N.S. WAR VETERANS TO BE TRANSFERRED

Labor Minister Accepts Challenge and Will Find Jobs in Central Canadian Industry

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 16 (CP)—Jobs in central Canadian industry were inprospect today for 2,200 unemployed Cape Breton war veterans but the mechanics of a proposed mass transfer under sponsorship of the Federal Labor Department were still to be ed out.

Suggested in the Commons by Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South), the proposal for such a move had been accepted by Labor Minister Mitchel, but indications today were that many preliminaries would have to be cleared out of the way before it became operative.

The Minister, who has the machinery to transfer unemployed at government expense to worked out. declared after the House sitting that the first move should be a registration with Cape Breton employment service officials of men willing to be moved to other sections of the country.

On the other hand, Mr. Gillis said the next move was up to the Department of Labor, and he called for information on what spots where work is available, would be paid, what arrangements the government would make to transfer Cape Bretoners and their families and what housing would be provided at their destinations.

Must Be Suitable Jobs

Further, he said, the suitability of potential jobs would have to be established.

Labor Minister Mitchell indicated any jobs provided for Cape Bretoners under the move proposed by Mr. Gillis likely would be in the hard-rock mining, construction and lumbering industries of Ontario, in which there is a shortage of manpower.

Already, the government has infused men into these industries from other areas, several hundred of them being taken from Nova Scotia.

In the House yesterday, Mr. Gillis told the Labor Minister he could "send 2,200 ex-servicemen tomorrow to any part of Canada where jobs are available" if the government would pay their transportation.

"I'll take you up on that," Mr. Mitchell assured him, and the Minister later confirmed that jobs would be provided and transportation paid for men willing to move to manpower-scarce areas.

REYNOLDS PLANE SETS NEW RECORD FOR WORLD FLIGHT

Landed at LaGuardia Field Shortly After Midnight, Trip Made in 78 Hours, 55 Minutess

New York, April 16 — (AP) — Airport crowds broke through police lines early today to welcome, with kisses and congratulations, three men whose trip around the world was the quickest ever made.

Milton Reynolds, Chicago pen manufacturer; his pilot, William Odom, and his flight engineer, T. Carroll Sallee, brought their converted A-26 bomber — the Bombshell — over La Guardia Field at 12:06.30 a. m. EST just 78 hours and 55 minutes after their takeoff last Saturday. Their unofficial record cut 12 hours and 19 minutes from the previous unofficial record.

Reynolds admitted the trip was tiring, sometimes dangerous, and "I would not make the trip again for $100,000,000." But he added jubilantly to reporters:

"We made the fastest crossing of the Atlantic ever made, in five hours and 17 minutes; we also made a record trip to Paris and Gander (Newfoundland) and maybe some other records."

The previous unofficial round-the-world flight record, 91 hours and 14 minutes, was set in 1938 by Howard Hughes and four crew members who had taken their monoplane around a shorter route

Averaged 254 Miles Per Hour

The Bombshell averaged about 254 miles an hour on its 20,020 mile flight. Taking into account 16 hours and nine minutes lost in its nine stops, the big plane averaged about 318 miles an hour while in actual flight.

Reynolds flung his arm over Odom's shoulders and told reporters:

"He is the best pilot in the world. We would not have made it with anyone else."

"No, none of that," replied the pilot. "It was just a routine flight that all airlines will be making in a few years."

Later Reynolds told reporters that the last leg of the flight, from Edmonton, was the "toughest part" and he "was worried sick" when they flew through ice and fog between Minneapolis and Detroit.

"We came out of the ice at Detroit but we didn't know where we were," the 54-year-old Chicagoan said. "We had to call Detroit and they used finders to locate us. Just then we came out of the fog and ice . . . .

"We had a half hour's gas supply left when we came over New York and brother, let me tell you I was worried."

Thousand Believed Injured When Explosion on Cargo Ship Levels City of 15,000

Report Says Poison Gas Fumes Spreading Over Area

Texas City, Tex., April 16 —(AP)— The worst explosion in Texas Gulf Coast history rocked a 100-mile area, killed an estimated 350, injured possibly 1,000 more and virtually razed this city of 15,000 today.

Poison gas was reported to be infiltrating the burning city at noon. The National Guard was called out in the area.

Doctors, nurses, police and firemen from Galveston, Houston and other nearby cities were rushed here.

The chain of explosions began on the Grand Camp, a French ship loaded with nitrate. It spread to the multimillion dollar Monsanto Chemical Corporation plant, reported a ruin following the explosion and fire.

The death and casualty estimate was made by the Galveston Tribune. Telephone communications were disrupted by the explosion, the few remaining lines being clogged with emergency calls for help.

The Grand Camp, destroyed with all men aboard by the explosion, the Tribune said, caught fire. Several hundred curious gathered at the docks to watch the fire.

When the explosion followed, many on the docks were killed. Steel beams were hurled over the city, some as far as 15 miles away.

Many of the dead were Monsanto workers.

EXPLOSION HEARD 100 MILES.

Port Arthur and Orange, about 100 miles distant, said the blast was audible there. Buildings rocked. At Pelly, 27 miles distant, a man said the sound "hurt my eardrums." Palestine, 160 miles from here, also claimed to have heard the sound.

The scene at Texas City was one of chaos. First eyewitness account came from W. H. Sandberg, vice president of the Texas City Terminal Railway Company. He had left the Grand Camp just five minutes before the initial explosion.

The following explosions, he said, jumped from the ship to the Monsanto Chemical Plant "which simply doesn't exist any more" to the Stone Oil Company and possibly to others. One piece of steel said to be from the Republic Oil Company was picked up two miles away.

Terrific concussion

"The concussion was simply terrific. It blew out windows in every home in town. It blew in cellings in business buildings. It cracked new buildings from end to end. Doors were blown from their hinges. The devastation is terrible."

Fires were still raging hours after the explosion, and no water was available to fight them.

Albert Nichols, Harris county sheriff's county dispatcher, said Texas city officials have radioed Fort Crockett, Galveston, that poison gas was infiltrating the city.

Other Texas city industries — bagging, petroleum, sulphur, shipping, tin and others — were reported burning and fire equipment from Galveston, Houston and other cities, augmented by highway patrolmen, police, sheriffs deputies, were helping maintain order as citizens walked about, dazed and stunned by the disaster.

Stone buildings in the centre of town were levelled, the Galveston Tribune said. Residents were being evacuated to avoid danger from further explosions.

Canadian Aid to Russia Fund Says Cash Collections Were Spent in Canada

Toronto, April 16 (CP)—The Canadian Aid to Russia Fund issued a statement last night emphasizing that all its monetary collections were spent in Canada, the United States and Britain for purposes of relief supplies which were delivered to Russia.

The statement flatly denied charges by Igor Gouzenko in an article in the May issue of "New World" that monies collected by the fund eventually went to Soviet agents in Canada.

"No cash whatsoever was at any time delivered to anyone representing or associated directly or indirectly with the Soviet government," said the fund statement. A month after its closing, the fund had published an audited statement Dec. 30, 1946, showing supplies totalling more than $14,000,000 were shipped to the U.S.S.R. for relief or war sufferers.

It included a statement from Hon. L. D. Wilgress, Canadian Ambassador to Moscow at the time, on March 6, 1944 when he made an inspection in Russia "has convinced me that the whole work is well organized and that everything humanly possible is being done to assure that the supplies are well distributed to those most in need of relief."

The fund's statement described as "absolutely without foundation" Gouzenko's assertion that "with one hand the Soviet government received money from the Canadian public while with the other hand it pays off secretly thousands and thousands of dollars to its agents in Canada."

The federal government in an official statement Feb. 19, 1946, when the first press report appeared concerning alleged Soviet espionage in Canada, had issued a statement declaring the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund was not in any way involved and adding "never at any time was it thought or suspected that the fund or anyone promoting it had any connection with the Soviet government or movement."

The fund's statement was signed by J. S. McClean, chairman at its inception, and Clifford Sifton, vice-chairman at its inception; J. A. Northey, recent chairman, and H. F. Skey national treasurer.

Queen Elizabeth, 83,000-Ton Liner, Pulled off Bank

London, April 16 (AP)—The Press Association said Tuesday night that tugs had pulled the massive liner Queen Elizabeth off the sandbar on which she had been stuck outside Southampton harbor for 24 hours.

The report said the liner, largest ever constructed, moved slowly off Bramble Bank eight miles from Southampton at high tide at about 6:30 p.m. (1:30 p.m. EST).

Onlookers from the shore saw the ship disappear from view in the fog a few seconds after she had slipped off the sandbank, the Press Association said.

Baby in Carriage Scratched on Face By Two Children

Toronto, April 16. (CP) — Asleep in his carriage on the verandah of his home, seven-months-old Carry Arnett was attacked by two seven-year-old children and received a dozen scratches about his face before being saved by 15-year-old Betty Simpson, who was passing on the street.

Mrs. Allan Arnett, mother of the child, said blood was running down Carry's face when she went to the door. The two children "punched the baby so that his nose was bleeding, his face swoollen and the doctor tells us his eye is now seriously infected." Penicillin was used to check the infection.

"It is the second attack," said Mrs. Arnett. "About a month ago I found his eye and cheek clawed. I thought it was a cat. But the doctor said a cat could not have done it, because at that time the storm cover of the carriage was up."

Identity of the attacking children was known and Mrs. Arnett said the father of the boy involved said he was "sorry and agreed to pay the doctor bills". But the parents of the little girl "would not give us any satisfaction at all."

NEW CITY CONSTABLE REPORTS FOR DUTY

The Belleville Police Department had its numbers brought up to regular strength this morning with Clare Paxman, formerly of London, Ontario, reporting for duty on the force. Constable Paxman fills the vacancy caused when Roy Doherty left the force some weeks ago.

A former member of the Provost Corps in the Canadian Army, Constable Paxman was a meat salesman in the London district prior to the war and since his discharge from the Army has been doing police work at Grand Bend, a summer resort town on Lake Huron. During the war he served for seven months in the Aleutians. Constable Paxman is married and has a small daughter.

DAIRY TRUCK AND CAR DAMAGED IN ACCIDENT

Slippery street conditions, together with poor visibility, were responsible for two motor accidents in the city this morning with damage in one accident amounting to approximately $200.

Thomas Bartlett, 13 Murney Street, was driving east on Moira when at Bolton's Store near the Coleman Street intersection his auto was in collision with a Montrose Dairy truck being driven in the opposite direction by Carl Donovan. According to the police report the dairy truck skidded on the slippery roadway and slued into the side of the Bartlett car.

The dairy truck was damaged about the front fenders and radiator grill, while the car was damaged along the left side.

The other accident at the Upper Bridge only resulted in fender damage.

B.A. Oil Tanker Officially Opens Navigation Here

The sleek black-and-white British American Oil Company's tanker "Britamoco" eased her way slowly into the slips at the company's dock shortly after two-thirty on Tuesday afternoon, to officially open navigation for the 1947 season in the port of Belleville.

And her master, Captain Charles Sensebaugh of Owen Sound, veteran of the Great Lakes, was the proud recipient of the traditional hat, as the first captain to visit the port in the current shipping season.

The hat, a handsome fedora, was presented to Captain Sensebaugh by Ex-Mayor George O. Tice, harbormaster, in a brief informal ceremony in the captain's quarters.

The "Britamoco" which carried 560,000 gallons of gasoline for the district branch of the British American Oil Company, unloaded her cargo in approximately eight hours. She lifted anchor at 10:30 Tuesday night, and immediately got under way for Toronto.

It was the first appearance of the tanker at Belleville.

Inter-Service Club Council To Co-operate in Making Old Home Week Success

The haze of uncertainty and misleading information that has enveloped the initial efforts of the committee in charge of the proposed Old Home Week celebration scheduled for July of this year, was lifted at a special meeting of the committee and the Belleville Inter-Service Club Council last night.

The clearing up of several points of discussion and misunderstanding regarding the overall operation of those in charge of and assisting in the administration of the celebration, culminated in a resolution on the part of the Inter-Service Club Council to the effect "that we, as the Inter-Service Club Council will co-operate to the fullest extent possible with the Old Home Week Committee to make that week a success."

The Inter-Service Club Council is composed of ranking representatives of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Kinsmen, Optimist and Y's Men's Clubs of the city.

Will Pool Profits

Service clubs of the city will be informed of the parts they will play in the forthcoming celebration as soon as plans are developed.

All profits accruing from the Old Home Week celebration will be placed in a pool and later be devoted to a special fund being raised for the construction of a civic swimming pool. One service club, it is understood, has already launched work for the promotion of the construction of such a pool.

The declaration of the service clubs to the effect that they will co-operate to the fullest extent possible with the Old Home Week Committee, is a great step towards harnessing the assistance of every citizen interested in the celebration. With such prominent men, business and industry as represented in these clubs taking the first step of co-operation, Old Home Week committee officials feel that the city as a whole will fall in line.

Plans Formulated

The meeting last night culminated a series of conclaves between the two bodies. At the first get-together of the committees called to discuss Old Home Week, the Celebration Committee asked the Inter-Service Club Council to draw up and present to them a definite plan of what it was prepared to do.

At a later meeting of the Inter-Service Club Council, that body decided to undertake to provide all entertainment, including all concessions within the Exhibition Park from 7 p.m. to midnight each night during the Old Home Week, and would allow the Old Home Week Committee 25 per cent of the net proceeds, the total amount not to exceed $2,500.

The resolution was presented to the Old Home Week Committee at a meeting held on April 11. This committee, at this meeting pointed out that it could not finance the celebration with a set-up of this kind. It made a counter-proposition to the effect that the Inter-Service Club Council take over all shows, pay expenses of the celebration and keep all profits.

Proposal Accepted

This counter-proposition presented to the Inter-Service Council at last night's meeting by Chairman Mayor Frank Follwell and Secretary C. N. Nicholson, was accepted and the foregoing resolution of all-out co-operation on the part of the service clubs adopted.

Old Home Week committee officials feel that the step taken last night was one in the right direction, especially in view of the fact that residents of the city will not only receive entertainment value for their money, but are also investing in a worthwhile community project, the swimming pool.

Surprise Storm Blankets District With Several Inches of Heavy Snow

The weather man slipped a joker out of the weather deck last night, and this morning amazed residents of the city and district awakened to find the countryside blanketed in a snow mantle with promise of plenty of more to come.

Old Man Winter in a surprising if belated comeback struck swiftly in the wake of a day that had promises of Spring.

Shortly after five o'clock this morning light wispy snow began to fall and an hour later with temperatures rising slightly the white mist turned into a heavy fall that was almost slush. By eight o'clock several inches covered the city and district.

The slushy mixture turned pavement and highway into slippery treacherous surfaces. Private automobiles slithered and slued on the greasy slush-covered roadways. Heavy transports negotiated the West Hill on highway No. 2 with difficulty while a few were forced to back down the gradient to get a new start.

Early morning workers waded ankle-deep in the mushy snow and faced a driving miniature blizzard that swept in from the southeast.

Temperatures rose slightly at eleven o'clock but the air maintained its wintry touch. The snow slackened somewhat and there was definite promise of rain.

Meanwhile the March Lion smiled to himself as he watched the snow-covered "corner" around which Spring is hiding.

Four Ex-Stormtrooper Officers Imprisoned

Munich, April 16 (AP)—Four high-ranking former stormtrooper officers were sentenced by the American Military Government court last night to prison terms ranging from 10 to 15 years for attempted formation of an anti-allied Nazi underground organization in occupied Germany. Former Brig.-Gen. Albert Wic-Zonke, 34, convicted leader of the so-called "German liberty and peace movement," received the highest sentence—15 years.

Amos, minister of Bridge Street United Church, who was in charge of the service in the chapel.

Rev. F. Harback Special Speaker At Kiwanis Club

One of the most thought-provoking addresses that has been given to the Kiwanis Club in some time was delivered at the Tuesday meeting at the Hotel Quinte by the Rev. F. R. Harback, who spoke on the subject, "Gauging our Spiritual Resources". The speaker claimed that if democracy is to flourish in a free world then there must be a right-about-face with respect to the spiritual things of life and that men must be true in word, thought and spirit. Mr. Harback has recently arrived in this city to take over the pastorate of Tabernacle United Church and previous to this charge spent some years as a padre in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

In addressing the club after being introduced by Ray Grant, Mr. Harback stated he came from a family that spoke their minds and he was of the firm opinion that people were showing less and less concern for spiritual forces and more and more of the things of life. He claimed that Germany was beaten by a complete breakdown of the National Spirit, while in the Allied forces continued pressure was exerted to build up the spirit of the troops. "The tragedy of a democratic government is that it never worked out in a world democracy because those of the democratic countries were willing to extend their protection beyond their own frontiers" said the speaker.

Had Fine Music

Germany he claimed in the past ages had the finest music, philosophy and science but Hitler set up a lie instead of the truth and the country had a loss of this, a loss of faith and loss of the thought of God. "In our country," said the speaker, "we suffered from the lack of concern nationally for the rights of smaller nations quoting the giving to Germany of Czechoslovakia by Chamberlain as a price for peace". He claimed that in the 18th and 19th centuries there has grown up a sort of optimism in the natural goodness of man but this trend of thought has been a complete failure because we have failed to recognize the fundamentals of life.

"We have made religion a secondary element in our scheme of things," said Mr. Harback, "and the machine age has been a Frankenstein of our building." The speaker claimed that people must again become pure in thought, in word and deed and applying the spiritual principles to living this can be made into a better world." Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by George Currie. President Jack White presided at the luncheon with Ab Mazer collecting the fines and Vic White leading the singing. The members were asked to assemble early for the trip to Lindsay on Thursday when that club will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its founding.

H. Seldon Heads Retail Merchants For Second Term

Harold C. Seldon, Front Street druggist, was re-appointed as chairman of the Retail Merchants' Division of the local Chamber of Commerce at regular committee meeting of the organization held Tuesday morning in the council chambers. Mr. Seldon was elected by acclamation, there being no other nomination for the position.

Executive committee for the Retail Merchants for the next year will include Bruce Lattimer, Bryson Leslie, T. A. Tucker, Ted Schwab, Bill Brown, Enos David, Warren Jones, Robert Boyce and H. C. Seldon. The resolutions committee will be composed of Bill Brown and Ted Schwab.

Traffic Problems Discussed

Local traffic conditions came up for discussion by the executive committee with T. A. Tucker and B. Leslie being appointed to interview the traffic committee to be appointed by council and the Junior Board of Trade with the view of co-operating in the maintenance of parking space to the rear of Front Street stores. The Retail Merchants' committee believes that this parking space is needed to assist in taking care of parking problems in the city.

The Chamber of Commerce decision to check on solicitations being made in the city has already been responsible in preventing several would-be canvassing rackets, it has been learned by Chamber officials. Canvassers seeking donations in some instances have failed to show up at the Chamber of Commerce office where they had been directed to fill in the required forms. The committee has decided that the solicitations service will be extended to all merchants in the city, whether or not they belong to the Chamber of Commerce.

The Retail Merchants' Division now has a membership of over 100 and for this year has a budget of approximately $1,200 for projects relating to retail trade expansion.

FOUR CONVICTED OF ANTI-BRITISH VIOLENCE HANGED

Jerusalem, April 16—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, High Commissioner for Palestine, tonight invoked the Army Act to place all British forces in Palestine "on active service."

Gen. Cunningham's order presumably was designed to guard against Jewish uprisings. Dov Bela Gruner and three other Jews convicted of acts of violence against British authority in the Holy Land were hanged at dawn today.

A curfew of unprecedented severity preceded Gen. Cunningham's order.

Gruner, a 33-year-old Hungarian veteran of the British army, and the other three, were members of Irgun Zvai Leumi, the Jewish underground organization which claims to have been responsible for most of Palestine's bloodletting in recent months.

Gruner was sentenced Jan. 1 by a British military court which found him guilty of participating in a raid on the Ramat Gan police station last April 23 in which two policemen were killed and Gruner wounded.

The other three — Dov Ben Salman Rosenbaum, 34; Kheser Ben Zion Kashani, 23; and Mordecai Ben Abraham Alkachi, 21—were condemned on Feb. 10 by another military court which convicted them of having arms and whips in their possession when they were arrested on Dec. 23, the night a British major and three sergeants were flogged by the underground in retaliation for the whipping of an Irgun member.

Threaten Reprisals

Irgun repeatedly has threatened reprisals against British forces if their "soldiers" were hanged and Colonial Secretary Creech Jones declared in February that Gruner's death almost certainly would signal a new blood bath in the Holy Land.

In an effort to bar just such a development, British authorities clamped a strict security ring around almost every Jewish quarter in the land, putting an estimated 400,000 Jews under house arrest.

It was probably the most severe security measure ever instituted here. Roads were blocked and only the most essential traffic was permitted to move.

Gruner, first Jew to be executed for terrorism in Palestine since Shlomo Ben Yousef was hanged in August, 1938, has become, since his conviction, a symbol of Irgun Zvai Leumi's violent policies.

He had adamantly refused to take any action on his own behalf, maintaining that he was a prisoner of war and should be treated as one. When it appeared, early this year, that he was to be hanged, Irgun kidnapped two British civilians — H. A. Collins and Judge Ralph Wyndham — as hostages and held them until Gruner seemed out of immediate danger.

Appeals were taken for him to Palestine courts and to the Privy Council in London but all were rejected except one, which was reported still pending before the Privy Council.

Max Seligman, a Tel Aviv lawyer representing all four men, said when he learned of their deaths that he had intended to visit them at Acre Prison this morning to discuss their case.

"I am at a loss," he declared. "I was engaged in the final stages of a legal battle to save their lives."

Legal experts here said that while it was customary for authorities to await the outcome of an appeal, they were not under compulsion to do so.

Calls Wallace "Merchant Of Confusion"

Washington, April 16. (AP)—Leading Democrats swelled the chorus of angry congressional blasts at Henry A. Wallace but President Truman kept mum as the United States Senate prepared to resume debate on the Greek-Turkish Aid Bill.

Senators M. E. Tydings (MD.), and Scott Lucas (Ill.), members of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, criticized Wallace in words even sharper than some of the Republican colleagues used in assailing the former vice president for his attacks in England on the Truman Foreign Policy program.

Lucas, one of the first Democrats to raise his voice last week in protest against Wallace's statements that the United States is embarking on a career of "imperialism", told reporters:

"Henry Wallace is a merchant of confusion—selling America short."

Tydings said in an interview that the former Secretary of Commerce had used "extremely bad taste" in campaigning abroad against the Greek-Turkish proposal.

The Congressional uproar against Wallace, however, thus far has elicted no corresponding expression from Truman. Republicans have called for a statement of Truman's views and many democrats privately have been urging such White House action.

Developments indicated, meanwhile, that the administration may seek its answer to Wallace in a rousing Senate vote in favor of the pending bill to furnish $400,000,000 in financial and limited military assistance to Greece and Turkey to bolster them against Communism.

Black Squirrel Killed in Battle

The body of a handsome black squirrel its fur stained with blood, crashed from the limbs of a large tree off Church Street Tuesday evening, to culminate a furious battle-to-the-death between it and a red-furred brother of the same family.

Shrill squeakings of rage, flashing of sharp teeth marked the brief but savage battle as the red invader tore into its black brother in the tree-top.

Needle-like teeth of the red squirrel secured a desperate hold on the body of the black foeman and despite the latter's desperate attempts, it could not shake off its adversary. Loosening its grip, the red squirrel administered the coup de grace to its adversary with a death-grip near the throat. The black toppled from the tree and a minute or so later died.

Milch's Conviction Could Carry Hanging Penalty

Nuernberg, Germany, April 16—(AP)—Field Marshal Erhard Milch, one of the builders of the luftwaffe which smashed Europe to its knees early in the war, was convicted of war crimes and crimes against humanity today by a three-judge American court.

Sentence will be imposed tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. EST). The verdict could carry a hanging penalty.

Milch, now 55, was convicted of taking an extraordinary part in the recruiting of slave labor for aircraft plants. This constituted a war crime, the tribunal ruled. The treatment of the slave labor, of which Milch had full knowledge, represented a crime against humanity, the judgment stressed.

Milch was acquitted of a third count in the indictment — abetting medical experiments on humans. The court found that even though the experiments in low pressure chambers and in freezing water were performed for the luftwaffe, Milch's awareness of them was only "perfunctory."

The tribunal concluded its opinion with a sharp remonstrance against any soldier trying to excuse commission of crime by pleading he had to obey orders.

is that the Moscow Conference—now nearing its end—will be followed by intensified big power rivalry in Germany and elsewhere which will serve to widen the already bad east-west split.

Marshall permitted only the long-expected meeting had been held at last. He was the last of the visiting foreign ministers to see the Soviet leader.

The announcement did not say exactly how long Marshall was with Stalin and did not state what was discussed. Presumably the conference lasted about 90 minutes.

A dramatic setting was furnished for the Kremlin session by the failure of fthe foreign ministers to agree only two or three hours before on an American-sponsored proposal for a 40-year four-power pact to keep Germany disarmed.

The Americans regarded this failure, which Marshall bitterly blamed on Molotov, as a severe blow to allied co-operation. One high America nsource said it was "the most depressing development in international relations since the end of the war."

Cabinet Makes Igor Gouzenko British Subject

Ottawa, April 16 (CP)—Igor Gouzenko, the one-time Russian Embassy cipher clerk whose expose of Soviet documents touched off Canada's startling espionage probe more than a year ago, has become a British subject and may become a citizen of Canada where he wants to make his home.

"This man had done a great service to Canada," a high government spokesman said last night in disclosing cabinet action had recently been taken to make Gouzenko a British subject under an Act of the Sovereign. Canadian citizenship could follow if he so desired and it was understood that the 28-year-old Russian had applied for Canadian papers.

Thus the question of what the government planned to do about Gouzenko was partly answered. But still unanswered was where he and his wife and two children would go to live and how they would live when the last of the 18 espionage trials he touched off was complete.

Lives Under Protection

Gouzenko, who has expressed fear that attempts may be made on his life for his expose of a Soviet-directed spy ring—one of eight he says exists in the Dominion—is still living under R.C.M.P. protection somewhere near Ottawa. He recently was given a $100-a-month annuity for life by A. T. Ahern, President of the Ottawa Street Railways Company and it has been indicated that some similar action to make him and his family financially secure may be taken by the government.

Igor Gouzenko fled the Russian Embassy one night in September, 1945, taking with him numerous documents which later formed the basis of a Royal Commission investigation ordered by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. The Royal Commission named 21 persons in a bulky report it issued several months later and a series of prosecutions—including that of a member of parliament—began.

Throughout the lengthy legal proceedings Gouzenko was the key Crown witness and made numerous startling disclosures. He was hustled from his secret hideaway to each court appearancee under R.C.M.P. escort and retreated back to it after each legal session.

U. N. Site Dedicated

The United Nations have had a name ever since the meeting in San Francisco when the organisation was formed. They have a home and the site on which will be constructed the buildings to house the Government of the United Nations.

Deeds of areas were presented along the East River to the United Nations by the City of New York which has turned over several tracts of land. Here will be the world "temple of peace."

Mayor O'Dwyer's remarks on the occasion of the consecration of the "hallowed ground" to the noblest of purposes remarked that it was only a "small plot of ground that New York was giving to the peoples of the world," but on that small plot, "decisions will be made which will shape the destiny of the world." Here is the "centre of the hopes, the aspirations and the ideals of all mankind. Here will arise the world temple, the projected skyscraper capital."

New York, the great city which will contain the projected capital of the united world, has opened in the words of its mayor, not only the lands and homes but also the hearts of the people to the United Nations.

President Truman's message which was read promised the aid of the United States in every effort to assist Secretary General Trygve Lie in the discharge of his duties as the principal official of the institution "upon which the hopes of the world are founded."

Here is one of the most imposing sites in the world. The new temple of peace will arise in the dynamic city whose throbbing life will help to give impetus and vigor to the United Nations.

When John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made a gift of $8,500,000 to the United Nations for this site, he made a magnificent gift and gesture pledging America's dynamic zeal and power to the cause of a united world in peace.

The prayers and hopes of mankind will rest upon this small plot of land and upon what will be erected there and what decisions will there be made in the cause of human brotherhood and world peace organization. To this service the greatest leaders of the world will devote their talents so that from this will come the inspiration that a world of nations like brothers will come to know lasting peace.

France and Mr. Churchill

Mr. Winston Churchill is to be honored by France on May 7th with the presentation of the military medal, the highest military award of the nation to the great Allied leader of World War II.

The world can still remember the majestic utterance, sounding the depths of human sympathy and understanding when some time after the collapse of France he made an appeal to the French nation "about their firesides wherever they might be or whatever their fortunes were." He took up the words of Napoleon, "Never will I believe that the soul of France is dead; never will I believe that her place among the greatest nations of the world has been lost forever." He called on them to have hope and faith, "for all will come right." In that memorable speech in the radio broadcast to the French nation on October 22, he said. "Vive la France! Long live, also the forward march of the common people in all the lands towards their just and true inheritance and toward the broader and fuller age."

A passage of that speech will always seem one of the most beautiful of all his utterances, "Good night, then. Sleep to gather strength for the morning, for the morning will come. Brightly will it shine on the brave and true; kindly upon all who suffer for the cause; glorious upon the tombs of heroes — thus will shine the dawn."

France helped to bring that day. Her underground was one of the great achievements of the war. The names of French heroes and heroines in the underground, their great work in preparing for the "day" will never be forgotten. The dawn did come and France gave the inevitable proof of her spirit as her men and women dared greatly in the work of her liberation. Her troops were ready when the hour struck. They helped to crush Germany.

It is not to be wondered at that the great Republic remembers the British leader who in the darkest hours correctly estimated the power of the French spirit of loyalty and devotion and desires to pay him honor with her highest decoration.

Hitler's Ignorance

Every story that comes to light concerning Hitler shows his grotesque ignorance about the world and its peoples. Hitler was not a cosmopolitan nor had he ever been outside Germany except to visit Italy to see a fellow conspirator against the world and possibly to follow up a German army which had gone upon Russian land. During the recent war the great Allied leaders were typical travellers, who knew the world. One of the great resources of Mr. Winston Churchill was his knowledge of men and history and his cosmopolitan experience. President Roosevelt was a lover of humanity and he travelled abroad, he knew his neighbors and he knew the world.

But Hitler knew only the Nazis he had helped to make and also that arch fool, Mussolini, who will remain the standard example of a blatant, boasting tyrant, who was disloyal to his country and met a traitor's fate.

Recent stories indicate that Hitler depended for his knowledge of the outside world on the group of sycophants he has gathered about him, to whom it was natural to stuff the ears of the Fuehrer with what he was pleased to hear. He had most foolish ideas about the people of the United States as yesterday's despatch shows. His ignorance of other peoples was surely one of the foundations on which he built a tyranny which was doomed.

Britain fortunately possessed a remarkable man, Mr. Churchill, a leader, whose knowledge of history of Europe and the rest of the world, with the great lessons it gives to a man who has studied the course of the rise and fall of nations as Mr. Churchill has done, acquaintance with men of most of the lands of the earth, wide human sympathies, knowledge of war as a correspondent in the South African campaign, intimate acquaintance with his own people, the British race, intuitive knowledge of the weaknesses of that brace of rascals and criminals, Hitler and Mussolini, knowledge of the psychology of the German and Italian mind, mastery in counsel, and gifts in the arts, idealism joined with practicality, and faith in the workings of divine justice in the course of history in the long run, made him an unbeatable leader in the war against Germany and Italy and Japan. In short Mr. Churchill's wisdom, balance and steadiness were powerful forces for Allied victory.

On the other hand Hitler was narrow because he was so evil, so selfish, so lacking in knowledge of those things he should have known. Hitler was a demagogue with all the shortcomings of the rabble leader. And he fell, dragging down Germany.

Early-Riser Truman

President Truman is an early riser with a very definite purpose in mind. He climbs out of bed about 5.30 every morning, while most of the national capital still is asleep, to go for a brisk walk so as to keep his weight down. As a result, the secret service, which guards him, has had to put on extra men.

The secret service found it much simpler to protect President Roosevelt than President Truman. The late Mr. Roosevelt didn't arise until mid-morning. He never went for a stroll.

Now the secret service has gone to Congress to request more money to protect the more active Mr. Truman. All this presents an interesting prospect that someone in our economy-minded Congress, now busy searching for ways to save money, will say the the Chief Executive ought to budget his food intake to restrain the Presidential waistline so that Federal expenditures may be held down.

MANAGER

The manager is one who sees
That everything is done to please,
He ships the "talent" near and far.
To him just merchandise they are.

The manager no mercy shows.
The business world is all he knows
And when of one he's taken hold
He's just a product to be sold.

He cracks his whip and off he'll go
Somewhere to give another show.
Just like the mail, a date to meet
He goes through wind and hail and sleet.

I call him Simon, since with me
He out-Legrees that man Legree.
The only time he smiles, is when
He packs me on a train again.

London Letter

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

After writing about horrible weather and miscellaneous crises for months, it is a pleasure to report Spring — which has been a little late this year — actually has arrived in England.

The great event occurred Thursday when the sun broke through in earnest. It stayed fine for Saturday's England-Scotland international soccer match when 100,000 jammed Wembley Stadium, forgetting all their troubles to shout the words of old tunes during a half-hour community sing.

"Suddenly it's Spring," bannered the Sunday Graphic. "Look — the sun!" said the Sunday Pictorial in a caption to a bathing beauty picture covering half the front page.

That caught the spirit of the country. People who have been grouching for weeks about anything and everything are all smiles.

Only a few days ago one London columnist quipped: "Oh to be in April now that England's here!" Today we are in April and it's as cheering as a boost in the meat ration.

Scars of Winter Remain

But even so, the effects of the long hard winter are still obvious in the country districts. Some fields down Guildford way still are under water and many more are so sodden that it is not yet possible to work them. Normally that land would be bright green by now with young shoots of grain. This year some of it still hasn't been plowed.

Most city dwellers do not worry much about behind-schedule farming and this most welcome sunshine has driven such uninteresting though vital matters as the country's economic situation right out of the window for the time being.

After all, boys and girls are playing noisily in concrete blockhouses built on the downs as protection against possible invaders, aren't they?

The Day in Parliament

(By The Canadian Press)

Today:

The Commons discusses government control legislation.

The Senate will not sit.

Tuesday:

The Commons heard the Speaker rule out of order two motions aimed at defeating the government's main control bill; heard John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, say his party would vote against the control legislation on second reading; saw Maurice Hartt, newly-elected Liberal member for Montreal - Cartier, take his seat; heard Labor Minister Mitchell accept a challenge from Clarie Gillis (CCF — Cape Breton South) for transfer of 2,200 jobless war veterans from Cape Breton Island.

The Senate did not sit.

COFFIN PART OF PREPARATION FOR HEREAFTER

Bedford, Ind., April 16 (AP)—James McClellan Smith, 74-year-old retired cabinet maker is exhibiting an oak coffin he says he has made for himself.

"I have spent my whole life preparing for the hereafter," he said, "and this coffin is only a small part of it."

TWO MOTIONS TO

John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) said Canada's need was for controls by inducement rather than by compulsion. The Social Credit party did not favor monopolies and cartels but it did stand for private enterprises regulated to prevent abuses.

J. H. Matthews (CCF-Kootenay East) contended the war had shown that controls were good for the Canadian people and therefore should be retained. The government was under "great pressure" for the removal of controls, pressure that came from the corporations and not from the common people.

Want Controls Claim

David Croll (L-Toronto Spadina) urged the government to halt its decontrol program and consider the effect of rising prices. The Canadian people wanted controls since they had seen the benefits which had come from a planned economy during the war period. They were not yet ready to give up the benefits of such planning.

Mr. Knowles, moving his amendment, said the House would be negligent in its duty to the people if it sat idly by and allowed the cost of living to skyrocket. The government should take steps now to impose orderly controls which would prevent inflation.

Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton) said the free enterprise system had failed the people twice in a generation and had led to armed conflict. Now, the big corporations were "running rampant" in their haste to "extract" from the people profits which could not be justified. The C.C.F. wanted a planned economy which would help the people.

Judge Censures Belgian Romance

Derby, England, (CP)—A British Army captain who became "so infatuated with a Belgian dancer that he wanted to change his nationality to hers," might be a representative example of "one of the consequences of an army occupation" Judge R. A. Willes said.

The judge, granting a divorce decree to a woman whose husband was stationed at Brussels, commented:

"If there are many young officers who are falling into adulterous intercourse with foreign women, either Belgian or German, and if it is one of the consequences that young English officers are forming the view that if they can they would become naturalized Belgians or Germans, that seems to me to be a matter of sufficient public importance to justify it being published as one of the consequences of an army occupation.

FOLK MYTHS IN MODERN MEDICINE

Grandma, God bless her says she was just about to write and ask my opinion in regard to "Thymus" (evidently Grandma means the legendary thymic or thymicolymphatic state or, in still more frightening terms "status thymico-lymphaticus") when my article on the subject appeared but now she must say she is disappointed at the light way in which I treated the subject. With this rebuke Grandma proceeds to impose her views, which she says are based upon experience, for her grandchild....and she has read in newspapers of three babies....and she learns from a reliable source that enlarged thymus shows up in X-ray pictures and in a hospital she names it is now the rule to have X-ray pictures made in every case. so she does not approve of my treatment of such a subject. (Signed....)

Under Grandma's goading I dug up and ran through both articles on the thymico-lymphatic state. I am relieved to note that I made no facetious allusions in either of them, and so I suspect Grandma read into my articles something that was not there.

I quote this from Feb. 26 article:

I do not mean to imply that a doctor may not be sincere and honest in ascribing death to "status thymico-lymphaticus" or "status lymphaticus." Up to ten years ago I believed there was some such mystical state. I no longer believe so.

I quote this from the Feb. 10 article:

.........let me reassure parents or grandparents who may be worried about what purports to be enlarged thymus or status thymico-lymphaticus or status lymphaticus that it is medical fantacy.

Whether my present view is right or wrong, in these articles I tried to be frank and honest and hoped to give parents or others who may be subject to such nightmare such assurance and relief as I believe the situation warrants.

In Grandma's rebuke I detect a tinge of resentment of the truth —the same reaction I note in the rejoinders I receive whenever I try to tell the truth about "nerves," "neurasthenia," "nerve strain," "nervous exhaustion" "delicate nerves," and all that hollow hokum.

Evidently Grandma brushed aside as too trivial the statement in my Feb. 26 article that in a large hospital where such X-ray examinations of all infants were routinely mace many of the infants had enlarged thymus gland but no symptom or trouble that could be attributed to it. Nor did Grandma give serious consideration to my statement that numerous good physicians have demonstrated that the thymus in children who have died from various accidents did not differ from the thymus in children who have died from so-called "status thymico-lymphaticus," or thymic death.

Grandma's contribution to the symposium is by no means the only communication of like character that I have received since the two articles appeared. But it is notable that I have received or heard of no adverse comment by a physician of standing, for the obvious reason — I have told only the truth.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is the most southern city in the world?

Magallanes, Chile, is farther south than any other settlement of sufficient size and commercial importance to deserve being called a city.

It lies on the extreme southern end of Patagonia on the Strait of Magellan at about 53 degrees south latitude. Started in the 19th century as a penal colony under the name "Punta Arenas," sandy point, it developed into an important point of call and coaling station for ships trading between the Pacific and the Atlantic, although the Panama Canal later diverted much of this traffic.

When Chile created the territory of Magallanes in 1930, Punta Arenas was made the capital and its name changed to Magallanes. Inland from Magallanes are vast sheep-grazing lands from which wool and skins are sent to the city for export. It has only about two hours of sunlight a day and the climate is inhospitable. The last estimate of its population was 33,000.

Ushuaia, capital and port of Argentina's territory on the island of Tierra del Fuego, is farther south, being at about 55 degrees south latitude, but it is little more than a village compared with Magallanes. The post office at Ushuaia is the most southerly regular post office in the world.

There are smaller settlements still farther south in South America and on the neighboring islands, but they are not indicated on the average map. The islands extending for 200 miles southward from Magallanes are inhabited by only scattered aborigines and a few white people. The Argentine weather station on Laurie Island in the South Orkneys southeast of Cape Horn is the southernmost regularly inhabited spot.

The Yahgans, a remnant of a dwindling tribe on the south coast of Tierra del Fuego, are the most southerly aborigines in the world.

Wellington, on the North Island of New Zealand, is the world's southernmost national capital.

Buluwayo, Rhodesia, April 16. —(Reuters) —The royal family today paid silent tribute at the grave of Cecil Rhodes, Empire builder and founder of Rhodesia, in the desolate loneliness of the Matopo Hills, 30 miles outside Buluwayo.

DING DONG DADDY ON PROBATION

San Francisco, April 16—(AP) —Francis Van Wie, erstwhile "ding dong daddy of the car line," was placed on probation for polygamy today — on condition the 13-times-wedded trolley conductor would squelch his matrimonial impulses. This defendant's record shows that he has a weakness for entering the bonds of matrimony regardless of his marital staus," said Superior Judge Herbert C. Kaufman when the 60-year-old former conductor was brought before him.

Port Stevedores And CSL Moving Near Showdown

Fort William, April 16 —(CP) —Laden with explosive possibilities differences between Canada Steamship Lines Limited and stevedores in two Lakehead union locals yesterday were moving toward a showdown with the stevedores now assured of support from the Fort William Trades and Labor Council.

Executive members of the council have met with executive boards of the Fort William and Port Arthur locals of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (AFL). Outcome of the conference was a decision by the council to give the locals "full support" in their efforts to establish a working day agreement with the company.

Under the locals proposal the freight handlers would be available for work between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. with an hour off for lunch. After 6 p.m. they would be paid overtime rates at the rate of time and a half. The men would be willing to work until 10 p.m. or midnight if a vessel could be completed by that time, with overtime effective.

With the opening of the 1947 navigation season close at hand, possibility of strife on the waterfront was admitted.

Dispute between the locals and the steamship line arose when some 500 stevedores employed on the docks in Fort William and Port Arthur were asked to sign separation notices when navigation closed last year.

The argument was aired before Judge H. W. Whitla in Fort William last month. At that time the union charged the company with lock-out tactics in dismissing the men, with the company countering the men had violated their working hours agreement.

At the close of a two-day hearing Judge Whitla, Winnipeg jurist appointed industrial dispute inquiry commission to probe the dispute, ruled the company was justified in dismissing the men on the grounds they had taken the law into their own hands.

Judge Whitla said this finding would be the purport of his interim report to Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell. The hearing was adjourned indefinitely.

WEDDINGS

FOYER—TREVERTON

A quiet, but unusually pretty double ring ceremony was solemnized at 4.30 p.m., on Saturday, April 12 in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, when Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Treverton, became the bride of Sydney H. Foyer, B.A. of San Antonio, Texas, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harold Foyer, of Toronto with Rev. J. G. Hornsby officiating.

The bride was very charming in a gown of sea foam blue with pale peach accessories and carried a shower bouquet of white hyacinth and sweetpeas.

Mrs. Robt. Pattillo, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing pale grey and yellow with navy accessories and carrying a bouquet of white bouvardia and forget-me-nots.

Mr. Robert Pattillo assisted the groom.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate family, after which Mr. and Mrs. Foyer left for their future home in San Antonio taking with them the best wishes of a host of friends.

Mr. Foyer, a former captain, served overseas with the Canadian Army Intelligence Corps for six years.

BLONDIN—ARMITAGE

Spring flowers made a very pretty setting for a double ring marriage ceremony, which took place recently in the church parlor of Bridge Street United Church, when Ivy Florence Armitage, eldest daughter of Mr. A. W. Armitage of Belleville, and the late Mrs. Armitage, was united to Allan Victor Blondin, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Blondin, of Rossmore, with Rev. D. C. Amos as the officiating clergyman.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attractively attired in a suit of blue grey wool with black accessories and wore a corsage of red roses, an orchid and forget-me-nots.

Miss Bretta Willis, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a grey gabardine suit with a corsage of red roses and forget-me-nots.

Mr. R. W. Armitage, brother of the bride, ably performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, where a buffet luncheon was served to a number of guests, who were received by the bride's sister, Miss Isabel Armitage, wearing a suit of rose wool with a corsage of white roses and mauve sweetpeas. She was assisted by the groom's mother, Mrs. A. Blondin, wearing a black two-piece dress with a corsage of red roses.

For travelling to Hamilton, Ont., the bride chose her wedding ensemble with a black shortie topcoat.

Out-of-town guests present for the wedding were the uncle, aunt and cousin of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. J. Griffith and daughter, Miss Audrey Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. Blondin have taken up residence at 11 Albion Street, in the city.

During their stay in Hamilton, the bride was feted at a miscellaneous shower given by her aunt, Mrs. H. Beavis, when she received many useful and beautiful gifts.

CLARKE—SPENDLOW

Beautifully decorated with Easter lilies, St. Thomas Church was the scene at two o'clock, April 9th., of a very pretty wedding, when Rev. Arthur Smith united in marriage Amelia Spendlow, daughter of Mr. Joseph Spendlow and the late Mrs. Spendlow of Finsbury, London England, and Albert Arthur Clarke, eldest son of Mrs. Jack Clarke of Belleville.

Given in marriage by Mr. William Hopping, uncle of the groom, the bride entered the church to wedding music played by Mr. Gordon Black of Christ Church making a charming picture in a gown of ivory satin, featuring a sweetheart neckline. Her full length veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses.

Miss Betty Smith, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of blue taffeta with a pink halo headdress, shoulder length veil and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses.

Mr. Donald Clarke was his brother's groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's mother, who received the guests wearing a gown of fuchsia crepe, with a corsage of Talisman roses.

The bride's table was lovely with Spring blossoms and tall white tapers in crystal holders, with a large wedding cake as a centre-piece. Mr. Mac Smith proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded.

For travelling to Ottawa the bride chose a brown suit with a beige shortie coat, and brown accessories. After their return Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will reside in Belleville.

Out of town guests included Mrs. George Hopping Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hopping Jr., of Deseronto; Misses Marilyn, Judith and Mr. Dennis Hopping of Campbellford; Mrs. Thomas Winter and "Billy" of Owen Sound, Ontario.

BURGESS — DE GENOVA

At nine o'clock on the morning of April 12th., a very lovely wedding was solemnized at the Church of Saint Michael The Archangel, when Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James DeGenova, Brassey St., became the bride of Arthur Bertrum Burgess, only son of Mrs. Burgess and the late Mr. Burgess of Belleville, with Rev. J. A. Carley officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a charming picture in her gown of white satin, fashioned on long torso lines, with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and double nylon net overskirt. Her long embroidered veil pleated to form a halo was caught with orange blossoms and seed pearls and her bouquet was of American Beauty roses and Cala lilies. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Kathleen DeGenova, was her sister's maid-of-honor, wearing a floor-length gown of pink satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, puff sleeves and a full skirt of double net over satin. Her pleated halo headdress was of soft pink veiling and she wore long matching gloves. Her only ornament was a double strand of pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses.

The groom was ably supported by his brother-in-law, Mr. Bernard Smith, and the ushers were Mr. Andrew Thompson and Mr. Michael DeGenova, a brother of the bride. A younger brother, Mr. John DeGenova, served as altar boy during the Mass.

Music was provided by Miss Dorothy Grant during the Mass, playing "Ave Maria" during the offertory.

Following the ceremony a reception for 40 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were attractively decorated with potted plants, Spring flowers and a large wedding bell. The bride's table was centred with a three tier wedding cake, flanked by tall ivory tapers.

The bride's mother received, wearing a street-length dress of copper beige, with brown hat and accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing a street length dress of multi-colored sheer, with black straw hat, matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Bernard Smith proposed a toast to the bride, to which Mr. Jack Murphy responded.

The groom's gift to the bride was a camera and to his groomsman a tie set. The bride's gift to the groom was a leather billfold, and to her attendant a gold pendant. The ushers received tie pins.

For a trip to Toronto the bride donned a suit of poudre blue wool, with grey squirrel trim, black hat and accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Following their return Mr. and Mrs. Burgess will reside in Belleville. Out of town guests were:— Mr. and Mrs. Patrick De Genova and family of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and daughter, Margaret, of Point Anne.

Democracy Must Have Christian Principles Dr. Bates Tells Meeting

"Democracy without Christian principles under it, is dangerous," stated Rev. C. J. L. Bates, M.A., D.D., quoting a Japanese Baptist minister, Rev. Dr. Chiba, as he addressed an assembly of the combined branches of the Women's Missionary Society at Bridge Street United Church on Tuesday evening. Dr. Bates said he would go further and say that democracy without Christianity under it is impossible. "The brotherhood of man without the Fatherhood of God is a mockery," he declared.

Dr. Bates who spent forty-eight years as a missionary of the United Church in Japan, was introduced by Rev. D. C. Amos. In reviewing his work there Mr. Amos stated that the university which stands at the scene of Dr. Bates' labor is a monument to the devotion of a Christian statesman to the cause of Christianity. Dr. Bates has returned home and is now living in Toronto.

Mission Vindicated

Dr. Bates emphasized that Christian missions have been vindicated in the past few years in the East. He explained that there were two types of missions, those with primitive peoples as in the Pacific Islands and those in lands with great civilizations behind them such as Japan, China, and India. There is quite a distinction in these two fields. We cannot overestimate the value of the literature and philosophy of the lands where these great civilizations have grown.

When Dr. Bates first began his work in Japan, he felt free to speak any place, but after 1931 when Manchuria was detached from China and the military rulers took command a difference was noted at once in the church and Sunday School work. The missionaries were advised by their governments to go home. And then in 1941 the lid blew off.

50 Burned to Death

Dr. Bates recalled the tragic experiences of some of his friends in Hiroshima when the atom bomb fell. At the Methodist school there which was founded sixty years ago, the principal was sitting in his office at eight o'clock, having just come from the chapel where fifty girls were at morning worship. When the bomb fell it was as though a flash of lightning had burst just over his head. Then there was a moment of intense stillness, and the principal had the feeling that God was very near. The fifty girls were burned to death as well as seventeen teachers and three hundred other students.

The news today from Japan is tragic and terrible in some respects and encouraging in others. Nearly five hundred churches have been destroyed as well as schools, colleges and other buildings which were built and maintained by missions. Letters from friends show no resentment or complaining, only gratitude that they were spared to renew their work for Christianity.

New Japan Being Born

"A new Japan is being born," said Dr. Bates. "A new day has come for women, there are 37 in the legislature there; a new day for the farmer because the old landlord system has been destroyed; a new day for labor, and for all people. We must bend every effort to make this a warless world," he concluded.

Mrs. W. H. Finkle presided at the meeting, which took the form of a pot-luck supper. The devotional part of the meeting was conducted by Miss G. Kenny, and Mrs. Arthur Clare. The C.G.I.T. were in charge of the offering which was dedicated by Mrs. R.D.P. Davidson. A ladies' chorus offered two vocal numbers under the direction of Miss Leona Riggs with Mr. Alec Gordon accompanying at the piano. The thanks of the Society to the speaker were expressed by Miss Clarke, who was herself a missionary in Japan, and associated with the same mission as Dr. Bates.

Tabernacle WMS Addressed By Mrs. F. Harback

Members of Tabernacle United Church afternoon Auxiliary of the W.M.S. held the annual Easter Thank-offering service in the Assembly Hall of the church Tuesday evening, with a number of visitors and members of the Evening Auxiliary present.

Mrs. A. D. Archibald, the president, opened the meeting and led in the invocation.

During the brief business period the treasurer reported having sent $63 to the Presbyterial treasurer for the first quarter of 1947. A very interesting and thought-provoking report from the Presbyterial, recently held in Napanee, was given by Mrs. W. J. Harrison.

Members of the Evening Auxiliary had charge of the Service of Worship with Mrs. George Stanton conducting Miss Rachel Fox leading in the meditation, "We thank Thee God," and Miss Ethel Horton at the piano.

A solo, "Count Your Blessings When You Pray," contributed by Mrs. Brown of St. Andrew's church, was much appreciated. Stanton conducting. Miss Rachel

The speaker for the evening, Mrs. F.R. Harback based her remarks on the words of Jesus found in the 20th. verse of the 11th. chapter of St. Mathew's gospel, "I thank Thee, O Father."

Impressed With Abundance

She gave as an introduction, two instances of suffering and death in Western Canada, which might have been prevented, or greaty relieved, if the nearby hospital, built by the W.M.S. had not been closed for lack of funds and staff. Mrs. Harback said, "I am every day impressed with the abundance of things Easterners possess and their luxurious way of living. I wonder if we, as a people, are as thankful in this land of plenty as we should be.

Let us examine the thankfulness of Jesus, "I thank Thee that Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes." His nearest friends, the disciples and John the Baptist did not understand his mission, but little children could see the way of life."

"Jesus," continued the speaker, "faced failure and doubt, but He still gave thanks. He had been called unsavory names, but in the midst of all the discouragement He thanked God for these experiences, when God's will was revealed to children, though wise men did not recognize Him as God's Son.

Today we have a world of bombed and ruined church buildings overseas; we here, have a country of empty churches. Millions are asking for Christian teaching in Eastern lands and are accepting Christianity by whole villages. Can we not hear Christ saying, 'Woe unto thee, Canada! Woe unto thee, America!' If the mighty works had been done in India and China that have been done in you, they would have repented long ago'?"

Do We Thank God

Continuing, Mrs. Harback asked, "Are we, who call ourselves Christian, thanking God for our blessings? Here are we in a country of abundant food, comfortable homes, cosy and warm; how are we thanking God? He says 'Feed my lambs'—the hungry children of Europe and Asia. 'I was a stranger.' What of Canada's housing situation? How are we thanking God for the Freedom of Worship, and for the privilege of Christian Worship?

All across Canada are beautiful churches, which our ancestors provided, leaving nothing undone to raise an altar to the living God. But in Canada, now, only one person out of ten stops to worship God on His day—and I think we are not very different from the people of 2,000 years ago, who doubted Him, scoffed and turned aside. Do we thank God for a place of worship by staying home? Or do we come occasionally, when the weather is fair, when the music is good? Do we follow with the crowd where it is easy going, or do we take up the cross and follow?

Can We Take Burden

Jesus thanked God when He broke bread, saying, "This is my body broken for you," and when He took the cup, saying, "This is my blood shed for you." Can we take up the heavy burden? Can we give our lives in loving service, so that others will follow the Christ? The Church can only be raised to the standard set by Jesus when individual Christians accept the challenge, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Mrs. Harback read comparisons of the work of overseas missions twenty years ago, with the effort being made today. She said, "I submit that our young people have proved themselves worthy of self sacrifice; the church is the one organization able to offer them a like challenge, but we are not presenting it to them. If we are giving ourselves to God's way, the work of the church will be a challenge, and they will not be long in accepting it. How are we thanking God?"

Mrs. Archibald voiced appreciation in behalf of all present, for this very inspiring challenge to self sacrifice and service, and expressed a hope that more women would enlist to meet the challenge presented.

"Meds" Study Chance Factor With Dice

Baltimore, April 16 — (AP) — Johns Hopkins University, which likes its medical students to play with dice, is faced with a shortage of galloping dominoes.

The university isn't going into the gambling trade but it would like to get 1,500 dice. Purely for scientific purposes, mind you.

Like the gambling fraternity, the students watch the dice roll to study the "chance" factor. Not how often a seven or eleven will come up, but something similar.

Some Bingo Games Ran into Big Figures in Quebec While They Lasted

By PAUL BOUDREAU
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, April 16. (CP)—The Quebec government's ban on commercial bingos locked the door on an enterprise of major proportions and left many religious and charity organizations seeking other ways of raising funds.

A provincial survey reveals that as far as can be determined no commercial games have been played in the province since Premier Maurice Duplessis clamed down last month and declared such games "constitute an intolerable challenge to the respect of laws and public interest, an intolerable danger to social welfare."

The Premier's announcement followed widespread complaints that the game was getting too big for itself, that it was entering the field of big business. Some Quebec merchants complained that women, the game's chief patrons, were spending so much money on bingo they had none left to pay their bills.

The province-wide ban followed a local ban imposed last year in Montreal by police and Roman Catholic Archdiocesan authorities. Bingo had become a major source of revenue for a number of Montreal parishes.

Quebec City Bingo Centre

In Quebec City, probably the largest bingo centre in the province, scheduled games were cancelled after the Premier's announcement and money was returned to players who bought tickets in advance.

No estimate has been made of the amount of money that went annually into the game which attracted thousands of players nightly to halls ranging in size from church basements to giant hockey arenas. But it must have been considerable.

Receipts generally were distributed two ways, part of them going in prizes to the customers and the remainder to the organizations for which the bingos were staged. A third party figured in many games, however the professional operator who ran the bingo for various organizations and took his share of the profits.

Huge Operator

Largest bingo operator in Quebec City was a grocer who said his equipment, including 32 telephones and loud speakers and—for one game—80,000 bingo sheets, cost him $5,600. He started giant games last November and ran them once monthly until the ban.

Eight thousand players attended this operator's biggest game, staged for an Ambulance Association. Gross receipts were $41,000. The Ambulance Society received $20,500 from this game, the patrons got $12,500 and the operator was left with $1,500 after paying rent for the hall, his advertising and miscellaneous expenses.

Bingo also was popular in country districts, especially in the eastern townships. Most bingos were on a small scale, however, and profits for organizations such as a Granby Hockey Club and a church choir averaged about $250.

Rural players took the ban in stride and sought other means of raising money, some considering raffles.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON

The Kibitzer

As for Lem E. Pretend, you can seldom depend on his first round of bids to the letter. When you realize that, you can wager your hat that his second round bids are no better.

In answer to an opening bid of two in a suit, immediate replies are in two classes. One is known as a negative response; the other as a positive response. One denies and the other admits a sure trick.

The negative response is a bid of two no-trump. At least, this is the signal commonly used as a negative response. It is so used by those who follow the Horse Sense method of bidding.

Now and then players experiment with other signals for a negative response. Like bidding the next higher ranking suit. Since this is not common, its use must be announced to opponents.

The negative response warns partner quickly not to expect an ace or even K Q in any suit. It advises that a slam must not depend on finding any sure trick in the responding hand.

After such a warning, however, the negative responder follows the normal order of choice of bids. On the next rounds he is guided by T-A-N; takeout first, assist next, no-trump last.

Thus, the T-A-N order of choice is really the standard guide for all bidding. The only time it is ignored is when some special signal is used. As when denying a sure trick to a two-bidder.

Partner opens with two spades when you have this hand:

♠Q 7 5
♥6 2
♦K J 10 9 3
♣8 4 3

You have a biddable diamond suit and an assist for spades. But your first response is two no-trump. You first deny a sure trick.

If partner then bids three clubs you bid three diamonds. On the next round assist spades. You have already denied having a sure trick. If partner is encouraged, he knows what not to expect.

A partner truthless is truly ruthless.

HERSHEY BEARS DEFEAT HORNETS TO WIN TITLE

Red Henry Turns in Fifth Shutout of Playoff Turning Back Pittsburgh 5-0

(By The Canadian Press)

Gordon (Red) Henry, 20-year-old goalie up from the amateur ranks, planned today to leave for his farm near Owen Sound to catch up on his spring plowing certain that he will have a permanent berth in professional hockey.

For Henry put up a brilliant show to lead Hershey Bears almost single-handedly to their first American Hockey League championship. Last night the rookie turned in his fifth shutout of the playoffs when in the seventh and deciding game of the Calder Cup finals he blanked Pittsburgh Hornets 5-0.

In chalking up his fifth shutout Henry broke a long-standing A.H.L. playoff record held by Moe Roberts who during the '38-39 playoffs scored four whitewashes for Cleveland. Henry's shut sequence began in the semi-finals when he blanked the Barons twice as Hershey Bears swept the best-of-seven semi-finals in four straight games.

Frank Mario, the playoffs scorer, put the Bears ahead in the first period when he deflected Buller's shot from near the blue line and in the second period Hershey made the score 3-0 on goals by Don (The Count) Grosso and Armand Gaudreault.

Grosso and Gaudreault teamed for the fourth Bear point in the final period, Grosso converting at 8:41, and Herb Cain notched the final Hershey point.

HIGHWAY DEVELOPMENT AFFECTED

Toronto, April 16 — (CP) — Highway development in many provinces last year was affected by shortage of materials and equipment as well as of labor, but millions of dollars will be spent this year on new main arteries and new methods of construction and new equipment to be used will be discussed at the 28th annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association at St. Andrews, N.B., Sept. 8-10.

29 Rookies See Action In Major League Openings But Established Stars in Spotlight

Newhouser, Greenberg, Williams, Reiser, and Sewell All Play Important Parts

By JOE REICHLER

A total of 29 rookies saw action in the major leagues on opening day, but when the firing ceased on the eight baseball fronts, it was such established stars as Hal Newhouser, Hank Greenberg, Ted Williams, Pete Reiser, Dom Dimaggio, Phil Marchildon and Truett (Rip) Sewell who stole the spotlight.

Newhouser, whistling his left-handed slants through rain and fog which dampened the inaugural at St. Louis, blanked the Browns 7-0 with four hits to get off to flying start toward his fourth consecutive 25-victory season.

Greenberg, playing his first championship game in a Pittsburgh uniform, broke up a scoreless duel between the Pirates and Chicago at Forbes Field by blasting a sixth inning double to drive in the run that nipped the Cubs 1-0. The blow enabled Sewell to best Hank Borowy as each hurler gave up five hits.

Drives In Two

Williams drove in two runs with a single and double to lead Boston Red Sox to a 7-6 triumph over Washington Senators. Dimaggio, in addition to playing superbly in centrefield rapped out three hits and scored twice.

Reiser scored three runs and drove in two to account for every Brooklyn run as the Dodgers defeated Boston Braves 5-3 at Ebbets Field. Pete's double in the seventh drove in the tying and winning runs.

Marchildon, Philadelphia's star hurler from Penetanguishene, scattered six New York hits to defeat the Yankees 6-1. Eddie Lopat, long a nemesis to Cleveland Indians outpitched the mighty Bob Feller 3-0 before 55,014, a record opening day crowd in Cleveland.

Phillies Win

Schoolboy Rowe and Del Ennis, last year's top rookie, combined to give the Phils a 4-3 win over New York Giants before 27,203 fans the largest crowd ever to see the Phils in a home opener.

Eddie Miller, the sore-armed shortstop who thought seriously of quitting the game this Spring, and Ewell Blackwell, last year's National League shutout king, conspired to upset the world champion St. Louis Cardinals 3-1 in Cincinnati's home opener.

In all, 244,698 fans witnessed the eight curtain-raisers, only 2,000 less than last year's record turnout. The day's largest crowd saw Feller, who suffered seven shutout defeats last year, again watch his mates fail to score a single tally for him. It marked the 10th time Cleveland was beaten by Lopat in 11 meetings, with the southpaw ace.

Record Even Better

Newhouser's record against St. Louis is even better. In refusing to allow a runner to pass second base, hurricane Hal made it 13 straight wins over the Browns over a three-year stretch.

After setting down the first 15 batsmen to face him, Tex Hughson, Boston's 20-game winner last season, faltered in the eighth, as the Senators scored four times to tie the score. The Sox came back to score the winning run in their half on a single, walk wild pitch and Bobby Doerr's long fly. A crowd of 30,822 attended.

The only record set was the 115,276 turnout at the four National League openers. The old mark of 114,304 was established in 1926.

ROYALS NEED BUT ONE GAME

Montreal, April 16 (CP)—The rejuvenated Montreal Royals paced by Tod Campeau with two goals and an assist blanked Sherbrooke St. Francis 3-0 here last night to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five Eastern Canada semi-final Allan Cup series. Fourth game will be played at Sherbrooke tomorrow night.

Royals, who suffered a 10-8 setback last Sunday after winning the first game 8-3, staged a close checking contest and allowed their opponents few scoring chances.

Campeau tallied in the first and second periods while Cliff Malone accounted for the other Montreal goal in the first period with Campeau helping on this marker.

More than 7,000 fans, the majority of them cheering the visitors on, took exception during the second period to a double penalty handed Sherbrooke. Defenceman Rollie Hebert and forward Ossie Carnegie were benched for minor infractions and the crowd showered bottles and programs on the ice. The game was held up ten minutes.

INDIES WELFARE MEET

Bridgetown, Barbadoes (CP)—A social and probation conference attended by officers from all British Caribbean territories was held here recently. The place of social welfare in the machinery of government, rural welfare work and training for social work were discussed.

ST. MIKES WIN FROM MOOSE JAW BY 12-3 COUNT

Powerful Irish Squad Just Too Much for Western Junior Winners

Winnipeg, April 16 (CP)—Heavy favorites to win the Memorial Cup and Dominion Junior Hockey Championship, Toronto St. Michael's Majors today found most of the fans calling on them to take the best-of-seven final with Moose Jaw Canucks in straight games.

The powerful Irish swamped the Canucks 12-3 here Tuesday night in the opening game which gave the capacity crowd of 5,000 little opportunity to get enthused. The second game is scheduled for Moose Jaw Thursday night and the third at Regina Saturday.

The one bright feature of Canucks performance was the work of diminutive Bev Bentley in the nets. Time and again he turned back the double-blue forwards as they came roaring in almost unmolested on the hapless goalie.

Les Costello led the scoring parade with three goals while Fleming Mackell and Ed Harrison scored two apiece. Bob Paul, Rudy Migay, Ben Woit, Jack McLellan and Len Kelly counted one each. Captain Ed Sandford checked in with five assists while Warren Winslow and Ray Hannigan each collected one.

Moose Jaw's goal, all in the opening session, were scored by Harvey Stein, Herb Lovett and Angus Juckes. The highly-publicized Metro (Marvellous) Prystai, who has failed to show his top form on Winnipeg ice this season, collected one assist.

DUMPED IN SEA

London (CP)—Fifty-five airplane engines which originally cost £3,200 ($13,120) each, and were surplus R.A.F. requirements were dumped in the sea off the Gold Coast after unsuccessful efforts to sell them as scrap, the House of Commons was told.

Hamlet Before Cameras

Laurence Oliver has started work in England on his screen version of "Hamlet", in which he is producer, director and star, as in "Henry V." His wife, Vivien Leigh, completely recovered from her recent illness, has been chosen to play Ophelia but a previous commitment with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer may prevent it. In that case the role goes to Jean Simmons, the 17-year-old British actress whose great ability has shot her to stardom.

Louis Prepared To Retire if No Fight in June

San Diego, Calif., April 16 — (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Louis announced here tonight that unless a titular defence is lined up for him this summer he is prepared to announce his retirement from the ring.

"My mind is made up," he said, "because a man can go on just so long. If I wait until next year it may be too late, so I am anxious to find out what plans can be worked out for me."

Louis said he is leaving immediately for the east, where a conference will be held to determine if Joe Baksi, American heavyweight who defeated Bruce Woodcock in London last night, is a capable foe for a June title match.

Referee Stops Fight in Seventh Round After He Was Downed Five Times

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 16 — (CP)—The knockout of Bruce Woodcock, Britain's white hope for world heavyweight honors, today left the Empire without a topnotch fighter able at least to go the distance with champion Joe Louis—a bitter disappointment to British boxing fans who had patiently waited for 10 years for another like Tommy Farr to come along.

Woodcock, upon whom hard-bitten British sportsmen banked on as an opponent for Louis, was chopped down by ponderous Joe Baksi, the former Kulpmont, Pa., coal miner in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Harringay Stadium last night.

Eleven thousand spectators, many of whom had paid as high as $84 for a ringside seat, saw Baksi send the British Empire champion to the canvas five times in the first two rounds. From then on it was a question of how long the Doncaster railroader could last.

Baksi won all six of the completed rounds and had Woodcock down when the referee halted the proceedings at 1:12 of the seventh.

Baksi weighed 213½, Woodcock 194½.

In 31 professional fights the likeable Woodcock was beaten only twice — in five rounds by Tami Mauriello last year in New York and last night.

PHIL MARCHILDON DEVELOPS NEW MYSTERY PITCH

Canadian Pitcher Says It Should Win Him 20 Games This Season

By JACK HAND

New York, April 16 — (AP) — Matty had his "fadeaway." Carl Hubbell his "screwball," Rip Sewell his "blooper ball," and now along comes Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene with a new mystery pitch.

Marchildon, the only pitcher on Connie Mack's staff who dares dream of a 20-victory season, had New York Yankees tapping weak rollers and lofting easy flies yesterday as he manufactured an easy six-hit 6-1 opening win.

It's all very mysterious, even the creator isn't sure what to expect but early results have been most effective.

"I don't want to say much about it," said the 31-year-old right-hander. "Let the hitters find out when they see it."

Described cautiously by its creator as something akin to a screwball with a Will 'O the Wisp dart, they'll be dubbing it the "miracle ball" if it can lift the A's out of their customary cellar finish.

Although he has not been publicized as the other established big league pitching stars, Marchildon is quite a pitcher. His low breaking "stuff" and fast ball accounted for 13 Philadelphia victories a year ago. And that was before the new pitch.

"This is something new that I worked out this spring with Buddy Rosar and Earle Brucker," Marchildon disclosed. "When it's thrown right it breaks as much as a foot. Before the war I used to try to throw it once in a while but I never could be sure it was going to work. Now I have full confidence in it."

There were days when Marchildon wasn't too sure he ever would pitch another ball game, especially the night in 1944 he spent 3½ hours swimming in the chill waters of Kiel Bay after his RCAF Halifax bomber had been shot down on his 27th mission.

"They gave us a little whistle to blow on such emergencies," he recalled. "I kept swimming around blowing on that whistle until I was picked up by a Danish ship. They turned me over to the Germans and I hit just about every prison camp in Germany until the British liberated us."

What's Doing in Sport

(By The Canadian Press)

William Graham, 57, for 25 years an official scorer at Toronto professional hockey games, died at his home yesterday. He began scoring for pro hockey when Toronto was represented in the National Hockey League by the old St. Patrick's team and continued when the team became Maple Leafs.

Toronto York Belting last night defeated Sudbury 50-43 at Sudbury to win the Ontario junior basketball final by a score of 94-80 on the round.

Montreal Y. M. H. A. last night won the Canadian juvenile basketball championship by defeating Broadview Y.M.C.A. at Toronto 43-37. Montreal won the round 89-86.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

If the meeting of the Belleville Baseball Association held in the Memorial Arena last night is any criterion, then the diamond season around these parts this year will be among the best in its history. There was a splendid turnout of team representatives, players, officials and fans and enthusiasm swept to a high plane soon after the conclave got under way. It was a happy augury for the coming season.

• • •

Five teams definitely signified their intention of entering. These are Stewart Warner Alemite, Napanee, Kiwanis Juniors, Bata and Trenton Flyers. Latta had a strong representation present and it is expected their entry will follow shortly. The league roster was held open for other teams which may care to enter and don't be surprised to see perhaps eight squads battling on the various diamonds come summer time.

• • •

President Don Thomas, after strenuous refusal, finally consented to re-election after Walt. Gerow Sr., who was the people's choice at first, finally convinced the boys he could not act. Thomas did a fine job in the chair last year, and it was the unanimous opinion of the meeting that he resume office. "Red" Townsend did not stand for office for the secretarial chair, and the lads nominated Ernie Summers, veteran baseball authority and former secretary and Eddie Schrieder for the job. On a close vote, the popular Ernie was re-elected to the post.

• • •

"Red" performed the difficult year facilitating the job of the capable manner last year and with his trio of youthful scorers maintained all records of the games player. "Red" will act as record-keeper again this year facilitating the job of the secretary.

• • •

Four members of the executive were elected by a ballot vote out of six nominated. Elected are Bill Cook; Art. Duncan, Batawa; Walt Gerow Sr., and Red Townsend. The executive has power to appoint three more members. Jack Divine was the unanimous choice of the meeting for the vice presidential chair.

• • •

Prexy Thomas in a brief address to the meeting thanked his executive of last year, the team managers, and the players for the fine co-operation given him which paved the way for the fine success enjoyed by the Association in 1946. He paid tribute to the various teams of the league which went into the OBA playdowns, Kiwanis Juniors, Bata, Flyers, Napanee and Latta, stating their showing had brought prestige to the district and the loop.

• • •

"All in all," he said, "the Belleville Baseball Association took a back seat from no other leagues last year, and the teams' showing in in Ontario Baseball Association was a distinct credit to all concerned."

• • •

He announced that the floodlights in the Exhibition Grounds were now in process of installation and would be ready for use by May 24 according to contract given the firm installing the arcs. New diamonds will be laid at the Exhibition Grounds and the Alemite Field, which, too, is under process of a Spring face-lifting.

• • •

Considerable discussion took place over the presidents suggestion that Belleville Association teams join the new proposed Central Ontario Baseball League, being mooted by Peterborough baseball interests, Peterborough, it was stated would enter a team and Batawa had signified its intention of joining the loop. It was desired that Belleville, and Trenton Flyers join, with the possibility of Port Hope making it a five-loop set-up.

• • •

Belleville, it was suggested, would have to select an all-star team from squads not affiliated with the OBA, providing of course that the new COBL came under OBA jurisdiction. Several members present felt that this city did not have the material to form a representative squad, while others stated that the new loop would seriously [illegible] from the city league insofar as attendance is concerned.

• • •

Trenton Flyers' representatives stated that they were interested only in the set-up as of last year, and they were contented to play in the Belleville Association and go on into the OBA playdowns. Bata representatives favored the new loop stating that it was not so much the idea of the calibre of the teams entered, as it was the fact that those concerned wanted to get the league started. However it was felt that no team in the league wanted to loan its star players, especially on the eve of city league games. The final decision was a resolution that the Belleville Baseball Association is not interested in joining the proposed COBL this year.

• • •

There was some discussion over the financing of the league insofar as advertising and miscellaneous costs were concerned. Some were in favor of increasing the entry fee of ten dollars while others suggested other means of raising the required amount. The financial statement showed that the league had a credit balance in the bank of fifty dollars. The matter was laid over to the next meeting in order to give teams a chance to discuss the matter among themselves.

• • •

It was felt that the seven-innings games as played last season did not prove satisfactory, and as there was plenty of time in the long summer evenings the regulation nine innings could be played. "Smoky" Smith, Batawa hurler was of the opinion that the seven-innings stunts were not fair to pitchers who flung seven innings games all season and in the playdowns were given a handicap when they had to pitch nine chukkers. A resolution endorsed unanimously called for nine-innings games during the coming season.

• • •

The season was likely to start in the vicinity of May 24, and it was suggested that the schedule be so drawn as to have playoffs completed by the time the O.B.A. playdowns started. This would eliminate the unnecessary confusion which was apparent last year, when teams were forced to enter playdowns while in the throes of league playoffs. Trenton Flyers asked for a few home games while Napanee requested that all home games be played on their own diamond. Both requests were granted.

• • •

The next meeting of the new executive was scheduled for Tuesday, April 29 with the deadline for league entries set for May 3. It is hoped that either Picton or Wellington teams may be induced to join the association, but this will be known at the next meeting.

• • •

It was one of the most successful baseball meetings held here in years with an attendance of nearly forty gathered in Walt Gerow's sanctum sanctorum. There were plenty of suggestions and lots of discussion, plus a lot of enthusiasm. The meeting did plenty of work and the boys were out in the open in plenty of time to hear the Leafs-Canadiens hockey match.

• • •

Well, so the Leafs and the Canadiens CAN play Hockey "as she should be played" if they settle down to the job at hand, play the puck instead of the man, and get out there and "die for dear old Rutgers." According to the radio ringside seat we had at the game last night the fourth joust of the Stanley Cup series between the hitherto feuding rivals, was one for the little red book or mayhap the family Bible.

• • •

Apart from a blustery first period when the boys threatened to get out of hand but were quickly brought to their senses by quick and snappy penalties, the game was one of those jousts that oldtimers rave about. There was speed, more speed and then drama. Lightning-like rink-end rushes usually culminating in sensational work by both Broda and Durnan had the Toronto faithful hanging on to their seats, their toupees and their bridgework.

• • •

It was a heavy checking affair with both teams thwarting enemy threats and waiting for the breaks. Finally Captain Syl Apps, climaxed a hockey thriller with a spectacular rush up the ice. He was turned aside but skated around the net. Again he circumnavigated the twine and slyly poked the biscuit past Durnan for the game-winning tally. That roar and crash you heard, was the roof leaving the Garden walls. The staccato reports came from Leafian mitts as they lustily pummelled the tired scapulas of the happy Apps. The Leafs now lead 3-1 in the series—and wotta meeting that will be in Montreal on Thursday.

OMAHA KNIGHTS BEAT PLA-MORS

(By The Associated Press)

Two high-scoring players today boosted Omaha Knight's roles of halting Kansas City's attempt to repeat as United States Hockey League playoff champions.

The two, Don Morrison and Winky Smith, were responsible for Omaha's 2-1 overtime victory over the Pla-Mors here last night as the Nebraska club stopped Kansas City after absorbing three straight losses in the best-of-seven playoffs. The teams resume competition here Thursday night.

Morrison, league-leading scorer during the regular season, knocked in the overtime goal and Smith accounted for Omaha's opening score in the second period.

Johnny Harms scored Kansas City's tally.

Apps Scores Winning Goal In Overtime That Gives Leafs Decided Margin for Stanley Cup

Toronto Defeats Canadiens 2-1 and Needs but One Game to Capture Battered Mug

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 16—(CP)—The brash young Toronto Maple Leafs had the Stanley Cup almost within their grasp today, thanks to their captain and centre ice star, Syl Apps, who banged home the winning goal with a backhand shot in overtime last night to down Montreal Canadiens 2-1 and give the Leafs a 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven series.

The 32-year-old veteran, for whom this season may be his last in the National Hockey League, broke up one of the most brilliant goaltending duels in modern Stanley Cup history with the goal he whipped past Bill Durnan in the Montreal nets at 16:36 in the overtime period. Harry Watson was credited with an assist.

The Leafs, for whom it was the third straight victory in the series after their defeat in the first game, now head for Montreal for the fifth game Thursday night. If a sixth game is necessary, it will be played in Toronto Saturday.

Both goaltenders — Durnan of the Canadiens and Walter (Turk) Broda of the Leafs — played sensationally before the 14,527 fans through the regulation 60 minutes and on into the overtime.

Each Beaten in First.

Each was beaten in the first period. Defenceman Glen Harmon scored for the Canadiens with three men in the penalty box — Gaye Stewart and Vic Lynn of the Leafs and Ken Reardon of the Canadiens. He took a pass from Toe Blake in a pattern passing attack in the Toronto end of the rink and Broda didn't have a chance.

Harmon's goal came at 4:38 and when Watson scored for the Leafs at 6:15 each team was still one man short with Lynn and Reardon still doing time. Apps set up the play.

Referee Bill Chadwick chased 12 players on minor penalties, seven Leafs and five Canadiens, and imposed two misconduct penalties — to Lynn and Reardon — for backchat.

Joe Klukay, the Toronto penalty-killer, was carried from the ice on a stretcher in the first period when his head was cut open as he was boarded by Reardon, who drew a minor penalty. But he was back in action before the period was over, the wound stitched up, and said afterwards it was his neck, not the head that was really sore.

Lineups:

Toronto — Goal, Broda; defence, Boesch, Barilko; centre, Kennedy; wings, Meeker, Lynn; subs, Apps, Ezinicki, Watson, Poile, D. Metz, Stewart, Klukay, Stanowski, Thomson, Mortson.

PETES LOSE TO OTTAWA CAGERS BY TWO POINTS

B'Nai B'Rith Team Will Journey to Maritimes for Semi-Final Series

Ottawa, April 16 — (CP) — Rube Molot's B'Nai B'Rith, Ottawa city champions, defeated Peterboro Outboard Marines 40-34 last night in the second and final game of their Canadian Intermediate basketball playdowns to win the round by a narrow, two-point margin and the right to journey to the Maritimes.

The Ottawa club was beaten 48-44 in the first game last night but their eight point margin Tuesday night was enough to give them the round by an 84-82 count and the right to meet Moncton, N.B., April 18 and 19 in a two-game, total-point series in the Canadian intermediate semi-final.

Morley Goldfield dropped one through the hoop from centre midway through the second half to spark the Ottawa win. Molot's boys were leading 20-15 at the end of the first half and relied on their checking ability and firing accuracy in the second when G. Burns and G. Nicholls led the Marines in brief rallied in the late stages.

H. Mosion was high scorer for the winners with 11 points while E. Levitan collected nine and R. Saslove eight. G. Burns set the pace for Peterboro with nine and G. Nicholls collected eight and J. Stewart seven.

The teams:

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By JACK AVESON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, April 16. (CP)—There'll be some changes made in existing hockey regulations governing replacements if the post-war fan has anything to say about the matter.

Such, at least, is the hope of Harvey (Winnipeg Free Press) Dryden, who views the wartime practice of being liberal with replacements as good enough in its day but as regrettable if permitted to continue now that hockey players are more numerous than during the 1939-45 era.

During the war, he says, the replacement system was allowed to run wild and at times practically made a fiasco of the interprovincial playoffs.

"Players would jump from one team to another as their clubs were eliminated from the playoffs and sometimes a boy would play with three or four squads before the hockey season ended.

The fans didn't mind it too much, says Dryden, since the high stakes were being played for across the ocean and people were fortunate indeed to get any sort of hockey in Canada.

But with the majority of the ex-hockey stars now out of services fans had expected that the 1946-47 season would see the replacement system curtailed drastically.

The biggest replacement farce of all time is described by the Free Press sports writer as having been pulled when the C.A.H.A. allowed Lethbridge's Joe Fisher to fill in for veteran Dave Duchak, manager of the Calgary Stampeders. Duchak didn't play last year and saw little service during the now fast-closing season, service which ended definitely when he suffered a wrist injury.

From the Calgary point of view, however, the replacement was not a bad one. Fisher scored one of the two goals netted by Stampeders in Monday night's game against Winnipeg Flyers. While Calgary lost the game they figure the Lethbridge Star will be good for several points during the rest of the series.

To Live With Love

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

CHAPTER 17

Funny, it had occurred to him only recently that Evelyn had no sense of humor. Or maybe, he thought, one as well-born as Evelyn doesn't see the funny side of things as he saw them.

He knew, too, with shame, Evelyn's beauty had not been her whole attraction. Ambitious, he had been equally fascinated by the surroundings in which she lived with Charlotte and Dick and with her cosmopolitan background. The boy who had begun as a twenty-five-dollar a week clerk had been lifted into a world where people casually spoke of titled foreigners as friends and to whom crossing the Atlantic, before the war, had been at least an annual and a not particularly exciting event.

He had stepped into the world, but he had not attained it. He had peeked in with Charlotte and Dick this summer, feeling distinctly uncomfortable when they lapsed into French with the titled refugee visitor, a man who had known Evelyn in her European days and who seemed to regard Bill as one of those rich, unimaginative American husbands necessary for a beautiful woman's upkeep, but not for her emotional satisfaction. Bill had felt his disdain sharply. Not that Charlotte and Dick had not been decent. Dick had said, "You don't know foreigners, Bill." Yes, he had peeked into that world. He didn't want any part of it now.

But he had a part of it. He had Evelyn.

Why couldn't he just look at the lights on the river and not think of those first years with Carol? The memories crowded together, they were so sweet in remembrance! Carol cooking in the tiny kitchenette...Carol laughing at his jokes...Carol saving dimes for his Christmas present.. Carol and he walking to a cheap movie, their only outside diversion those first lean years. She had created beauty where there was no beauty She had found fun and laughter in struggle. She had made dollars from pennies. She had made graceless living gracious. She had said, "I don't want too much money, Bill. It might change us. We might not like to do the little things we do now—walk to places and make up our own jokes and live closely because we haven't many friends and we have to be everything to each other."

He had not dreamed during those struggling days that one day he would look back upon them, remember them as sweet and desperately want them back.

Bill thought, "This isn't getting me anywhere. Why don't I go back in and forget it"

But the thoughts kept nibbling and with the thoughts came longing and aching...longing and aching for Carol. If he could just see her and talk to her it would be as if he had come home. He hadn't any home. The house that he and Evelyn had rented had never been home to him. He always felt as though it were a place he had rented for the night and the next day they would move to another place until eventually he would come home to the familiar things he had known with Carol...To his bed, to his favorite chair, to the convenience of having his clothes always in the same place and always clean and the cap always back on the toothpaste and the things he liked to eat served to him.

His mouth twisted into a wry smile as he thought, "I'd probably tell Carol I haven't had any fried chicken the way I like it since—"

Fried chicken...and the high road of romance with Evelyn!

When he thought of what Freda had said of the men interested in Carol, he winced. This shamed him, too, that he was selfish about her, that he could not bear to think of her belonging to anyone else or of another man's knowing her as he had known her.

The wind blew hot, then cold upon him. If he could only go back! If he could just wave a wand and obliterate the divorce and have his life as it used to be, his sane, orderly, certain life with Carol, his knowing that she would never blunder, that she always found words to put into his mouth when he needed them and ideas in his head when he needed them, too. If only he could have the fun and comfort and naturalness of that existence again!

Gone.. Gone with the wind," he thought with sickening sadness and regret." It's gone with the wind all right...I can only think about it."

There is no tracing paper for life. Never before had yesterday seemed so finished, a day to which you could never return to live over again with greater fullness and sweetness because you knew now and only now how sweet and full it had been the first time.

Not before had he admitted to himself the extent of his embarrassment when Evelyn was with his family. Consequently, he was also ashamed of his neglect of his mother. In the beginning of his second marriage he had thoughtlessly neglected his mother, but of late he had stayed away, telephoning her regularly, not because his mother did not like Evelyn but because Evelyn put his mother so much on her "company behavior" that the atmosphere was the same he remembered as a boy when the clergyman had come to call.

Stiffly his mother sat in her living-room trying to make conversation with the pleasant, but inarticulate Evelyn. The few times when they had been invited to dinner along with the other members of his family again the atmosphere had been painfully stiff and polite and wholly unnatural in a high-spirited family. They were afraid of Evelyn in that dim, inexplicable way that simple people are afraid of other people of a so-called higher cast. It recalled to him the dinner at his mother's home when Carol was with him and when the conservation had been thick and fast and often hilarious.

Evelyn thought it odd that his mother did not have a cook, but genuinely enjoyed cooking for her family. Bill missed, too, visiting his less successful brothers and having them come to see him and his long talks with Carol, about his family. He missed all of it... all of the tender, natural little things that had made up his marriage to Carol!

He thought, "I can't stand here all night thinking about this. I've got to go back in and join the party."

Slowly he walked back to the warm, crowded club house, seeing that only Thelma sat at the table and that Evelyn was dancing with Tom. He did not see Freda and Ian.

"What happened to you?" Thelma asked sharply. She pushed a glass before him. "This hasn't been touched. I wonder that you don't take to liquor more seriously.. Excuse me, I'm going to powder my nose."

So many people here, drinking, dancing, flirting, having a wonderful time.. His fingers tapped the cold glass. He looked at the glass, thinking how lonely you could be with so many people and so much gayety about you... How lonely, how full of longing to turn back the pages of your life.. He knew now how Carol had felt that night in November.

Freda was standing on the deck of her boat the next morning when Ian joined her. She was standing very still as she read the newspaper.

"What's up?" Ian asked. "What's the news?" So rarely did Freda stand quietly.

"Cornelius Weger is dead," she said in a flat voice. "His obituary fills a couple of columns. Heart attack brought on from strain over a lawsuit. Poor little guy. He didn't want to be old. He had so much money and he wanted a young wife. I'm glad Carol was sweet to him. I think he really believed that she would marry him."

A week before Christmas Carol and Scott came into Carol's apartment. It was late Sunday evening and they had come from dinner at Freda's.

Scott had asked, "May I come up and have a cigarette with you, Carol?"

She hesitated a moment, then, "Of course."

She had wished that they had said good-night downstairs because she was leaving the following day to spend Christmas with her father and wanted a long night of sleep.

The apartment looked inviting and intimate after the cold ride in from the country in the gently falling snow. Leaving Scott in the living-room, she went to the bedroom to take off her things and to fix her hair. Her small trunk packed, she had to step by it in order to reach her dressing table. Sitting down, picking up the comb, she regarded her face from which suddenly had gone all the excitement and anticipation of a sea voyage . because she had to go back and talk to Scott.

Months ago she had come to know that he bored her and that he had no secret he was withholding, but that his secretiveness held only shallowness and ambition and conceit. For these things she would forgive him. He was one of her few friends who had remained loyal. Later as she had begun to build a new life and new friends in the democratic hospital she had come to know that Scott was jealous of her new friends and that his wish to monopolize her caused his dark moods and deep, impenetrable silences.

It seemed to her a strange manifestation of love...if he loved her. He had not once said that he did and his only overdisplay of affection had been an occasional squeeze of her hand while dancing and his more than casual touch when he helped her on with her coat. Tonight at Freda's house he had been obviously ill at ease and preoccupied, and, coming home, he had uttered not a word. Like a cross, pouting little boy who will not tell you what is troubling him.

Yugoslavia Wants Slice of Austria As Peace Price

Asks $150,000,000 From Austria for Reparations

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

Moscow, April 17. (AP)—The Council of Foreign Ministers heard a demand today that a large slice of Austrian Carinthia be turned over to Yugoslavia in any peace settlement.

Yugoslav Vice Premier, Edvard Kardelj, repeated his country's previous charges that a third of the German army which fought in Yugoslavia was Austrian; that there were 80 Austrian generals in German army and that an Austrian general commanded the Air Force which bombed Belgrade at the war's start.

Foreign Minister Karl Gruber has insisted the Austrian government never would sign a treaty ceding Southern Carinthia. Gruber has American support, and the Yugoslavs are supported by Russia.

Demilitarization Zone

Kardelj, stating that one could not separate the German and Austrian settlement, suggested eight points for the treaty, closely paralleling Soviet proposals, regarding war criminals and the outlawing of Pan-German propaganda. These included one demand for complete demilitarization of the Austrian frontier with Yugoslavia to a depth of more than ten miles.

The Yugoslav Foreign Minister, Stnoje Simic, then presented a formal claim for $150,000,000 reparations from Austria.

Two sessions of the Council were scheduled for today, amid predictions that the day would show whether any prospect remained for completing the Austrian peace treaty here.

The chances of success actually depend on the willingness of the four powers to compromise outstanding issues.

Foremost of these issues is a determination of what constitutes German assets in Austria for reparations purposes, but decisions on the handling of Austria's displaced persons and on her future frontiers also are included.

Determined Not to Sign

In respect to the latter issue, the Yugoslavs—for whom Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj is the speaker here—are demanding that Austria cede Southern Carinthia to them, but Foreign Minister Karl Gruber of Austria insists that his government never will sign a treaty containing such a clause.

State Secretary Marshall is backing Gruber and Molotov has been supporting Yugoslavia.

On the displaced persons issue, the Russians take the view that the D.P.'s should be sent home, while the United States and other western powers contend this would force political refugees back under Communist-dominated governments from which they fled.

300 U. K. Firms Ready To Come, Want Buildings

Ottawa, April 17 (CP) — W. J. Cairns, Secretary of the Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, said last night that 300 British industries are ready to move to Canada as soon as buildings are available for them.

He had been given definite assurance of the desire of British manufacturers to emigrate to Canada, he said in an address to a quarterly meeting of the Boards. He urged that a special effort be made to induce these British industrialists to settle their industries in Eastern Ontaro.

Milch Sentenced To Life in Prison

Neurnberg, April 17 —(AP)— Field Marshall Erhard Milch was sentenced today to spend the rest of his life in prison for drafting slave labor into Germany's aircraft factories and using prisoners-of-war in the armament industry in violation of the laws of war.

The sentence was imposed by Robert M. Toms, presiding judge of the threeman United States court which conducted the former Luftwaffe chieftain's 10-week trial as a war criminal.

Milch, 55, heard the verdict in the same room where Hermann Goering and other Nazi leaders were condemned to the gallows last year by the International Military Tribunal.

Heart Stopped Beating, Doctor Started it Again

Kingston, Ont., April 17 (CP) —A patient whose heart stopped beating while she was undergoing an operation recently in Kingston General Hospital was discharged from hospital today.

The patient was Miss Margaret Alynn of Toronto, who was admitted to the hospital April 8.

While the operation was in progress, the patient suffered an acute cardiac relapse. Swiftly the surgeon opened the abdomen, just below the daiphragm. Inserting his fingers, he massaged the still heart through the thin membrance of the diaphragm. The heart started beating again, and the surgeon continued with the operation.

The surgeon refused to give his name for publication.

39 Lose Lives In Ontario Fires In First Quarter

Toronto, April 17 —(CP)— Thirty-nine persons, including 15 children lost their lives in fires in Ontario during the last three months of the year, the quarterly report from the Ontario Fire Marshall disclosed yesterday. For the first quarter this year there were 3,053 fires with a loss of $5,269,810. A year ago the totals were 5,585 and $4,170,403.

SAY HITCH-HIKER NOT HULL MAN

Cornwall, April 17 —(CP)— Provincial Police here said last night they were satisfied that a young hitch-hiker burned to death in a car transport crash near Lancaster, Ont., last week was not Jean Yves Crispin, 17, of Hull, Que., as had been reported earlier from Hull.

EXPORT CONTROL IS LIFTED FROM 136 COMMODITIES

Remaining Commodities Under Permit Now Number Less Than Half of Original 1,100

Ottawa, April 17 —(CP)— In the most sweeping removal of export controls yet made, Trade Minister MacKinnon today announced a list of 136 commodities freed from export control effective April 21.

The list includes a large number of food products, many leather items, china and pottery, and all types of rubber goods except cotton-covered elastic. Their removal leaves export controls on less than half of the 1,100 commodities subject to export permits at VJ-Day.

Citing the remaining classes of goods on which export controls will remain, and the reasons for retaining control, the announcement mentioned:—

1. Certain food items, because of Canada's contract to supply the United Kingdom and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, and commitments under the International Emergency Food Council.
2. Cotton, woollen, rayon and nylon textiles, because of domestic requirements.
3. Building materials including timber, nails, soil pipe, etc., because of housing needs.
4. Iron and steel, because of domestic shortages, and the danger that removal of controls would cause a diversion of needed iron and steel into products for export markets, and
5. Arms, ammunition and implements of war, "for strategic reasons."

'Flying Bishop,' Rev. W. A. Geddes Dies In Vancouver

Vancouver, April 17 (CP) —A veteran of 27 years of missionary work in Canada's northland, the Right Reverend Walter Archibald Geddes, 53, died suddenly yesterday while hopefully planning his return to duty in the Yukon after a lengthy illness.

Affectionately known as the "Flying Bishop" because of the wide use he made of aircraft to reach remote sections of his Arctic diocese, the Anglican Bishop of the Yukon has been living with his family here for five months after a serious heart condition compelled him to leave his Dawson, Y.T., headquarters.

Last Sunday he was well enough to attend church for the first time since he became ill and friends said he was planning an early return to his diocese.

Born at Grindstone, Magalen Islands, Que., in 1894, he attended Dalhousie University, Halifax and Wycliffe College, Toronto. He served overseas as a gunner with the 8th Canadian Siege Battery in France during the Second World War and was ordained in 1920.

Bishop Geddes devoted his life in the church to missionary work in the Arctic—his first charge was the most northerly of all Anglican missions—Herschel Islands—where he served from 1920 to 1928.

Jagged Pieces of Steel Fell Like Rain After Two New Blasts Rocked City

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

Texas City, Tex., April 17 —(AP)—The new ship explosions today that sharpened the sorrow and misery of this stricken city looked like a giant sky rocket. Coming 13 hours after twin blasts took hundreds of lives and injured thousands, it further stunned and dazed the weary citizens.

At dawn searchlights still probed crumbled steel and debris that covers uncounted scores of bodies. The blanket of black billowing smoke over the city is heavier than ever, the result of several new oil refinery fires caused by the newest explosions of the vessel High Flyer.

Just after 1 a.m. I walked into a downtown store building, walked to the centre of the big room and a terrific explosion shook the building and brought plaster from the ceiling.

Two seconds later came a second thunderous blast. I yanked the door open, plunged into the street. I watched red-hot steel streaming into the sky. A fiery black cloud climbed to 2,000 feet. Then steel fragments pinged on the sidewalk and pavement.

In the dock area the jagged pieces were falling like rain.

W. H. Boucher, a volunteer helper from Goose Creek, Texas, was in the danger area, helping to free trapped bodies from debris.

"The blast," he said, "blowed the buttons off my jacket. A piece of shrapnel cut the right leg off a man standing right beside me. A Red Cross nurse helped me fix him a tourniquet. Her head was bleeding but she didn't pay

JAGGED PIECES—Page 3

War Correspondent Never Saw Such Scenes As Witnessed in Texas

By HALE BOYLE

Over Texas City, Tex., April 17 —(AP)—In four years of war coverage I have seen no concentrated devastation so utter, except Nagasaki, Japan, victim of the second atom bomb, as presented today by flaming Texas City.

The damage along the waterfront of Texas City exceeds in intensity that inflicted on Bari Italy in the fall of 1943 when German bombers hit that port and 17 vessels went up in flames including three ammunition ships whose titantic explosions killed hunderds of allied troops and Italian civilians.

From the air the burning industrial port looks like a peacetime parallel to war-bombed Ploesti, Romanian oil capital.

The fire-ravaged industrial section and the peaceful residential areas offer the contrast between life and death.

One is a two-mile-wide torch. The other is the living pattern of a deserted village, its fate still dependent on whether the present favorable wind holds.

Angry smoke towering to 3,000 feet spreads from the city like a gigantic black wing—deep and dense where it joins the ground, feather-thin where the wind has dispersed it.

Tanks Blaze Furiously

At least a score of raw-oil storage tanks, each holding hundreds of thousands of gallons, are blazing furiously, engulfed in orange and black waves of hurricane-fire. They are studded through scores of other storage tanks, still intact but which may flame up momentarily.

Many of the tanks have been so badly battered by the blast that they look like tin cans crushed by children in a game of street hockey.

The waterfront area is in charred ruins. Only remnants remain of the Monsanto chemical plant that went up after the nitrate-loaded French vessel Grandcamp exploded yesterday morning.

White pillars sticking up from the ghastly wreckage bear a startling resemblance to row after row of military graves. And many do mark the death agony of scores of men whose bodies can never be recovered.

Fire Threaten Tanks

The fires are threatening high-octane storage tanks that can turn the whole area instantly into one colossal Roman candle. On the ground small groups of men recovering the dead, are also preparing to set off demolition blasts if necessary to try to save the rest of the city of 15,000.

So far the wind luckily is blowing the heat, smoke, fumes and flames south from the stricken industrial area and away from the residential section. A change in the wind might cost thousands of families their homes, as the flames already have taken their livelihood.

The empty homes—their owners evacuated—stand in lonely red-roofed beauty like white-walled toys. Those nearest the devastation have shattered windows, and their yards are littered with debris. Those on the outskirts bear no signs of the tremendous blasts.

Chunks of steel—similar to bomb-blown shrapnel in wartime—lie in street and yard.

The cattle in the fields, the only sign of life in this stricken city graze peacefully. They have forgotten their panic of yesterday.

These fires may burn on for days or weeks. The stunned city is as yet helpless against them. It can only wait and hope.

BRITISH ORDER PARTIAL LIFTING OF STRICT CURFEW

General Situation Throughout Holy Land Reported Quiet But Tense

Jerusalem, April 17 —(AP)— British authorities today ordered a partial lifting of the strict curfew which had held more than 500,000 of Palestine's Jews under virtual house arrest since the hanging of four Jewish Extremists yesterday at Acre prison.

There was no relaxation of vigilance, however, on the part of the military, who remained alert for the first sign of retaliatory measures which the Jewish underground had promised in the event any of its members were executed.

In general, the situation throughout the Holy Land was reported quiet but tense.

A minor incident was reported at Acre prison where approximately 100 prisoners staged a one-day hunger strike in protest against the executions.

However, trans-shipment of 1,552 uncertified Jewish immigrants from the refugee ship Guardian was completed at Haifa without trouble, three transports departing for Cyprus with the last of the immigrants aboard.

Sent to Detention Camp.

Sixty-four other refugees from the Guardian — which was intercepted off the Palestine coast last weekend — were sent to Athlit detention camp as unfit to travel. Twenty-two more were sent to the government hospital at Haifa.

Authorities announced the death in the hospital of Menahem Samet, 28-year-old immigrant who was injured while attempting to prevent the British from boarding the Guardian. He was the third to die as the result of injuries suffered in the operation.

In Tel Aviv, Haifa and Petah Tikvah the curfew was ended completely this morning after being in effect for a full day and night. In Jerusalem, it was lifted at 6:30 a.m. but was to be reimposed at 6:30 tonight.

An all-night curfew on road travel was ordered continued until further notice in all except purely Arab districts.

BIGGEST BLAST SINCE BIKINI AT HELIGOLAND

6,000 Tons of High Explosive Will Disembowel German Fortress Friday

By SEAGHAN MAYNES

Heligoland, April 17 —(Reuters)— Everything is in readiness for the biggest explosion since Bikini, fixed for Friday when more than 6,000 tons of high explosive will disembowel this former German North Sea naval base of Heligo Island.

Operation "Big Bang" is designed to destroy warship pens, coast batteries and 8½ miles of underground tunnels constructed by the Germans.

When I landed here with a party of British, Allied and German journalists, more than 100 former members of the German navy were trundling hundreds of torpedo warheads with 900 pounds of explosive into the island's underground concrete-lined tunnels.

Some of the German sailors were natives of the fortress island. They took no pleasure in stacking the masses of warheads, mines, shells and other explosives which will be detonated by a spark travelling from chamber to chamber at a speed of 22,000 feet a second.

British naval officers on the island were not prepared to forecast exactly what would happen when the gigantic mass was detonated.

They did, however, consider that the southern section of the 200-foot red sandstone cliffs would split and topple into the sea and that the massive naval gun batteries and flak batteries would be tossed upwards before sinking into caverns in the subsiding ground.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, April 17 —(CP)— Synopsis: The storm which yesterday caused snow and rain in Southern Ontario has moved rapidly eastward over Northern Ontario and this air mass will spread over all of Southern Ontario by tonight. For the most part temperatures east of the Rockies are below normal. A sharp contrast to the warm weather of the West Coast where yesterday the maximum temperature in Vancouver reached 72.

COMMONS GIVES SECOND READING TO CONTROL BILL

Opposition Challenged To Go to Country And Say That Legislation Is No Good

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 17 —(CP)— The Commons settles down today to the long, painstaking task of giving detailed study to the many clauses of the "omnibus" bill — the main government bill for the temporary extension of wartime controls.

A lengthy and often bitter, debate on second reading of the bill ended yesterday when, by a formal vote of 125 to 43, the House signified its approval of the principle involved. The Progressive Conservative party and two Quebec Independents voted in opposition to the measure.

The debate concluded much the same as it began, in a flurry of hot words, with John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) condemning the measure as the instrument of a "police state," and Acting Prime Minister St. Laurent challenging the official opposition to go to the country and say the legislation was no good.

Justice Minister Ilsley, too, entered the fray and charged that the views of the Progressive Conservative party had been tempered recently by what he called "sheer opportunism." At the House opening, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said the government had "no intention" of allowing the financial return of farmers to be reduced if the 10-cent subsidy on butter was abolished this month and disclosed that any price changes which might follow would be announced "shortly before" May 1.

Labor Minister Mitchell told the House the Dominion Employment Service had been offering for several months to move unemployed men from Nova Scotia to jobs in central Canada but had found them disinclined to leave their homes.

Sydenham Man Killed in Crash West of Kingston

Kingston, April 17 —(CP)— Sidney Orser, 70, of Sydenham, 13 miles north of Kingston, was killed today and Charles Gollogy of Kingston was seriously injured in an accident just west of Kingston on McMichael's Hill. Louis Tessier of Ottawa driver of a transport truck escaped with a few scratches.

Orser was driving his car east on highway No. 2 and, an eyewitness said, had attempted to pass Gollogly, who was exercising a race horse. The car crashed into the Smith transport, which was travelling west.

The front of the Orser car was smashed to pieces and Orser's body was pinned underneath the transport. Gollogly was rushed to Kingston General Hospital.

A-Energy Practical in 10 Years, U.K.'s No 1 Atom Town Folk Told

By RONALD BEDFORD

Harwell, Berkshire, England, April 17 (Reuters) — Citizens of Britain's No. 1 atom town last night got the official low-down on the big research site in their midst in the first of a series of six government-approved public lectures designed to shoo away awesome local whispers about what goes on within the fences.

Beta Rays spluttered and gamma rays cracked insistently on the "Clucking Hen" device used by scientists to detect the presence of radium as Dr. W. J. Whitehouse, one of the research station's senior technicians, gave a smooth two-hour address on fundamental physics to almost 100 villagers.

The impressed audience—small only because many people had to stick to their fields and repair damage from severe floods—heard Dr. Whitehouse say:

"We have nearly learned how to release atomic energy for practical engineering purposes. When I say very nearly, I mean that it will be in use within the next ten years or so."

During question time Dr. Whitehouse was asked for information about the statement made last week by Bob Edwards, assistant secretary of the British Chemical Workers Union, who alleged workers at an atom station in northern England were becoming sterile.

Dr. Whitehouse replied: "I am not sure whether I am treading on anyone's corns when I tell this but the birthrate at Chalk River in Canada, Canadian atom site where I worked was amazingly high."

More Blasts Rock Texas City; Fires Menace Oil Tanks

Estimated 3,000 Injured And Many Abandoning City

Washington, April 17 —(AP)— National headquarters of the Red Cross reported today 714 are known dead in the Texas City, Tex., explosions.

This figure does not include, the Red Cross said, approximately 200 dead "believed" to be buried in the debris along the city's waterfront where the first blast occurred.

The information, headquarters said, came from John C. Wilson of St. Louis, manager of the Red Cross midwestern area, who is receiving reports from organization workers in Texas City.

Previously, the headquarters had reported 400 bodies had been recovered and that the death toll might reach 700 to 800.

In both reports, the number of injured was placed at 3,000.

Texas City, Tex., April 17 —(AP)— Rumbling oil fires sending walls of black smoke a mile high crept close to eight leaking tanks of high octane gasoline here today and Texas City, rocked yesterday and today by five major explosions, waited tensely for more.

The death toll stood at an estimated 650, with 3,000 injured, said Dr. Clarence Quinn, medical co-ordinator appointed by Mayor J. C. Thahan.

Deputy Constable Herbert Whitmore of Galveston county said all of Texas City was in danger. He said if the wind shifted to the south "Texas City is liable to go."

The harbor area has been evacuated of rescue and relief workers. No effort is being made to extinguish the oil fires, but firemen are keeping it from spreading to nearby residential and business sections.

1,000 Now Remain.

The city's 15,000 residents had dwindled to about 1,000 today, said A. R. Duncan, Houston policeman. Many made homeless have moved to a nearby army camp and to Galveston, Houston and other towns.

The fear of chlorine gas last night caused others to leave. A false rumor that an official evacuation order had been issued, and caused hundreds to move. The gas is still a threat today, and gas masks are worn.

The task of embalming the 223 bodies at the improvised morgue in the school gymnasium was completed early today.

Only one instance of looting was reported.

Eighty thousand pounds of foamite was rushed here today from Baytown by the Humble Oil Company, and 120 new firefighters were sent by Shell to join those on hand.

New Explosions.

Three new explosions rocked this Texas coast industrial city today. They followed the two yesterday morning at 9:12 a.m. that set off the chain of disaster and tragedy described as the worst in Texas in half a century.

After conferring with the Red Cross, Quinn said that 400 were known to be dead and that another 250 dead were believed to be in the debris along the waterfront. He said that 3,000 were injured.

Other estimates of the dead ranged from 223 to 1,200.

At dawn a blanket of billowing black smoke covered the city, the result of new oil fires caused by the newest explosions of the Liberty ship Flying Cloud.

Deputy Constable Herbert Whitmore of Galveston county said all Texas city was in danger.

"If the wind turns back to the south, Texas city is liable to go," he said. If those tanks start burning we can't stop them."

Two More Killed

At least two persons were killed and 30 more injured early today when another ship, the High Flyer, blew up as tugs tried to tow her away from the docks.

The explosions began yesterday with a fire on another nitrate-laden ship, the French freighter Grandcamp, and later spread to the Monsanto Chemical Factory nearby.

Captain Volney J. Shown of the Houston Police Department and director of rescue work in this disaster-swept city, said that five minutes before the High Flyer blew up he had ordered the evacuation of 400 rescue workers from the harbor area. Only 50 men were in the area at the time of the explosion, he said.

Two Explosions Heard

Two explosions were heard at 1:10 a.m. when the High Flyer blew up. There was a third explosion at 3:15 a.m., but there was no immediate information concerning it.

Shown said that two tanks of the Atlantic Oil Refinery already were burning at the time of the explosion. Earlier the State Highway Patrol said that an oil tank on the Republic Oil Company's tank farm had exploded.

Long lines of cars poured out of the city, indicating that many were abandoning the city after the latest blast.

Throughout the night relief workers searched the waterfront ruins for dead and injured. White and Negroes carried bloody oil-soaked stretchers bearing the dead.

Wear Gas Masks

Priests, some wearing gas masks as protection from poisonous gases from burning chemical company plants read services for each body as it was brought into the ambulance area. Some of the trucks pulled away with bodies stacked four and five deep.

Only Few Located

Only a comparatively small number of the 800 employees of the chemical company plant are reported to have been located.

Collection station attendants expressed fear the chemical company death toll might push fatalities above the 1,000 mark.

Only police, military personnel and relief workers were permitted to remain in the city last night.

An estimated 500 policemen, 250 troops and 250 special deputies were patrolling streets.

Gas danger was reported slight, in that the only known gases at the Monsanto plant were styrene, propane and butane. Thousands of homeless residents were taken out of the city by army trucks, buses, special trains, and private cars.

Chief of Police W. L. Ladish said that only essential personnel would be permitted to remain here today and no one would be permitted to enter the area except on official and essential business.

Anglers Want East Lake Closed To Net Fishermen

The Picton Rod and Gun Club, at its regular meeting this week passed a resolution asking the Fish and Wild Life Division of the Department of Game and Fisheries to close East Lake to net fishing, also that Smith's Bay be closed to fishermen using nets. It was pointed out that West Lake has been ordered closed and the club felt the same measurers should be adopted for the waters mentioned.

Tourists, it appears, have complained that they pay $5 for a fishing licence only to find the fishing grounds in the lake and bay filled with nets set for commercial fishing.

Sixty members were in attendance and enjoyed a smelt supper.

CAPT. EARL HAND, D.F.C., APPOINTED

Toronto, April 17 —(CP)— President G. Fay Davies today announced appointment of Capt. Earl Hand, D.F.C., of Toronto, as honorary secretary of the Dominion Command of the Canadian Corps Association.

Maj. Gordon Johnson, Former Resident, Trade Commissioner In Scotland to Retire May 1st

Former resident of Belleville and currently Canadian Government Trade Commissioner to Scotland, Major Gordon Johnson O.B.E. of Glasgow, will retire from the service in May of this year it has been learned. Mr. Johnson was born in this city in 1880 and was the son of the late J. W. Johnson, member of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario for many years.

He has been Canadian trade commissioner since 1913 when the Canadian government sent him to China and Japan. He has been at his present post in Glasgow since 1921.

Major Johnson's appointment as Canadian trade commissioner came following a military career commenced in 1900 when he graduated with honors from the Royal Military College at Kingston. At that time he received one of two commissions in the Royal Engineers awarded by the War Office in that year to the graduating class of the R.M.C. in Canada.

Proceeding to England he attended the customary 18 months' course for young officers at the school of military engineering at Chatham and at the completion of his course was posted to Colchester. In 1903 he was transferred to Colombo, Ceylon.

Offered a post as engineer on the construction of the Shanghai-Nanking railway in China by the British and Chinese Corporation in London, he resigned his commission in the Engineers and remained with the railway until its completion in 1908. Declining an offer of permanent way engineer with the railroad, Major Johnson returned to Canada where he engaged in engineering activities.

The year prior to his going to China and Japan as trade commissioner Major Johnson married Vaughn Avery daughter of the late F. W. Avery of Ottawa. There were two sons, the younger, Michael, being killed in action in N. W. Europe in April 1945.

Served In World War I

When the first World War broke out in 1914 Major Johnson returned to England and rejoined his old corps, the Royal Engineers, in which he served until the spring of 1919 when the Canadian Government sent him to Rio de Janiero as trade commissioner. He was transferred from there to Glasgow.

During the last war he was a member of the Home Guards in Dumbartonshire area and, as head of the only Canadian Government office in Scotland, was engaged in many activities associated with the war.

Legion to Canvass Own Membership For Building Fund

With options already purchased on the Dundas Street property as a site for the proposed new Legion Memorial Hall, a campaign within the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Legion will be inaugurated on Monday April 21 lasting through Monday April 28, officials announced today.

Following the branch campaign a general campaign for the building fund will get under way to which residents of the city and district will be asked to contribute.

The campaign is being launched to build a Memorial Hall that will be a meeting place for all Belleville and district ex-servicemen and women; a memorial to the faith of those who died in service; a hall useful to all citizens—for youth projects service club meetings and other worthwhile gatherings; a symbol of Belleville's forward-looking spirit, a building that will add to a visitor's estimate of the city.

The Belleville branch of the Legion through its own member campaign is evidence that veterans of the city are wholeheartedly behind their project, and are willing to do their own share and more in the raising of the funds necessary to the construction of the new Memorial Hall.

Charged Journalists Plied House Members With Liquor In Attempt to Secure Leads

London, April 17 — (Reuters) —A charge that journalists in the House of Commons plied members of parliament with liquor in a deliberate attempt to get from them secret information about private parliamentary meetings has been made in a newspaper article written by a Labor M. P., Quentin Hogg, Conservative, said, in the House of Commons Wednesday.

Hogg tabled a copy of the London World's press news, trade newspaper, for April 3, in which he said Garry Allighan, Labor member, under a heading "This may be dynamite," had made "a deliberate charge of corruption against the lobby journalists and the House of Commons."

Quoting from the article, Hogg said that Allighan, a former news editor of the Daily Mirror, had revealed that he himself had approved payments to regular 'contacts' who were members of parliament. They had given the newspaper "stories, info and tip-offs."

Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard had printed reports of at least one of an average of 12 private parliamentary meetings each week. There was nothing "mystic" about the way the story leaked out, the article said.

After reading passages from the article, Hogg declared: "I submit that I have made out against the author of this article, against the publisher and owner of the newspaper, and against the printer a prima facie case of breach of privilege of the House of Commons which is flagrant and grave."

The speaker, Col. Douglas Clifton Brown, ruled that a case of breach of privilege had been made out and the matter was referred to the committee on privileges, which will make a report.

Quoting from the article, Hogg said every newspaper in Fleet Street " 'has anything up to half a dozen M.P.'s on its contacts list.' "

Some M. P.'s were "lubricated into loquacity" at the bar.

Many reports had been accurate verbatim reports, the article said.

" 'Who can have taken the speeches down? I reply, any one of the score or more M. P.'s who can be seen at every party meeting making voluminous notes.' "

The article said, Hogg continued, that both the London Star and Evening News had good "leak services."

any attention to herself. The man was conscious but he didn't say a word. He didn't even moan. I stayed with him until they brought up a stretcher and carried him off."

Fifteen seconds after the second explosion rescue work got under way. A loudspeaker across from the city hall came to life with a man at the microphone profanely urging action. A siren wailed and then there was a chorus of wails and patrol cars and ambulances gunned up the street heading for the water front.

In seven minutes ambulances had returned, discharging the first casualties in a heavily spotlighted area back of the city hall. Two dozen cots soon were filled. Doctors and nurses administered emergency aid and walked between the cots. All the men were conscious, all were silent. Some grimaced with pain. They huddled under their brown army blankets.

Mrs. Clay Martin, 38, Houston nurse, circulated among the patients. She went on working in spite of eight broken ribs by jagged shrapnel. All day long she had been in the dock area.

"It rained steel out there," she told me wearily. "It was awful. A man near me got an eye knocked out. Another fellow got a foot cut off. I'm darned lucky to get out with broken ribs."

The dead lie on benches and tables. They are embalmed, and identified, numbered tags are wired to their toes and then they are carried to the temporary morgue, a high school gymasium which still contains the wilted decorations of a school party.

Danger of Flood Damage in Man. Believed Past

Winnipeg, April 17. (CP) — Danger of extensive flood damage in Manitoba was believed to have passed today as both Red and Assiniboine Rivers continued the drop in water levels which started yesterday.

In the path of the receding waters, however, was a death toll of one, 50-year-old William Swetz, of Dauphin, who drowned yesterday when he fell into a hole in the ice on nearby Edwards Creek.

At Headingley, 14 miles west of Winnipeg, waters which had engulfed low-lying farm lands were creeping back slowly to more normal levels and farm families who had been prepared to evacuate their homes doubted if the necessity would arise after all.

MORE BLASTS

Scores of bodies are piled on benches and tables in a midtown garage and in a nearby school gymnasium.

Dozens of embalmers were at work in the garage as people gathered outside in expressionless groups.

Police cars with public address systems broadcast instructions to rescue crews, warning against looting and smoking and calling for "blankets, sheets, coverages."

W. H. Waring, vice-president of the Texas City Terminal Railway Company, who had left the Grandcamp five minutes before she blew up, said the fire was discovered aboard the ship early in the morning.

Not Under Control

The firemen fought the blaze with water and steam, but were unable to get it under control, Waring said. It was decided to tow the vessel out into the bay, but before the ship could be gotten away from her brth, she suddenly blew up. That was at 9:12 a.m. CST.

Seconds later terrific explosions wrecked the Monsanto Chemical Company's plant, 700 feet to the north, and the nearby Stone Oil Company's refinery.

"I was working in a warehouse 25 yards from the ship when it blew up," Philip Flores, a young army veteran, said. "The concussion knocked me down. I crawled over to some flour sacks and buried my head under them. Then a few seconds later the (Monsanto) chemical plant exploded.

"The roof and the walls of the warehouse were coming down around me. I got up and ran for my life. Later I helped pull the bodies out of the wreckage. It was the most terrible thing I've ever seen."

One man who worked in the chemical plant and lived through the explosion told this story:

"I was getting ready to leave one of the buildings in the chemical plant when the ship exploded. It knocked me down. I got up and tried to run. Just as I did the chemical plant blew up. The walls and roof came down around me and knocked me out. It was pitch dark when I came to. I'll never know how I got out. I'm a lucky guy to be alive."

Buildings were damaged in Galveston, 12 miles away, on the other side of the bay. The shock of the concussion was felt in Palestine, Tex., 150 miles away and in Port Arthur and Orange, 100 miles away.

Hundreds of people had been attracted to the waterfront by the fire aboard the Grandcamp. The death toll among these people and workmen in the two plants was heavy.

'You Bet I'm a Vet' M. Sanderson Dies Suddenly

Toronto, April 17 — (CP)—The one advertisement almost certain to give newspaper readers a regular smile was missing today.

Instead, was the death notice of Montague A. Sanderson, former advertising man and vermin exterminator, whose erudite dissertations on his trade, coupled with his political whimsy, made fascinating reading for regular readers.

Always bearing a photograph of his smiling face, his advertisements — varying from one to four columns in width — advised readers how they should vote at an election in the same manner as they were told how to rid their basements of mice or silverfish.

Periodically he would reveal peculiarities of say, the cockroach's private life, and at the same time he would warn readers to wash their hands of Communists or similar radicals. He pulled no punches in his ads — which once led him to court for libel—either in his description of vermin or political characters he disliked.

All during last New Year's municipal election campaign—when he ran a Board of Control candidate — the 57-year-old head of Reliable Exterminators Limited, who died yesterday of a heart seizure, told readers: "I'm out to exterminate the Communists!"

He was defeated but he enjoyed the fun and took credit for reducing votes of Communist candidates.

A native of Toronto where he attended university, Sanderson served in the First World War, an experience that lent authority to his wartime advertised admonitions to soldiers, bond buyers, workers and those conducting the Canadian war effort. His photograph always bore the caption "You bet I'm a vet."

Torontonians may learn from other sources how to get rid of vermin but they probably will never again see the equal of "the bugman's" version of advertising.

Make Safety a Habit

Expressing appreciation for the traffic safety campaign now being conducted in many Ontario centres in connection with National Safety Week, the Hon. George H. Doucett, Minister of Highways, paid tribute to the work of the various Junior Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce throughout the Province.

"The Department of Highways," declared the Minister, "is particularly gratified to see the splendid results which these young men are obtaining in their effort to make the public more safety-minded."

"Each spring," Mr. Doucett points out, "traffic accidents start to increase and continue to mount all during the summer and fall months. Right now is the time for everyone of us to begin walking and driving as if our very life depended upon our personal use of the highways . . . as indeed it does."

Mr. Doucett said that in anticipation of a serious traffic safety program the Department of Highways had devoted months of intensive research, planning and preparatory work and that a comprehensive, continuous program of public education in regard to traffic accident prevention, backed by strong law enforcement and safety engineering, has been laid and is now being put in action.

"We, at the Department," stated the Minister, "sincerely hope that National Safety Week will result in such a widespread realization of the absolute necessity of safety-consciousness, the public will carry out the safety week principles every day of the year. Sweeping amendments to the Highway Traffic Act and the proposed establishment of an "unsatisfied judgments" fund are all designed to protect, not only Ontario citizens, but our visitors as well. However, unless we learn that highway safety is a personal problem and that consideration for the other fellow is one of its prime factors, accidents will continue to mount, and the safety week slogan — "Injury Is So Painful — Death Is So Permanent" — may be words that just don't apply to somebody else."

A great deal of the safety lies in the manner of driving but not all. The car is a vehicle that must be kept in condition. Brakes must be in order and the owner and driver of the car must know that they are in order. That is his duty. The lights on the car and the windshield wiper must be functioning properly and the rear-view mirror must be correctly placed.

Motoring is one of the most pleasant forms of pleasure and it is tragic if failure even for a fraction of a second to exercise care may cause, injury or death.

Motorists and the pedestrian public that there must be a co-operation of all to make safe driving and safe walking second nature. The pedestrian has a duty in this age to walk so that his action will not conflict with motor regulations and their observance.

Safety Week is being observed also in the United States at this time. The whole North American Continent should take the lessons to heart at the opening of a new season.

Britain's National Income in 1946

Britain's national income last year amounted to slightly less than £8,000,000,000 ($32,000,000,000) compared with about £8,350,000,000 ($33,400,000,000) in 1945. The national income reached its peak in 1944 and has fallen since then by about £400,000,000 ($1,600,000,000) or 4%.

In 1946 the amount spent by the United Kingdom overseas exceeded the income by £400,000,000 ($1,600,000,000.) This means that despite the rise in the volume of exports up to the 1938 level, the country was still financing about 25% of its overseas expenditures by borrowings from abroad and the sale of United Kingdom-owned assets in other countries.

Of the United Kingdom's external liabilities at the end of the year nearly £3,000,000,000 ($12,000,000,000) were to sterling area countries and nearly £850,000,000 ($3,400,000,000) to North and South America, the latter figure including drawings on the Canadian and U.S.A. credits during 1946 to the extent of £279,000,000 ($1,116,000,000).

During the year the government (including local authorities) spent $2,300,000,000 ($9,200,000,000) on goods and services. This was less than half the level of expenditure in each of the peak war years 1943 and 1944.

Expenditure by the public on the other hand, reached a record high value of £6,600,000,000 ($26,400,000,000), an increase of £700,000,000 ($2,800,000,000) on that of 1945. If the goods and services bought by consumers in 1946 had been bought in 1938 they would have cost £4,300,000,000 ($17,200,000,000) — rather more than the amount actually spent in that year. Although consumption was still below the pre-war level, there was a definite improvement during 1946, the rise over the previous year's level being estimated at about 9%.

These figures are given in the annual White Paper issued by the United Kingdom Government on April 13th on the national income and expenditure of the United Kingdom for 1938-46.

Delusions of a Dictator

Release by the United States Army of the partial minutes of wartime conferences of Hitler and his advisers shows one of the fundamental weaknesses of governments built around one personality: a self-delusion which none of the yes-men dares to dispel. Hitler was a captive of his own propaganda. He came to believe the untruths that his propaganda agencies were feeding the German people about the weaknesses of the United States. He obviously believed the exaggerated claims made for the German Army and the German Air Force.

If his delusions had not had such tragic consequences for the world they would be laughable: that American boys couldn't fight; that an invasion of Italy could be halted by spreading rumors of malaria epidemics; that our machine civilization had made neurotics of all Americans; that all American farmers were incompetent cripples; that we were a nation of wandering, undisciplined mobs; that Mr. Churchill's agreement to the appointment of General Eisenhower as Supremee Allied Commander for the invasion was a "sly trick' 'played on us by the British.

All dictators know that if their program is to succeed they must seal off their own people from information, from the picture of things as they are. That program generally ends, as it did with Hitler, with themselves being sealed off from the news they must have if they are not to commit the fatal blunders that Hitler made. There is no substitute for a free press.

—New York Times.

Speaks Volumes

Fifteen Soviet wives of British subjects may never see their husbands again.

Russia won't grant them exit visas to leave the country.

The reason? They are needed, badly needed and would be "deserting their posts" if they rejoined their families.

With some two hundred million people in the land it is surely about the most strenuous exaction of a planned economy on record that fifteen souls must be held by the Kremlin's orders.

This is about the most callous official action produced in post-war months. And it tells more about Russia than all the reports and analyses that could be gathered up and dissected by experts: Tells much more.

—Hamilton Spectator.

Just Reminders

A Nazi general convicted and sentenced for murder on the grand scale goes to his doom. Hoess protested that the prosecutors under-estimated his killings by a million or so.

Simultaneously, a transcript of a 1945 Hitler-Jodl conversation, released at Frankfurt, reveals Adolf calling for ruthless treatment of Allied war prisoners to discourage German soldiers from deserting.

With those assigned to forge a German peace persistently deadlocking in Moscow, the two news items merit joint consideration as reminders of the character of our late enemies.

SECOND BIRTHDAY

Two years old! and may I be
Here to shout when she is three.
Then I'll ask for one year more,
Just to see her smile at four.
Eager still, I'd stay alive
To behold her when she's five.
After five, with all its tricks,
I shall want to wait for six;
Then postpone the joys of Heaven
To be here when she is seven.
Still unsatisfied, I'll pray
'Til she's eight on earth to stay,
Hoping God will grant me then
Time and health for eight and ten;
Not contented, till I've seen
Little Jane at sweet sixteen.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How does quicksand differ from ordinary sand?

Literally "quicksand" means "live sand," quick here retaining a degree of the archaic sense it has in "quicksilver," "quicklime" and "quick and dead."

The term is applied popularly to a bed of loose, wet sand into which heavy objects readily sink. It differs from ordinary sand in that the grains have been worn small, smooth and round by the action of water. Banks or beds of such sand often accumulate in streams, estuaries and flat stretches of seashore, where the water is prevented from running off by underlying layers of impervious material and where the sand is kept constantly wet and stirred up.

The infiltrating water lubricates and separates the particles of sand and creates a mobile and unstable mass which behaves very much like a fluid but is too dense to permit quick movements as in swimming. Sometimes the mobility of quicksand is increased by the presence of calcium carbonate and tiny flakes of mica. This mixture of water and sand possess no mysterious "sucking power" as commonly believed. Its density is greater than that of water and it will support the body of a man or horse provided there is no struggle.

But if the sand is sufficiently saturated with water it readily yields to the foot of man or horse and the entire body begins to sink slowly. An effort to draw out the foot quickly creates a partial vacuum and a sucking effect. Upon finding himself sinking in quicksand, a man generally becomes frightened and makes the mistake of struggling frantically. Drawing up one foot rapidly increases the pressure on the other and this action repeated in succession causes the unfortunate victim to be engulfed by the mobile mass. If he did not struggle he would not be completely submerged by the sand.

Therefore a man finding himself on quicksand should try to float, as it were, by assuming a horizontal posture to distribute his weight over a large surface and by struggling as little as possible until he can roll off the sand or receive aid. He should try to remove his feet by slow, steady pulls.

Since quicksand does not differ in appearance from other sand it has become notorious as a source of danger to travellers and stranded ships, and the symbol of double-dealing and treachery. In Shakespeare's III Henry VI Queen Margaret refers to the Duke of Clarence as "a quicksand of deceit."

The dangers of quicksand, however, have been greatly exaggerated in fiction. Very few persons have lost their lives in real quicksand, which is not common. Much so-called quicksand is merely fine mud covered with ordinary sand, a much more dangerous combination. Ships, boats, trains, carriages and similar objects are engulfed in quicksand only when the sand is so saturated with water that it virtually constitutes a liquid.

During a storm in 1703 13 British warships ran aground on the Goodwin Sands and the wrecks were completely swallowed up. In 1878 a train of the Kansas (now Union) Pacific Railroad fell into Box Elder Creek at Watkins about 25 miles west of Denver. The great weight of the locomotive carried it so deep into the sand that it could never be located, though continually probed for to a depth of 50 feet when there was virtually no water in the bed of the creek. A locomotive and train also sank into sand beyond recovery at Pueblo, Colorado, in 1875.

COMMONS GIVES

He was dealing with a statement yesterday by Clarie Gillies (CCF Cape Breton South) that there were 2,200 unemployed veterans in Cape Breton who would be ready to take employment anywhere.

Concluding the control debate, Mr. Ilsley said Mr. Diefenbaker's arguments had shown a "lamentable and shocking" lack of proportion and expressed belief the Progressive Conservative party had weakened its stand on controls "very much." It had called for immediate decontrol at the opening of parliament but was not following the same line today.

Detects Change

He said he detected a change in the party's position since Progressive Conservative members had returned from the Easter recess and had learned the true sentiments of the people.

Mr. St. Laurent said the bill would give the government power for 12 months to proceed with orderly decontrol. It would not give the government any new powers.

The government, he said, had the responsibility of seeing that the control measures did not fall by the wayside and it would discharge that responsibility to prevent chaos from developing in the Commons. It could not be truly said that freedom was being destroyed.

Diefenbaker Levels Charge

Mr. Diefenbaker charged that the regulations embodied in the bill existed only in a police state, a state "which we certainly don't want in this country." and said he could not understand why these sweeping powers were not being repealed.

There could be no freedom when the Governor-in-Council could say to officials: "No matter what you do, right or wrong, you will always be right and there will be no appeal to the courts." The right of recourse to the courts must be returned to the individual.

Ross Thatcher (CCF — Moose Jaw) said that the continued removal of controls would be followed by inflation, depression, labor unrest and demands for higher wages. Manufacturers were taking advantage of shortages to make undue profits.

William Bryce (CCF — Selkirk) said the removal of controls had led to increases in the cost-of-living but had not been followed by an increase in the price of the products of Canada's farmlands. The middlemen who sold the farmer's products were taking an unfair profit.

Unexploded Bombs, Exposed Ammunition On 230,000 Acres

London, April 16 (Reuters)—Unexploded bombs and exposed ammunition still placed out of bounds in Britain 230,000 acres of land, war secretary F. J. Bellenger told the House of Commons yesterday. Answering questions about the danger to children, Bellenger said ammunition in roadside dumps was patrolled by guards, but the shortage of manpower made it difficult to make safe all areas where there was exposed ammunition.

THE PLACE OF SUGAR IN NUTRITION

Readers should take any statement of fact or opinion in this column as my own—what I believe to be true—unless I ascribe it to some one else. And readers should remember that I am no authority but just a plodding, one-horse-and-buggy doctor.

So far as nutrition, digestibility, calories, energy, refreshment of fatigue or tiredness or exhaustion and suitability as food for infant, child or adult may be concerned, beet sugar, cane sugar, glucose, dextrose, maltose, lactose (milk sugar), fractose (fruit sugar, honey) or mixtures of two or more of these are all of the same value and no one type of sugar has any virtues or deficiencies that are not common to all types.

Each gram (about one-fourth of a teaspoonful) of any kind of sugar yields the same number of calories as a gram of starch yields, approximately 4 calories, which is equivalent to 112 calories for each ounce or about 1800 calories in the pound of sugar or starch. An adult lying abed requires 1800 calories a day to supply enough energy to maintain vital functions and normal body temperature; 1800 calories a day, from whatever source, would be a reduction diet for an adult who is up and about. The everyday intake of the average American sedentary or moderately active adult is around 2800 or 3000 calories, and most soldiers, sailors, hard workers and athletes require 400 calories or more a day just to supply the immediate demands of vital functions, muscle work, repair of wear and tear and, in persons under 25 years of age, growth.

In any emergency, where extraordinary effort or endurance is required, sugar in one form or another is the best refresher, restorer, bracer or supporter available, for a marathon runner, long distance swimmer, mountain climber or one on a long march. The sugar may be carried as sugar or as candy, sweet chocolate or similar confection, or taken in sweetened tea or other sweetened beverage or in ice cream, or eaten in the form of raisins, dates or other sweet fruit fresh or dried.

Sugar is ideal emergency food because it is so easily and so quickly assimilated and oxidized or burned as fuel, and no physician or physiologist will venture to challenge my reiteration of the fact that beet or cane sugar, raw, crude, brown, refined or white is in every respect the same as any other sugar or mixture of sugars in human nutrition, infant, child or adult nutrition.

Starch — potato, wheat, corn, tapioca, arrowroot, sago—has the same caloric value as sugar but is not quite so quickly effective as an emergency restorer or refresher because the starch must first be converted into sugar in the digestive tract before it can be assimilated. In everyday nutrition, however, this conversion of starch into sugar is negligible—both forms of carbohydrate are the same so far as maintenance of health, vite, weight may be concerned.

There is just enough room left, I hope, to mention a significant observation of one of the nutrition authorities who first synthesized vitamin B (thiamine), Robert R. Williams, Sc. D., who said it is a crime against nature to use as a staple food refined white flour (which is principally starch) and throw away or use as animal feed the mechanism that grows in the wheat and is essential for efficient assimilation and metabolism of the starch (the vitamin B complex in wheat).

Next time we'll tell you more about the role of vitamin B1 (thiamine) in carbohydrate (sugar and starch) metabolism (darn these technical terms, but by now I hope a lot of casual readers at least get the drift of it).

Iodin at Fifty

Miss Pettingill Addresses Club On Canadian Art

Forty-nine members of the Prince Edward-Belleville Women's Club held their April meeting in the Board room of the Y.M.C.A. with the president conducting opening exercises.

In the absence of Mrs. Parliament, Mrs. L. Wannamaker accepted the office of Secretary-protem. Messages of thanks were read from those who had received cards; and a letter from Flt. Lt. Lee, padre at Mountain View Airport. He thanked the club for the Bible which had been used in the Protestant chapel at the station, and which he returned to the club as the station is now closed.

Mrs. W. F. Osborne presented the program. Both Susanne Cavers and Jack Calnan contributed vocal selections which won for them Bulova wrist watches in the final contest held recently in the Capitol theatre. As a token of appreciation Mrs. S. Anderson presented each of the young vocalists with sheet music.

Mr. Wm. Connor, organist in Holloway St. United Church, contributed two very fine piano solos, which were greatly appreciated by the ladies.

Descendant of Old Family

The speaker of the afternoon Miss Gladys Pettingill of Wellington was introduced by Mrs. W. Thomas. Miss Pettingill is a descendant of one of the oldest families of Prince Edward County, whose traditions have been handed down through several generations. For years Miss Pettingill has been on the teaching staff of the University of Winnipeg. She has traveled extensively in America and abroad, and is an authority on both American and Canadian art.

Her address centred around Kansas and Missouri states; the history and characteristics of some of their noted personages, John Brown, Carrie Nation, and America's leading artist, J. Sinclair Curry. Miss Pettingill had with her a volume of reproductions of the paintings of great American artists and with this background she summarized the work of Mr. Curry which includes the natural aspects, life and mannerisms of the people of Kansas.

Her address was very interesting as well as instructive, and appreciation was expressed by the president.

A contest, "How Well do you Know Prince Edward" was staged by Mrs. C. Calnan, with Mrs. G. Gorsline and Miss C. Anderson winning prizes.

At the close of the program refreshments were served, the conveners being Mesdames Nightingale, McCoy, Vanderwater, Roblin, Anderson and Weese. Co-hostess es for the Y.M.C.A. were Mrs. Burley, Mrs. Button, Mrs. Osborne and Mrs Boyd.

Central Ontario Liberal Assoc. Elects Officers

Peterborough, April 17 —(CP) —Farquhar Oliver, Liberal opposition leader in the Ontario Legislature, in a speech last night to the Central Ontario Liberal Association voiced severe criticism of Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government attitude towards Dominion-provincial agreements.

Mr. Oliver said the federal government had offered "a virtual $74,000,000 rental for taxes collectible in three fields," income, corporation and succession duty taxes. The Ontario Premier's "refusal" to sign an agreement had cost the province the difference between $74,000,000 and $44,000,000.

Mr. Oliver also charged that Dr. T. H. Hogg had been removed as chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission by Premier Drew because "someone had to be the scapegoat" for power shortages, which likely would continue another two years.

Bruce McNevin of Lindsay was elected president of the association. Lorne McDonell, Kingston, and Mrs. Herbert McCabe, Belleville, were elected vice-presidents, with J. W. MacDonald, Orillia, as secretary and Senator Rupert Davies of Kingston as treasurer.

Variety Program Presented By H. & S. Assoc.

The Cannifton - Corbyville Home and School Association held its regular meeting on Monday evening with an exceptionally good attendance.

Mrs. Ralph Plumpton, president of the association explained the purpose of the program which was based on the idea of knowing the school and teachers. The result was very satisfactory. It is generally known that many parents, due to the modern system of teaching, are at a loss to know what the meaning of some subjects are. Through the co-operation of the teachers these subjects were thoroughly explained to all.

Miss Hilda Treverton, teacher of the junior pupils covered the subject of Phonics. Mrs. McTaggart, intermediate teacher, covered Science and Health and Mr. G. Locklin, principal of the school and teacher of the senior grades, covered Social Studies and Mathematics and gave a general outline of the new principles in teaching. A recess of twenty minutes was then permitted to all parents, to retire to their own children's class rooms for inspection of work, also to secure an opportunity to speak to the teachers personally in regard to the children's progress in school.

Outlines V.O.N. Work

Miss G. Connors, the V.O.N. nurse for the school gave a thorough and interesting outline of the work accomplished, and system in which a child's health is taken care of.

Mr. Clarence Bird, chairman of Trustees, introduced the members of the board who were present, to the parents and outlined their plans for improvements to the school.

Mrs. Don Milton, vice president, took charge of the social part of the evening. Two talented young ladies, Miss Marjorie and Miss Edna McPherson of Corbyville, who have appeared at the Rotary Club in Trenton and other local places favored with two songs and an encore.

Novelty Skit

A very hilarious Fashion Show of "ladies' styles" was demonstrated by four gentlemen who very appropriately displayed their latest fashions. Mr. Gordon Locklin, displayed what a modern young Miss wears to high school, even to the chew of gum and the powder puff. Mr. Aldon Boyd and Mr. Earle Gilbert of Cannifton, made their appearance as Glamor Girls and last but not least, Mr. Norman Curlette of Corbyville, displayed the latest in night attire. After this enjoyable feature everyone settled down to a very delectable lunch of colored Easter eggs, sandwiches, cake and coffee, served by Mrs. Jordan Latchford and her group in charge of the social committee.

Earlier in the evening Mr. N. Curlette made an announcement of definite plans for the Home and School Association euchre and dance scheduled for the latter part of the month.

Fourteen new members were welcomed into the association.

Women Are Some of the Smartest Traders in London's Diamond Bourse

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 17 — (CP)—London's ancient tradition as a city of traders still flourishes, and nowhere more vigorously than in a tiny area just above Holborn.

Here you find Hatton Garden, the street of silversmiths and diamond merchants. A block away is Leather Lane, lined with barrows and stalls from which are hawked odds and ends ranging from watch springs to imitation nylon stockings.

On a lane correcting the two is the London diamond bourse, nondescript enough in appearance, but the scene of daily transactions running into thousands of pounds.

Swap Diamonds in Lunchroom

Members of the bourse meet here to trade chiefly in diamonds, but other jewels also change hands. The ground floor room is small, and crowded with little tables, each equipped with a salt and pepper shaker. A lunch counter at the back of the room dispenses light meals.

The room is in constant stir and hubbub. Beared patriarchs drop into chairs facing hard-eyed youngsters. Hands dip into pockets and produce paper packages which, unfolded, reveal a small fortune in diamonds.

Other members cluster round, talk with one another, display their own treasures. There is constant traffic up some narrow stairs to a room above where diamonds are weighed and cleaned by boiling.

Smartest Members are Women

'It's a lovely grub, isn't it," said a dealer, pointing to another who was poring over a paper of diamonds beside his lunch plate. "He's got a fistful there, hasn't he? Ah, there are some smart fellers here, not to mention women. Some of our smartest members are women— seem to have an instinct for dealing in jewels."

There is also some smart trading on Leather Lane, a few yards away. Here a hoarse-voiced salesman demonstrates the keenness of a glass cutter; at the next stall there's a display of second-hand beads, cigaret cases and junk jewelry, at a third, old magazines.

There's even a fish stand along the line, giving the air a tang all its own. Farther along a stocking salesman draws a crowd around him by playing an out-of-date foxtrot on a tiny gramophone.

C.A.S. Activities

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors was held on Tuesday. There was a good attendance.

Mrs. J. A. McFee presented the Treasurer's report. Total expenditures equalled $3,532.27.

Mrs. Lent reported for the Clothing Committee showing an expenditure of $248.77. The splendid co-operation and faithful service given by the ladies of this committee is deeply appreciated as it means many hours of time and tired footsteps, yet willingly given with a smile for the sake of the little ones under the Society's care.

Superintendent Ruston gave a full report of the activities of the Society and dealt with several outstanding cases that had occurred during the past month. He also mentioned six cases of desertion that had come to the Society's attention during this period.

Arrangements had been made for Mr. Lockyer to give a report of his work but owing to an urgent case in Trenton, he was prevented from being present, no doubt he will be heard from later.

Final arrangements were made for the annual meeting to be held on Friday, April 25, when the Society will have the pleasure of welcoming the Honorable W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Public Welfare, who will address the gathering. A good attendance is anticipated.

"Suppose there were no Children's Aid or Family Welfare Society in this community." Rather a sobering thought isn't it?

Ivanhoe

Ivanhoe, (Special.)— Winter has ended. The great banks of snow, once so picturesque have settled into the brown earth. The fields are again bare. The sap has ceased its running. The buckets are being lifted and syrup makers, tired and satisfied have returned from the woods for another year. The soil is calling. Farmers are preparing for another seed time. Some are hauling fertilizer and others are repairing fences. People indoors and out are rapidly forgetting the disadvantages and disappointments caused by blocked roads and cold weather. Seeds and Fall grains have wintered well. Roads are being graded. Cream trucks are making their familiar rounds again. Cheese makers are busy making repairs in preparation for another season's operations. Housewives are busy painting and papering inside and raking yards outside, steadily removing the marks that winter months have caused. Hope and courage have been revived, but all remember that food prices are steadily mounting as is the cost of living in other areas. Your correspondent met a housewife recently who stated that a piece of beef weighing a trifle over three pounds which she had purchased at a good price contained fourteen ounces of bones when they were removed after cooking the meat.

55 Montreal Families Living In Police and Fire Stations

By ISADORE ALBIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal April 17 (CP)—To families housed in comfortable apartments, the average home means a nice four or five-room flat with all the necessary conveniences but to 55 Montreal families it means living in police and fire stations.

Many of these temporarily-housed families live in drab and unsanitary rooms of old police stations, but as Mrs. John McLaughlin one of the station dwellers, said, "we're better off living in our four-room apartment than staying on the street."

Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin and their little daughter, Grace live with three other families in old No. 8 police station on downtown Signeurs Street. They have been living there for nearly four years, because they were unable to find an apartment.

The problems experienced by the McLaughlins can be duplicated many times. Living in a cold and damp apartment more than three years ago, little Grace then aged one year, contracted pneumonia and her ftaher was stricken with pleurisy. Landlords refused to rent them dwellings; they wanted no children.

Assistant director Conrad Saint-Amant of Montreal's department of Social Welfare said the majority of the temporarily-housed have been living in the police and fire stations since 1943.

"Increases in the number of evictions, coupled with the fact that we are unable to obtain any type of dwelling for the evicted, greatly aggravates our problem of housing these people," he said.

The Social Welfare Department, faced with many other public-welfare tasks is doing its utmost to help solve the tremendous housing problem of Montreal teeming with more than 1,000,000 persons and thousands of country people who flocked here during the war and stayed.

Housing Enterprises Buys Brockville Military Hospital

Ottawa, April 17. (CP)—Housing Enterprises of Canada Ltd. bought the Military Hospital building at the the Brockville Training Centre for $3,892 on condition that it be removed and that the salvaged materials be used for housing projects, a Commons' return said yesterday.

Answering questions by G. R. Webb, (P.C.-Leeds)—the return said every consideration had been given to representations on behalf of the Brockville General hospital but since it was not prepared to pay the price set by War Assets Corporation "and appeared to feel that the building should be transferred to it without charge," the building was disposed of to Housing Enterprises.

EIGHTY OUT ON STRIKE

Peterborough, April 17 (CP)—To enforce demands for a 15-cents-an-hour wage increase, 80 employees of the Peterborough Lumber Company went on strike Wednesday.

The strikers are members of the national union of furniture Workers (A.F.L.). Union President Roy Beeler said the company offered increases of 7 1-2 cents an hour for all workers in the 57 1-2 cent-an-hour bracket and five cents for workers paid more than 57 1-2 cents. He added that the company also offered some time ago to pay for two holidays and granted a voluntary check-off.

The plant, considered one of the largest in this section of Ontario, produces doors, sashes, frames, interior trim, dressed lumber and cove siding.

STRENGTH DWINDLING

Copenhagen, April 17 — (AP)—An official bulletin said today that King Christian, who suffered a heart attack Easter Sunday, had spent a quiet night and that his condition generally was unchanged.

Crown Prince Frederik told a cabinet council yesterday that there was "little hope" for the 76-year-old monarch's recovery and physicians said his strength was dwindling.

Violin Will Prove Valuable if Prove To be an Amati

Buffalo, N.Y., April 17—(AP)—Public Administrator Samuel Sapowich said he was carefully guarding 61 violins found in the shop of the late Paul M. Rodet because a family representative had told him "some of them are priceless."

The violins were discovered yesterday in cases and in dusty closets in the tiny violin shop where Rodet died of natural causes Sunday.

The administrator said he was sure that at least one of the instruments was worth over $5,000 if the signature it bore was genuine. It was signed "Nicholas Franciscu Amati, in Cremona" but bore no date.

Amati ranked with Stradivarius and Guaranerius as a violin maker while Cremonia was the Italian violin making centre.

Two other violins were signed "Antonius Siradiuarius Cremonentis" with the inscription "Faciebat Anno 1716."

Brantford Meters Making Money

Brantford, April 17. (CP) — Brantford's 312 parking meters are making money. From Dec. 9 last year when they were put into operation, until March 31, receipts amounted to $6,886.

Receipts for March were the largest, amounting to $2,000. Previous collections were: February $1,691, January $1,785, December $1,410.

Police have expressed satisfaction with the meter operation from the standpoint of traffic improvement and Police Chief Harry Stanley, said another 40 meters were on order. They will be placed to "fill in" areas downtown.

British Smokers Bear Brunt Of New Taxes

London, April 17 (CP)—Britain's smokers found themselves bearing the brunt of the new tax levies in the budget while the country as a whole found a crumb of comfort in the reassuring picture drawn by Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, of the soundness of Britain's internal finance.

The general trend of newspaper comment was one of grudging approval of the higher tobacco duties levied in the budget which Dalton brought down yesterday in the House of Commons. But most editorials agreed that the increased duties—one shilling (20 cents) more on a pack of 20 cigarets and one shilling two pence (24 cents) more on an ounce of pipe tobacco—would be "highly unpopular."

Surplus Predicted

In other directions, the budget produced a few outstanding concessions or added burdens for tax-sated Britons.

Announcing the first balanced budget for 10 years, Dalton predicted a surplus at the end of the 1947-48 fiscal year of £270,000,000.

There was one bright spot for women. Silk stockings have been classified in the scheme for utility clothing, making them free of purchase tax.

The Times condemned Dalton on "no little moral courage" in stepping up the tax on cigarets from two shillings fourpence a pack to three shillings fourpence and on pipe tobacco to approximately four shillings an ounce.

The Financial Times, long opposed to government nationalization policies, however, called Dalton's "talk on budgetting for a surplus . . . moonshine," because the surplus had only been created on paper by "'clawing back' the sweepings of past budgets."

"Daily Worker" Blasts "Tobacco Rationing"

The Conservative Daily Express owned by Lord Beaverbrook, called the tobacco increase "a heroic measure" but the Daily Worker, Communist, blasted it as "tobacco rationing in its most despicable form — rationing by means of the purse instead of rationing by means of the rationing book."

The first opposition attack in the continuing budget debate was delivered in the House last night by Anthony Eden, deputy Conservative leader, who said the prospective surplus was not a revenue surplus but a windfall of various items such as receipts from sale of war stores which were non-recurring.

It merely showed there had been some "slack counting", he declared.

Main Tax Changes In Britain's Budget

London, April 17 — (CP)—Following is the full list of tax changes announced yesterday by Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, as he brought down his budget in the House of Commons:

Earned income allowance raised from one-eighth to one-sixth and the maximum untaxable income from £150 ($600) to £250 ($1,000) —back to the 1940 figure at a cost of £62,000,000 in a full year and £55,000,000 this year.

Children's allowance increased from £50 to £60—the pre-war figure —at a cost of £15,000,000 over a full year and £13,000,000 this year.

These two changes relieve 750,000,000 from all income tax and reduce the tax for millions of others.

There will be income tax relief on a dependent-relative allowance, enabling £50 maximum still to be given as allowance if the relative's only income was an Old Age Pension. The allowance would not disappear until an income of £120 was reached. The cost will be £10,000,000 for a full year, £8,000,000 this year, and will benefit 1,000,000 taxpayers.

Income tax changes will be effective as of April 6.

May Claim Credits

Men over 65 and women over 60 will be repaid the last two years of their post-war tax credits built up during the war. Any man reaching 65 or a woman reaching 60 hereafter will be able to claim all five years' post-war credits in one single payment.

The penny-a-gallon duty on fuel oil and gas oil will be repealed effective 6 p.m. today at a cost of £4,150,000 in a full year and £4,000,000 this year. Subsidies on home-produced fuel and gas oils will be continued.

Silk stockings were added to clothing free of purchase tax.

Tax on linoleums and similar floor covering reduced.

Tax on sports requisites—bats, sticks and other equipment—for football, cricket, hockey, boxing and rowing cut from 33 1-3 per cent to 16 2-3 per cent effective at midnight tonight.

Reductions on customs and excise will cost £9,000,000 in a full year, £8,000,000 this year.

Total cost of tax reductions will be £96,000,000 in a full year, £80,000,000 this year, of which income tax relief will account for £87,000,000 in a full year and £76,000,000 this year.

The Chancellor said he had carefully considered a tax on betting and was convinced that he would not receive substantial revenue from it. To tax all forms of betting would present most formidable administrative difficulties.

Car Taxes Unchanged

He could hold out no hope for reduction in motor-car taxes.

He proposed to double all stamp duties relating to stocks and shares.

He proposed also to double the stamp duty on transfers of real property. On transactions of £500 or less, the stamp duty has been 10 shillings per cent for nearly a century and he proposed to leave it there.

Dalton proposed to double the rate of legacy and succession duties—now one per cent for widows and children and five per cent for brothers, sisters, nephews and nieces and 10 per cent in other cases.

He expected that the various increases in the stamp duty would yield an additional £20,000,000 in a full year and £12,000,000 this year.

The profits tax was increased to 12 1-2 per cent in distributed profits but remains at the present level of five per cent on undistributed profits. Individuals and partnerships will be free from the profits tax, the net gain in revenue being £20,000,000 in a full year.

Heating Tax Restored

Dalton proposed to restore the tax on domestic heating and cooking appliances at the rate of 66 2-3 per cent of wholesale value. The tax on a further group of gas and electric appliances would be doubled to this level. Lighting appliances, radios, and electric clocks remain tax free.

Customs duty on imported tobacco leaf was raised to about 50 per cent from 35 6d per pound weight to 54s 10d per pound weight.

The effect of this would be that the price of a packet of 20 cigarets will be raised from two shillings four pence to three shillings four pence. The price of most tobaccos will go up by about one shilling two pence an ounce.

Aside from income tax changes and removal of the duty on artificial silk, all tax changes are effective at midnight tonight, a Treasury spokesman said.

Rudolf Hoess Hanged for Crimes At Prison Camps

By LARRY ALLEN

Oswiecim, Poland, April 16 — (AP)—Rudolf Hoess, convicted of sending 4,000,000 persons to death while Nazi commandant of the Oswiecim (Auschwitz) extermination camp, died on the gallows yesterday before a handful of guards and justice officials.

Calm to the end, the 47-year-old prisoner removed a wedding ring from his finger as he mounted the gallows and asked that it be sent with a farewell letter to his wife and children living somewhere in Germany.

During his trial, the prosecution contended that Hoess had ordered the gassing and cremation of some 3,000,000 Jews and 1,000,000 other men, women and children from a dozen countries.

Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz, once a prisoner at Oswiecim, told the tribunal that Hoess had carried out his work of extermination "sadistically and at his own free will and pleasure."

MAILS DEAD BOMBER

Regina — (CP) — With mail arriving at the Regina Leader Post recently was a letter from Tony Seeman of Mazenod, Sask., "Please find enclosed a mosquito I found flying around on March 23." The mosquito was dead.

Sales of Liquor Permits Lower

Toronto, April 16 — (CP) — Sales of liquor permits during the first 15 days of this month have been "below normal," chairman William Griesinger of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario said yesterday. He attributed the decline to the lifting of rationing from all liquor except imported Scotch and Irish whisky.

"When we had rationing, every adult member of some families bought a permit," he said. "One permit now is sufficient to meet a family's needs."

Car Driver Convicted

Toronto, April 17 (CP)—Harold Steeves, alias Harold Hartley, Tuesday, was convicted of manslaughter in the death of his 18-year-old sister, Ruth, in a highway accident last Nov. 26.

He will be sentenced April 21.

Evidence was that Steeves was the driver of an automobile which overturned on outskirts of Toronto and caught fire. Ruth Steeves, trapped in the wreckage, was burned to death.

From a sample of Steeves' blood which was analyzed following the accident, Dr. Gordon Dobbin, medico-legal expert, said he concluded that at the time of the accident Steeves was "definitely under the influence of alcohol".

The Assize Court jury added to its verdict a recommendation for mercy.

Oak for Westminster Hall Supplied In 1394, 1947 from Courthope Estate

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 17 (CP)—When brisk, businesslike Lord Courthope of Whiligh, 70, walks through Westminster Hall, 600 years of English history are in harmony.

Courthope is an authority on trees and a member of the forestry commission.

When he looks at the soaring roof of the 900-year-old building that has seen triumphs celebrated, heroes disgraced and statesmen honored, he is aware that the Courthopes and Westminster continue their firm old association in a changing world.

Their links are of oak, stout and strong as any crown in England.

The roof and rafter oak provided from the Courthope Sussex estate in 1394 and was required by William Rufus to enlarge the original Westminster Hall and make it the finest building in England, 240 feet long, 68 feet wide and 92 feet high.

It lasted with few repairs until May 10, 1941, when the German bombers made what appeared to be a concentrated attack on the parliament buildings of which the hall is a part. The precious roof was set afire and the rafters burned. But the ancient supports and trusses remained, little damaged.

Now oak from Courthope property is being used to restore the roof. Some of the oak being used at Westminster was actually growing when the first trees were cut 600 years ago.

Busy Place Today

Today Westminster Hall is a busy place given little reverence apart from that demonstrated by visitors. On the wide stone floor, where brass plaques recall the trial of men like Sir William Wallace, Guy Fawkes, King Charles I and Warren Hastings, modern builders have erected wooden cloak rooms for members of parliament and painted them a cream color which obscures the venerable stone of the walls.

The members walk about under sailcloth canopies to prevent injuries from chips of wood falling while the roof is under repair.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE -CIS
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

They had kibitzer trouble from way back. Even the ministry calls attention to them over 400 years ago. Sunday before Christmas in 1529, in a sermon preached by Latimer at St. Edmund's Church in Cambridge, they heard:

"And where you are wont to celebrate Christmas in playing at cards, I intend, by God's Grace, to deal unto you Christ's cards, wherein you shall perceive Christ's rule.

"The game that we play at shall be called Triumph, which, if it be well played at, he that dealeth shall win; the players shall likewise win; and the standers and lookers upon (kibitzers to you) shall do the same.

"The Triumph must apply to fetch home unto him all the other cards whatever suit they be. Then we must say to ourselves; what requireth Christ of a Christian man? Now turn up your trump, your heart, and cast your trump, your heart, on this card."

Trump (triumphant suit) is from the game of triumph that led to whisk in 1600 and called whist (1670.) Moulded with bieritz (1880) it became bridge whist, auction bridge, contract bridge in turn. Kibitzers were breathing down their necks all the way.

Kibitz the south hand of a deal. You see the cards here:

♠A
♥A K Q 6 5 3
♦A K J 4
♣A 3

Here is a hand that looks as if its (triumph) trump suit will be hearts. It so happens, however, that the contract finally ends in diamonds. So, you never can tell from where you sit.

The best final trump suit is not the one in which your own hand has the most and best cards. It is the suit in which your pair holds the best combined values.

As a kibitzer, there is the temptation to lean over and tell this player what to do. Some do it while snapping their bubblegum.

ASSUMPTION WINS FIRST GAME OF SEMI-FINALS

Defeat Montreal Cage Team by 58-49 Count, Second Game Tonight

Windsor, Ont., April 17 (CP)—Assumption College Purple Raiders, defending their title as senior "A" basketball champions of eastern Canada, today were within one victory of a repeat performance and another try for the Dominion title.

The Raiders defeated Montreal Y.M.H.A., 58-49 last night in the first game of their three-game eastern title series and remained slight favorites to end the series in the second game here tonight. But the Montrealers, on the strength of a driving second half in which they outplayed and outscored Assumption were far from conceding the result.

The Raiders' nine-point victory margin was a far cry from the pre-game prediction of Coach Stanley Nantais who's said they would beat Y. M. H. A. by 30 points a game.

Assumption had a half-time lead of 34-21 but saw it whittled down dangerously as the Montrealers came within five points at one stage.

Duduy Bloomfield, Montreal centre, led all scorers with 17 points. Bill Coulthard was Assumptions top marksman with 16.

If a third game is necessary it will be played here Saturday night. Winner of the series is scheduled to leave Sunday for Vancouver Meralomas for the Dominion title in a series starting April 28.

Fashion Show Report Gratifying To The Members

The regular monthly meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary was held Tuesday afternoon in the Nurses' Residence with the President, Mrs. C. A. Cameron, presiding.

A gratifying report was given by the treasurer of the very successful Fashion Show held in the Capitol Theatre, last month.

The committee in charge reported on the distributing of 54 Easter baskets, which included fruit and chocolate bars to the patients in the Indigent Wards.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the introduction of two members from the Beta Sigma Phi Club. This club of girls and young married women are joining the Auxiliary and the members have been appointed as a committee to take charge of the sewing and knitting for the "Samaritan Cupboard" in the hospital.

A very special treat is in store for the members next month when Mrs. I. L. Moore will give a talk on her trip to Australia.

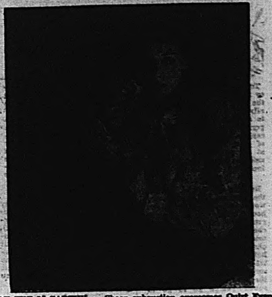
EXPECT LARGE CROWDS

New York, April 17. (AP)—With the defending champion Montreal Royals tabbed the team to beat, the International League opens its 64th consecutive season today with some 60,000 fans expected to witness the inaugurals.

The classy Royals open up at Syracuse where 7,500 fans are expected. The other openers find Rochester at Newark with 12,000 fans likely to be on hand, Toronto at Baltimore with 18,000 spectators expected for the night game and Buffalo at Jersey City with probably between 25,000 and 30,000 rooters.

MENTAL ILLS GROW

Vancouver — (CP) — Mental illness is becoming a bigger problem in British Columbia every year and there is a great shortage of accommodation in which to care for these people properly. Dr. Ernest A. Campbell, Vancouver psychiatrist, told a meeting of the Gyro Club here.



AT THE McCARTHY — Sheer exhaustion overcomes Quirt Evans (John Wayne) and he falls asleep in the arms of the vigilant Quaker girl, Penny Worth (Gail Russell.) Mr. Wayne and Miss Russell play the title roles in the exciting John Wayne production, "Angel and the Badman," starting tomorrow at the McCarthy Theatre.

MONTREAL HAS GAPING HOLE AT SECOND BASE

Departure of Jackie Robinson Keenly Felt by International League Champions

By DINK CARROLL
(Montreal Gazette)

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 17 — (CP) — Clay Hopper, manager of Montreal Royals, says his biggest problem this year is the infield. Now that Jackie Robinson, the great Negro player, has gone up to Brooklyn Dodgers, there is a gaping hole around second base.

Hopper plans to switch Al Campanis, who played shortstop last season, to second base to fill the gap left by Robinson. Boyd Bartley and Jack Lindsay are the other shortstops on the Royals' roster, but it is possible the Dodgers may send somebody down before the season opens. John Jorgensen and Lew Riggs are still available for third base, but first base in as yet unsettled.

There is a youthful steeplejack from Brooklyn named Kevin Connors who may fill the bill.

Hopper would like to get a couple of distance hitters who pull to right field because of the short right field fence in the Royals' home park. He may have George Shuba and Dave Pluss, outfielders, who are left-hand pull-hitters.

Earl Naylor and Homer Matney are almost certain starters in the outfield and there is a possibility that Marv Rackley and Duke Snider will be sent down by the Dodgers.

Mike Sandlock looks like the first-string catcher at present.

Al Gerheauser is the only experienced southpaw on the staff at present. Holdovers from last year are Chet Kehn, Jack Banta and Frank Laga, all right-handers. Others who may make the grade are George Brown, Leroy Pfund, Roland Marquardt and Ezra McGlothin.

CANUCKS HOPE TO CURB SCORING PUNCH OF IRISH

Moose Jaw Fans Think Their Team Will Even Series With St. Michaels

Moose Jaw, Sask., April 17.—(CP)—Moose Jaw Canucks were grimly determined today to prove that last Tuesday's 12-3 defeat at the hands of Toronto St. Michael's was "just one of those things" and that the best-of-seven series for the Memorial Cup, emblematic of Canadian Junior hockey supremacy, would finish with the Saskatchewan team on top.

The determination of the Canucks, who meet Toronto in the second game here tonight, was akin to the optimism seen today in this hockey-mad town. Fans who watched the Saskatchewan Club capture the Western Canda title after trailing Brandon Elks one game to three with one game tied half way through their series were confident that the same result would show in the current bout.

The fans—and hockey team—recalled that in the Western series Canucks dropped one game to Brandon 9-1 but still won the set. On that basis they said that the 12-3 loss suffered to St. Mike's could be minimized.

There was no comment from St. Mike's players, but the team was generally confident after their game victory. Coach Joe Primeau warned, however, that the series should not be considered a walk-away.

AT THE CAPITOL — Danger of the "Hurricane" confronts Dorothy Lamour and Jon Hall in an exciting scene from Samuel Goldwyn's South Seas thriller, opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Heading West," starring Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette.

MELIO BETTINA OR JOE WALCOTT MAY GET NOD

Either of These Boxers May be Opponent of Joe Louis in June

By [illegible]

New York, April 17 — (AP) — Joe Louis is tired of waiting and the 20th Century Sporting Club is tired of looking for "logical" contenders, so the field narrowed today to two heavyweights previously brushed off in the search for a challenger.

Joe Baksi's refusal to sign after his impressive seventh-round knockout of Bruce Woodcock in London Tuesday night left only Jersey Joe Walcott and Melio Bettina as possible Louis opponents for a June title match.

However, Louis said last night he didn't think the New York State Athletic Commission would sanction a title bout with either Walcott or Bettina. "I don't think either of them would draw a good gate with me this summer in New York or elsewhere," he told reporters at Los Angeles.

Previously, the champion said he was prepared to announce his retirement unless a title defence was arranged this summer. Last night he elaborated: "I have no plans for retirement if outstanding opponents are found for me. In that case I would be willing to fight three or four times a year."

Louis, 32 now, has defended his title 23 times since he won it from Jimmy Braddock 10 years ago.

Both the remaining contenders are near Louis' age if not his ring stature. Walcott, best known as the heavyweight who has six children, claims he is six months younger than Louis. Bettina will be 31 in November.

DIAMOND RINGS STOLEN

Ajax, April 17 (CP)—When a thief stole two diamond rings valued at $800 from the home of W. B. Bennett while Mrs. Bennett and her daughter slept 20 feet away, he took time out to make himself some toast and used fresh butter from the family refrigerator.

Canadiens in Last-Ditch Stand as Leafs Seek To Clinch Stanley Cup With Win

Bouchard With Cut in Leg and Quilty With Sprained Ankle May Not be Able to Play

Montreal, April 17. (CP) — Their back to the wall and the world's hockey championship a long, painful three games away, the battered and shaken Montreal Canadiens prepared today for a last-ditch home stand against the eager Maple Leafs tonight in the fifth game of the Stanley Cup final.

Leafs, with three wins against Canadiens single decision in the best-of-seven battle for the historic mug, had a stranglehold on the trophy, but nobody was rash enough to count out the reigning champions.

Tonight is "Aurel Joliat Night" at the Forum, as the fans and officials turn out to honor the little leftwinger of old-time Canadiens teams who was elevated to the Hall of Fame a few months ago.

If Canadiens lose tonight, it's all over. But a win would take the series back to Toronto Saturday night, with another game here, perhaps, next Tuesday.

But the embattled Canadiens, plagued by injuries most of the season, were faced with the possible loss of big Butch Bouchard the beekeeper, one of their two all-star defencemen. Bouchard was cut in the back of the leg Tuesday night, sewn together with 16 stitches and may not be able to take the ice tonight.

Johnny Quilty, with an injured ankle, also is a doubtful starter.

Coach Dick Irvin took it all philosophically.

"We got the breaks in the Boston series (the semi-final round won by Canadiens four games to one) and the Leafs have been getting them in this one. If they start to come our way again, we can win just as easily as they can."

Leafs, who arrived early today, have only defenceman Gus Mortson with a strained hand and Joe Klukay with a four-stitch gash in his head, but both should be on tap tonight.

Sports Roundup

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 17 — (CP) — One of the incongruities of sport is the way thousands of words becloud an issue like the Leo Durocher suspension while other legitimate news, possibly lacking any lurid overtones, winds up on the composing-room floor . . . You probably didn't know, for instance, that the United States won the world's weight-lifting championship last October in Paris and the reason you didn't is that nobody printed a line about it . . . that's what Hoffman says, anyway, and Hoffman is one of the ranking supermen in his field.

Vitamin Kids

Hoffman, a weight manufacturer who has everybody in York, Pa., gaga about the business of muscle building, supplied $15,000 out of his own pocket to finance the American team to Paris and his bicep boys responded by accumulating 12 points compared with nine for the Russian team and six for the Egyptians, bringing to North America a title that for 2,500 years has been a monopoly of people like the Mongolians, Austrians, Germans and French . . . W. C. (N. Y. Sun) Heinz gives Hoffman main credit for the American triumph, and he says the story goes back 44 years to a day when Hoffman, then four years old, ran around a double tennis court 200 times.

Jaw Breaker

Hoffman says he did it because even then he was a "bug" on physical development, like his father before him . . . "My father was fanatical about developing his muscles . . . He used to put a whole pack of gum in his mouth just to develop his jaw muscles . . . He used to walk three miles downtown to work and three miles back and all the way he'd be squeezing rubber balls in his hands" . . .

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Toronto and Montreal hockey fans are said to be among the most rabid extant especially since the boys resorted to near mayhem; the managers duelling with verbal rapiers, and the sportwriters of both cities tub-thumped at all and sundry which smacks of the opposition—including themselves.

• • •

But for downright loyalty, the kind which, if necessary would see the granmaws hock their bridgework; grandpops sell their crutches; the village council mortgage the Town Hall including the pump, and the hoipolloi let the crops go take a jump in he crick, if such demeanors would help the boys of the local hockey squad—you've go to go to the rural areas.

• • •

Take Madoc, for instance. That historic village famous in political and historical song and story, had a midget hockey team last season, that was really some punkins in shiny circles. The kids were good. They had to be, for nót only did they dunk the colors of the district opposition in the Ontario Minor Hockel Association but they fired hockey guns that echoed over the province.

• • •

They mowed down the opposition with a regularity that made Grandpaw's swigs at the cider jug look like the proverbial hen's teeth. They had no fear of city slicker teams, or their style of play. They took them in their stride and then came the finals. The Madocers tied Elmira in the first game of the two-game total-goal series for the championship, but went down fighting 7-4 in the second tilt played on Waterloo, Ont., artificial ice.

• • •

In that first game with Elmira the loyal fans of Madoc and surrounding district knew their prides were facing the acid test. It was a night in which a pea-soup fog hung thickly over the countryside. Traffic speed was reduced to a minimum as hockey fans motored through snow canyons that were the highways. White snow cliffs out - Dovered Dover loomed up sheer from the roadside.

• • •

"Its a heluva night for a dog to be out, let alone such sanies as you and I," murmured "Speedy" St. Louis as he piloted the family jalopy at ten per hour through the thick vapor. Twin spearheads of light loomed suddenly in front of the car. Savagely twisting the wheel, "Speedy" swung the crate hard aport, and gently but audibly caressed the fenders of a large truck that disappeared as suddenly as it had shown up in the thickening white fog.

• • •

A twinkle of lights, seven more cuss words, and Madoc hove in sight. 'Twas a deserted village. Street lights flickered in changing waves of fog. A dim figure, with a woman and two children picked their way down the main street, arena-bound. Lights twinkled in residences along the main stem, but all phases of business were dark. The village pooches were absent, and 'twas reported that a special pen had been set aside for them in the local Maple Leaf Gardens. It was their night to howl—or so it seemed.

• • •

Inside the rink small pools of water glistened on the ice surface. In the narrow confines of the spectator aisles which were slowly filling (game time was a half hour away) assorted fans picked there way. There were no boxes, or "blues and greys" here. It was solid comfort. You stood on you're feet, or those of the guy next to you. It was quite all right. He was standing on the dogs of the guy behind him. There was a great feeling of understanding among these Madoc fans.

• • •

We were wedged in a penalty box built to the size of the gentry who boast perfect twenty-eights (waist measurement). We're not exactly claustrophobic, but our sympathy went out that night to the humble sardine. In fact we envied the diminutive fish at times, for his quarters compared to ours were like those of a box-stall.

• • •

Behind us was a solid phalanx of rabid Madoc fans, males, that is. Four of them exuded an aroma of barnyard eau-de-cologne, home brew, bovine belches, and elixir of horse, all garnished with a heavy dash of hotel mild and bitter.

• • •

Being a stranger in this mid-Hastings hive of hospitality, we were forthwith treated to a treatise on the past lives and hockey history, ability, ancestors, etc. of each and every one of the Madoc midgets as they paraded in ceremonial glory to the shrieking serenade of their loyal supporters.

• • •

A rigid finger drove squarely solidly, between the reportorial scapulas. "That's him, that's Weiner", came the voice of the barnyard baritone. We turned, brushed his inch-long stubble of whiskers from our jugular vein, caught the look in his eye, and meekly acnowledged the tip. That was the beginning of four touching friendships that lasted through the entire sixty minutes of hockey.

• • •

By game time, any hope of escape from the rinkside dungeon was gone. The populace jammed tight against the boards, had scarcely elbow room. They were lodged so tightly that one estimable gentleman, who breathed an aroma of the Dew of Scotland, was forced to remove the top of the Michale Mouse in his pocket, insert a horny finger, and take his sustenance the same way as a baby enjoys its off moments.

• • •

Then the game. Cheers rocked the Arena as the Madoc kids swept to the attack. It was a seesaw affair at first. Then Madoc scored. Two hands the size of hams thumped down on our shoulders. A human battering ram landed squarely between the shoulder blades. After extracting the pencil from the vicinity of the tonsils, we managed a sickly smile and a cheer, and turned to the timekeeper, a home town boy for the official time. That worthy was executing a cross between a Highland Fling, a Zulu War Dance, a jitterbug and a contortionist. "Time" we queried in the official voice. "Quarter to nine" he gleefully replied, "Watinell do we care what time it is, the Weiner scored. Whippeeeee."

• • •

The rest of the period we stood there a martyr to the cause of the sports section of the Fourth Estate. At one time we stooped, or attempted to, in order to rescue a pencil, and two bewhiskered chins dropped three feet. We had disturbed them in their resting places on our shoulders.

Elmira went into a two goal lead in the third period. Dark, stark gloom descended on my four brothers with the facial shrubbery. The gent with the Michael Mouse, plunged his finger into its neck with the speed of the shaft of a stationary engine. His indrawn breaths as he inhaled the potent brew sounded strangely like a cow pulling a foot out of the mud. At least our shoulders got a rest.

• • •

Then it started all over again. Madoc scored. They tied it up. We pulled our hat down over our ears, turned up the coated collar, braced the feet and waited for the worst. We got it. In some strange manner the bearded quartet had got their feet up where their hands were, and they danced an Irish jig on the place where our hair used to grow, used the family fedora as a basketball and in general raised hell with us underneath it.

At last it was over. Again that hamlike hand struck in the spot between the shoulders now black and blue with the force of consistent thumps. "Wotta game" boomed the Dew of Scotland, and brother, this time he didn't dunk the finger "Wow," he gasped, "that's better. Say, I betcha you guys from Belleville don't see games like that every day. Whaddya think of that team, eh Mack?" and he raised that ham of a hand again. This time he missed by fourteen feet. We were headed for the exit and a doctor.

• • •

However, seriously Madoc deserves a lot of credit. They supported and backed their grand little team, one of the best, in fact the best midget squad to come out of Hastings County in many a moon. The officials, coaches and management are to be commended for their efforts in bringing the squad to near perfection, while the players themselves are a credit to Hastings County. They reached the Ontario finals, the first county team to do so, and something in the way of recognition should be given them. The kids deserve it, and would appreciate it. In any event, Belleville is just as proud of its county midget finalists as in the home village, and the city extends its congratulations to a grand game little squad, that just missed the highest honors it could bring to a loyal home town and county.

12 Snakes Escape, 3 Recaptured and Rest Are Gassed

Halifax, April 16 —(CP) — "Snakes Alive" cried the men as they scuried for shelter when 12 small snakes broke loose from a sack on board a ship here yesterday and crawled into inaccessible hiding places.

Owner Sam Slick managed to recapture three of the agile reptiles but was stumped when unable to reach the others. Science was the only answer. A container of chlorine was obtained and armed with this weapon a seaman advanced on the escapees.

Each snake was gassed. Later they were given a 'sea burial."

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By ENID NEMY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, April 17 (CP)—The recent action of the United States Tennis Association in suspending Pauline Betz from amateur tennis opens up interesting possibilities "for those who cling to the old-fashioned amateur standards of sport for the sake of the sponsors rather than for the athletes, says Tom (Calgary Albertan) Moore.

He says that if the system spreads to Canada, there will undoubtedly be some interesting situations.

"Biss Betz admitted she was interested in turning professional ....but hadn't yet made up her mind. The old boys of tennis made it up for her.

"It is probable the first time on record that an amateur body has based its actions on mental telepathy. If the trend keeps up no amateur will be able to even dream of a tennis ball and a dollar sign at the same time without losing his simon pure status."

Barbara Ann Scott would likely be out on her ear if the tennis ideas got into the figure skating ranks, Moore says. Several weeks ago she said she wasn't interested in movie contracts—yet.

The youngster who dreams of becoming a National Hockey League player would be unable to play amateur hockey...."The silly little boy had a nasty thought and he's out of hockey for life. Gota keep the sport clean, you know."

Moore compares Miss Betz' suspension with fining a motorist one dollar because he admits he may someday find himself in a position where he must park his car in a restricted area for a few minutes.

TODAY WE LIVE IN A GREATER CANADA

"On The Map" of the NEW AIR WORLD
CANADA LIES at the cross-roads of the great air routes of the modern world. Through our skies pass the shortest airways from North America to Europe and to Asia. Today, because of stupendous war-time achievements, we have the personnel, the experience and the vastly expanded facilities to take advantage of that favoured position.
Significant is the increase in air traffic within our own borders. Today Canada's civil aviation is flying three times the number of aircraft miles, carrying five times the number of passengers and three times the amount of mail that it did in 1939—advances typical of Canada's tremendous modern development, with new and greater opportunities in every field of Canadian activity.

First airplane flight in the British Empire was made at Baddeck, Cape Breton, February, 1909, when J. A. D. McCurdy flew in his "Silver Dart" for half a mile, rising thirty feet above the ice.
After World War I, in which Canada's fighting airmen established Canada's world-famous flying tradition, aviation's development was rapid and in Canada more air-freight was carried—much of it by the "bush pilots" of the North—than in any other country.

In World War II, with the R.C.A.F. developing and administering the gigantic Commonwealth Air Training Plan, Canada became, in President Roosevelt's words, "the airdrome of Democracy", and emerged from the war the fourth air power in the world.
"OPPORTUNITIES...GREATER NOW"

JOHN WILLIAM BILLES, 25 years ago, used his $3,000 savings as down payment on a Toronto tire business. With his brother and five employees he began retailing automobile accessories. Initiative and industry produced results. Today his Canadian Tire Corp. is a million-dollar organization with a unique mail-order business and over 100 associate dealers throughout Eastern Canada.
MR. BILLES says: "Today I'm convinced more than ever of the soundness of my original decision to start in business for myself in Canada. Opportunities are even greater now. Today, whatever the careers they choose, young Canadians find awaiting them in our own country more worthwhile possibilities of advancement than ever were known before."

Gorman Signs Daffy Dean To Lead Ball Team

Ottawa, April 17. (CP) — Tommy Gorman said tonight he had signed Paul (Daffy) Dean, former St. Louis pitching star, to a one-year contract as playing manager of Ottawa Nationals, Gorman's Club in the new Border City baseball league which will get into action here May 14 against Ogdensburg, N.Y.

The Ottawa promoter said Dean expectes to pitch for the club which will leave May 1 for Saratoga Springs for a two-week training session.

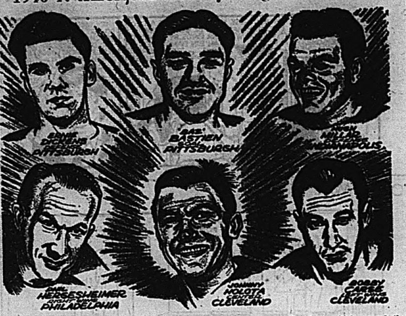
Leon (Chief) St. Denis of Malone, N.Y., and Walter Masters, former big-leaguer, have been signed as pitchers.

Ross Wilson, a first baseman, has been purchased from the Toronto Maple Leafs and Nationals also will have the former Torontonian Irving Railley. Johnny Shurba, second baseman, has been purchased from the Sherbrooke, Que., ball club and Johnny Russian has been obtained from Milwaukee for third base.

Outfielders already signed include Dutch Proeschel of Canton, N.Y., Doug Harvey, Montreal Royals, Larry Goodrow, Saranac Lake, N.Y., Bud Theroux, Montreal and Dave Petrovich of Kirkland Lake and the St. Louis Cardinals' farm system.

The club roster is not yet complete.

1946-47 American Hockey League All-Stars



ERNIE DICKENS DEFENCE PITTSBURGH
"BAZ" BASTIEN GOAL PITTSBURGH
HUGH MILLAR DEFENCE INDIANAPOLIS
PHIL HERGESHEIMER RIGHT WING PHILADELPHIA
JOHNNY HOLOTA CENTER CLEVELAND

New York, N.Y.—Forty hockey writers and sportcasters made up the jury which named the American Hockey League all stars for 1946-47, Maurice Podoloff, league president, announced today. The decision of these experts will enrich members of the first team by $300 each, and those named on the alternate team by $200 each.

Selectors were not allowed to name members of the team located in their city, hence the chance of favoritism was avoided. Voting was on the basis of percentage points and the competition was particularly keen. Had a player achieved a perfect score he would have wound up with 10 points, one from each city. The verdict of the jury follows:

First Team	Position	Second Team
Bax Bastien, Pittsburgh	Goal	Harvey Bennett, Hershey
Ernie Dickens, Pittsburgh	Defence	Elwyn Morris, Pittsburgh
Hugh Millar, Indianapolis	Defence	Ott Heller, New Haven
Johnny Holota, Cleveland	Centre	Les Douglas, Indianapolis
Phil Hergesheimer, Philadelphia	R. Wing	Pete Leswick, Cleveland
Bobby Carse, Cleveland	L. Wing	Cliff Simpson, Indianapolis

Both teams are strong defensively and pack a powerful scoring punch. Bastien was a bulwark in the nets for Pittsburgh with a "goals against" average of only 2.70 and 7 shutouts during the regular season. Dickens set a new assist record for defencemen with 40, while Miller was rated one of the hardest-hitting guards in the circuit. The forward line of Holota, Hergesheimer and Carse accounted for 127 goals, 140 assists for 267 points. Holota tallied 52 goals to set a new record in this department.

The second team's offence is almost as powerful with Douglas, Leswick and Simpson accounting for 234 points of which 100 were goals. The defence of Ott Heller and Elwyn Morris is a tough combination of veterans, while Harvey Bennett in the nets is considered one of the most promising young goaltenders in hockey. Hugh Millar was on the second team last season and Douglas and Leswick were on the first.

"Whipper" Meets McCready For Empire Title

Those two old enemies of the mat Earl McCready and Whipper Billy Watson will meet in the Arena wrestling ring on Friday night to start the Summer Wrestling Season off with a bang. Since Earl and Billy met last, the Whipper has gone on and won himself the world championship. In the meantime McCready hit the ocean trail and smashed his way through all opposition in far-away New Zealand and Australia.

It is no little honor that has come to both these fine strapping big Canadians. The Whipper won his way to the top on his great science and energy, beating Wild Bill Longson right in St. Louis and then duplicating that feat right back in Toronto two weeks later. Watson has been the busiest champion the game has ever known since he won the title, defending his championship in every important city in United States right down to the Mexican border.

In Friday's match here the world title will not be at stake but as both men are British subjects Billy's Empire Title will be risked. Earl has not wasted the past year either and he now holds wins over the champions of seventeen different nations That's really something and the Aurora Farmer is determined not to stop until he has added that win over Watson. Should be a great treat for the mat fans on Friday.

AUREL JOLIAT TO BE HONORED AT MONTREAL

Little Man of Iron Will be Admitted to Hall of Fame and Showered With Gifts

Montreal, April 17 —(CP)— Memories of the Flying Frenchmen of yesteryear will be stirred on Forum ice tonight when Aurel Joliat, lion-hearted little winger of Les Canadiens of the past steps out to receive the accolade of the fans and the keys to hockey's Hall of Fame.

Tonight, before the Montreal-Toronto Stanley Cup playoff game, is Aurel Joliat night, when the pint-sized police chief's son from Hull, Que. will be welcomed into hockey's circle of all-time greats, for which he was chosen a few months ago.

Half a dozen members of old-time Canadiens will be on hand to form a guard of honor for Joliat as Capt. Jim Sutherland, founder of the Hall of Fame at Kingston, presents him with a schroll and his admirers shower him with gifts.

Leo Dandurand, former co-owner of Canadiens hockey club, will present a purse of more than $5,000 gathered by subscription among Canadiens and Joliat fans. Senator Donat Raymond, president of Canadiens will present a gift from the Forum, Art Ross of Boston Bruins will have a gift from that club to Joliat.

Old-time Canadiens who will form the guard are Newsy Lalonde, one of the greatest, Art Bernier, Jack Lavillette, Pete Payan, Donald Smith and George Dubeau.

Tough and clever, with a hockey brain like a well-oiled watch and a fighting heart as big as a barrel, Joliat was a colorful figure in his day as he rose to stardom with his black peaked cap along with Howie Morenz, Art Gagne, Johnny Gagnon the Chicoutimi Black Cat and others of his day.

Joliat and his mates came to stir the Montreal fans to their deep roars of Les Canadiens sont la," after coming to Canadiens in a trade that cent Lalonde, a veteran but still one of hockey's most colorful figures, to Saskatoon Crescents, later Shieks.

CALGARY EVENS SERIES WITH WINNIPEG FLYERS

Winnipeg, April 17. (CP) — Calgary Stampeders will be slight favorites to take the deciding game of their best-of-five Western Canada Senior hockey finals with Winnipeg Flyers here Friday night.

The Stamps, displaying a powerful attack and a rugged defence walloped the Flyers 7-3 here last night to even the series at two games apiece. After trouncing the Winnipeggers 10-3 in the opening game at Calgary, the 1946 Allan Cup winners dropped a 2-1 contest at home then were edged 3-2 in the third tilt at Winnipeg.

Paced by the veteran Doug Cairns and Dunc Grant with two goals each, the Stampeders wiped out Flyers one-goal first-period lead when unleased their smart passing attack which had Flyers baffled for the remainder of the game. Sid Craddock, Bob Brownridge and Tony Desmarais were Jack Kernahan, Harry Dulkers and Don Raleigh registered for the Flyers.

Winnipeg fans held high hopes for their first Allan Cup championship since 1931 when Flyers took a 1-0 lead in the opening session but the defending champions, facing elimination if they dropped this contest, built up a 5-2 lead at the end of the second frame then outscored their opponents 2-1 in the final stanza.

CHAPTER 18

behind those handsome unfathomable eyes plans had been making to insure Scott's safety and comfort. If only he had not thoughtlessly added "but"... A slip of the tongue revealing Scott, solving him.

She felt a little sick, too. Was no one to be trusted? No one? She could forgive his shallowness and conceit and ambition, but she could not forgive him wanting to marry her for the money Bill's father had left him. Hadn't Bill been more honest than Scott? And Scott felt so superior to Bill these days, so ready to tear him apart verbally. Carol thought, "I wonder if I have ever been so small to anyone as Scott is to me now. We haven't been drifting along on a pleasant course all these months as I thought. Each time he has seen me has been desperate closer to this. He doesn't think I know. He thinks I'm too desperate and too lonely and perhaps too anxious to be married again. Maybe he thinks, too, that I can't live without love much longer. Well, I have and I can. I can't!"

He looked up and smiled his most appealing smile. "I've made an awful mess of telling you, Carol. But I... I love you. I think I've been in love with you for years... even before—"

She ran the comb through her hair quickly and adjusted the amber pin at the neckline of the black frock. Suddenly she was looking at herself again, speaking silently to herself... "I don't miss Bill tonight. But that is just tonight. I still miss him. I still think I hear his breathing when this room is dark.. But getting the job was the best thing for me. It took me out of myself, made me think of other people and at times made me feel so fortunate that I was ashamed I had ever complained. But there have been times when I felt an awful lack and longing.. the love Clive said I couldn't live without I have lived without it."

She smiled at herself. It was as though she were smiling at Clive and telling him things about herself he knew somehow without the telling. For in some strange way he often sprang to life beside her as Bill did. But while Bill always took her back, Clive took her ahead, fullfilling promises that had never been made. It was silly, fantastic, the way he had of coming to her mind when she had not heard from him since the Spring and she was certain he had gone back to South America.

Perhaps she had not forgotten him, not because of his physical attractiveness but rather because at a time when she had felt ugly and discarded he had made her feel lovely and wanted. For that, she would always be grateful. For that she would probably always remember him.

She had received a rather half-hearted invitation to visit her father in Florida. She suspected that his half-heartedness was due chiefly to his inability to entertain her and his fears that she would not find a home completely comfortable for two aging men comfortable for her.

He suggested, in fact, that she stay at a hotel on the beach and rent a car so that she could commute between the hotel and the small house a few miles from town. She had made her plans accordingly, wondering whether he would be glad to see her, and if he were, whether he would be too awkward to let her feel it. It had gone on too long she thought, their not seeing each other. With distance and her own hurts she believed that she was more tolerent of him as she had come to believe from his letters that he was more tolerent of everything and everyone. Friends were good and understanding, but there was undoubtedly a bond of sympathy even between a father and daughter who had always been almost strangers.

Forgetting Scott and then remembering him, Carol arose quickly and went to the living-room. Scott, thumbing a magazine, got up and gave her a long, thoughtful glance.

She took a chair opposite him and tried to smother a sigh.

Scott said, leaning forward, "I hope you have good weather going down. I wish I were going along."

She rested her head on the back of the chair and looked at him. Were they to go on saying words that didn't mean anything indefinitely?

She looked at him, trying to catch his evasive eyes and hold them.

"You were very quiet tonight, Scott. You've been very quiet a good bit recently. Have I—have I become a responsibility?" She tried to be kind as she went on, "You aren't an easy person to know. But I don't want to be and I don't have to be—a girl you're stuck with."

He started, flushing. "Where did you ever get such an idea?" There was sharpness and alarm in his voice. Then, not looking at her, but looking at the crystal ash tray into which he slowly flicked the ash of his cigarette he said, low, "I—I don't exactly know how to say it, Carol. But to say it before you went away. I—"

If he loved her, then she must stop wishing that he would leave. She must be kind and help him, say what he seemed incapable of saying. Was he trying to tell her at last that he loved her? Then why was it so difficult to say something so simple and natural? Scott, who sold insurance for a living, could not be as inarticulate as that!

She did not love him. He was still Bill's old friend. He was the same little-known Scott who had come to their house and helped himself to their food and liquor and spent the night. Her changed status had not changed her feelings toward Scott in the least. It was as though during all these months she had been with him fairly frequently that Bill was with them as he had always been in the past, sitting there looking at Scott, she knew that she did not want even the hint of affection from those hands any more.

But if he loved her in that unknown way of his then at least she must be kind. She knew how ruthless one could be when one loved and the other did not. Perhaps that night in November Bill felt as she felt now—tired, but patient and pitifully out of love. How was Bill? She did not know. No one ever spoke about him to her.

"Yes, Scott?"

He took a deep breath. "I—well, I want to marry you, Carol. But I... I have to tell you I haven't much to offer, and with Hilda... I can't say the things I want to say because of money. You've had everything and I wouldn't want to touch a penny of Bill's money but—"

But! Though her eyes sprang alive, her body felt rigid. But!. It was as plain as if he had told her! How stupid he was to put his case so poorly! She did not say anything at once and Scott lighting another cigarette, did not look at her. And she did not say anything because her thoughts were going back over the months they had been together... She frowned. It was as though the lost piece of puzzle had been found and put together and the puzzle was solved at last.

She was so ashamed for him that she lowered her eyes. Neither loyalty nor devotion had inspired Scott's companionship. Behind the smooth dark head of which she had seen so much and

She could not let him go on. "But I haven't any money, really. There was a settlement, but I haven't touched it and I don't intend to. It's for that proverbial rainy day. Bill's father worked terribly hard for that money. In a way, it shouldn't belong to me, but Bill wanted me to have it for security. My alimony, of course will stop when and if I marry again."

"But, Carol, I didn't mean... You've got the wrong idea."

She shook her head and smiled at him sadly. She wasn't hurt. She was glad for that. Disappointed, yes, and disgusted and somehow, too, a little amused. And never had she felt stronger or more capable of dealing with a delicate situation.

"Scott, forgive me, but I can't help being a little amused that a man thinks a proposal of marriage enough without first asking whether or not the woman happens to love him enough. I'm sorry, but I don't love you enough. We haven't enough in ourselves for a happy marriage. And when I come back, I... I don't think we should see so much of each other."

Flushing, he lowered his eyes. "I see. I'm sorry."

"Your sister Hilda has done so much for you. I couldn't take anything away from her. She loves you so unselfishly, Scott." She had seen Hilda on the street recently and noted the mended run in her stocking and the cheap cotton gloves—while Scott drove a new, red car.

"She's a great old gal all right."

Like a door that had closed, shutting her out she could not solve him now. She did not know whether he was relieved or disappointed at the failure of his plan. Somehow she felt that he was relieved because he actually did not want to marry anybody. Hilda had made herself indispensable to him with her work and sacrifice and service. Scott was in a rut and though at times he tried to pull himself out of it and made an effort, he was always relieved when he sank back into it and found himself once more free with Hilda at his beck and call.

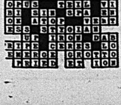
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



Relieved of Stomach, Kidney Suffering, Praises Syntona

No Longer Troubled With Gastritis, Indigestion, Constipation, Nervousness and Loss of Sleep—"Wouldn't be Without Syntona in the House," Says This Grateful Man.

Now is the time to take a good, refreshing herbal tonic to improve the action of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; to promote proper assimilation of food for energy and resistance and to rid the system of excess acids and waste matter that often cause many days of sick headaches, backaches, rheumatic pains and tired, irritable feelings. Syntona is specially compounded from pure selected herbal juices for that purpose and the results it gives are vouched for by thousands of reputable local men and women. Read here the interesting experience of Mr. Thomas Fox, 1242 Windermere Road, Walkerville, Ontario, according to a recent interview.

"I had suffered greatly with my stomach and kidneys," said Mr. Fox. "I didn't seem to be getting any nourishment out of the food I ate. It just seemed to sour in my stomach and cause gas, indigestion and bloat. Consequently I felt miserable all the time and I had so little energy that if I walked a short distance I would have to sit down and rest before going home. My kidneys disturbed my sleep so often each night that in the morning I always felt unrested, nervous and irritable.

"One day a friend recommended Syntona to me, and it turned out to be just what I was always needing. It soon put an end to my stomach suffering. As I continued with the treatment my kidneys began to function regularly so I could get my proper sleep. It is quite some time now since I took that treatment of Syntona, but ever since then I have felt more energetic and healthy in every way. I always keep a bottle of Syntona in the house and I use it when I eat anything that disagrees with me. It fixes me up every time."

Go to DOLAN THE DRUGGIST, Belleville, and find out how Syntona can help you, too.

'50-50 Chance' Of Steel Strike Say Officials

Pittsburgh, April 17 —(AP)— Stickers proclaiming "no contract no work" are appearing on steel workers' automobiles these days and a few have even been plastered in the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) offices here—possible protent of a major steel strike in the United States after April 30.

That's the expiration date of the present contract extension between the union and the United Steel Corporation. The original pact ran out Feb. 15 but was extended by mutual agreement.

The steelworkers, who have given no official blessing to the sticker campaign, explained the seals were brought here earlier in the week by Chicago members of the steelworkers' committee negotiating a new wage contract with "Big Steel."

The magazine Iron Age reported a "50-50 chance" of a strike saying negotiations between company and union "have produced nothing."

The steelworkers have listed 14 principal demands, headed by a "substantial wage increase" guaranteed annual wage portal to portal pay, premium pay for Saturday Sundays and holidays, broader vacation benefits the union shop against the present maintenance of membership, and seniority rights governing hiring firing and promotions.

Early in the negotiations U.S. Steel, bellweather of the industry generally, made it clear it wanted to return to the open shop and rule out the dues check-off and that it was not inclined to see eye to eye on the seniority demand.

Love Puts Phone Call Ahead of Food

Edmonton, April 17 (CP)—A telephone call is more important than a meal when a man is in love, says "Tex" Sallee, flight engineer on Milton Reynolds' "Bombshell" which established a record for a round-the-world flight.

While Reynolds and his pilot, Capt. William Odom of Roslyn, N.Y. devoured turkey, sundaes, tea and a package of candy during their stop-over here, Sallee dashed off to phone his fiancee in New York. He is marrying Pat Houlihan of Wyoming.

Sallee said he spent only 58 cents during the entire flight.

"They put 14 sandwiches on board at each stop and I got most of them."

Labor Secretary After Formula To End Strike

Washington, April 17—(AP)—Disappointed government conciliators rummaged through the ruins of Labor Secretary Schwellenbach's shattered peace plan Wed., for a new formula to settle the cross-country telephone strike.

Government seizure of the telephone industry still was considered only as a last resort in top administration circles, despite the rebuff by both company and union to Schwellenbach's arbitration proposal.

The Labor Secretary, who had hoped to end the strike of 340,000 telephone workers by Thursday night through a plan for negotiation of some issues and arbitration of the others, refused to give up hope of persuading them to accept.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company maintained it had not rejected the Schwellenbach proposal for arbitration by a national board of five persons, but merely had recommended 13 amendments "designed solely to expedite and implement final decisions on the issues in dispute."

The company suggested that 10 regional arbitration boards be established instead of one national board.

The National Federation of Telephone Workers which has demanded country-wide arbitration or none, interpreted Schwellenbach's plan as providing for the type of local arbitration it opposes. Under his proposal the national board would consider individually the cases of the more than 20 subsidiary operating companies in the A. T. & T.'s Bell system.

Further, the union demanded a retroactive cost-of-living wage offer before it would entertain arbitration at all. President Joseph A. Bierne has said none of the Bell companies has made a wage offer since negotiations began last January. The union seeks a $12 weekly pay boost for all its members.

Brigade Joins Forces to Fight $10,000 Blaze

Toronto, April 17 — (CP) — Fire brigades of four nearby communities joined forces to fight a blaze which destroyed a general store and an adjoining dwelling at Gormley, a few miles north of here. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Both buildings were owned by J. T. Johnson, who was collecting the Gormley village mail at the neighboring community of Old Gormley at the time of the fire.

Five adults and two children fled from the house and from an apartment over the store. Hastily-dressed, the village's entire population turned out in a snowstorm to help fire brigades from Stouffville, Aurora, Unionville and Richmond Hill battle the flames Snowcovered and in below-freezing temperature, they carried water 600 feet for 3½ hours.

Cause of the fire was not known.

He started his musical career at 10 — on the tin whistle.

'Mrs. Mike' Story Of Mountie's Wife

(By The Canadian Press)

Katherine Mary O'Fallen, an Irish-born girl fresh from Boston where her mother kept a theatrical boarding-house, arrived in Calgary March 5, 1907, to visit her uncle. Seven months later at the age of 16, she married Sgt. Mike Flannigan of the Northwest Mounted Police, and set out from Edmonton by dog team for his station at Hudson's Hope, in northern British Columbia.

In 1945 in California she told the story of her life to Benedict and Nancy Freedman, two young American radio comedy and play writers. "Mrs. Mike" (Longmans, Green) is the novel the Freedmans wrote about Kathy's life in the north.

The book is melodramatic both in character and incident. The red-coated hero is policeman, doctor and Dutch uncle to Indians and half-breeds; there is Constance Beauclaire, a gentlewoman from France, and Sarah, Indian wife of a French tropper, Baldy the horse thief and Cardinal, the bad Indian. A devastating forest fire, deadly epidemics of measles and diphtheria in which Mrs. Mike loses her two children, treachery on a trapline and the tender, tragic Be-Joyful and Jonathan, the half breed thrust the book along.

One has the feeling that Kathy is a spectator of rather than 's participant in her own life.

Eventually Mrs. Mike plans to live in Vancouver. Her husband died in 1933 near Fort Vermillion, in northern Alberta.

Bountiful Norway Okay, Says Bride

Toronto, (CP)—Norway is a land of plenty where prices are high, but not higher than in Canada, reports Mrs. Hans Peter Flaaten, who recently visited her family here before returning to hed adopted home in Oslo.

When she left Norway more than 15 months ago, Mrs. Flaaten packed sufficient clothing and food for herself and baby Ellen Jane, now 21 months. "Food and clothing in Norway were scarce then but now you can buy almost everything—if you have the money".

She brought greetings from other Canadian girls and thought all the "discontented" ones had returned to Canada, while those remaining were satisfied with living conditions.

"I was one of the lucky girls," she smiled. "We share a house with my husband's brother and his English war bride."

Her ex-instructor husband is employed with the Norwegian Air Lines, flying between London, Paris, Stockholm and Copenhagen.

"Clothing is no longer scarce. Baby clothes are easy to get and you can even buy diapers which I can't find in Canada."

U.S. Communist Workers Active On College Campuses

Washington, April 17 (AP) — The House of Representatives' committee of un-American activities asserted Tuesday that "the spectre of puses casked under the cloak of the American Youth for Democracy" and called on state governors and school heads for a thorough expose of the organization.

The committee said that "gracing various AYD entertainments, meetings and campaigns, or contributing to its magazine, Spotlight, is the usual list of sponsors invariably found supporting the Communist Party and its front organizations."

It said the list includes such names as Paul Robeson, Edward G. Robinson, Col. Evans, F. Carlson Zero Mostel, Lt. -Cmdr. Charles S. Seely, United States Navy (retired), and Joseph E. Davies.

The House group also urged a rigid investigation of "the inimical objectives of the Communist Party in America."

In report to the House, the committee said American Youth for Democracy has headquarters in New York City and claims 60 chapters in colleges in 14 states and a total membership of 6,194.

It is "neither American nor democratic in its origin or purposes," the committee said.

"Manipulated by shrewd and specially trained organizers operating in a narrow circle behind the scenes it endeavors to exploit to the advantage of a foreign power the idealism, the inexperience, and the craving to join, which is so characteristic of our college youth.

"Being a veil of a multitude of high-sounding slogans, one is conscious of a determined effort to disaffect our youth and to turn them against religion, the American home."

THE THINGS THAT MONEY CAN'T BUY

HEALTH; A HAPPY HOME; opportunity for your children; your own peace of mind—these are priceless gifts. You can't buy them with money.

But reasonable financial security, based on a planned programme of personal saving, can help to guard and guarantee them.

Take your Victory Bonds, for example. Pretty reassuring to have them tucked away as a financial reserve, always "on tap" in time of opportunity or need. Pretty convincing proof, too, that you really can save when there's a real saving job to be done.

Perhaps today's rising costs or other factors are making it hard for you to carry on your savings programme. By the time you have met all your expenses, perhaps there's mighty little left for that all-important item marked "Savings".

Try putting savings first, not last, on your budget list. Owe yourself a definite amount each month, and make sure you collect it. It means careful budgeting, and putting off buying a good many things you'd like to have. But never forget—this is your share of what you earn. This is the part of your income which will help to assure for yourself and your family all the things that money can't buy.

• • •

PERHAPS YOU are already one of the hundreds of thousands of thrifty Canadians who have a savings account with the Royal Bank. If not, we invite you to come in and open one. Perhaps your first deposit will have to be small; don't let that worry you. The important thing is to start. It will be a pleasure to serve you.

British Sentry Killed When Bombs Hurled into Camp

Three Attackers in Civilian Dress Escape After Raid

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, April 18 — (AP) — British military authorities announced today that Jews stormed the British Army's leave centre at Nathanya, killed the sentry with gunfire and hurled three bombs.

The announcement said three attackers, dressed as civilians, drove up in an unmarked truck, perhaps with additional attackers in the rear of the truck. Heavy fire was laid down by guards within the British compound but the attackers escaped.

The attack came after British authorities had further relaxed rigid security measures invoked Tuesday prior to the hanging of Dov Bela Gruner and three other Jewish underground members for into-British violence. The special curfews which had been imposed in Jewish sections of most palestine cities were lifted, but the dusk-to-dawn curfew on road travel throughout the Holy Land was continued.

Reports from the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv said a bomb blasted an armored car in busy Allenby Road this afternoon, wounding two British police officers. The reports said three civilians were wounded in the ensuing gunfire, any that the four attackers escaped in the taxi which brought them to the scene.

Bombs also exploded in the all-Arab city of Jaffa, but unofficial sources said this might have been the result of an argument among Arabs. One explosion damaged the offices of an Arab youth group. There were no casualties.

The attack at Nathanya, 10-year-old all-Jewish town built on a sandy cliff above the ancient camel caravan route, was looked upon as the first Jewish underground reaction to the Wednesday hangings.

Caught in Bus Door Child in Her Arm

Windsor, Ont., April 18 —(CP) —Pamela Brock, 2½-year-old daughter of Mrs. June Brock, 24, was at home today almost unaware of her narrow escape. But her mother was in hospital recovering from leg and back injuries suffered as she struggled to protect the child in a street accident.

As she stepped from a bus in midtown Windsor Wednesday night, Mrs. Brock's arm was caught in the rear door. In the other arm was the child.

The bus started to move off, dragging the young mother. But she was able to keep a firm grip on the youngster, holding her away from the threat of serious injury or death under the bus wheels.

Shouts attracted the attention of other passengers. As the driver, William Wright, stopped tha vehicle, Mrs. Brock fell to the pavement. Still carrying her daughter, the woman walked the short distance to her home and, just inside the door, fainted.

Surgeon Has Performed Rare Feat Four Times

Kingston, April 18 — (CP) — Margaret Flinn, red-haired Toronto secretary, said today in an interview that Dr. D. L. C. Bingham of Kingston saved her life last week when he restarted her heart by massaging it after it stopped beating just prior to an operation to remove pressure on a nerve in her shoulder.

The doctor's feat was revealed yesterday when Miss Flinn left the hospital but at that time the doctor requested that his name be kept secret. But it soon became known that Dr. Bingham, Professor of Surgery at Queen's University, had conducted the shoulder operation on the young woman.

"The opportunity to perform such an operation does not occur very often and it is one of those occurrences which are better not publicized too widely," Dr. Bingham said today. "A number of circumstances are involved. I had an alert anaesthetist that morning, he told me the heart had stopped and I was able to take steps which started it again.

"As a matter of fact, it's the fourth time I've done it."

Wife Identifies Husband Through Painted Toenails

Texas City, Tex., April 18 — (AP) — A brown-haired woman screamed.

A nurse in the high school gymnasium, now a ghastly morgue, hastened to her.

"That's him, that's him," the woman screamed.

She had not recognized her husband's face. The upper part of his body, stretched on a slab, was covered by an army blanket. But she had seen his feet. That was enough.

The night before he went to work for the last time at the big chemical plant here, she had painted his toenails with red fingernail polish as a lark.

That was among the poignant scenes last night in the Central high school gymnasium.

Mutilated bodies lay in rows, some on canvas stretchers, some on the floor.

Grief-stricken wives, mothers and sisters passed slowly up and down the rows, searching for loved ones among the victims of the searing blasts which killed more than 600 persons and left thousands injured.

Walls filled the building. Worse than that were the empty, unfeeling faces of those who would not cry.

The terrible stench of blood and embalming fluid filled the nostrils and drove nurses, morticians and deputies outside for air at intervals.

Many bodies were charred and mutilated, making recognition and identification impossible.

Underneath some blankets lay arms, legs, and torsos.

Suggest C. A .S. Investigate Home

Windsor, Ont., April 18—(CP)—Children's Aid Society investigation of circumstances surrounding the home of a 13-year-old girl who testified in Essex county court this week, was suggested today by Judge Albert J. Gordon. Because of lack of corroborative evidence, a 19-year-old Wheatley, Ont., youth was freed of a charge of having carnal knowledge of the girl. Two boys aged 13 and 15 also were involved.

Judge Gordon said:

"I suggest the parents of these four youngsters have been very remiss and have sadly failed in this respect. Maybe the Childrens' Aid Society might well look into the situation."

He said evidence in the case was "most revolting and almost unbelievable."

CHAPLIN DEFENDANT IN SUIT

New York, April 18 (AP)—A trial of a $5,000,000 damage suit against Charles Chaplin for his alleged "piracy" of the script used in filming "The Great Dictator," started yesterday in federal court. Bercovici said he supplied the satire on Adolf Hitler, but that Chaplin failed to give his screen credit or compensate him.

7,000 Tons Explosives Used to Blast Former Naval Base on Heligoland

At Sea Off Heligoland, April 18. (Reuters)—The small German fortress island of Heligoland ceased to exist as a naval base today as 7,000 tons of explosives blew up with an earth-shaking roar—the greatest explosion ever made by man since the atom bomb blasts.

From warships standing out to sea nine miles away from the explosion, observers saw tremendous columns of rubble shoot up like skyscrapers. Immediately afterwards two large clouds appeared like those seen after the atom bomb explosions at Bikini—like tremendous mushrooms.

One observer from the air estimated that six minutes after the detonation the cloud hovering over the island was more than 8,000 feet high, one mile long and one mile wide.

A British naval officer said after the explosion that "it is not expected that the island has disintegrated, as was feared by the German population in the past few weeks."

Scientific observers and seismograph owners throughout Europe had been warned to stand by their instruments to record possible earth tremors resulting from the gigantic blast.

The island fortress commanded the approaches to the Kiel Canal, Hamburg and Bremen.

The explosives used included 4,000 torpedo warheads, 9,000 water bombs and more than 51,000 grenades of varied calibres.

First vibrations to reach Britain were recorded at Kew Observatory three minutes after the explosion.

VAST FORD EMPIRE CONTROL TO GO TO EDSEL FORD HEIRS

Will of Industrialist Is Filed for Probate, Value of Estate May Touch $500,000,000

Detroit, April 18 (AP)—The will of Henry Ford, noted automobile industry pioneer, was filed for probate today but gave no inkling of its extent.

It left the bulk of the estate represented in non-voting stock in the Ford Motor Company, to the Ford Foundation, and all of Ford's holdings of voting shares to his grandchildren in equal shares.

Unofficial estimates of the estate's value have ranged upward of $500,000,000.

Clifford B. Longley, lawyer for the Ford family, said that when the will is finally cleared through probate, control of the vast Ford industrial empire will rest with the heirs of Edsel B. Ford, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford.

The will, dated Feb. 3, 1936, left only the Ford home "Fairlane," in nearby Dearborn, where Ford died April 7, to his widow along with some personal effects.

In the latest report filed by Henry Ford II, its president and a trustee, the Ford Foundation reported assets of $109,118,000 June 30, 1945.

Its purpose is described as "to receive and administer funds for scientific, educational and charitable purposes all for the public welfare." As such, lawyers maintain, it and any contributions it receives are tax exempt.

Wife Previously Provided For

The will contained a statement by Ford that he had "heretofore provided generously for by wife, Clara J. Ford, and am satisfied that she is in a position of complete financial independence."

Also appended was a statement by Mrs. Ford acknowledging that "full provision has been made for me," and agreeing to the provisions of the document.

The estate of the elder Ford had been variously estimated at from $200,000,000 to more than $500,000,000. Longley would not comment on these estimates. He said, however, that stock in the company consisted of 172,645 shares of voting stock and 3,280,255 or non-voting.

Of the total shares of voting stock, he said, 42 per cent was owned by the heirs of Edsel Ford and the remainder by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford. The children of Edsel Ford, and beneficiaries under the will filed today, are Henry Ford II, Benson, Josephine and William Ford.

Plan to Free U.K. Housewife From Drudgery

London, April 18 — (Reuters) — An attempt to free the British housewife from the drudgery of daily domestic routine is the principal aim of the National Institute of Houseworkers, whose London headquarters will be opened today by Mrs. Violet Attlee, wife of the prime minister.

The opening of the Institute is the first step to implement the report on the organization of private domestic employment made in June 1945 for the Ministry of Labor.

The members of the Institute will organize domestic service in Britain as an industry, giving it a new status as a skilled craft. The venture is sponsored by the government, but under independent management.

Canadians Have Become Price-Conscious And Control-Conscious

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadians, faced with an inevitably-rising price structure as the government's decontrol and subsidy-removal program unwinds, overnight have become control-conscious and price-conspicious.

And, an unofficial survey today showed, in some cases they have a right to be, and in others they haven't. Essentially, it depends often on where they live and the goods they buy.

The survey, consisting of a sampling of prices taken by The Canadian Press in a half-dozen cities, indicates that in most cases wholesalers and retailers are holding the price line on the goods and services being decontrolled, although there is evidence, too, that some are "charging all the traffic will bear."

But, on the whole, it can be said that prices are unchanged to slightly higher — depending, again, on where you live and what you buy — on most goods and services except those on which government-paid subsidies have been abolished and transferred to the retail price.

This consciousness, which suddenly has made Canadians acutely aware of the gradual disappearance of the protection of a war-imposed, planned economy, is perhaps in part a reflection of the current debate on the floor of the House of Commons in Ottawa.

There, the centre of bitter wrangling by political parties, is a bulky government bill which will give the administration power to continue controls for another year, during which it says it plans to remove them and return to peacetime economy.

Different Opinions

That debate — sometimes hot, sometimes cold, never lukewarm —has engendered different opinions, all of them indicative of the party that makes them.

The government, for instance, argues that it must unravel controls in orderly fashion, must time them to avoid wild, inflationary price rises, and admits that the time will come when it—and parliament—no longer has the constitutional power to use them.

Underlying each decontrol step, however, is this stern warning from Finance Minister Abbott, delivered in the Commons: "In the case of some abnormal (price) situation where the government felt that the public were being exploited . . . I can say that we would not have any hesitation in asking for powers (to re-impose ceilings) which I feel sure the House would give us."

That, then, is the government's feelings on the matter. On the other side of the picture is the statement of Rodney Adamson, Progressive Conservative member for York West, who told the House that countries with planned economies had the lowest wage structures and expressed belief that a high production — free from controls — was the best "safeguard" against inflation.

The C.C.F. party contends the bill does not go far enough, that the government should halt the "headlong decontrol program."

M. J. Coldwell, the party chieftain, has charged that "big business" is making profit on the lifting of price ceilings and pointed to the new eight-cent chocolate bar as an example.

Chocolate Bars Discussed

Mr. Coldwell's plea for a return to the five-cent candy bar pinpointed one of the most noticeable examples of price increases resulting from the removal of a subsidy. This subsidy was dropped April 2, in the latest mass decontrol order.

When price ceilings were removed on chocolate bars, along with all other confectionery items, the government also eliminated the subsidy of 13½ cents a pound on raw chocolate. The effect was that chocolate manufacturers, who previously had received their raw chocolate for 10 cents a pound, now had to pay 23½ cents a lb. And, at the same time, the price of sugar was boosted one cent a pound by the Prices Board.

A comparison with price increases in the United States shows that even with the recent price boosts in Canada — from a subsidized price of six cents a bar to eight cents a bar, which includes a one-cent war excise tax — Canadians are paying from 20 to 25 cents a pound less for their chocolate than their American cousins.

In the United States, a one-ounce cholocate bar retails for six cents with no taxes while in Canada a 1½-ounce bar sells for eight cents, including a one-cent tax which goes to the Federal Treasury.

Other goods similarly affected by the removal of subsidy payments include shortening and coal, both up in price, the latter averaging to $2 to $4.50 a ton.

FLAMING TANKS POSE PROBLEM IN STRICKEN CITY

Estimates of Death Range To 650 and Damage At $100,000,000

Texas City, Tex., April 18 — (AP)— Flames roared on for the third day on the industrial site of this explosion-smashed port today but Police Chief W. L. Laddis said that the crisis which had gripped the city since Wednesday morning was past.

Estimates of detah still ranged up to 650 and injuries around 3,000 persons. Property damage estimates ran from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

The major conflagration today was at the vast Humble Oil Company's storage tank farm at the south of the city. Apprehensive residents still watched the boiling oil fires, but Laddie asserted: "I believe that all danger is gone."

Five or six storage tanks of approximately 55,000 gallons capacity had exploded and burned since 4 p.m. yesterday. Five other major blasts had rocked the city at intervals since 9:12 a.m. Wednesday.

The burning nitrate-laden French freighter Grandcamp exploded Wednesday morning to set off another blast at the huge Mansanto Chemical Plant two minutes later. Chains of fire swept through the city in an aftermath.

For the most part, fires were left to burn themselves out, while rescue workers hunted through huge piles of twisted wreckage for the estimated hundreds of persons believed to have been buried.

Twisted hunks of steel and other debris rained down on the industrial section of the city early yesterday when a second nitrate-laden ship, the High Flyer, exploded, sinking a third, the Wilson B. Keene.

R. 'RANSE' BUSH, HOCKEY PLAYER, KILLED INSTANTLY

Crushed to Death When Steel Girder Crashes to Ground; Cal Yorke is Seriously Injured

Rensselaer F. (Ranse) Bush twenty-one-year-old war veteran, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray F. Bush, 255 Sidney Street, was instantly killed and Calvin (Porky) Yorke, also of this city, seriously injured on Thursday afternoon while working on a construction job at Rossmore.

Bush died instantly when a forty-foot steel girder weighing nearly two tons crashed to the ground from a six-foot height and struck him on the head and shoulders. Yorke, also struck by the girder received crushed bones in the right hand and shoulder lacerations. He was rushed to Belleville General Hospital where today his condition was said to be good.

(Ranse) Bush

Jack Semark and Don "Snuffy" Locke, other workmen on the job narrowly escaped injury as the heavy girder hurtled to the ground close by.

Hoisting Girder

According to information from the scene of the tragedy, the men were hoisting the girder on the extension construction work now under way at the Tobe restaurant and dance-hall on the Belleville-Picton highway near Rossmore. The forty-foot I-beam had been raised about six feet in the air when a pin in the smaller of two wheels in the winch Bush was handling, broke. The "dog" on the small wheel gave way before the terrific strain and the large wheel winding the cable whirled loose as the girder crashed to the ground. Yorke, it is reported was handling another winch, when the tragedy occurred.

OMNIBUS CONTROL BILL IS PILOTED THROUGH HOUSE

Fewer Headwinds Met Than Had Generally Been Expected But Still Clauses to Pass

By JOHN LeBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 18 —(CP)— Meeting fewer headwinds than had been generally expected, the government's 57-section omnibus control bill was reeling off the knots at a good clip today on its passage through parliament.

In one full day and part of another, seven of the orders-in-council up for retention had received approval of the Commons, leaving an even half-hundred still to be considered by the committee of the whole House.

Five of the seven sections dealt with veterans' preference in civil service, and the other two with the reclaiming and repayment of subsidies paid on agricultural products.

Today, the House will give further consideration to the bill, and it may hear from the government a decision on whether two amendments to the controls bill will be accepted.

One amendment, proposing that parliament instead of the cabinet should decide on the time of disbandment of the Prices Board, was moved by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre). Justice Minister Ilsley, piloting the bill, said he did not think he could accept it, but took it under consideration.

Another amendment was moved by James Sinclair (L-Vancouver North), to make it clear in the bill that control boards were responsible to the Minister, who in turn was responsible to parliament.

Negative Announcement

The only major announcement in the House was a negative one, by Labor Minister Mitchell, who said the government would not send a board to the Maritime to coalfields to investigate the causes of low production. Replying to a question from A. L. Smith (PC—Calgary West), he said the Carrol Coal Commission had inquired into that problem.

In dealing with the C.C.F. amendment to his bill, Justice Minister Ilsley expressed the view that question of when the prices board will be closed down should be left to the government whose powers in this respect would be extended for a year under the bill.

$41,000,800 Paid Ont. Municipalities

Windsor, Ont., April 18—(CP) —Ontario municipalities received $41,000,800 in grants and subsidies from the provincial government last year, Hon. George Dunbar, Minister of Municipal Affairs said yesterday.

He addressed the ninth annual meeting of the Ontario Chapter, of the Municipal Finance Officers of the United States and Canada.

"While we are giving these substantial grants for needed services, we must not forget that the money is coming from the same source — the taxpayer is paying the shot," he said.

The three-day conference was opened by F. J. Parker, clerk-treasurer of Kingston, chairman of the Ontario chapter.

Huge Demand for Meat in U.S. Keeps Production, Prices at High Level

(By OVID A. MARTIN)

Washington, April 18. (AP)— Food prices in the United States would tumble if the country went back to its pre-war diet.

For example, Americans are eating meat at a rate of about 150 pounds a person a year. Some want even more.

And it is competition among consumers that sets the price.

To meet the demand, farmers are producing about 21,500,000,000 pounds this year.

In the pre-war period of 1935-39, consumption averaged 126 pounds. At the same rate now, Americans would take only about 17,890,000,000 pounds, leaving a surplus of about 3,610,000,000 pounds.

Such a surplus would break the price and require widespread government buying of meat under the federal price support program to prevent an agricultural collapse.

During the war, however, with incomes high and fewer non-food items to buy, many who had been on a low level diet were encouraged to buy more and better quality foods.

And from every sign they want to continue to eat well.

The increase in consumer demand is even more pronounced, on a percentage basis, for some other food items than meat.

However, present-day consumption of other important items, such as sugar, butter, shortening, salad oils, rice, cocoa and tea, is below pre-war simply because supplies are short.

As in the case of meat, if consumption of all items dropped to the pre-war level, there would be surplus supplies and prices would drop sharply.

Churchill Delivers Blistering Attack Upon Labor Govt.

Claims Country Approaching Crisis in Financial Affairs

London, April 18. (CP)—Winston Churchill today declared that prolongation of the present system of government in Britain would break the British Isles and the people would have to starve or to "subsist on the charity of capitalist America."

Churchill, delivering a blistering attack against the government, was cheered by 10,000 persons at the first post-war meetings of the grand habitation of the Primrose League—a Conservative organization founded about 64 years ago to honor Benjamin Disraeli, Tory prime minister and first Jew to hold the position.

"Everyone is conscious of the approaching crisis in our financial and economic affairs," he said. "The Socialist government is living upon the American dole and squandering with profligate rapidity this loan, which can only be justified as a means of re-equipping our industries after the war in which we made such extreme sacrifices.

Attacking Henry Wallace as a 'crypto-Communist," Churchill told the rally the former United States vice president had sought "to separate Great Britain from the United States and to weave her into a vast system of Communist intrigue which radiates from Moscow."

"Our policy toward Russia must be one of honorable friendship through strength," Churchill said. "It must not be cowardly appeasement through weakness."

Amid laughter Churchill explained his designation of Wallace.

"A crypto-Communist," he declared, "is one who had not got the courage to explain the destination for which he is making."

In reference to the European speaking tour in which Wallace has attacked United States foreign policy, Churchill added:

"I travel about a certain amount myself and I am received with much kindness by all clases, both in Europe and in America. But when I am abroad, I always make it a rule never to criticize or to attack the government of my own country."

"I have no patience with Englishmen who use the hospitality of a friendly nation to decry their own."

Churchill accused Britain's government of "lack of moral courage". Referring to the treasury's balanced budget for the 1947-48 fiscal year, the former prime minister declared:

"If any private company were to prevent its balance sheet by such similar methods they would find themselves up against the criminal law."

The wartime leader declared that the government currently employed three times as many people as before the war by the Conservative Government. About 450,000 civil servants had been taken away from productive work by the Labor government, he said.

Instead of helping national recovery, he said, these civil servants were a positive hindrance. "Dr. Dalton (Chancellor of the Exchequer), as he calls himself although I have not yet heard of any patients he has cured, has now asked for £3,000,000,000 ($12,000,000,000) for the next 12 months."

Spending money in this way was the "rake's" progress, but progress not accompanied by questionable pleasure but by unquestionable misery, Churchill said.

Bulletins

Toronto (CP)—Mrs. Margaret Meecham, an employee of the York Trading Company on Sherbourne Street on the fringe of downtown Toronto, was held up and robbed of $26,000 in cheques and $5,000 in cash at 1:30 p.m. today. She was on her way back to her office from a bank. Further details were not available immediately.

Houston, Texas, (AP)—A report to the Houston Chronicle today said "several" persons trapped in the Monsanto Chemical Company plant were found alive today 48 hours after Wednesday's terrific explosions.

Texas City, Tex., (AP)—The smoke from 11 fires rose over stricken Texas City as the dreaded change in wind came today. Two of the fires were new.

The Coast Guard opened a hearing in Galveston into the cause of the trigger-explosion in the French freighter Grandcamp that set off blasts fatal to an estimated 650 persons Wednesday and yesterday.

Moscow, April 18 —(AP)— State Secretary Marshall tonight accused Foreign Minister Molotov of trying to create "a puppet state of Austria after Molotov had rejected an American compromise plan for the definition of German assets there.

Bitter exchanges between Marshall and Britain's Ernest Bevin, on the one side, and Molotov on the other, appeared to doom the slim hope that an Austrian peace treaty would emerge from the conference here.

'Slim' Thompson, Trenton, Fatally Injured in Crash

Leonard (Slim) Thompson, 34, of 13 Marmora Street, Trenton, died in Belleville General Hospital last night as a result of injuries received in a motor accident on the outskirts of Deseronto shortly after six o'clock.

Thompson, an agent for the Colonial Insurance Company was proceeding eastward, when it is believed the car he was driving went out of control. It struck a ditch, swerved, hurtled across the highway to the opposite ditch and turned over twice before coming to rest in a badly wrecked condition. No other car was involved in the accident.

Thompson is survived by his wife, who is a daughter of Mr. Andy Reid, Trent Road, drover.

George Jackson, Deseronto, a pedestrian walking along the highway was an eyewitness to the accident and immediately reported it to authorities. Dr. J. W. Boyce, Deseronto, attended the injured man and ordered him to Belleville General Hospital where he succumbed to his injuries shortly after admission.
